Ladies of Kawartha Club Hold Successful Bridge Party.

The Kawartha Golf and Country Club presented a decided contrast to the gloom of out-doors on Saturday afternoon when the large and charmingly planned bridge party was held under the auspices of the ladies' section of the club.

In the solarium side tables and piano were banked with oak leaves, pine and cedar with ferns, as delightful autumn decorations. The many lighted lamps with their gay orange, black and red shades harmonized with the beautifully arranged tea tables at either end. Lace-covered, tables were centered with bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums, orange-pink snapdragons, oak leaves, pine and cedar in large silver bowls, flanked with silver candelabra of cream and orange candles. A third tea table placed in the lounge and also lace covered held a similar central bouquet surrounded by blue tapers in silver holders. Vases of bittersweet, oak leaves and fern decorated the mantel above a cheery fire of logs, the dancing flames reflected on a brass bowl of pink snapdragons, with brass holders and blue tapers, on a side table. The many little bridge tables were covered with the new white cloths of the club, with a large black "K" embroidered in a corner, and at the tea hour, lacey black and orange doilies and serviettes in the same color scheme were used in honor of Hallowe'en.

The two hundred guests were received by Mrs. J. F. Reed and Mrs. H. R. Scott. Ladies presiding at the tea tables were Mrs. Upper and Mrs. E. L. Sackville in the lounge and in the solarium, Mrs. C. A. Salmonsen, Mrs. F. J. Overend, Mrs. S. E. Warne and Mrs. R. M. Glover. They were assisted in serving by Mesdames R. Knox, Muir, O. M. Steer, R. Hansoom, C. Shaw, W. McCreery, H. Sills, A. Sands, W. H. Barker, P. King, McKeever, G. Hill, H. Scott, Burgess, Jones, Canning, and the Misses J. Buck, I. Howarth, L. Johnson and Sybil Hood.

Seven bridge prizes were awarded and were drawn for by Mrs. Salmonsen, the winners being Mesdames Saunders, Jackson, Pervis, Andrews, R. Hansoom, and Miss Scott and Miss O'Delle. An electric coffee maker, donated by the C.G.E. was won on a draw by Miss Sybil Hood.

The committee in charge of the general arrangements for the bridge was composed of Mrs. F. M. Somerville, Mrs. J. F. Reed, Mrs. Adam Sands, Mrs. W. H. Barker and Mrs. G. C. Selpet, with Mrs. Barker as treasurer.

MacDonald-Lauchlan.

A very pretty wedding was quietly solemnized at the bride's home on Friday evening last when at seven o'clock the Rev. Dr. A. T. Bari of St. Paul's Presbyterian church, united in marriage Elizabeth Hamilton (Elsie), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Lauchlan of 600 George street, and Ian MacDonald, son of Mrs. MacDonald of Broxburn, Scotland, and the late Alexander MacDonald.

Wearing the same bridal veil of fine net and wreath of orange blossoms worn by her mother on her wedding day in Scotland, the bride was given in marriage by her father. Her charming gown of white chiffon was made on princess lines with a short train, and she carried a bouquet of Rapture roses and lilies-of-the-valley, in which a sprig of heather from Scotland had been placed for good luck.

Miss May Lauchlan, who attended her sister as bridesmaid, was gowned in rose moire silk. She carried a bouquet of Johanna Hill roses and wore some of the same lovely flowers in her hair. Robert Lauchlan, brother of the bride, attended as groomsman. The wedding music was played by Mrs. Lawrence Finnie of Bailleboro, cousin of Mrs. Lauchlan.

Refreshments, catered by Hooper's, were served to immediate relatives and friends following the ceremony. On the table in place of honor was the tiered wedding cake with crystal vases of pink carnations. In reply to the usual toasts, the bridegroom expressed his sincere thanks for the many kindnesses and gifts to his bride and himself.

Harp concerts, a novelty in Russia, will be given in Moscow.

Fashion Service

A two-piece dress of unusual distinction that smart women find indispensable in their winter wardrobe. The plain wool jacket-like blouse that moulds the figure so perfectly, buttons right up to the neck. It has four tailored pockets. . . And a collar that gives it that "little girl" look, so youthfully becoming. The slim skirt of plaid wool is just slightly flared at the hem for easy stride. Variety! well I guess! you'll enjoy wearing the blouse with other skirts and as a jacket over some slim frocks. Your lovely sweaters and the plaid skirt will make it a complete sports outfit. This model can be quite formal in velvet with ascot metal scarf tucked in at the low vee neck.

Style No. 3131 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40-inches bust. Size 16 requires 1⅝ yards of 30-inch material for blouse and 1⅞ yards of 39-inch for skirt.

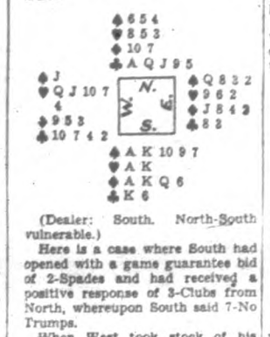
The Ayotte-Scollard Wedding

Principals in a charming wedding at the weekend were Miss Eleanor Scollard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Scollard, and Peter James Ayotte, son John Ayotte and the late Mrs. Ayotte. Miss Agnes Scollard, the bride's sister, and Thomas Ayotte, cousin of the groom from Rochester, were the attendants. The couple, who are at present honeymooning in Hamilton and Rochester will reside at 527 Armour Road when they return. —(Cripps Studio Photo)

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

BASE DECEPTION

AGAINST a contract which seems easy for the declarer to make, it is sometimes winning bridge to select a lead that will bamboozle him and make him think you hold some card which is really in your partner's hand. Such an opening may perchance slip him an extra trick on a silver platter, but if it promises to increase by the slightest degree the possibility of thwarting his enterprise, the risk may be well worth while.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

Here is a case where South had opened with a game guarantee bid of 2-Spades and had received a positive response of 3-Clubs from North, whereupon South said 7-No Trumps.

When West took stock of his situation he reckoned that the declarer probably could rake in 13 tricks by normal play, which would entail the lead of the heart Q. He knew that along the way his singleton J of spades would be bound to drop, which would make the play of that suit simple for the declarer. If it happened that his partner held the Q, the declarer would then take a marked finesse.

Reflecting upon all of these, the map in the West seat, who happened to be the brilliant Arthur Glatt of Chicago, realized that if he led the spade J the declarer probably would place him as making the old false-card lead of the J from the Q and J alone and so probably would try to drop the Q.

As it turned out, that is exactly what occurred, and as a consequence East made the setting trick with his Q of spades.

Tomorrow's Problem

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

With the spade K led against South's 5-Clubs doubled by West, how should the declarer play for his contract?

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLLE

For Tuesday, October 26.

According to the predominant astral figures for this day, there may be the breaking up of some stubborn obstacles or the removal of a long-standing congestion, making way for a definite stabilization of the affairs, with increase of possessions or the opportunity for solid investment. At the same time there is a menace of trickery to guard against, especially in connection with the signing of papers which seem to have secret or obscure angles. Employment also calls for alertness.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year that will bring the stabilization of the fortunes through industry and application. There should be decided gains in property values or other investments. Handle all writings with caution.

A child born on this day may be steadfast, industrious, dependable and very quick-witted.

Does the Etiquette of Dating Puzzle You?

Jack has just said: "Have you a date for Wednesday night?" Fie, Jack! Suppose she has no date! Naturally, it will hurt her pride to say: "No, I haven't." If she says: "Yes, I have," she's lost her chance for a date.

The smooth way is: "Let's go to the movies Wednesday." Jill can answer without embarrassment: "I'd love to." or "Sorry, but I've other plans."

Other puzzlers are—who suggests leaving the party first, man or girl? Who writes first when one is away?

Knowing small but important points of etiquette adds to your good times and popularity. Our 32-page booklet is a complete guide to correct answers, invitations and introductions, conversations, manners at restaurants, parties and other public places.

Send 15 cents in coin for your copy of ETIQUETTE FOR ALL OCCASIONS to the Examiners Home Service Department 60 Front Street west Toronto. Be Sure and write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS and name of BOOKLET.

When An Error Is Made

A report published by the London Free Press says David Meisner has been paid $5,500 as settlement in full of his claim for damages for malicious prosecution. Meisner was convicted of kidnapping John S. Labatt, head of the Labatt Brewing Co., and after serving one year of a 15-year sentence was released from prison for the reason that it had been a case of mistaken identity. Suit was afterward brought by Meisner against Labatt to recover damages. Meisner is quite well known through the province, and was in Peterborough with a travelling exhibit at the fair last year.

We believe that a man who has been jailed in error by the state should be recompensed by the state for the mistake or blunder which it has made. Under the law as it stands today there is no way in which such recompense can be made. If the law itself, as represented by our courts, goes wrong and produces a situation which is not right, then it would seem that the claim of equity being in all law could best be sustained by making amends fitting to the case. We do not believe such a course would open the way to a long line of abuses, and the operation of such a system might actually result in a closer scrutiny of facts and evidence in order to make certain that errors would not creep into our decisions and sentences.

When The Workers Call

Workers in the Y.W.C.A. campaign will be making their calls this week. There are many workers and there are many calls to be made. The Y.W.C.A. has a good cause to present; it is a great gathering place and training centre for girls and young women of the city. When parents know their daughters have gone to the Y.W. they have no reason to worry. The Peterborough Y.W.C.A. wants to be better equipped to do a greater work, and that is actually the whole case.

The workers who are devoting their time to this campaign are making nothing out of it themselves; they are giving their services and their time. That is a good thing to remember when they come and call on you. So make it as easy and agreeable as possible when the visit is made. There are hundreds of young people using the Y.W.C.A. who do not pay their own costs in full, but they are never turned away for that reason. It is one of those community efforts which affects more homes and more lives than most people would credit. We believe the campaign committee will secure all the money they are seeking. We hope it works out exactly that way.

A St. Thomas Problem

Word from St. Thomas contains the information that building may be started there to provide greater roundhouses for the Pere Marquette and Wabash railway engines. The reason is that existing roundhouses are not long enough. They served well enough when engines were smaller, but now that the locomotives have grown to such great length a big piece is left sticking out at the end, and that will not do.

We have seen people with garages and cars in the same predicament. Some years ago when cars were shorter than they are today the garage was erected and so made that the doors would close and leave the car comfortably housed. But cars have grown while the garages did not, and in a good many places there has had to be adjustments made so the tail end of the car would not have to stay out nights while the rest of the thing went in.

The modest locomotive of other years would probably have found room enough and to spare on the available trackage in the old round-house, but the monsters of the rails of today could not much more than get in up to the waist. So St. Thomas roundhouses will have to be, in the boastful words of a postage stamp we once issued, "A Vaster Roundhouse Than Has Been."

A Clever Group Of People

The Toronto Ukrainian Peoples' Home Choir. Such was the name given by themselves to a company which appeared in Peterborough on Friday evening. They sang and some of them performed their folk dances; others appeared as instrumentalists or soloists. Possibly the folk in Peterborough had no fixed idea of what they might expect in the way of an evening's entertainment, but it was delightful throughout. It was as though the visitors had brought to us some of the charm and tradition of an old world; had brought along its people clothed in the method and preference of their own country.

These Ukrainian people have a deal of history and tradition behind them. Their home-land is south-west Russia, and there have been unsupported claims made that the country existed as an independent unit in the seventh or ninth century with Kiev as the capital. It is accurately known that Ukraine disappeared as a soverign state in the 17th century, but following the World War and its many treaties Poland and Russia, by terms of the Treaty of Riga in 1921 agreed to recognize the independence of the Ukraine, in which there are some 30,000,000 people in an area of about 174,000 square miles.

Many of those appearing with the Toronto concert party in Peterborough are Canadian-born, but they have not cast aside the traditions nor ignored the talents of their country. One might hesitate to recommend that our folk should wear the costumes of the Ukrainians, but on examination it would be found that the work on them was exquisite and that handicraft had reached a high mark in their creation. The color schemes were bright, and so were the people who were wearing the costumes. These people may have learned something worth while from their association with Canadians. We hope such has been the case, but they have also preserved well the artistic temperament of their own people, and in so doing they are making a distinct contribution to the development of life and living in this new land.

Even to those unfamiliar with much that is considered new or smart in dancing, the folk dances of the Ukrainians made a strong appeal. The participants did not act as though they were bored; it seemed to be more like a time of play for them. And it adds interest to remember that for centures the Ukrainian people have been doing much the same thing in their multi-colored and picturesque costumes. Perhaps it is an old and weather-beaten phrase to use, but we hope these splendid folk come again.

Sin Is Widely Distributed

Apparently the people in any given community do not like it to be said openly and broadly that they are full of sin and bad habits. The dislike is apt to be increased when such statements are made away from home and widely printed. Within recent days there has been a meeting of Regular Baptists of Quebec and Ontario in Toronto, and in presenting a report to the Home Mission Board Rev. H. C. Slade of Timmins mentioned Kirkland Lake as "a modern Sodom and Gomorrah." A good deal of the mining country came in for severe wordage in the report, and apparently the mining country did not like it.

We learn that several Northern Ontario Ministerial Associations are prepared to consider the matter—and at once. The president of the association in Sudbury said the charge did not fit the nickel belt, and he doubted if it applied to the gold belt, although he could and would speak with more assurance of his own bailiwick than of the more far-off places. Porcupine Ministerial Association will also consider the Sodom and Gomorrah business and it is already suggested that the ministers shall affix their signatures to a document which will deny the charge which has been made against their northern kingdom. The flocks there it would seem are well herded and kept away from serious mischief.

And from another place we read that one minister felt moved to say "We are not as bad as Toronto." Toronto, of course got dragged into the thing because the charge about the wickedness of the North Country was launched at a meeting in that great city. Looking into the matter more closely we find that on behalf of the miners it had been stated they are more open in what they do. They are not hypocrites, and to quote Dr. Cochrane: "They are what they are and make no bones about it." And Dr. Cochrane was certain he had seen more dissipation in Toronto than in the North Country.

Just what is going to be done about it is beyond our depth. If some person had emerged from the North and informed a meeting in Toronto that the mining belt was full of great and honorable souls and men at whom the finger of accusation could not be pointed, we feel that the Northland would have been pleased and the speaker making the remark would have been heralded as a man with clear vision from whom nothing could be hid. But it is quite different when the matter of secret or open sin is mentioned. An individual or a community becomes stiff in the neck and vigorous in denial when the word sin is placed upon the doorstep. Whether we are righteous or not we like to have the plain statement or the veiled rumor spread about that righteousness has a large place in the domicile and sin knocks in vain for entrance.

Our own idea is that most places whether north, south, east or west have a fair assortment of sin and that nothing much is accomplished by singling out any one particular spot and naming it as more sinful than the others.

As It Was On The Tenth

There was a report printed recently of a meeting of farm women where a paper was read on "The Advantages of Centralized Effort in the Dehydrating of Fruit." We gathered from reading the report that the idea was to have a central plant for producing dried apples.

It seems that people in the country are getting along; they are using larger words than they used to and it is not recorded that any person laughs when it is done. On Lot Four Concession Ten we never heard any person speak about dehydrating fruit. It was just plain dried apples then. As a rule they'd be at it about this time of year after the range got moved in from the summer kitchen and set up where it was going to stay until late next spring. The stove always had to go in the same spot in the kitchen, first of all to fit the stove pipes on hand, and in the second place because there were hooks in the ceiling almost directly above the stove where they hung the racks for drying the apples. Some of the neighbors used to string them but on Lot Four they were always peeled, and cored and sliced and then laid out on the racks above the kitchen range, and generally some sort of a covering was put on them in case the late flies happened to be bad. We suppose today they would be referred to as dehydrated fruit. But we always called them plain dried apples.

Then they used to get put away for later in the season. Just how many times we had dried apples depended somewhat on how the other apples were holding out. If they had sold fairly well or if the crop was short then the dried apples began to do duty a little earlier than otherwise. We have known people who sniffed and turned up their noses at dried apples, but it was not a bad dish, and what's more the rule on Lot Four was that when dried apples were served they were meant to be eaten. When they were tuned up with a few raisins and a little lemon or ginger, they were all right, and when the dish was cleaned out at one sitting there was a look of satisfaction on the faces of all concerned and it was known then that the dried apples had turned out all right. But this dehydrating of fruit had us puzzled for the moment, and it was only after doing a little looking up in the dictionary that we came to the conclusion that it meant the same as making dried apples as they used to do it on the Tenth.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Bogus half dollars are reported circulating in Toronto. We suppose making and passing those would be just half as bad as going in for dollar bills.

Those folk near Port Credit who have been fishing for pheasants by hanging small fish hooks baited with raisins and wet grain on fences need meat very badly.

A fishing contest at Orillia was won by a Toronto girl with a 21-pound lunge. In the Kawartha waters a fish that size would be lucky to get honorable mention.

Some one has asked that New York's $63,000,000 bridge be taken down. First thing we know there will be a demand to remove our own million dollar structure.

A steamship sunk in the St. Lawrence in 1889 has been finally located. The boat was 200 feet long so that the task of finding it in 48 years can hardly be claimed as a record.

Duncan Marshall may be made head of the Ontario Marketing Commission. One way or another the former minister of agriculture has found farming a good thing all his life.

One of the worst things about the rainy period we have been experiencing is that the weather man should bob up with the terse statement that the precipitation is far from being a record.

A Scottish lass has been barred from the Irish Free State for life for kissing her boy friend in public. That bit of osculation must take its place in history as one of the most expensive busses on record.

Lord Tweedsmuir told Eastern counties plowmen the other day not to get into the towns too soon. However, they probably feel that so long as there are good roads and good cars they might as well use them.

WEE ANGUS

(By A. R. K.)

¶ No more I cut Wee Angus' hair, for he sits in the barber's chair, and gets it clipped in style; Wee Angus says the barber man, does better than I ever can, can beat me by a mile.

¶ And there is perfume in the air, when Angus leaves the barber chair, with ointment on his dome; I think he spreads it on the street, gives whiffs to all the folks he'll meet, and brings the rest back home.

¶ The barber must have many smells, to satisfy these little swells, like spring flowers and like fall; and I think Angus must request, the barber man to do his best, perhaps he gets them all.

¶ At meal time when his hair is mown, it smells like violets freshly blown, I think I smell sweet peas; and long before the meal is done, I'm minded of fresh rising sun, and flowers on basswood trees.

¶ When he sits down to talk with me, I smell sweet spice across the sea, from lands I've never seen; I sniff the orange blossoms too, and clover tops fresh in the dew, upon Wee Angus' bean.

¶ Wee Angus wishes it would last, he says the scent dies out too fast, which does not seem quite fair; I'm sure the neighbor folk would know, according as the breeze might blow—the day they cut his hair.

STORIES OF Saskatchewan farmers who were making $100 an acre from their alfalfa lands and of settlers who are shipping out apples, tomatoes and other fruits in large quantities were told recently by Hon. R. J. M. Parker, minister of municipal affairs who has just returned from a two-week trip by automobile, wagon and on foot through the newly settled land in the north of the province. He made the trip to observe the workings of the Northern Settlers re-establishment division of his department.

"I found an entirely different picture this year from last year" the Minister said "I found everybody happy and looking forward to going off relief. Scores will drop from the rolls this fall and say they do not expect to return."

✧ ✧ ✧

"I saw settlers in the White Fox area going in for producing alfalfa seed" he continued. "They sell it through their own co-operative association which has now about 1,000 members.

One man told me he had $1,000 return from seven acres. I saw settlers who expect from 300 to 400 pounds of seed an acre from their land this year and all of them expect to make over $100 an acre."

✧ ✧ ✧

Stoney land, usually a liability on any farm and the bane of agriculturists in general, has turned out to be an asset in southwestern Saskatchewan. Farmers near Cypress Lake where big water storage dams are being constructed are being paid to haul the rock off their land, receive further payment for piling them and then get additional remuneration when they haul them to the dams.

✧ ✧ ✧

A new forest pest that is destroying standing timber is reported from the West Kooteny district of British Columbia. Reports say that the hemlock looper—perhaps ellopia fiscellaria gnen to you—has appeared suddenly in the area, killing trees and causing serious fire hazards. Calcium arsenate will be dusted over the district by airplane early next year in the hope of checking this new plague.

Concerning Spectacles.

THROUGH HISTORY according to Hygeia, spectacles have been as significant, symbolically and in relation to social custom and dress as they have been important to improved eyesight.

Armati of Florence about the year 1265 made the first sepectacles. They were single and set in frames of horn or wood. In 1417 double spectacles were sold. They were inflexible, at first but later they acquired a hinge joint so that they could be properly adjusted.

✧ ✧ ✧

Early models were held in place by "temples," that is plates or rings which pressed against the temples in front of the ears. In the eighteenth century however ear strings were looped over the ears to hold the glasses in place and later these ear strings were replaced by joined temples such as those used by George Washington.

✧ ✧ ✧

In 1784 Benjamin Franklin invented bifocals so that he could see distant and near objects with the one pair of glasses. Today we use highly improved bifocals with the temples mounted high to give full vision from all angles while contact lenses, the newest development, fit over the eyeball and are inviable.

✧ ✧ ✧

The Ottawa horticulturist who grows roses in the winter has a rival in Mrs. Mary Warren of Calgary who grows Easter lillies that bloom in the fall. In September she reports an Easter lily which bloomed on schedule last spring shot forth a second waxy-white group of blooms.

✧ ✧ ✧

Mrs. Ethel M. Webster of Alberta known as the "Flower Lady" through her contribution of flower seeds to farm women and others throughout the province is dead. For many years Mrs. Webster sent out little packets of flower seeds gratis, reaching a peak of 8,000 in 1931.

The Women's Paradise.

BURMA is the woman's paradise so far as the East is concerned. There women are as free as they are in any country of Europe. They don't marry until they want to and in many cases they select husbands for themselves—a procedure which would have been thought quite impossible only a short time ago.

✧ ✧ ✧

Strange as it may seem it was the Burmese nation which first gave women equal privileges with men. Health Digest points out, allowing them centuries ago the right of suffrage, to own property in their own names, to engage in business and to do whatever they wished in a business way without paying tribute to their masculine relations. They were even permitted to smoke and were the first females to become slaves to Lady Nicotine. The cigars they use are three times the size of ours and are held by wrapping one's fingers about them.

✧ ✧ ✧

Talismans, known as "hkoungbent-set" are worn under the skin of their chests by the Burmese. They usually are precious stones. If a Burman wearing a talisman is sentenced to prison the "hkoung-bent-set" is cut out of his chest to prevent him from bribing the guards.

✧ ✧ ✧

A trip to his old home in Scotland was the reward of threshing from a small slough on the farm of Peter Bell, near Delisle Sask. There was no crop from the remainder of his land but the slough yielded 200 bushels of grain and with the proceeds from that he was able to buy a return ticket to Stirling, Scotland.

✧ ✧ ✧

George Thiesen of Riverhurst was the victim of his own good nature recently. He very kindly undertook to transport the town band from Menon to a picnic and ran foul of the Vehicles Act with the result that he had to pay a $25 fine for carrying too many passengers

More Civic Taxes Not the Answer

Doubts Wisdom of Cutting Car Licenses; Getting Surplus Which Is Not Needed

(Ottawa Journal)

NEW CIVIC TAXES is not the answer to the relief problem. Property, of course, should be relieved of the levy it carries for social services or, at least a large part of that burden, but the load should be taken up on the broader shoulders of the Provincial Government, with its infinitely greater resources, its wider field of revenues.

The point that needs to be emphasized. The Journal thinks, is the right of the municipalities to be relieved entirely of unemployment relief, both in cost and administration. The Provincial Government should assume its proper responsibility in this respect. As The Journal has said many times there is no sense to a system that puts the handling of a national problem in the hands of local councils—that furthermore denies councils a free hand, but hampers them with a host of regulations that must be obeyed if they are to have help in the way of grants from their lords and masters.

It is quite true unemployment is dropping, and with it relief costs. This fact makes it possible for Queen's Park to set up a fair system without tremendous added expense, and if unhappily another depression comes the machinery will be in existence for meeting the emergency. Meanwhile the cities would have time to lick their financial wounds, to pay off the load of debt most of them carry because they had to borrow money to meet the cost of groceries, fuel and rent to save the unemployment from starvation.

While property groans under a high tax rate and sees no hope of early relief, while the construction industry suffers from this condition, there is less enthusiasm than might be expected over big surpluses in the Ontario treasury in a reduction in the license fees of motor cars—already the lowest in Canada—that costs the province $2,500,000 which would have gone a long way to take the municipalities out of the "red."

The municipalities are the children of the province, dependent upon the province for their rights and privileges, and it is natural to think that the province should pass on a larger share of its revenues. It is an unnatural parent who boasts of the money he is saving while his sons and daughters struggle desperately to keep their heads above water, even borrow money to pay bills the parent should meet.

That's Why Ferguson Was Sent to London; Brother-in-law Got the Washington Post

Kingston Whig Standard

ACCORDING to despatches from Ottawa, at the next session of Parliament Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett is going to lead an attack on political patronage. Such attacks are made periodically and Mr. Bennett, as leader of the Opposition, is in a nice, safe position. At the moment he has no patronage to bestow so he can paint the patronage system as black as he wishes.

We know there are a lot of people who hold up their hands in holy horror when the word "patronage" is mentioned. These people know little of practical politics, and belong to the same school referred to by Mr. J. M. Macdonnell, on Friday night, who think politics is "a dirty game." Many of these people are sincere, but when a politician talks about abolishing patronage we usually figure that he has his tongue in his cheek.

Patronage is always bad when the other fellow is in power. However, Mr. Bennett is going to have a hard time convincing people of his sincerity, for when he was in power he did little, if anything, to abolish patronage. When he was elected in 1930, Hon. Vincent Massey was already appointed High Commissioner to Great Britain. Did Mr. Bennett let him proceed to London? Certainly not. He gave this greatest political plum he had at his disposal to his chief-of-staff in the recent election, Hon. Howard Ferguson, and the next best bit of political patronage to his brother-in-law, Hon. W. D. Herridge.

There is nothing wrong with patronage, when properly administered, except in the eyes of those people who would like positions or government contracts without doing anything for the party. Mr. Bennett, in a burst of evangelical fervor, may declaim against patronage on the floor of the House of Commons, but if he ever expects to get back into power we advise him to forget about it when he starts to tour the country.

How We Are Pictured in England

Woodstock Sentinel-Review

PEOPLE of Ontario had to wait until the night of October 6 to learn whether or not Hon. Earl Rowe was to become Ontario's prime minister for the next five years. In Great Britain, the reading public was more fortunate, being informed—such section of it as reads the newsmagazine Cavalcade—as early as October 2 that Mr. Rowe had failed in his election bid.

In a department headed Empire Affairs, the issue of Cavalcade for October 2, which recently appeared on the newsstands in this country, gives its entire Canadian space for the week to discussion of Ontario's general election.

"With Ontario's Conservative leader. . . . becoming less articulate, less persuasive, than ever . . . ," says the English magazine, . . . "even his allies are conceding victory on October 6 to Liberal rival present Premier Mitchell Frederick Hepburn."

The British public is further informed by Cavalcade, that . . . . "Rowe is still trying to offer the province something which Mitch has not already given. Finding nothing, his one resort is to claim that Mitch has give too lavishly."

In the flight of journalistic rhetoric that smacks more of saffron United States sheets than supposed-to-be-staid British newspaperdom, Cavalcade reports further that, "Rowe has the support of national Conservative leader big-paunched Richard Bedford Bennett; Mitch has not the support of national Liberal Leader big-jawed William Lyon Mackenzie . . . . has instead the more telling friendship of newspaper publisher Clement George McCullagh."

In an explanatory aside, Cavalcade explains for the benefit of Britons to whom the McCullagh fame may not be known, that, "Regarded as a potential Hearst, McCullagh runs the potent Globe and Mail, which, aside from its loyalty to Mitch, is most noted for its crusade against drink."

Cavalcade's information may have come from a Canadian correspondent, and reflect one man's opinions of Ontario politics, or it may be the result of careful culling by a British editor of Canadian exchanges. The former, on the face of things, seems more probable, for the final paragraph of the article infringes on the "Closeup and Personals" column to reveal that, "A recent hushed-up quarrel between McCullagh and Hepburn has not slowed up the campaign a bit."

OLD COLLEGE SPIRIT.

(Kingston Whig-Standard)

A couple of Queen's freshmen smashed up a park bench and put it on a bonfire. Naturally they were summonsed by the police for destroying civic property. But it was all in a spirit of fun—good, clean fun!

The park bench did belong to the city, and it was smashed up to put on a bonfire. But it was done by a couple of playful freshmen, who are so brimful of that spirit of fun which at times takes such strange forms.

Of course, the matter had to come before the magistrate, but there was none of that "Ten Dollars or Ten Days" atmosphere about the court. That makes things so sordid.

The whole thing was discovered by the defence counsel to be just an error of judgment, the magistrate spoke wistfully about the days that are no more, the Crown was satisfied, and for the small sum of $3.00 everybody was made happy again.

SOFT FOR TYPISTS.

(Stratford Beacon-Herald)

ALL LOOKS bright for the stenographer and the boss' secretary.

When the fair stenographer sits down to type, her mind will be at ease, for her silken hosiery will be safe. The inventors have evolved guards for stenographers' desks—guards against those pesky protuberances which, catching in the frail threads of gossamer hose, start "runs" that unbalance budgets.

But that's not all. No longer will it be necessary for the hosiery-safe typist to exert herself to turn over the pages of her notebook. A new typewriter attachment takes care of that boring routine—leaving more freedom of thought for anticipations and reminiscences of tonight and last night respectively.

And nary a chance of ink-spotted fingers, either. For the boss can now equip his desk with ink-wells that require filling only once a year. Done on Christmas Eve, that little chore ought to ensure an extra box of chocolates at least.

There are other girl-gadgets among the 1,500 exhibits at the now current National Business Show in New York City. But we think enough has been told to keep the secretariat (if any) in fair humor for the time being.

CIVICS IN SCHOOL.

(Farmer's Advocate)

ON THE DAY previous to the election in at least one public school the teacher had the boys and girls vote for the candidates running in the riding. All but the primary pupils were considered as of voting age. Ballots were made out, a returning officer, clerk and secretaries appointed and voting was by secret ballot. The pupils thus got practical training in conducting an election and learned something of the policy of the two candidates. Contrast this with a group of teen age pupils in another school who couldn't tell who was running for office, and only one or two knew who were the party leaders. In this age of dictators, communism and what not, civics has a real place in our public and secondary schools.

STRONG MAN NEEDED.

(Niagara Falls Review)

IF A CHANGE is made in liquor control, it is to be hoped it will be made in the direction of better control of beverage rooms, making sure the law is obeyed and that all such buildings conform to the regulations. One cannot see why it is necessary to have a supreme court judge as chairman. It does not follow such a man would have the ability or knowledge necessary for the job; but whoever is chairman he should be outstanding enough to hold the respect of the province and administer the admittedly difficult liquor business with fairness and impartiality. A great deal will depend upon the man chosen for the job.

A Bit of Nonsense

GOOD REASON

The argument in the railway carriage was waxing fast and furious. The train was on its way to Scarborough, and the passengers were in happy mood, so that the argument never became really serious.

However, one of the chief speakers, noticing a meek little man in the corner who had not, so far, said anything, clapped him on the shoulder and asked:

"Certainly not," said the little man, without a smile. "I don't believe in the survival of anybody. I'm an undertaker."

NEWEST BOMBERS TRAVEL 240 M.P.H. CARRY FIVE GUNS

WITH THE INSURGENT FORCES IN NORTHERN SPAIN, Oct. 25. — (AP).—Aviation's greatest weapon of the future, the civil war in Spain has indicated, is a swift, light bomber —big enough to carry almost a ton of explosives, but fast enough and well enough armed to fight on equal terms with pursuit ships.

The best of these has two engines, five machine guns and a cruising speed of 240 miles an hour. It can carry 1,200 pounds of bombs on a five and a half hour flight. It can fly at great heights — to escape the new anti-aircraft guns which have brought down planes in this war from 15,000 feet.

The huge, slow bomber is passing out of the picture. It is too big a target in the air and needs an escort of six pursuit ships. That's seven ships in all, and more danger for everyone, just for the sake of an extra 1,000 pounds of T.N.T. cargo.

The new bombers carry a machine gun-cannon that fires a shell about an inch thick. Each ship has two of these, one behind, one in front. They are as accurate as a machine gun, and fire more than sixty shots a minute.

Scout planes, getting faster and better armed all the time, seem destined to stand eventually with the light bombers as standard air arms. They roam the skies now in squadrons, strafing enemy trenches and communication lines, but so strong in numbers that they rarely are attacked by enemy air fleets.

No more are airplanes used as "spotters" for artillery, as they were in the Great War. Nowadays no one can lurk long in the air over any zone, without bringing a horde of enemy fighters up to drive him off or have the air about him filled with high explosives from anti-aircraft guns.

These guns have developed amazingly. Probably the best of them is a new British Vickers type which shoots with great accuracy and speed.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, Oct. 25. — Charles Goodhand, town, representing representative of an oil company had a narrow escape from serious, if not fatal injuries, when his car figured in a triple collision near the village of Cannington. Poor visibility, it is claimed, was the cause of the accident. Goodhand was driving south on his right side of the road, when two cars from the General Motors, Oshawa, and driven by P. J. Smith and Stanley Snowden, of Huntsville, hove in sight. The car driven by Snowden, it is alleged, pulled out and struck the Goodhand car. The new car bounced away after the crash and struck the rear of the new car directly ahead. Goodhand's car was damaged to the extent of $300, while damage amounting to $500 was done the new cars The drivers escaped unhurt

MISS M. GARDINER IS GUEST SPEAKER

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Oct. 25 — The members of the Women's Missionary Society of Centreville Presbyterian church were guests of the Auxiliary of Grace church, Millbrook, for the October fall thanksoffering meeting on Wednesday afternoon, the gathering being in the church basement with the president of the hostess society, Mrs. S. E. Eakins, in the chair.

Miss Ruth Thorndyke presided at the piano and played soft music preceding the call to worship, Mrs. J. R. Thompson reading the devotional poem, "The Gift of a Loving Heart," and Mrs. H. Seaton taking the Scripture lesson and opening prayer.

A poem, "The Stream that was never closed," was read by Miss Agnes Johnston, and the speaker of the afternoon, Miss Maud Gardiner, who has had many years' experience as a deaconess, was introduced by the president. Bringing an inspiring message on the general theme of Thanksgiving, Miss Gardiner gave illustrations from various Bible characters whose lives were full of gratitude, that of our Lord being particularly mentioned. Going back to 1621 when the Pilgrim Fathers set the first Thanksgiving Day, the speaker went on to the time when Abraham Lincoln set aside the first Thursday in November as the national day for thanksgiving, a custom which has persisted ever since.

Things for which Christians should be especially thankful were listed among them being our open Bible, religious liberty, constitutional government, our homes and families, health and work, the beauty of the fall foliage and all the loveliness of Nature.

The speaker closed her talk with prayer, and the presiding officer voiced the gratitude of all present for the very fine message which Miss Gardiner had brought to the Auxiliaries at such an appropriate season as the annual fall thankoffering which was then received, Mrs. Seaton offering prayer of consecration A solo "The Stranger of Galilee", was sung by Mrs. J. R. Thompson, and the meeting closed with the Lord's Prayer in unison.

The society served tea during the pleasant social hour at the close, the small tables used being each centred with fall blossoms, and daintily laid with regard to silver and china. The vote of thanks to Grace Auxiliary, for its hospitality and the fine program given, was voiced by Mrs. Harold Tate, seconded by Mrs. Roy Rutherford, and approved unanimously.

Several car-loads of the visiting Auxiliary were present, and the local society was also well represented.

500 MILES AN HOUR

The world's fastest creature is believed to be the botfly. Some scientists say it can dart through the air at a speed of 500 miles per hour.

Indoors 5 months with RHEUMATIC PAINS
Now walks 3 miles a day

Everyone who suffers the sharp agony of Rheumatic pains should read how Mrs. S. P. made a remarkable recovery from this crippling pain.

"I was so ill with Rheumatism in my knees," she writes, "that I was not out of the house for five months last winter. I tried about everything, then I happened to meet a friend who told me about Fynnon Salt. I have taken it regularly and am so much better that I can walk 2 to 3 miles and am getting better every day."

Doesn't that experience mean something to you? You, too, can look forward to quick, lasting relief from rheumatic pain if only you take Fynnon Salt. This is why. Those sharp, jagged crystals in the blood that cause Rheumatic pains are due to an excess of uric acid in your system. Fynnon Salt, the proven British remedy, neutralizes this uric acid by using Nature's own weapons — the mineral salts of the earth. A half teaspoonful of Fynnon Salt in water equals in medicinal effect three large glasses of natural mineral waters. So start now using Fynnon Salt. Take it every day. Large packages cost only 75c at all drug stores. If you have any difficulty getting supplies, write: Laurentian Agencies, St. Gabriel Street, Montreal 2

TRAVELLERS FIND CRUISES EXCITING IN MEDITERRANEAN

By Andrue Berding.

(Editor's note: Andrue Berding, chief of The Associated Press bureau at Rome, returning to New York, describes the tense situation in the Mediterranean arising from the Spanish war, submarine "piracy" and the international patrol.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 25—(AP). — Tourists returning this year from the Mediterranean are coming into close contact with the tense situation that has arisen in the western part of that sea because of the Spanish civil war.

The writer purposely chose the Italian motorship Vulcania on which to sail because the ship stopped at Several Mediterranean ports.

At Naples the harbor bristled with submarines. Italy is nearing the 100 mark in underwater craft and already has passed Great Britain in this category.

From Naples the Vulcania sailed through the well-protected Italian water to Palermo. On the bridge a huge Italian tricolor was painted so airplanes would make no mistake.

At Palermo submarines and several destroyers bobbed at anchor. At the dock was a small office labelled "Non-intervention Control," which seemed still to be functioning. It was this bureau that assigned neutral observers to merchantmen enroute to Spain.

Ship Hugs Shore

Leaving Palermo the Vulcania made for Algiers, thereby entering a zone of much conflict. The ship clung to the African shore. We passed several merchantmen. All had their colors amply painted on their sides, and all were hugging the shore.

At Algiers we found four French destroyers. In the harbor we found two Valencia freighters that had fled there two months ago chased by insurgent warships. Our Arab guide in Algiers said they had been carrying munitions from Soviet Russia. He added that they did not dare put out again because insurgent submarines constantly hovered outside the port.

Our guide said no Arabs had gone from Algiers to fight with the insurgents but that thousands crossed over from French Morocco, promised 60 cents a day.

From Algiers we went on to Gibraltar. We again hugged the coast. Merchantmen we passed did the same. At night two officers constantly stood watch.

Several hours before Gibraltar we sighted the first warship we had seen at sea since we left Naples—a British destroyer. It slowed its pace, seemed to be escorting us, and stayed with us until we reached harbor.

At Gibraltar Great Britain displayed the panoply of her sea might. Before we reached harbor we passed a floating target being towed by a small auxiliary vessel. In the distance a heavy cruiser had just finished firing at it. Beyond the cruiser were two large warships. In harbor we found eight destroyers and the 42,000-ton Hood, largest battleship in the world.

Fall Fashion Show Brings Out Feminine In Quints

Father Gives 50 Quarts Blood To Others But Has To Let Own Son Down

Montreal, Oct. 25 (CP) ONE hundred persons have been given blood transfusions by Harry Poirier, but when his own 10-year-old son needed blood to help recover from an operation they had to call for other volunteers. Blood of the veterin doorman was not suitable for his son Gordon. But they kept it in the family—they called Poirier's brother-in-law.

Harry, now past the 60-year mark, says he has been called from his doorkeeping job to give more than 50 quarts of blood since 1922. "My wife thinks I've given enough," he said today, "so I guess I won't give any more, unless it's for an emergency."

HAVELOCK W.M.S. HAS FINE REPORTS

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Oct. 25. — The October meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church met at the home of Mrs. A. Russell, with 24 members and several visitors present. The devotional period was conducted by the president, Mrs. S. A. Kemp, with Mrs. Freeman reading the devotional story. Reports from the other departments were given and that of the treasurer was especially satisfying.

The roll-call was responded to by quoting a verse of Scripture beginning with the letter J. The lesson study was given in the form of a playette by several members, and was very interesting. Some discussion followed as to the fall work, before adjournment. Afterwards a dainty tea was served by the hostess.

Officers Installed.

Installation of officers in the Dorcas Rebekah Lodge took place at the regular October meeting. The ceremony was conducted by District Deputy President Sister Eliza Wright of Havelock, after which a delightful evening was spent playing cards. Refreshments were served. The new elected officers include:

MADOC

St. John's Guild held a very successful Annual dinner in the Guild hall on Tuesday, 19th. Tables were set for the third time and ample provisions left for a splendid children's lunch on Wednesday. The financial returns were most pleasing to the ladies, who were heartily congratulated.

Born—In Madoc on Saturday, October 16, twin sons to Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Empey, Norrq Elwood and Leland Earl—two days later the latter died.

Mrs. C. B. Harum and Miss Marion Harum left Madoc early last week to make their home in Toronto.

Mr. Frank Vandervoort of Madoc left on Tuesday for Los Angeles, California, to make his home with his daughter, Mrs. Fred Ansell.

To Miss Marion Harum and Miss Phyllis Stockloser before leaving to take up a business course, their young friends tendered a farewell dinner at the New Queen's Hotel in Belleville, and presented them with tokens of remembrance.

MACDONALD SEES NEW WAR HORRORS

LONDON, Oct. 25—(CP Cable). — Former Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, addressing the British Association for the Advancement of Science Saturday, discussed the effects of modern science on warfare.

He said China and Spain had shown the great advance attributable to science in the destructive forces of so-called civilization. These would be repeated with increased horror wherever war broke out.

"If we cannot avoid war, we cannot avoid the worst that can happen in warfare," he said, in delivering the first Radford Mather lecture to the association. "But let us not be misled by thinking scientists as such can stop war."

The action of the farmer in growing wheat and food for war, he continued, was akin to the engineer turning out improved flying engines. But it was false judgment and cowardly for one to blame them if peace was not secured.

"The plea I make is for practical democracy, but if democracy is to triumph in the attack now being made, it must have method and I believe the records of the scientific worker and the way he sets about his work will steady and clarify the popular mind not only to complain eloquently but to conclude wisely," the former Prime Minister declared.

A return to bows and arrows, he added, would not remove the grievances of nations for which they will fight, or supply the enlightened diplomacy which can keep up the pace without injury to a nation's sense of injustice.

COL. C. B. RUSSELL ACTS COMMANDANT

OTTAWA, Oct. 25. —(CP)— The Department of National Defence announced last night Colonel C. B. Russell has been appointed a District Officer Commanding with the temporary rank of Brigadier, and will temporarily command Military District No. 3 at Kingston, Ont.

Brigadier H. F. H. Hertzberg has already been appointed Officer Commanding Military District No. 3, but will not take over his new duties until about the beginning of the new year. During the interim, Brigadier Russell will remain at Kingston to command the district.

Brigadier Hertzberg, who was Officer Commanding Military District No. 6 at Halifax, will replace Brigadier W. B. Anderson at Kingston. The latter has proceeded on leave pending retirement to pension.

Lieut.-Col. S. A. Lee, the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals, has been appointed to succeed Brigadier Russell as Assistant Adjutant and Quartermaster-General at Military District No. 3.

Salary Schedule For Teachers In Ontario Is Being Urged

New Course Of Study To Provide Children With Opportunity For Growth

The Peterborough County Public, Continuation, High and Separate School Teachers held their annual convention on Thursday and Friday October 21st and 22nd at the Peterborough Normal School, with about one hundred and forty teachers in attendance.

Thursday Session

Adjutant Warrander of the Salvation Army opened the convention by the reading of the 12th Chapt. of Romans from the Moffat Translation. Using this as his text, Adjutant Warrander stressed the necessity of the teacher dedicating his life to the service of God, of mankind, and of overcoming evil with good. The devotional exercises were concluded with the Lord's Prayer.

Following the routine business and the appointment of committees, the president, Mr. T W. Chaplin, Principal of Lakefield Public School, addressed the convention. Mr. Chaplin compared the teacher to an artist in that he must have a right conception of the end toward which he is striving. The president emphasized the necessity and value of good health, will power, a well stored mind, sociability, good sportsmanship, patience and humour, as indispensable factors in the teacher who hopes to be successful in his work. Mr. Chaplin also gave the Ontario Educational Association report in which he stated that for the first time in the history of the association a Governor General of Canada, Lord Tweedsmuir, was present at the session.

R. F. Downey, next, spoke briefly, complimenting the teachers of the prize-winning schools in art and writing at the school fairs. Mr. Downey advised the teachers to observe this work which was on exhibition in the Art Room, and to regard it as a stimulus toward a higher standard in these subjects.

The pupils of Mather's Corners School, under the very capable direction of Miss Graham, next presented a fine tap dancing demonstration which was greatly enjoyed by the teachers. This was followed by two delightfully rendered part songs under the direction of Mr. Potter, by the pupils of Miss Trimble's school from Cold Springs.

New Course of Study

The morning session was featured by an address by Mr. Thornton Mustard, M.A., B.Paed., of the Toronto Normal School, who was introduced by Inspector Downey. Mr. Mustard, who is largely responsible for the new course of study in the Ontario schools, explained the close relation that had existed between the teachers of the province and the Department of Education during the formulation of the new course. The philosophy underlying the revised course, Mr. Mustard stated, is the realization that the function of the school is to provide the children with opportunities for growth. The teacher must guide and direct the mental and physical development of the child into acceptable attitudes. It must be recognized that children are not born free and equal, and that there should be no effort to bring children to a uniform standard. Emphasis must be placed on maximum individual development. One of the most important factors, it was maintained, in the development of the child is the cultivation of private, individual reading. For this purpose adequate provision for school libraries must be made by all school-boards, to ensure the greatest success for the new course.

During the afternoon session he pointed out that under the new course the teacher would be much freer but the responsibility and work of teacher would be greatly increased. He emphasized the importance of assisting the pupils to learn by actual experience, whenever possible, by relating the home to the school, by making excursions, etc., and by making these the stimulus to further studies. The value of health study, and the adoption of interest as the chief motivating influence were also stressed. At the conclusion of his address Mr. Mustard answered numerous problems which had occurred in the application of the new course.

Dr. Bannister, principal of the Peterborough Normal School, moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Mustard on the part of a very appreciative audience.

Mr. H. Moore, Toronto, introduced by Inspector Downey, concluded the afternoon session with an illustrated lecture on trees. Mr. Moore, explained the planting, feeding, and care of trees, particularly emphasizing the necessity of preserving them for the beautification of our highways and homes.

A very fine supper was served at 6 p.m., to about one hundred and eighty trustees and teachers by the ladies of George Street church, in the Sunday School Room.

An enjoyable sing-song was conducted by Mr. Downey at the conclusion of the supper. The Rev. Mr. Parr then addressed a few words of welcome to the teachers and trustees and wished them every success in their work during the coming year.

Mr. R. Lees, M.A., formerly inspector of Peterborough County and honorary president of the Convention, expressed pleasure at being present and commended the wisdom of a closer bond between teacher and trustees.

Two beautifully rendered solos, "The Leaves and the Wind" and "Can't Remember", sung by Miss Elliot and accompanied by Mrs. Gwen Donley Craw were much enjoyed.

Following these numbers Mrs. H. B. Jackson, principal of Confederation School, made a presentation to Mr. W. J. Stacey, retired principal of May's School, on behalf of the Peterborough County teachers, which was received by Miss Eleanor Stacey in Mr. Stacey's absence.

Mr. R. Rome next pleased the teachers and trustees in his rendering of two splendid violin solos. He was accompanied by his sister Miss Margaret Rome.

At this time Miss M. Coon formerly of May's School and now a missionary in China, home on furlough, explained some of the educational developments that have occurred in China during recent years.

Dr. H. R. H. Kenner, principal of the Collegiate Institute, gave the address of the evening, his subject being "The British Empire." Dr Kenner explained that no empire has ever been so great in extent and power as the British Empire which embraces one fourth of all the land area and population of the earth. Following a rapid survey of the more important parts of the Empire Dr. Kenner showed its greatness in world trade. He stated that 1763 saw the beginning of this great Empire by England's aquisition of America.

England became no longer merely an European power but began to tower above the others. Contributing toward England's success was her willingness to sacrifice for others, Dr. Kenner maintained. England's present greatness is due to the civil and religious liberty, to justice and fair-play, to freedom and self government and to the guidance of backward people into the light, that characterizes the Empire it was stated. Dr. Kenner concluded his address by an examination of the most important contributions of the three parts of Great Britain in the field of literature and its reflection of the character of the Mother Country.

The evening session closed with "God Save the King."

Friday Session

On Friday morning the session opened with devotional exercises conducted by Rev. Father Kelley, whose text was the opening verses of the Gospel of St. John. Father Kelley drew attention to the difference between knowledge and learning, pointing out the fact that learning is necessary to adapt pupils under the teacher's care for the solution of future problems. The speaker compared the teacher in this work to John the Baptist and concluded the devotional exercises by the repeating of the Lord's Prayer.

The reports of the different committees followed next on the program. Miss Lucy Wing read the report of the auditors on behalf of Mr. P. W. Yuill and Miss L. Wing. Mr. Ball, on behalf of the nominating committee, gave their report and moved its adoption. The following executive members were then elected:

Honorary presidents, Mr. Richard Lees, M.A., Dr. J. A. Bannister, B.A., D.Paed.; president, Mr. Wm Rome, B.A.; vice president, Miss Oliver; secretary treasurer, Miss V. Squire; corresponding secretary, Mr. L. W. Copp, B.A., B.Paed.; executive committee, Mr. R. F. Downey, B.A., B. Paed., Mr. Fred Hampden, Mr. E. Sloan, Miss Watson, Miss Z. Boland, Miss A. Franks, Miss I. Graham.

The convention was next addressed by Inspector Downey who welcomed Inspector Copp back from Kirkland Lake where he has been supervising for the past six weeks. The speaker expressed the appreciation of the teachers to the publishers for arranging such excellent book displays for their benefit. Among the publishers displaying books were: Mayer's School Supplies, Ginn and Company, Longman's Green and Company, Clarke Irwin and Company, The John C. Winston Company, and J. M. Dent and Sons, Limited. Mr. Downey also extended his thanks to Dr. J. A. Bannister and the Normal School staff for their assistance and to the executive for their co-operation.

Inspector Downey then addressed a message of advice and encouragement to the teachers. He urged teachers to discuss difficulties with fellow teachers and their inspector, stressing the fact that it is no sign of weakness to admit a difficulty. The speaker stressed the need of a better understanding between teachers and trustees. That the school is largely made by the teacher is more than ever true, suggested Mr. Downey, and he urged teachers to make wise use of new-found liberties under the new program of studies.

Inspector Copp was then called upon to speak to the meeting. Mr. Copp also offered advice and encouragement to the teachers and told of some of his interesting experiences in the North Country.

Following Mr. Copp's remarks the gathering was privileged to see two excellent examples of pupil training. The first was a demonstration of Physical Training exercises from Mr. Ball's school and the second folk dancing by Mr. Spence's class from Lakefield. In both demonstrations the pupils showed what fine work is possible under careful guidance.

After these demonstrations information regarding the Ontario Educational Association and Teachers' Federation, was given by Mr. J. Trussler, travelling secretary of the former body. By carefully outlining the aims of the two bodies, Mr. Trussler showed the part played by them in the interest of education. The speaker then told of the movement, now under way, to unite all bodies interested in education as autonomous parts of one large body and urged upon teachers the need of their interest and help.

At the conclusion of Mr. Trussler's address the following resolutions were received and passed by the convention:

(1.) Resolved that the Peterborough County Teachers' Institute have the same type of convention next year as was held this year.

(2.) Resolved that letters of thanks be sent to all those who have assisted in any way to make this year's convention a success.

(3.) Resolved that this convention should urge that schools have some set salary schedule for teachers in the province based largely on the cost of living.

HAVE YOU Stomach Upsets?

IF you are troubled with indigestion, gas, sour stomach, heartburn, if you are weak and lack appetite, try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery now. It stimulates the appetite, improves the action of the stomach, makes the food digest better. Read what Mrs. Doris Berrie of 158 Rebecca St., East, Hamilton, Ont., said: "After an illness I was very weak, had no appetite and suffered from indigestion. After eating I would get so bloated and frequently had heartburn. I used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and it was wonderful. It improved my appetite and helped to drive away the stomach discomfort. It seemed to build me right up." New size, tabs. 50c. Liquid $1.00.

$500 OPIUM HAUL

WINDSOR, Ont., Oct. 25—(CP)—A pound and a half of opium, the largest quantity of the drug encountered here in many years, was seized by Royal Canadian Mounted Police last night on the arrest of Guido Sansolita, 46, Windsor. The opium would have a value of about $500, police said.

Sansolita will face a charge of having narcotics.

Yesterday Thomas Johnson, 50-year-old railway porter, was arraigned in court on a charge of having a small quantity of the narcotic in his possession. The drug, together, with smoking equipment, was found in a bedroom of his home.

CHEESEMEN DROP AGENT IN ENGLAND

MARMORA, Oct. 25. — John A. Bell, reeve of Marmora and Lake Township and president of Marmora cheese factory for almost twenty years, was the representative chosen by the Hastings County Cheese Patrons' Association to attend a special meeting of the provincial body, which was held in Ottawa on Wednesday.

At this meeting the advisability of retaining the special representative in England was considered. Due to the fact that better prices for cheese have been obtainable in Canada this year to those obtained overseas, it was unanimously decided to withdraw the special representative in England.

Every county in the province was represented at the meeting.

PREDICTS JAPAN FACES UPRISING

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 25.—(Special.)—A prediction that the reported uprisings in Manchuria are the beginning of a general revolution that is facing Japan was made by M. Cheolin, feature writer on international subjects for the China Press, Shanghai's leading newspaper, who visited St. Thomas yesterday in connection with a trans-Canada industrial and educational survey he is making.

"I believes the trouble that is causing Japan to rush troops from North China to Manchuria is the beginning of the end for Japan," Mr. Cheolin stated. "Japan is not only facing economic bankruptcy, but internal revolution.

"The once-powerful military party in Japan is making its last bid for sustained power at the expense and intense suffering of China, but it is a losing fight."

Mr. Cheolin said he had no doubt about the final outcome of the undeclared war. China will emerge victorious. "The nation with the greatest natural resources will be the ultimate victor," Mr. Cheolin declared.

China is more united to-day than she has been for centuries, Mr Cheolin stated. The people are definitely with Chiang Kai-shek and the Central government and are pooling their resources to bring about the defeat of Japan.

'Nobody knows what China has or what she can produce in an emergency," Mr. Cheolin said. "There have been conjectures about the source of the new fast fighting planes that the Chinese are using so effectively. There will be more guessing regarding the sources of modern implements of war that the Chines forces will employ before this conflict is ended. China will have the better-equipped armies as well as the better-trained armies before very long. Japan can never conquer my country."

OBITUARY

MRS. AGNES McNEIL.

KEENE, Oct. 25.—The death took place on Sunday, October 24, of Mrs. Agnes McNeil, one of the best known residents of Otonabee, who passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. James Miller, Otonabee. Mrs. McNeil, who was the widow of James McNeil, was 75 years of age, and was a life-long resident of Otonabee. She will be greatly missed by a large circle of friends. During the last three years she had been in failing health.

The funeral, which will be private, will be held on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, from the home of Mrs. James Miller, Lot 25, Con. 7, Otonabee, to Keene Cemetery. Rev. J. S. Ferguson of Keene United Church will officiate.

JAMES WATSON

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Oct. 25.—The burial took place at Maple Grove cemetery on Saturday afternoon of James Watson, who passed away suddenly on Wednesday last at the home of Mr. Melville Wight, at Trent River. Funeral services were held at the Curtis Funeral Parlours on Friday afternoon, service being conducted by Rev. D. K. Perrie, of Knox Presbyterian Church.

Mr. Watson, in his 72nd year was a resident of Toronto, but was quite well known in this district, having spent the past seven summers at Trent River with his niece, Mrs. W. J. Bryans, also of Toronto. In early life he was an employee of the Grand Trunk Railway Company. Later he was a master mechanic specializing in the manufacture of automobiles and was associated with leading firms both in Toronto and Cleveland, Ohio.

Besides his widow, he leaves to mourn his loss, one daughter, Sister Marie; four sons, Allan, Ernest, Joseph, and William, all of Cleveland, Ohio; and three sisters, Mrs. Robt. Kennedy, Mrs. James Burns, and Mrs. Alex Rose, all of Toronto.

MAN WHO BUILT THE EVENING POST G. H. LORIMER DIES

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 25—(AP)—George Horace Lorimer, 69, editor, who guided the development of the Saturday Evening Post from a small obscure magazine into a gigantic publication enterprise, died Saturday.

Lorimer, who for 38 years occupied the editor's chair of the Post, had been seriously ill since last Thursday. He contracted a cold which developed into bronchitis and later pneumonia.

Lorimer joined the Post in 1889 after two previous starts in his career. For eight years he was in the meat packing business in Chicago with Armour and Company, and two years he was a reporter on the Boston Post.

A letter to Cyrus H. K. Curtis, who had just bought the Post, asking for a job, brought him the position on which he built his life's work.

The magazine held an inconspicuous place in the publishing world, and Lorimer was set to rehabilitating it. A year later Curtis made him editor-in-chief in full charge of the magazine's policy.

In 1927 Lorimer became vice-president of the Curtis Publishing Company; in 1932, its president, and in 1934, chairman of the board. He resigned from the Post and the Publishing Company January 1, 1937, and retired.

Lorimer was born in Louisville, Ky. He was married in 1892 to Miss Alma V. Ennis, daughter of Judge Alfred Ennis of Chicago. They had three children.

Among his writings are "Letters From a Self-Made Merchant to His Son," which appeared first anonymously in the Post; "Old Gordon Graham," "The False Gods," and "Jack Spurlock, Prodigal."

2,000 Members Of Legion Attend Drumhead Service

Lieutenant - Governor Urges Allegiance To Ideal Of Fair Play

WHITBY, Oct. 25.—The Canadian Legion does not exist to keep green the memory of war, but as an organization of ardent advocates of peace, Lieutenant-Governor Dr. H. A. Bruce declared Sunday at the Legion's drumhead service.

"All too many people misinterpret the Legion's purpose," he said. "It is difficult to eradicate from their minds the erroneous and mischievous belief that the legionnaires seek to perpetuate the recollection of the carnage of 1914-18 and thus to exalt militarism.

"As a veteran speaking to veterans, let me say there is no body of men, or of women, with so cordial a detestation and so deep-rooted a hatred of war and all its vile consequences as the men and women whose memories are seared by war's wreckage."

Dr. Bruce Speaks

"There never has been a time since the war when all that the Legion stands for was more notable, more significant or more desirable than today," his Honor declared in his drumhead address.

"In the heart of every ex-service man, a little flame of memory burns brightly. By its light he can look back to a time when the things for which words stand suddenly became very real and concrete. Such things, such words, I mean, as 'freedom' and 'democracy,' 'loyalty' and 'courage.'

"Words like these had in those days, powers of evocation that drew from the best that is in men and women, though it was of necessity in the worst of causes—that of war and destruction.

'Personal and political liberty, free speech and conscience and belief—are such words and the things they stand for empty today of all real content? Have they lost their power and their magic so that, from once being the banners and the trumpet calls of an ideal, they are today as ineffectual and as pathetic as the cry of an infant in the night?

"I do not believe it," Dr. Bruce declared. "Twenty years ago men fought and died for these things; and these same things were never more vital to the true happiness of men and women than today in a world where they are mocked and crucified with the hammer blows of repression and tyranny upon the hard cross of a narrow national policy.

Democratic Life

"Here in Canada, the Canadian Legion stands for the maintenance of the democratic way of life, the democratic principles of government that have been so dearly won. The legion is a constant reminder that blood and sacrifice have been the price paid by democracies for the priceless possessions of freely elected government and political liberty. These are possessions of which many of us may be barely conscious, and which we may fail to value at their true high worth simply because our good fortune has spared us any experience of life without them.

"In the world of today, democracy and peace show themselves more and more as interchangeable terms, the one implicit in the other, mutually dependent one upon the other," Dr. Bruce said. "Whence arise the bitter gales of hate, the winds of propaganda which drive threatening clouds of war across the universally longed for sun of peace and prosperity, and so darken the whole modern world?

"Let it be enough to say that these winds do not have their origin in the great democracies. They arise in no country whose people still possess their rights and are free."

Rev. John Kelman and Rev. E. Ralph Adye, rector of All Saints' Anglican Church, Whitby, were the officiating clergy. The lessons were read by Attorney-General Conant. More than 2,000 veterans participated. The guard of honor and music were provided by the Ontario Regiment.

Political Economy Subject Of Course

Dr. A. S. H. Hill of Toronto, the tutor for the Peterborough branch of the Workers' Educational Association whose study course in political economy begins at the Collegiate Institute this evening, is a pupil of Laski and other international figures in economics. Some of the topics of the course are: the State, democratic legislative bodies, second chambers, the problems of representative government, proportional representation, functional representation meaning government by the representatives of trades, unions and other bodies, the government and political parties, communist and socialist movements. This is an incomplete topical list which serves to indicate the scope of the course. It is open only to workers for the nominal fee of two dollars for the whole season, with meetings each Monday evening.

It is generally agreed that there was never a time when the need of political knowledge was so important as today.

Every citizen, and this applies especially to the workers who have the opportunity of taking this course, should understand the meaning of such terms as conservatism, liberalism, fascism, marxism, communism, socialism, syndicalism, all the movements which are being advocated today. The study of political economy provides a background of information that will give a great deal of profit to this course of study. Osborne Smith is president of the W.E.A., and A. E. Borland is secretary.

"MILE OF PENNIES" TOTALLED $122.83

The "Mile of Pennies" effort of members of Peterborough Fire Department on Saturday netted a total contribution of $122.83. Slightly less than the amount raised a year ago, it was made up of over 6,000 pieces of currency ranging from the humble copper to a five spot.

A room at the Fire Hall presented a scene of considerable activity as the firemen sorted and counted the contributions, which are to be used to purchase paint and materials needed in their work of renovating toys for the needy children of the city at Christmastide.

Firemen were forced to stop their collecting early in the afternoon when the rain, that had been falling earlier, turned to snow burying the money under a blanket over an inch thick.

With The Boy Scouts

This Wednesday is the annual meeting and election of officers of the local association. All people interested in the movement are cordially invited to attend. It will be held in St. Alphonsus Lyceum, Simcoe street, at 8 p.m.

It is the duty of every troop committeeman to be on hand to see what is being done, and to help choose the officers for the ensuing year.

All Rover leaders, Scouters and Cub leaders should be on hand to give their reports for the past year.

Troop financial statements are not wanted; your progress in Scouting is what is needed, badges won, etc.

Next. Don't forget, October 31 is the zero date for your registrations to be sent to headquarters. Keep Peterborough to the front, where the P.L.'s conference put her.

At St. John's, Cubs received instructions in signalling, first aid, knotting and tenderpad tests. Several boys passed tests. Bob Reynolds was made senior sixer. The field day on Saturday was postponed because of rain.

Next Friday, a Hallowe'en party will be held. Cubs and parents are requested to attend in costume.

Bill Mackenzie put the Sacred Heart Scouts through their pacing when he instructed them in physical exercises. Assistant Commissioner Ernie Wolfe also gave the low-down on Scouter Bill Flint when he was a P.L. in the St. Peter's troop.

Don Corrin passed his pathfinder's badge. Congratulations, Don.

Next Friday, the troop will hold a Hallowe'en party. All boys are requested to attend in fancy costume.

A new unit has been formed at the Anglican Mission School at Fort George, on James Bay. The roll call of the troop includes Indian scouts: Jimmy Bearskin, Johnny Fireman, Peter Bullfrog, Ronnie Lameboy and James Sealhunter.

Any Scout wishing to correspond with an overseas scout in Australia, New South Wales, Queensland, South Africa, or Nottinghamshire, England, write: Dominion Headquarters, Ottawa. A chance for your World Friendship Badge.

Good Scouting, "The Skipper."

ROBERT TOWNSLEY IS ELECTED HEAD AUBURN EMPLOYES

The first general meeting of the Auburn Employees' Association was held in the Community Hall on Saturday evening, with a good attendance of the members. The first part of the meeting was taken up by the election of officers and of various committees to carry on the work of the association. The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Bob Townsley; Vice-President, A. E. Johnston; Secretary, Robert Rendall; Treasurer, Herb. O'Heron; Executive Committee composed of Louis Elliott, Wm. Turbill, Joe Robertson, Mrs. Woodcock, Ken Jarvis, Clare Heard, Mark Shaw, Daisy O'Heron, Karl Walmsley and Ivy Powers. A discussion followed regarding a sickness benefit scheme and a committee of six members elected to look after the details; this committee consists of three ladies and three gentlemen, who will report at the next general meeting. Social activities were then discussed and it was decided to elect a social committee who would take the responsibility of sponsoring social evenings and events of a like nature; by unanimous consent the ladies were given a majority on this committee, the ladies having four members and the gentlemen three.

A short history of the A.E.A. from the date of its founding on August 27 to the present time was given by the president. He recounted the main objects of the association, how they would be of benefit to the workers in the plant and how they would proceed to get better working conditions and settle grievances. It was decided to hold one general meeting each month except in emergency cases when the executive believed a special meeting necessary. This concluded the business session.

A very interesting and instructive address was given by J. Bougard, secretary of the Ontario Textile Workers' Association of Toronto. Mr. Bougard outlined how their association benefited its members and how better working conditions and other items were secured through collective bargaining. He recalled that they had not lost one day's work through strikes or lockouts since their association was organized, as in their opinion strikes were a last resort to be used only after every other method had failed. Mr. Millington, a past president of the association, answered several questions and extended an invitation to the A.E.A. to affiliate with the Ontario Textile Workers' Association. This matter was, however, set aside for the time being, the A.E.A. deciding that they would co-operate with the O.T.W.A. as much as possible, but would retain their own identity for the time being. Mr. Bougard and Mr. Millington were given an ovation at the close of their addresses.

The floor was cleared and a dance got under way to music supplied by Red Monerief and his musicians. This was much enjoyed by the 250 people who attended. Refreshments were served at midnight when a successful evening of business and pleasure was brought to a close.

OBITUARY

MRS. ANNIE WINDOVER.

The funeral of Mrs. Annie Windover took place this afternoon from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Archie McDonald, 201 Rubidge Street, to the Little Lake Cemetery. The pall-bearers were six grandsons: Leonard, Vincent and Eldon McDonald, Duncan and William Drummond, and Hubert Ferguson.

The Peterborough Credit Exchange, which has its office here at 181 Charlotte Street, has opened a branch in Lindsay, located at 6 William Street North. This office, as well as the local headquarters, will be under the direction of J. E. Wilson.

MINOR ACCIDENTS.

Saturday's snow and rain and poor visibility were responsible for a number of minor traffic accidents and bent fenders, were a common result. On Saturday night three vehicles were involved in a mixup in front of Confederation Square without any serious damage being done.

WILL HOLD BANQUET.

The Havelock Albion Club will hold its annual banquet on Thursday night, when 125 guests are expected. The special guest speakers will be Harold Cotton and Joe Primeau, the goodwill ambassadors of the Toronto Maple Leafs Hockey Club, and other guests will be Rork Ferguson, M.P.; Alex. L. Elliott, M.L.A., and T. P. Lancaster.

MAGISTRATE'S COURT.

William D. McElwaine appeared on an adjourned charge before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., this morning and pleaded guilty to obtaining the sum of $381.25 by false pretences on July 14 last. It was stated by the Crown the accused had already made partial restitution in the sum of $247. He was placed on suspended sentence for 2 years, one of the terms of the bond being that he make restitution of the balance outstanding.

NEW ENTRANCE AT HOSPITAL.

At an estimated cost of $3,000, according to information on the building permit filed at the city engineer's office, a new entrance is being constructed at St. Joseph's Hospital. The contract is held by the Sheehy Construction Company and the work is in hand. Philip Johnston, 191 Lock Street, is building a dwelling-house on Lot 16, Aylmer Street North, at an estimated cost of $1,800. The contract is held by P. Latchford, 213 Prince Street, who is also building a residence for himself at Lot 56, Prince Street, at a cost of $2,200.

"PROBATION AFTER DEATH."

"Probation After Death" was the subject of the lesson-sermon for First Church of Christ, Scientist, Peterborough, on Sunday. The golden text was "He that shall endure unto the end, the same shall be saved" (Matthew 24, 13). Selections from the Bible included the following from Revelation 14, 13: "And I heard a voice from Heaven saying unto me, Write, Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth: Yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors; and their works do follow them." Correlative citations from the Christian Science textbook included the following: "If the change called death destroyed the belief in sin, sickness, and death, happiness would be won at the moment of dissolution, and be forever permanent; but this is not so. Perfection is gained only by perfection. They who are unrighteous shall be unrighteous still, until in divine Science Christ, Truth, removes all ignorance and sin."

STILL AFTER MOTORS

Dealers in outboard motors report that despite the arrival of near-winter weather, sportsmen are still making excursions to the lakes and rivers of the region. Motor rentals on the week-ends are still frequent.

ADDRESSES CLASS

Bill Turnbull coach of the Orfuns' football team addressed Arthur Burrow's class of George Street Sunday School on the subject of Football as seen from the spectators point of view. Mr. Turnbull explained the different rules and illustrated different plays with the use of checkers. This is the second in a series of talks to Mr. Burrow's class, next week they hope to have Frank Buckland to speak to them.

FEW SEEKING LICENSES

With the intial rush over, the demand for 1938 license markers has slowed to a walk. Those who like to be the first to sport new licenses have been in to the Chamber of Commerce offices to lay their cash on the line and a lull will likely continue now until the approach of the compulsory final date brings the main body of motorists in. Those wishing to avoid the long lines which annually form around the final date, December 31 this year, will take advantage of the lull.

WANT WORK TO START

Local citizens who aided the Central Ontario Highway Association in its successful effort to have the Ontario Government take over the road from Highway 28 to Port Perry, are now preparing to put their weight behind an appeal to the Department to start preliminary work, at least at the Peterborough end, this Fall. The project would provide employment for a number of unemployed in Peterborough townships concerned, it is believed.

FALSE FIRE ALARM

Police are on the trail of a boy believed to have turned in a false alarm from the fire alarm box at the corner of George and Charlotte streets Sunday. Choosing the busiest corner of the city for his prank, the culprit had several witnesses. Prosecution is to be pressed by Fire Chief George Gimblett who states needless danger to firemen and citizens is caused by such false alarms. A full turnout of equipment responded.

CHILDREN CELEBRATED

Children who crowded into the movie shows Saturday afternoon came out later to find that the city had been blanketed by a transient fall of snow while they watched the screen. Shouting excitedly, they celebrated by throwing hails of snowballs, to the alarm of passing pedestrians. The snow was sufficient to blanket windshields and make driving difficult. Saturday evening, downtown streets were exceedingly slippery and many fender rubs resulted.

TRIED OUT THE SKIING

A young lad in the West End probably enjoys the distinction of being the first of Peterborough's growing number of ski enthusiasts to don the skis this winter. He hurried to the front lawn of his home when sufficient snow to make a slippery surface had fallen Saturday afternoon and enjoyed an hour of fun. Members of the Peterborough Ski Club are hastening preparations for a busy season. Already they are laying plans for their big winter carnival.

MINOR ACCIDENTS

George Degan, 173 Wescott street was driving his car south on Park street in the vicinity of Elm street on Saturday, when he was involved in collision with a bicycle ridden by Billy Livingstone. The boy was reported to have ridden into the pathway of the car from between two parked vehicles. After being attended by a doctor he was removed to hospital for observation. It was found he was not seriously injured. Earlier the same day another cyclist Joseph Collins, 178 Douro street was struck from his machine at Queen and Hunter streets. He was making a left turn to go south on Queen street he reported when a taxicab driven by Charles Archibald ran into the rear wheel of the bicycle.

LINDSAY YOUTH DIES IN HIS CAR

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, Ont., Oct. 25.— The tragic death of Duncan McMillan, aged 28, a popular resident of Lindsay, on the week-end, came as a shock to his relatives and friends.

The deceased, who was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie McMillan, Lindsay street, south, was found dead in his parked car on the highway north of Woodbridge. Passing motorists noticed the car on the side of the road and on making investigation, found the young man dead.

Coroner Dr. Wilson, of Richmond Hill, after making investigation, announced that the deceased had come to his death from carbon monoxide poisoning.

Interment will take place at Riverside cemetery, Lindsay.

Cripple Believes Prayer Working

CORNWALL, Ont., Oct. 25.—(CP.)—Thirty-year-old Leona Villeneuve, paralytic who owns a "weeping" statuette of Chirst, said yesterday she had received an answer to her prayers of nine days ago and felt convinced she would recover from an illness that has kept her in bed for the last 13 years.

The woman said she was able to eat solid food Sunday for the first time in four months, after being told she would never do so again. She said she was able to move her paralyzed left arm and leg which had previously felt "heavy and cold."

The limbs, she said, seem lighter and warmer. "It feels as if the blood is circulating."

To Pave Laneway Behind Armouries

J. J. Duffus, M.P., left early today for Galt to judge the North Dumfries plowing match. He told The Examiner he had received a letter from Hon. P. J. A. Cardin, Minister of Public Works, informing him that an appropriation of $964.20 had been passed for the paving of the lane on the west side of the Armouries and also $397.29 for the rebuilding of five ramps to the gun-shed doors. The paving of the Armouries lane was requested by the City Council. It was one of the projects ex-Alderman Sloan advocated. One of Mr. Duffus' engagements last week was the judging of the Clarence Creek plowing match under the auspices of the Eastern Counties Plowmen's Association of Ontario. It was featured by a visit of the Governor-General, Lord Tweedsmuir, for an hour in the afternoon. He addressed the large assembly from a platform, saying he had attended many plowing matches in the Old Country.

Y.W. CAMPAIGN TOTALS $17,918 SOME LARGE GIFTS

Returns to date in the Y.W.C.A. extension fund campaign Saturday evening amounted to $17,918.50. The teams have all started out this morning and the captains will make their first reports at the report luncheon in the Y.W.C.A. headquarters Wednesday noon.

In analyzing the various subscriptions to date, it was stated at headquarters that many former residents of Peterborough had made most generous contributions. It was hoped that the local contributors would be proportionately generous; if so, it was a foregone conclusion the objective of $50,000 would be reached.

A subscription of $5,000 was received from E. R. Wood, a former resident. Sir Joseph Flavelle contributed $1,000; Wm. Hastie, whom many Peterborough residents will remember, contributed $100. Senator Frank O'Connor, a former resident, $100. H. Cox, a former resident, now residing in England, and whose mother laid the corner-store on the present building, back in 1904, cabled $1,000 with his best wishes for success.

A most affective letter was received from Mrs. H. J. Keith, of Ottawa, mailed to the president, Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner, with a cheque for $500 enclosed, which reads as follows:

"Dear Mrs. Kenner.—I am glad to enclose a cheque for your campaign, for I appreciate that it was in the Peterborough Y.W.C.A. that I had my first piece of practical association work as a secretary.

"Also because I realize the tremendous power of the Young Women's Christian Association in the extension of the Kingdom of God on earth. I joy to share in this your present effort."

Sincerely yours,
Annie Gray Keith (Mrs. H. J. Keith).

The campaign continues intensively all this week, closing next Monday evening with a big rally for workers and their friends at Y.W.C.A. headquarters, when refreshments will be served and final results announced.

FOUR-DAY FIRE

HAMILTON, Ont., Oct. 25 (CP)—Hamilton fire fighters sighed with relief today that their marathon job was over. In the longest attendance at a fire in recent years, firemen last week spent four days at the International Harvester Company's binder twine plant, dousing bales of smouldering sisal fibre. The fire, origin unknown, broke out Wednesday.

REV. JAMES POTTER FORMER MINISTER ST. ANDREW'S DEAD

MONTREAL, Oct. 25.— (CP). — Rev. James Potter, 73, a former moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, died yesterday after a long illness. He was elected moderator on March 12, 1929. Seven years later, he relinquished his last pastorate, at MacVicar Memorial church here.

A native of London he was educated at Halifax Academy and Dalhousie University, and he completed his Theology course at Queen's University in 1889. Ordained that year, he first served at Knox Presbyterian church in Merrickville, Ont.

Later he became pastor of South Side Presbyterian church in Toronto, and St. Andrew's Presbyterian church in Peterborough, Ont., before moving to Montreal.

Surviving is his wife, the former Annie Thornton; two sons, Grant Potter of Toronto, and Dr. Carl T. Potter of London, England; two daughters, Mrs. D. T. Diplock, of Peterborough, and Mrs. O. B. Rexford of Montreal; four brothers, Dr. Alexander Potter of New York, Donald Potter of Toronto, Robert Potter of Vancouver and John Potter of St. Paul, Minn., and two sisters, Mrs. William Jackson of Kingston, Ont., and Mrs. Herbert Newman of Toronto.

The body will lie in state from 1 p.m. to-day until the time of the funeral, Tuesday at 2 p.m., in MacVicar Memorial Church, Montreal.

MRS. ROBERT BOYLE DIES IN 70TH YEAR

The death occurred at St. Joseph's Hospital, on Sunday evening, of Sarah Mary McNeilly, the beloved wife of the Rev. Robert Boyle, pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Lakefield. She passed away in her 70th year.

A daughter of the late Jeremiah McNeilly and Maria Hampton, she was born in Tyrone, Ireland. Before coming to Lakefield almost three years ago, she resided at Port Dover and at Winnipeg. Besides her husband she leaves one daughter, Mrs. W. H. Sharman and a grand-daughter Maureen Ann Sharman, both of Winnipeg.

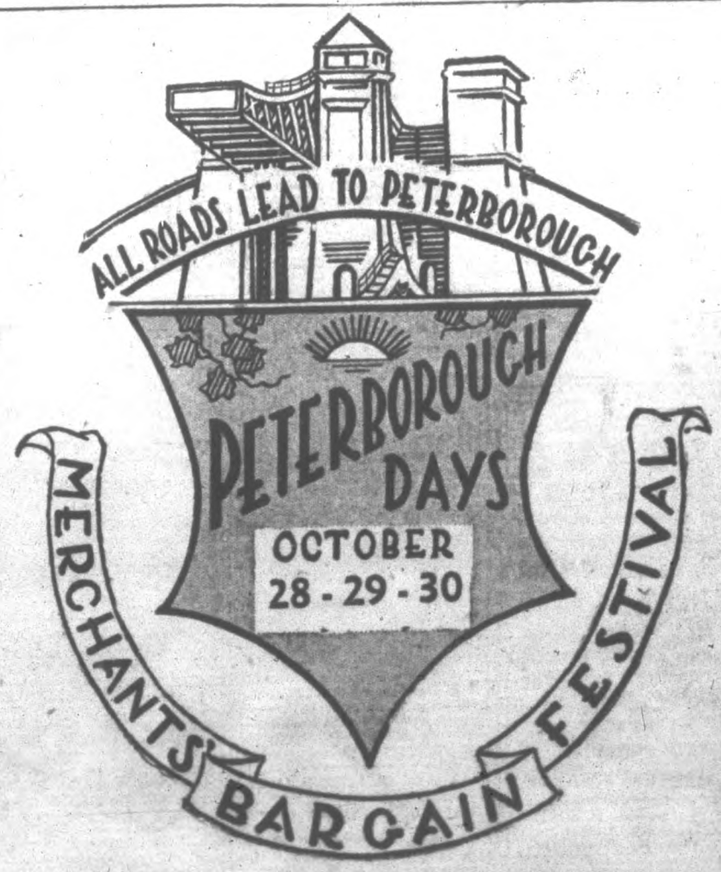
Mrs. Boyle was an enthusiastic worker in her husband's charge and was associated with many of the church societies. She was a particularly active worker in the Women's Missionary Society.

The funeral is to be held on Wednesday at 2 o'clock p.m. from D. Belleghem & Sons' Funeral Home, with the Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr, pastor of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church officiating. Interment at Little Lake Cemetery.

ONTARIO WORST OFFENDER

VANCOUVER, Oct. 25.—(CP)—In a report to Mayor G. C. Miller, Chief Constable W. W. Foster of the Vancouver police force said Saturday 90 per cent of the 265 unemployed men arrested between Sept. 1 and Oct. 20 for obstructing police had come to British Columbia from Ontario.

The men were arrested, and most of them sentenced to a month in jail, when they refused to obey police orders to stop begging on downtown street corners.



California's Golden Bears Keep Up Football Triumphs

Hutchinson Of New York Stars In Dartmouth's Win Over Harvard

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 (AP). — Despite sundry defections, college football's major aspirants for 1937 United States championship emerged for the most part unscathed today from the latest weekend engagements.

Upsets ambushed a number of unsuspecting victims, notably Columbia and Syracuse in the east. Eleven previously unbeaten teams in so-called major league ranks felt the sting of defeat for the first time, but of last week's national "first 10," however, only Louisiana State and Northwestern were overthrown.

Rated last week as the nation's No. 1 team, California's Golden Bears stopped Ambrose Schindler and gave Southern California a 20-6 pasting.

On the opposite side of the country, Dartmouth trounced Harvard 20-2, on the heroic mud-running exploits of Bill Hutchinson of New York. This pointed the way to next Saturday's outstanding "Ivy League" clash between Dartmouth and Yale, both unbeaten and untied. The Elis, led by Clint Frank, downed back Cornell 9-0.

While Alabama and Duke were achieving inter-factional triumphs at the expense of George Washington and Colgate, respectively, the South's biggest uprising was Vanderbilt's 7-6 win over Louisiana State, previously not even scored upon.

Auburn, featuring the backfield play of Fenton and Kelly, ripped through Georgia Tech for a 21-0 victory, while North Carolina knocked Tulane from the unbeaten ranks.

Ohio State accomplished the downfall of the Big Ten champions, Northwestern, by capitalizing a third-period blocked kick and holding a 7-0 margin. Michigan nosed out Iowa 7-6 and gained its first conference victory in two seasons.

Notre Dame finally found their scoring punch in the last period against Navy and came from behind to win by 9-7.

Pittsburgh and Fordham, the "scoreless wonders," posted notable inter-sectional victories to keep the east from being routed by invading rivals. Pitt's Marshall Goldberg had a broken-field day as the Panthers crushed Wisconsin 21-0. Fordham was stopped four times in scoring territory before finally putting across the tying touchdown in the last two minutes and kicking the extra point for a 7-6 victory over Texas Christian.

ODD ITEMS FROM A SPORT SCRAP BOOK

DON BUDGE.

It always seems that tennis produces one figure that completely dominates the field. No sooner does one of the super stars of the nets fade into mediocrity, than another rises to the heights to occupy the top notch.

So when Fred Perry turned to the monied ranks two years ago it was no surprise to see another usurp his position in the person of red-headed Donald Budge, the United States singles ace, and No. 1 player of the world.

It is questionable if Budge has the ability of his predecessors for though he dominates the field as easily as did Perry he has not the opposition that the Englishman met with during his reign.

However, this moot point may be settled in the not too distant future, for it is noised abroad that Budge may desert the "Simon Pure" ranks after one title defence.

HAVELOCK ALBIONS TO HOLD BANQUET

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Oct. 25. — Harold "Baldy" Cotton and Joe Primeau, goodwill ambassadors of the Toronto Maple Leafs, will make their first official visit of the season, next Thursday evening, when the two one-time Leafs will be in Havelock for the annual Albion Club banquet. Among the many other guests expected to be present at the seventh anniversary of the Havelock young men's sports organization, will be Alex. Elliott, M.L.A., of Peterborough; Rork Ferguson, M.P., of Norwood; T. P. Lancaster, of Havelock; Dr. H. Wright, of Keene; H. T. Mathison, manager and coach of the club's softball and hockey teams for the past two years, and the "Wreckers" softball team, winners of the O.A.S.A. Junior "B" softball championship.

Francis Voyer, a president of the club and head of the banquet committee, anticipates an attendance of 125, including members from town and from a distance, honorary members and invited guests. A very entertaining program has been arranged. THhe banquet, which is to be held in the auditorium of the Town Hall, is to be catered by the Women's Institute.

Looks like the King finds it hard keeping out of harness. Clancy went to Maroons as coach from Toronto Leafs on provision he didn't play during the regular schedule. But the King intends to get in tfere in the workout games. He'll pair with Allan Shields to form one defence in a "regular" against "Yannigans" game today.

Badminton

R. O. BENSON

JACK CUFF, president of the East City Badminton Club, announces that the club's playing activities will commence around the first of November. He and the other of the executive, Mrs. Irene Robinson, vice-president; Clark Muir, secretary, treasurer, and Stan. Robinson, tournament convenor, expect to get together early next week to make plans for the formal opening date. We'll drop back again when they actually get under way.

TRINITY BADMINTON Club is all set and really rarin' to go just as soon as they get the gun on the formal opening night. For over two weeks now many of the members of this active, friendly crowd have been getting in some good practice at the same time showing plenty of form, signed up and mostly last year's bunch have done right well by themselves in lining up a fine selection of officers. Mr. O. M. Steers, who also plays golf extensively, is the new president. Mrs. A.W. Jamieson, one of the leading women players of the club, has been chosen as secretary-treasurer. A strong social committee includes among its numbers Miss Lois Stewart and Dora Head, Mrs. W. Fanjoy, and Max Hutchinson and Harold Rehill. The elected heads of the organization should find their tasks comparatively light for the members are a pleasant lot, keenly interested and ready to co-operate, and the calibre of play in remarkably high in spite of the fact that the club is not a large one in point of numbers.

THE OPPORTUNITY should not be let slip away of pointing out the particularly good play of several of those already seen in action. Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Runions and Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Steer are two couples who give pleasing exhibitions; Ken Gates and Bob Huffman, two of the younger members show all the marks of becoming exceptionally fine players. When the latter teams up with Mrs. Jamieson, the result is a formidable mixed doubles pair. Misses Jessie Deyell and Dorothy Sherin demonstrate excellent sportsmanship and give swell accounts of themselves on the floor. Others who show a great deal of promise are Dora Head, Marion Moore, Anne Franks, Helen Turner, Andy Jamieson, Lorne Reynolds and many more. No doubt about it —the making of a splendid club.

DONT BE surprised if a city badminton league is formed before very long. It was considered last year, but this time it is planned to do something definite about it. Any club in the city will be able to enter teams and those desirous of entering a team should instruct their secretaries to watch for notices of the organization meeting. Such a league can be of real value in providing regular tournaments among the clubs right here in the city and preventing the taking of hazardous journeys to nearby centres for these tourneys. It is expected that the East City Club, Trinity, Knox and some teams from the Peterborough and Armouries clubs will be particularly interested. Its a little early yet, but Mr. Steer of Trinity promises to bring the matter before his executive, appoint representatives and possibly call the organization meeting. Anyway, well be able to tell better in a few weeks.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

THERE WAS some alleged rugby played Saturday at Riverside in the rain and mud, and later in the snow and mud. Nearly two dozen fans saw the Scugog juniors nosed out by a 7-6 score by Coach Jackson's junior P.C.I.-ers in a surprise victory in the a.m. We guessed wrong on this one and have to doff the weather-beaten chapeau to a gallant gang of gridders for taking the husky, experienced Lindsayites into camp. P.C.I. were figured to lose by two or three touchdowns, but they didn't believe it. Nossuh, the kids battled their heads off and proved better muddlers in the heavy going. With a few breaks and a lot of fight they came from behind to earn the nod. It is possible that on a dry field the visitors might have won but we have our doubts, after seeing the scrap the young Garnet and Gray crew put up. They rate orchids on this showing. It was Lindsay's first loss of the season.

* * * * * * *

IN THE afternoon, Malvern Collegiate of Toronto took a 2-0 triumph over Coach Bamforth's senior P.C.I. players, with a hundred or so shivering customers in the stand. A putrid tussle all the way with the mud-smeared uniforms making it almost impossible to tell who had the ball. Just straight rugby, with plenty of fumbles and high tackling. Two rouges in the first frame were the only score. We think the locals would have copped this contest on a dry gridiron, since they are speedier and usually play a smart passing game. Neither team was at full strength. Efforts were made to head off the Malverns and postpone the game when it was seen the weather would cut down too much on the gate and make it a financial failure, but it was too late. The Eastsides-Orfuns' tilt was postponed, word having reached some of the Eastsides in time to stop 'em coming—though some did arrive.

* * * * * * *

RUGBY IS played in all kinds of weather, but local officials felt it was crazy to risk injuries if possible to call off these tilts in such terrible climatic conditions. Especially when good guarantees had to be made to the Toronto teams and only small crowds could be expected. It simply poured cats and dogs all morn and half the afternoon, then turning to hail and snow. The field was heavy mud except for a young lake between first and second bases on the infield. The only way to make yards here was by using a crawl stroke, or maybe swimming under water! A tackled player would slither six feet in the grease at times.

* * * * * * *

THE ONLY chap dressed for the weather was Coach Bamforth. He was decked out splendiferously in a duck shooting costume, high rubber boots, leather coat, hunter's cap, et al. He had been hunting ducks in the morning and decided to leave his outfit on for the afternoon's rainy rugby game. The P.C.I. senior coach had no luck with the gun but he got his duck in the afternoon—as who didn't? A fellow who earned his dough was Jack Kirkwood who refereed both Saturday tilts. The ex-Orfuns' lineman had more water aboard than a camel toting a load of sponges in a rainstorm, but he kept right in there prying players apart and saving fallen gladiators from smothering in the muck! Well, all we hope is that the farmers got enough rain to suit 'em.

* * * * * * *

THOUGH NOT at full strength, the Blue Bombers of Lindsay made it a battle in Cobourg on Saturday before the Ghostly Gallopers copped a 13-7 decision in their O.R.F.U. tilt. Meikle kicked eight points for the large Lakeshore lads, who now have the clutch on the "B" rung of the group ladder. It looks like the Cobourg schedule is over, as their one remaining fray with the Toronto Eastsides will hardly be necessary now, so the Wraiths may start the playdown hunt 'gainst Belleville Panthers or Kingston Garrisons about next Saturday. The Scugog squad is sticking in there for the sole purpose of getting a crack at our Orfuns here next weekend and they crave a slice of revenge like Selassie—remember him?—must pine for his little gray palace in Addis Ababa.

* * * * * * *

TWO CHURCH Basketball League games lifted the lid on this loop's schedule Saturday p.m. in the "Y", St. Andrew's Juniors slapped St. John's with a 32-0 whitewash brush, and St. John's Juveniles grabbed a 13-7 verdict over St. Paul's. Usual early-season fumbling and screwy shooting, but this will improve with more practise. Meantime, other entries in the church cage circuit should be in tonight as the schedules will be drawn up and the rest of the outfits sent into action next Saturday.

BRINTON SHOP bowling loop of 10 teams, and 60 members, is having practically a hundred percent attendance at Friday night games in Duffus'. There are some 30 prizes in this league, including the president's cup, four rugs by the company, a lady's wrist watch donated by Vern Dawson and cash prizes. High single last week went to M. Holden, high three to R. Girard, high team to the Peter Minsters, with the Serapi gang next. Girls' high single was taken by Mrs. A. Walker, and the high three went to Miss Ethel Muir. The lasses and lads in this league are having a whale of a time knocking the pins hither and thither each week in this first season of the loop.

A BIT of sour-casm from Belleville: "Not being satisfied with finding baseball players firmly rooted on the farms around Peterborough (ala Eddie Whitehill), the Petes are now harvesting hockey players via the same route. Recently the Liftlock City scribe announced the discovery of a trio of pucksters working on farms around his native haunts. Knowing that two of them hail from Western Canada, we cannot but admire the fine farming conditions that must prevail around Peterborough, especially when hockey and baseball players can be harvested with such success. What is worrying Peterborough hockey interests more than anything else these days, now that they've imported to the hilt, is how and where to procure a grouping for their all-stars. They could jump in with Oshawa, Fort Colborne and Toronto, and play senior." Or maybe be taken in as part of Greater Belleville, what?

* * * * * * *

PICKING 'EM off the grapevine: Just six of Toronto Eastsides showed up here Sat'day; they admitted they knew the game was off in time but wanted the trip . . . . A win for Orfuns over Lindsay next Sat'day would likely mean the locals would go right into the playdowns—and Toronto wouldn't object . . . . Some bowling dope is in elsewhere tonight . . . . There will be a pro rasslin' show at the Brock St. rink a week from next Friday . . . . Local boxing club is moving training quarters to the vicinity of the Y.M.C.A. on George St. . . . . In the years 1934-35-36, Belleville O.R.F.U. team took in $311, while three games this year grossed the club $217 . . . . Too much rain for us Sat'day aft and too much food in the e'en (at an Examiner outing)—a heavy sort of day! . . . . Coach Turnbull and players here were willing to play Eastsides, come hail or high water . . . . We understand three P.C.I. players were lost in the mud at Riverside till several hours after the game—but were excavated eventually.

BOSTON PROS WIN WITHOUT L. KELLY

BOSTON, Oct. 25.—The Boston Shamrocks won an easy 27 to 7 victory over the Pittsburgh American League team yesterday, although Larry Kelley, former Yale star, was forced, reportedly by illness, to remain on the Boston bench in his scheduled professional debut.

Kelley's non-playing appearance on the sidelines because of what was termed a mild grippe attack disappointed a record crowd of 12,000. The 1936 All-America end signed with the Shamrocks last Wednesday.

SINGING MOUSE

SARNIA, Ont., Oct. 25.—(CP). — Mrs. Clare Richardson, Watford, reports there is a mouse in that Lambton town that sings and twitters like a canary. But the mouse hasn't been captured yet.

Marcelle Garvey and Gord. Armstrong, smart looking and smart stepping mixed doubles duo. . . . Dorothy Moore, who covers ground well and seems to know just what to do at the net. . . . Col. C.H. Stuart, who keeps the game humming with some improbably "gets" and who combines well with Major H. K. Clifton, M.C.; Amy Soulby, Doris Ackford, Mrs. R. S. Allin, Art Jones, and Dr. Wilf. Preston, some of whose trick shots are as subtle as an avalanche and as unexpected as the first snowfall. A great turnout and some swelegant competition. And so it goes.

JOLIAT'S SIGNING LEAVES B. SEIBERT AS LONE HOLDOUT

TORONTO, Oct. 25.—(CP)—Old Father Time, who wields a mean scythe when it comes to mowing down N.H.L. veterans, is having a hard time to get into positions for cuts at Frankie Boucher, Pete Lepine and Aurel Joliat. This is Boucher's 17th season in the big time, while Lepine and Joliat are starting their 12th and 15th terms respectively, with Montreal Canadiens.

B-r-r-r-r! Golf at this time of the year? Toronto Maple Leafs and Syracuse Stars, their farm team, had to call off their annual tournament because the fairways of the course at Preston Springs, where Leafs are training, were covered with snow yesterday.

It looks as if Red Dutton won't need to rely on that ace front line of his, consisting of Art Chapman-Sweeney Schriner-Lorne Carr, for New York Amerk goals this season. In an exhibition game against their intra-city rivals, Rangers, at Calgary Saturday, it was Dutton's third stringers—Tommy Anderson, Eddie Wiseman, and Bede Klein— who supplied the scoring punch. The teams drew, 2-2, with Anderson and Wiseman getting Amerk goals.

Shed a tear for Wilf Fields and Charlie Mason, the two International-American League players seeking berths with New York Americans. The other night someone broke into the Calgary arena and stole their skates.

It's no bed of roses being a hockey coach as Frankie Boucher found out. When Lester Patrick left the veteran centre in charge at Calgary while he took a trip to Victoria to visit the home folks, Frankie had to arrange for hotel accommodations, rink practice hours, berths, luggage, etc.

This Pete Langelle, the boy who played with the Montreal Cup winning Winnipeg Monarchs team last year, has class if you go by what Coach Dick Irvin of Toronto Leafs says. The western amateur has been out of practices for a few days because of a wrenched shoulder, but is expected to get back in action to-day.

MORE CONCESSIONS

ROME, Oct. 25—(AP).—A semi-official publication for which officials said Premier Mussolini personally writes, said today Italy will make no more substantial concessions regarding the recall of foreign volunteers from the Spanish civil war.

that Prexy Bob Quinn called off negotiations when Donie spoke out of turn in announcing he had been offered the post.

When Duke kicked Colgate around at Hamilton Saturday, it was the first time Coach Andy Kerr had seen one of his teams lost on Whitnall Field in the nine years he has been coaching the Red Raiders.

Ready For Action

The hockey season is almost here and the teams are rapidly rounding into shape, with new players trying out for positions, and old-timers limbering up their stiff muscles. Here is a new photo of Bill Thomson, former Port Arthur star, gaily bedecked in his new uniform. He recently turned professional, signing a contract with Toronto Maple Leafs.

QUEEN'S JUNIORS CREATE TRIPLE TIE

KINGSTON, Oct. 25—(CP). — Queen's Juniors made it a triple tie for the top in their Junior O.R.F.U. group here Saturday, when they defeated Royal Military College, 12 to 0. Tri-Color, R.M.C., and Kingston Grads have now each won and lost one.

Smith kicked for two points in the second quarter, and Kuhns and Green each added one. In the third, Smith kicked three times for rouges, and in the last Clarke was shoved over for a touchdown, ending the scoring. The game was on a field of mud, making fumbles plentiful.

R.M.C.—Snap, Way; middles, Bickle, Stewart; insides, Sinclair, McAvety; outsides, Alexander, Cook; flying wing, McMurtry; halves, Brooks, Acton, Campbell; quarter, Martin. Subs., Morhan, Mitchell, Smart, Kirkpatrick, Stuart, Doherty, Gibson, Baker, Holborn.

Referee—Jim Courtright; Umpire —Bob Elliott. Head linesman — Bruce Anderson.

English League Hockey Player Draws Penalty For Whacking Ice With Stick

LONDON, Oct. 25 (C.P.).—English hockey trips along daintily these days to a chorus of whistles as referees seek to instil traditions of "cricket" into the game.

In an effort to minimize rough play, the British Ice Hockey Association introduced a penalty shot rule similar to that used in National League competition, while they have also adopted stringent "anti-riot" legislation.

"Why, they'll have us bowing to attacking wingers next," said husky Hasen McAndrew, Toronto boy who plays defence for the Greyhounds. He thinks the "clean-play" legislation too severe, and says some things frowned on in England would be considered good strategy in Canada.

McAndrew recalled a case where he drew a three-minute penalty for whacking the ice with his stick. He made the harmless gesture after an opponent had held his stick.

Welcome to Netminders.

But the new penalty shot from a line 35 feet from the goal is welcomed by the netminders for it replaces one that gave them the jitters. Under the old free shot, the player could withhold his shot until he reached the goal crease.

"A goalie's job is tough enough without that kind of stuff," said Charlie Teno, Earlscourt Rangers netman, last season with Sudbury's champion Tigers. "They let them skate in that close the goalie is either going to be knocked through the back of his net or seriously injured."

The new legislation to prevent battles royal deals harshly with offenders. If a disciplinary committee considers the offence serious the offending player is suspended for an indefinite period. In event of repetition of the offence the suspension may became international and the man's playing certificate cancelled.

St. Paul's Defeated In First Cage Game

St. John's Juveniles took a 13-7 victory over St. Paul's in their opening Church Basketball League contest at the "Y" Gym. Saturday evening. The winners played a smart game and had an edge all the way. Most of the shooting was done in the first half with but one basket counted in the last stanza. It was closer in this half with the winners missing many shots. Dyer and Marshall were most effective with the former doing most of the scoring. The young St. Paul's gang had no outstanding stars. Most of the 1935 St. John's and 1936 St. Paul's bantam champs were on the floor. The teams:

St. John's.—Dyer, Marshall, Castle, Forsythe, Moore, Smith.

St. Paul's.—Dunford, Hall, Taylor, Ascott, R. Ferguson, J. Ferguson, Fraser, McBride.

Referee—R. Johnston.

Scorer—D. Charlton.

COBOURG ADVANCE BEATING LINDSAY

COBOURG, Oct. 25 (C.P.). — Cobourg trimmed Lindsay 13 to 7 here on Saturday to enter the B Section playdowns of the Intermediate Ontario Rugby Football Union. Cobourg will play either Kingston or Belleville in the first game of the playdown on Saturday.

Meikle, Cobourg half-back, scored eight of his team's total points by two field goals and with a placement, and shortly after Jacobs, Cobourg middle, tackled a Lindsay backfielder for rouge.

Cobourg — Flying wing, Cooper; halves, Meikle, Henderson, Lucas; quarter, Brewster; snap, Spooner; insides, Pratt, Bulder; middles, Jacobs, Reymes; outsides, McIlveen, Johnson; subs., Benson, Boyer, Jones, Williams.

Officials — Ryder and Armstrong, both of Toronto.

ST. ANDREW'S WINS BASKETBALL GAME

St. Andrew's Juniors opened their Church Basketball League schedule Saturday night in the Y.M.C.A. with a 32-0 win over St. John's. It was not as one-sided as the score would indicate, the Anglicans missing numerous chances to score by pitiful marksmanship, but having a good share of the play. They checked hard and were frequently in scoring position, but had no luck. St. Andrew's played their usual combination game and looked good, scoring freely and checking effectively. Young, a recruit, led the snipers with 14 points, though probably one of the weaker members on this line-up. Weir got 11 and was good all-around. It was 11-0 at half-time. Teams:

St. John's.—Chivras, Pakenham, Pinn, Castle, Jefferies, Coleman.

St. Andrew's. — Weir, Cutting, Turner, Johnston, Young, Dougherty.

Referee.—V. Holmes.

Scorer—D. Charlton.

Falconbridge Takes 1st Game Of Finals

TORONTO, Oct. 25. — Unless one of those sports miracles occurs tonight, the Lord Athoistan Trophy will find a resting pace in the North Countree for the first time. Falconbridge Falcons, living up to all nice things said about them in pre-game advances, took a stranglehold on the National League championship by beating British Consols 3-1 on Saturday.

The brilliant miners, one of the best teams to ever come down from the gold-and-nickel belt area, turned in a masterful effort as they completely buffaloed the Consoliers with a long swinging game that proved effective throughout. The two-goal lead with which they emerged will prove a tremendous handicap for the Toronto team to overcome to-night and unless the Falcons find the floodlights at Consols Stadium a little distracting, it will take a superhuman performance by the Consoliers to keep the title, which Ulster won last year, in the Queen City.

Locals Pull Out Surprise Victory Over Scugog Rivals In Heavy Downpour

P.C.I. Juniors upset the dope bucket by pulling out a 7-6 win over Lindsay Collegians here Saturday morning in a C.O.S.S.A. fixture. It was the locals second victory in three starts this year and the first loss for the Scugog squad. The latter team were figured to win handily here but met their Waterloo on a swampy gridiron at Riverside Park.

A small crowd of fans saw the locals pull out the surprise win in a heavy downpour of rain on a field that was heavy mud most of the way and puddles of water in spots. Fumbles were frequent on both sides and the outfit coached by W. Jackson proved the better mudders. They turned in a gallant fighting display against a heavier and more experienced team and fought from behind all the way to earn the verdict.

Lindsay had a touchdown within the first three minutes of play but were unable to score the rest of the route. Hill went over for a try early as the Lindsay gang looked like sure winners in the initial frame. It was converted by Sharpe and the Scugog gang pressed all the way. Play was more even in the second session and resulted in P.C.I. counting a major when Scott tore around end for a try, which was not converted. Both sides battled bitterly in the mud but could make little progress. They seldom got within kicking distance without one side or the other fumbling.

Tie It Up

The second half started with Lindsay putting on a determined drive but they could not get within scoring distance. Fumbles were more frequent in the mud and water but the Garnet and Gray kids proved the better battlers in the heavy going. They fought steadily and finally got within range and Scriver kicked to deadline for the tying point. The ball was picked up by a spectator as it went over the line and possibly saved the visitors having a touchdown scored against them. Play was even and hard-fought through the fourth frame with both sides kicking often and looking for the breaks in the greasy going. A short Lindsay kick and a penalty paved the way for Peterborough's winning point with five minutes left to play. On Scriver's kick from the visitor's 25-yard line, Dwyer rouged Maxwell for the deciding count of the contest. The homesters held Lindsay the rest of the game.

The teams:

Lindsay: Flying wing, Maxim; halves, Ferguson, Sharpe, Maxwell; quarter, Warrian; snap, Karrys; insides, Kingsborough, Wright; middles, Hill, Lamb; outsides, Nesbitt, Crowley; alternates, Cresswell, Tolmie, Baldwin, Hadley, Bates, B. Nesbitt.

P.C.I.: Flying wing, Elliott; halves, K. Gillespie, Scriver, Scott; quarter, Moldaver; snap, McMahon; insides, Dwyer, Ferguson; middles, Douglas, Ainsley; outsides, Freeman, McPherson; alternates, Havie, McWilliams, Graham, C. Gillespie.

Summary:

First Quarter

Lindsay, 6—Hill's try and Sharpe's convert.

Second Quarter

P.C.I., 1—Scott's try.

Third Quarter

P.C.I., 1—Scriver's kick to deadline.

Fourth Quarter

P.C.I., 1—Dwyer's rouge.

Decathlon Champion Ready For Games

CALGARY, Oct. 25 (CP).—George Sutherland, the athlete who refuses to grow old, is ready for the British Empire Games at Sydney, Australia, next February. He belies his 35 years.

National decathlon champion, George, who trains at his De Wintow farm, will be Alberta's representative on the Canadian track and field team. Twice before he has been a member of Canada's team, at Hamilton in 1930 and London in 1934.

Sutherland is Alberta's perennial champion. Since 1929, the six-foot, 200-pound athlete has been the province's decathlon titleholder. He has held the Canadian decathlon title since 1933.

LONDON PRAIRIES?

LONDON—(CP).—A book of Coronation incidents has been published. An entertaining note is that of an English girl in Switzerland who heard a Belgian describe the "trepidating emotion of vast crowds which echoed across the green prairies of St. James' Park."

REGINA WHIPS CALGARY TEAM FOR 26-1 COUNT

REGINA, Oct. 25.—(CP).—Regina Roughriders, western football champions last year, whipped Calgary Bronks 26-1 here Saturday but the display of power came too late.

Defeated in their first five Western Interprovincial Union starts this season, Riders beat Winnipeg Blue Bombers 8-2 at Regina Oct. 9 and showed on Saturday the victory was no flash in the pan.

Roughriders, however, will put their uniforms away after next Saturday's game in Winnipeg. Bombers and Bronks start a playoff the following week. The team finishing atop the standing has choice of field for the first game o the home-and-home series.

Bombers tuned up at Winnipeg Saturday with a 10-8 victory over University of North Dakota in an exhibition game under the United States' rules.

The Dakotans led 8-0 with five minutes to go through a safety touch and touchdown, then Fritz Hanson fired a 50-yard forward pass to Ches McCance, who ran 30 for a converted major score. Greg Kabat kicked the winning field goal after Bob Fritz ran the Sioux kickoff back 58 yards.

Heralomas Undefeated.

In the Vancouver Big Four, Heralomas remained undefeated with an 8-6 win over Knights of Columbus. The Northwestern League had an open date.

In the Regina game, Riders made 288 yards rushing to Calgary's 75, 19 first down to three and completed four of 11 forward passes for 105 yards against Bronks' two of 11 for 60 yards.

First point, a deadline kick, went to Bronks early but Riders evened the score in the first quarter and added another single and a converted touchdown by Bert Nelson before halftime.

The second half was all Regina as Dean Griffing's crew ran up three more touchdowns, one converted, and two singles. Ralph Pierce accounted for one major score and Paul Kirk the other two.

REMEMBERED HIS CATS

RAMSGATE, England—(CP). — Richard F. Drury, 71, who died in August leaving $130,000, directed that $1.25 a week should be used to provide for his cats, Claud and Wompy.

Broda Loads Up For Hockey Season

"We never get too much protection" mutters young Walter Broda, goalkeeper for Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey league, as he pulls on some extra coverings before going out to stop pucks in the Leaf practise sessions. The western cage guardian seems to be well loaded with protective armor but stopping the booming shots that Charlie Conacher and Harvey Jackson fire goalwards is no cinch, so we'll concede Walter the argument.

Argonauts Remain Unbeaten In Big Four While Bengals Get First Win Of Season

Imperials Hand Balmy Beach 13-0 Setback—Varsity And Mustangs In Tie

TORONTO, Oct. 25 (CP). — The happiest people today of all concerned with the east's football for 1937 are Sarnia Imperials, who apparently have the way cleared to another Ontario union title and the playoff right to defend their sectional championship.

As the season passed the half-way mark of schedules Saturday, Imperials threw back the latest challenge of Toronto Balmy Beach with a 13-0 victory. All Imperials have to do for their seventh straight O.R.F.U. title is to beat Hamilton Panthers twice. The inexperienced Panthers are not rated a chance to upset the Oilers.

The section's football picture was brightened considerably by the comeback of Hamilton Tigers of the Interprovincial Union. They scored the only upset of a five-game card by trouncing Montreal Indians 14-1 at Hamilton. Tigers' first win of the season left them in a three-way tie for second place in the Big Four behind undefeated Toronto Argonauts, who won their third straight by defeating Ottawa Rough Riders 10-4.

Low-Scoring Games.

Low scoring prevailed among the college footballers, headed by University of Western Ontario's Mustangs who tied Toronto 4-4 while Queen's booted a last-play field-goal in the snow and darkness of Molson Stadium to beat McGill 6-4.

Only three touchdowns were scored in the five games. Sarnia got one of them in the fourth quarter when a Balmy Beach kick was blocked and Joe Woodcock picked up the ball for a 40-yard run over the Beach goalline. The major score hardly was needed, however. Imperials, held to a 7-7 tie in the teams' first clash, never allowed Beaches a chance to get going.

Hugh (Bummer) Stirling, one of the most consistent footballers in the country, was the force around which Imperials rallied for a near-perfect display before 3,000 home-town fans. Given perfect support, Stirling booted a field goal from placement in the first quarter and later added four singles.

That wasn't all. The Bummer and Giant Ormond Beach ripped the Balmy line to shreds. Stirling was the sparkplug also of a forward-passing attack, successful eight times in 14 tries. Meanwhile Beaches, seldom in Sarnia territory and never threatening, failed to find an Imperial weakness anywhere.

Argos Going Strong.

Only one unbeaten, untied team was left in the east when Mustangs were tied by Toronto. Lew Hayman's Argonauts, functioning brilliantly on their end-run specialties, held a three-straight winning record to all but assure themselves of a Big Four playoff berth.

On a soggy field and in intermittent falls of fine wet snow, Argonauts staved off Ottawa in the last two minutes when the Riders had the ball only four yards out. While 7,000 Toronto fans held their breath, the Argo wing line stopped Dave Sprague and Stan O'Neil one yard from the line. A converted touchdown would have tied the game.

In this battle of line giants, Harry Sonshine, star Argo secondary defenceman and middle, had his jaw broken in two places and McFall of Ottawa a leg broken.

Matching tiny Herman's place-kicked field goal with one by Annis Stukus on the last play of the first half, Argos riddle the Ottawans in the third quarter with an end attack that culminated with Johnny Edwards' dash of 20 yards for a touchdown, converted by Stukus. Edwards, Art West, Ted Morris and Bob Isbister gave the classiest running display the Argo backfield has shown this season.

Welch Returns to Form.

Return to kicking form of Hawley (Chuck) Welch, and sensational running of young Teddy Manorek featured the Tiger win. Welch kicked five singles and the convert of Manorek's touchdown, gained near the finish when Red Dunn intercepted a pass 15 yards out. Manorek, who pulled off several long runs, smashed over in three plunges.

Manorek also paved the way for Bill Whitaker's placement field goal in the second quarter when Chappie O'Connor failed to make a running catch and Teddy fell on the loose ball on the Indian eight. Manorek's best effort of the day—a 50-yard runback of a kick—was called back on a holding penalty.

An injured shoulder kept Captain Johnny Ferraro on the Indian bench, and the Montreal ground crew sadly missed Cornell Johnny's fierce bucking and field leadership. Ottawa, Tigers and Montreal were tied with one win and two losses, leaving the second playoff berth a wide-open race.

A charging Queen's wingline blocked a kick in the last minute against McGill, who twice held a lead over the Tri-color. There was time for one play when Queen's recovered on the Redmen's one-yard line, and Bernie Thornton kicked a field goal between the posts.

It was on that kind of a finish that McGill beat Toronto the previous Saturday. In all it was a hectic quarter when, at one time the Tri-color held a 3-1 lead that Bob Keefer wiped out with a placement.

Costly Toronto Error.

Cam Gray's failure on two attempted field goals from placement—something he hasn't missed in two seasons — cost Toronto victory against Western. Gray kicked four singles in the first half only to have a belated Western drive tie the score in the fourth quarter on a single by Jack Kennedy after Boyce Sherk's placement.

TORONTO MALS DEFEAT P.C.I. IN EXHIBITION

Malvern Collegiate of Toronto nosed out the P.C.I. Seniors by a 2-0 score here Saturday afternoon at Riverside Park. The game was an exhibition affair, played before about 100 fans on a muddy field in a downpour of rain and was an uninteresting spectacle most of the way. The teams tried hard but could not play good rugby under those weather conditions.

The visitors scored two points in the first quarter when Curry and Chandler got rouges after kicks over the touch-line by Gaull. The locals tried valiantly but failed to get within scoring distance of the Toronto team the rest of the way. The visitors tried also to add to the count but were held at a safe distance.

There were no features to this affair, neither side showing to any advantage. On a dry field, the speedy P.C.I. crew might have stepped around their husky rivals to cop a victory but they were slowed to a walk in the muddy going, and the Malverns also looked back in the mud. Straight rugby between the 25-yard lines resulted with neither side having much advantage.

The teams:

Malvern: Flying wing, McNulty; halves, Smith, Gull, S. Lush; quarter, Ballagh; snap, Curry; insides, H. Overend, Chandler; middles, B. Overend, Davidson; outsides, Nobles, Marchant; alternates, Wilson, Baker, Schofield, Wright, Rook, Hastings, J. Lush, Watson, Duggan.

P.C.I.: Flying wing, Ward; halves Creighton, Thornton, Diplock; quarter, Leether; snap, Johnston; insides, W. Turner, Ascott; middles, Kelly, Curtin; outsides, Craig, Duncan; alternates, P. Turner, Northcott, Csumrick, Hall, Parnell.

Summary:

First Quarter

Malverns, 2—Rouges by Curray and Chandler.

Second Quarter

No score.

Third Quarter

No score.

Fourth Quarter

No score.

CANUCK FINISHES IN RODEO 'MONEY'

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 (C.P.). — A mere 21 points separated Jerry Ambler to-day from the bronco busting championship of Madison Square Garden's annual rodeo, but the slim Minburn, Alta., cowboy said he'd be back after the title "if it takes me till I'm 50."

Jerry compiled 4,225 points and finished third in the saddle bronc riding competition when points for 19 days' riding were compiled. Only Canadian to finish in the grand aggregate money, he won about $500.

Two south-western cowboys topped the Canadian champion. First prize went to Paul Carney, 25-year-old Galeton, Colorado, cowboy, who beat out Ambler with his cracking 10-second ride aboard the hurricane deck of a bucking horse named "Hell's Angel." Carney's total was 4,256 points, 15 more than Jack Cooper of Newhall, Calif.

Violet Clements of Edmonton, only Canadian girl competing in the bronco riding contests, failed to qualify for the grand aggregate, but said she "broke better than even" on her share of the "day money" prizes. Another Canadian appearing from day to day in the win column was Herman Linder, the veteran competition rider from Cardston, Alta.

MARMORA HEARS DEAN C. WINTER

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Oct. 25.—Sunday being Missionary Sunday in the Anglican Diocese of Ontario, and and interchange of pulpits being Diocesan wide, services in the parish of Marmora were in charge of Rural Dean C. Winter of Picton, who preached impressive sermons to good congregations.

Preaching at St. Paul's at Matins, Rural Dean Winter chose as his subject, "What is Christianity," his text being 2 Cor., 4:5, "For we preach not ourselves but Christ Jesus the Lord." The preacher described Christianity in turn as a person a life, an influence, and hope.

In the afternoon at Holy Trinity he spoke of the failure of Nehemiah's enemies to dissuade the Jewish leader from rebuilding the walls of Jerusalem, drawing lessons from Nehemiah's answer to Sanballat, "I am doing a great work, so that I cannot come down."

At the evening service at St. Paul's, the preacher spoke of the need of witnessing for Christ in the home surroundings.

A duet, "Saviour, Thy Dying Love," was rendered by Mesdames C. Nichol and P. Gray.

PARENTS' NIGHT HELD AT MADOC

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MADOC, Oct. 25. — A parents' night at the High School auditorium was well attended by parents of the students and others interested on Friday evening. The new principal, Mr. Thain, used the occasion as a get-together for parents and teachers, which, it is hoped, will have beneficial results on the policy of the Board of Trustees and the High School staff.

Rev. A. B. Payne, of St. Thomas' Church, Belleville, Rural Dean of Prince Edward and Hastings Deanery, occupied the pulpit of St. John's Anglican Church on Sunday morning in the absence of the rector, Rev. W. G. Hope Swayne. His inspiring message was from Ephesians 3, 14, and his theme the three commands of the Lord Jesus Christ, "Baptize them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost"; "Do this in remembrance of Me"; and "Go ye into all nations." A strong missionary appeal was made to regard these tasks of the church as part of our own responsibility as members of the church.

Blaze Damages Madoc House

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MADOC, Oct. 25. — A serious fire occurred at the residence of Gordon Munro on Friday morning which called on all the Volunteer Alert Fire Company's resources to subdue. The fire is thought to have originated in a defective chimney. The kitchen and kitchen bedroom were completely ruined by fire and much of the building damaged by water and smoke. The loss was partly covered by insurance.

MORE WHITE FOXES ARE BEING TRAPPED AFTER LEAN YEAR

POND INLET, Baffin Island, Oct. 25.—As the wheat to the prairies so is the white fox to vast areas of the northern territory — the one big source of revenue.

And there's competition in the white fox fur trade. This year Pond maintained a precarious hold on the honor of being the greatest shipper of white fox furs in the Eastern Arctic, despite the business lost to new posts in other districts.

Some 400 pelts (last winter's catch) were loaded on R.M.S. Nascopie when the ship stopped here in September. The trade in white fox brings an exceedingly fluctuating revenue, for production goes in cycles. After reaching the bottom of the cycle in the winter 1935-36, the catch over the Eastern Arctic last winter was about twenty-five per cent. greater.

Slumps and Climbs.

Observation over a long period shows the production steadily climbs for about five years then slumps for one or two years before it starts upward again. The slump is extreme, a lean year producing often not more than ten per cent. of a big year.

The common explanation for these cycles is the abundance or scarcity of lemming, little mouselike animals on which the white fox largely feeds. These animals now and again start on a wild, inexplainable hike, often marching by thousands into the sea to their deaths. In any event, when they are very scarce, approximately every five to seven years, the white foxes are scarce also.

In a good year Canada provides about 70,000 white fox furs. Pond alone has shipped almost 3,000 pelts in one season. If they averaged to the Eskimo and native trapper $12 a pelt, it would bring into the country $840,000.

The present price for fox pelts in England, the world market, is a little more than $20. During the war they went as high as $40. Prices now, however, are higher than during recent years. They are in demand for white opera wraps, in which women rejoice.

Live Among Rocks.

White foxes are found almost exclusively north of the tree line, using holes among the rocks as dens in which they rear their young. Their coat is blue-grey in the summer, blending with the rocks, and white in the winter, blending with the snow.

When the Nascopie stopped at Fort Ross at the south end of Somerset Island in September, where a new post has been built, the foxes, unfamiliar with humans, could be approached to within a few feet.

These little animals are lured to their deaths with traps baited with rotten meat or fish, their keen sense of smell attracting them from considerable distances. Trappers often sprinkle perfume of florida water on the trap with no bait at all, with successful results.

TELLS PUBLIC THE TRUTH

DUNN, N.C., Oct. 25 (AP)—Worth Stewart, manager of a theatre here, believes in telling the customers when his pictures aren't "colossal."

DEAD RECKONING

BY

BRUCE HAMILTON

READ THIS FIRST:

Tim Kennedy graduated into wouldbe homicide from the school of armchair murderers. With a lucrative dental practice and an enviable social position in a small town near London, Tim, at middle age, feels happy and secure. Then Esther is run down by a truck, returning home a week later a psyical wreck, with all her former beauty shattered. Tim loses all interest in his wife and is greatly attracted by Alma Shepherd, a widow. He becomes infatuated and finally decides that Esther must die. Trying to work his wife into a state of despondency over her condition, so he can fake suicide, Tim feels the time for the poisoning is ripe.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 19.

On the Sunday that Tim Kennedy had fixed for poisoning his wife, and on the morning of which he had made all his preparations except those for the ultimate act, Dr. Harold Arkwright came to the Wilderness to tea.

Normally the Kennedys were regarded as being "at home" on Sunday afternoons, though since Esther's accident the tradition by which their friends were encouraged to drop in without invitation had lapsed somewhat. Tim had hoped to keep this particular afternoon free of visitors, as he did not want to give Esther a chance of revealing a state of mind inconsistent with reckless despair on the same evening. He was annoyed to find Harold, the last person he wished to see, turning up for tea, but he was not at first seriously put out. So long as there was only one visitor, he felt capable of keeping Esther under observation, noting her demeanor, and perhaps to a certain extent controlling it.

But it happened that Esther was in the worst possible mood for his purpose. It was not an extravagant gaiety, which might have been psychologically plausible as reaction after a desperate decision had been irrevocably made. It was something more disconcerting, a calmness and serene hopefulness such as she had not shown for many months.

One might have supposed that her subconscious mind had divined his objective, had grasped the role she was expected to play, and was determined not to play it. In one-half hour over the teacups she so undermined the defenses Tim had laid down that his purpose began to waver. She spoke of the coming Mediterranean holiday with an eager anticipation (which, he reflected bitterly, he himself had helped to induce) and a detailed reference to the itinerary and the opportunities for sight-seeing it afforded that were difficult to reconcile with an intenion to commit suicide within a few hours.

It was true that such strange contradictions were not unknown. Tim had read of many cases where people, apparently in the best of spirits and full of their plans for the future, had died by their own hands almost immediately afterwards. But the thing was a paradox, however often it happened in bona fide cases, and the tendency was to create doubt. . . . It was, however, with the aim of insinuating this idea in such a way that the outcome would appear credible that Tim took Dr. Arkwright away for a walk round the garden when tea was over.

After they had talked of trivialities for a few minutes, he said abruptly:

"Esther's in great spirits this afternoon."

"I know. . . . That's what delights me so much. Do you know that up to this afternoon I haven't been able to get her to work up the slightest enthusiasm. I've shown her the steamship company's folders. I've taken her over the route on the map, given her stuff to read about the different places. And until today she hasn't shown a spark of interest. It was as if she didn't want to go, or as if she was just humoring me and didn't really mean to go. . . . I can't understand what's made her change about so suddenly, but it's a safe bet I'm not complaining."

Dr. Arkwright nodded.

"Perhaps she's really taking a turn for the better. These things do go in leaps; it's hardly ever a gradual upper curve. . . ."

Tim left it at that; he was not going to push his suggestion more explicitly. He began to talk about his roses; and it was only by degrees that he realized that Arkwright was unusually silent and unresponsive. Presently the older man interrupted him.

"By the way, Tim," he said. "I'm glad to have a chance of a word with you. I really came over today with that in mind."

Tim looked at him quickly.

"Oh, yes? . . . What was it you wanted to say?"

"It's an idea that occurred to me, only last night. . . . It may be fantastic, and you'll have to forgive me if I've got hold of the wrong end of the stick. . . . But I think I ought to mention it, just to reassure you, in case there's anything in it."

"Come on, Harold. This isn't like you."

"Well—we've had one or two talks about Esther lately, and you've taken a rather dismal view. What I want you to tell me is this—was there anything particular at the back of your mind?"

The question came so near home that Tim almost lost countenance.

"At the back of my mind?" he repeated slowly. "Anything particular . . . upon my word, Harold, I haven't an idea what you are driving at."

"I see I must be more explicit. . . . It's just this—looking back on what you've said, the hints you've given about her state of mind, a suggestion that you were seriously alarmed, your uneasiness when I prescribed medinal—it's only now come to me what you might really mean. Tell me, Tim, do you or have you ever entertained the idea that Esther might try to do away with herself?"

For Tim the question could not have timed for a less propitious moment. To create an atmosphere, to lodge the germ of an idea—that was one thing. But to get down to cases, and that at the very eleventh hour, was the very last thing he could have anticipated, and the worst. Had he then over-reached himself, been too bold in pressing his suggestion? . . . The nature of the question gave him an excuse for hesitancy, and he sought desperately to steer away from danger.

"How can I answer that? . . ." He felt his way. "The idea occurred

BEDTIME STORY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S MUSIC

"Ouch!" cried Baby Bunty, the little orphan rabbit, as she was sitting beside Uncle Wiggily at a table one day. "Ouch! That hurt!"

"What hurt?" asked Uncle Wiggily, who was looking over some books and papers to see if he had made any money on his farm.

"Something hit me on the tip of my ear," said Bunty.

Uncle Wiggily looked across the room. He saw Buster, one of his little rabbit boys, reading a story book. Or at least Buster appeared to be reading.

But Uncle Wiggily noticed that near Buster, on a chair, was a box of rubber elastic bands which Mr. Longears had been using to hold together some of his farm papers.

Mr. Longears said nothing. Baby Bunty went on with her school home work which she had brought into Uncle Wiggily's room to ask him about. Buster was supposed to be home working, also.

He's Hit, Also.

All of a sudden, just when Uncle Wiggily was finding out he had made some money on his crop of golden yellow carrots, the rabbit gentleman felt a stinging pain in his pink, twinkling nose. So Uncle Wiggily cried out, as Bunty had done:

"Ouchie!"

This time when Uncle Wiggily looked at Buddy he saw the rabbit boy's moving away from the box of elastics.

"Buddy, are you shooting rubber bands at Bunty and me?" asked Mr. Longears.

"No, Daddy," Buster answered. "Not now."

"But you were!" exclaimed Bunty. "I saw you stretch out a rubber band and then let go of it and it hit Unkie Wig on his nose. Didn't you?"

"Oh, yes," said Buster. "But I didn't mean to."

"Ha!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily, rubbing his nose which still hurt, "so you are up to tricks, are you, Buster. Well, just for that, I'll take Bunty out and buy her an ice cream cone but I will not take you."

"Oh, Daddy!" pleaded Buddy. But it was no use. He had been bad and he must be punished.

A Promise.

"I'll give you the cone part of my ice cream when I come back," Bunty whispered when she started out with Uncle Wiggily.

"Thanks," whispered Buster. "I won't plop you with any more rubber bands."

"Thanks," said Bunty the orphan rabbit.

Buster was gone when Mr. Longears got back to his room, having sent Baby Bunty and the ice cream cone on her way to the Hollow Tree School. The rabbit gentleman was sitting at his desk going over his books again when, all of a sudden, the window was pushed up and the Bob Cat stuck his head in.

"Gurr!" growled the Bob Cat. "Now I have you!"

"Oh, dear!" sighed Uncle Wiggily. "Going to make a meal off me, are you?"

"That's what I am!" growled the Bad Chap.

"Do you like music with your meals?" asked the rabbit.

"Yes," mewed the Bob Cat.

"Then listen to this rubber band!" cried the rabbit. With that he shot a heavy elastic on the Bob Cat's nose. "Snap!" The Bad Chap howled and ran away and so he didn't get the rabbit after all.

"Ha! Ha!" laughed Mr. Longears. "That rubber band played fine music." And if the rubber on the lead pencil will let it bob up and down a few times, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's reserved seat.

MURRAY ST. CHOIR SUPPLIES NUMBERS FOR GOOD PROGRAM

(Examiner Correspondence.)

SPRINGVILLE, Oct. 25.—The annual fowl supper at the Springville United church was featured by the usual abundant supply of fowl and all its accessories, that go to make a delicious meal.

A variety program was presented consisting of several vocal numbers by members of Murray St. choir, Peterborough. A quartette composed of Miss Phyllis Rome, Mrs. P. Johnston, Mrs. Harold Scott and Miss M. Stenton, sang during the evening the following numbers, "Ching a Ring a Ring", "Lindy," "I Hear the Voice", 'Brier", "Sweetes flower that grows", and "Forget me Not."

Duet numbers, "Sailing on Life's Sea," and "I've dreamed of Such a Place as This", were sung by Miss Rome and Mrs. Scott.

Solos were rendered by Miss Rome ,Grant Palmer and Carlos Palmer; readings were given by Misses Corona Hanbidge and Velma Staples; violin solos were played by Stewart Dawson.

Rev. C. L. Brown, pastor of the church, was chairman for the evening.

W. M. S. Meet

The regular monthly meeting of the Springville W.M.S. was held at the manse with a good attendance of twenty-one.

The president, Miss J. Schaffer, was in the chair.

Rev. C. L. Brown introduced the new study book "A New Church faces a New World." He sketched the life of the Saddle Bag preacher —his hardships, the beginning of the three churches that made up the United church and contrasted conditions ten and now.

A reading on Peace was read by Mrs. J. Grandy, followed by the closing prayer.

Lunch was served by the lunch committee assisted by the hostess, Mrs. (Rev.) Brown, to all of whom a hearty vote of thanks was extended.

The W.A., with Mrs. H. Rowan in the chair, met to make final arrangements for the fowl supper, previous to the W.M.S. meeting.

Personals

Mrs. Albert Hunter has for the past two weeks been visiting her sister in Kentucky.

We are glad to learn that Mrs. O. Dunford and Milton Dunford, who have been on the sick list are on the road to recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Collison of Stratford, have returned home after spending a week at the home of the latter's sister, Mrs. Wm. Whitfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Renner have returned to their home in San Francisco, California, after a short visit with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Whitfield.

MILLBROOK

Mr. L. H. Winslow, president of the Durham Plowmen's Association, was in Fergus last week, attending the Provincial Plowing match, and acting as judge in some classes.

Born—In Nichols' Hospital, Peterborough, on Thursday, October 7, to Mr. and Mrs. D. K. Chiles—a son.

Dr. and Mrs. G. H. Needler, who have been visiting at the family homestead, Anne street, for the past week, left on Thursday for Port Hope where they were luncheon guests of her brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Chisholm, and then went to Toronto, where they will spend the winter.

Among members of the local Young People's Union who motored to Belleville for the week-end, to attend the conference Y.P.U. convention, were: Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Dawson, Ken and Phyllis Kidd, Marjorie and Beatrice McDowell, Fred Barnard, Earl Edworthy, Jack Arundell, and Eleanor Bigelow.

The public schools of the village and vicinity had a holiday at the week-end owing to the teachers' convention at Cobourg. Practically all of the teachers were in attendance at this important annual gathering.

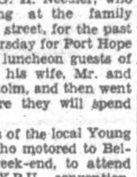
Among members of the W.A. of the Anglican churches of the parish of Cavan who motored to Cameron last Wednesday to attend the annual W. A. Deanery meeting were: Mrs. C. M. Westmacott, Mrs. L. M. Bonneville, Mrs. H. J. Russell, Miss Rose Macnamara, Mrs. H. Seney, Mrs. J. Sisson, Mrs. B. Fisher, Mrs. R. M. Howden, Miss Jackson, Mrs. R. Wood and Mrs. I. Lunney.

Rev. Canon Robertson of St. John's church, Peterborough, preached the sermon for the opening session when the clergymen, who were also in annual session, met with the other delegates for the service, Venerable Archdeacon Simpson being the celebrant for Holy Communion, assisted by Rev. P. C. Howard, of Bobcaygeon, and formerly of Millbrook, Mrs. (Rev.) P. C. Howard, Deanery officer, presided for the W.A. afternoon session.

HORSES AT GRAVE

BUDAPEST—(CP).—In keeping with a deathbed request, ten of Count Sandor Szirmay's thoroughbred horses followed his coffin to the grave. The Count was president of the Hungarian Gentry Riding Club.

"NERVES" SHE CALLED IT



Losing interest—losing friends—she never went out any more—always too tired. "Nerves," she thought—but it was her kidneys, the filters of her blood, that needed attention. Delay meant danger. She took Dodd's Kidney Pills at once. The improved action of her kidneys helped to clear away blood impurities and excess acids. Fatigue, headache, backache, lack of energy, disappeared. 117

Snakes Cure Youth Of Stray Sleeping

San Antonio, Tex., Oct. 25 (UP).

HERBERT Thompson, 17, of Camden, N.J., on his way to Hollywood for a movie job, dropped off to sleep in a park.

He awoke with a start, screaming and fainted. Several snakes were entwined around his body.

He had gone to sleep in the park's reptile gardens.

DEANERY REPORT ABLY PRESENTED

ROSENEATH, Oct. 25—Mrs. J. H. Hallett was hostess on Wednesday afternoon when the regular meeting of St. James Anglican church W.A. was held, Mrs. E. Timlin, president, presided.

Mrs. R. B. Nichol, treasurer, reported receipt of $5.57 egg donation; $15.00 from autograph quilt blocks; and $1.40 collection. She also reported affiliation fees paid. The travelling suit case was closed for the season.

Members were asked to bring donations for bale for Western relief to the November meeting. Mrs. T. McCracken donated a quilt top, and other materials to complete the quilt were donated by Mrs. Frank Brown, Mrs. James S. Brown, Mrs. H. J. McCracken, and Mrs. C. Braithwaite.

A donation of $7.45 was made towards purchase of Sunday School supplies.

The Deanery meeting held recently at Campbellford, was attended by Mrs. E. Timlin, Mrs. J. Webb, Mrs. R. McCracken and Mrs. W. Houghtailing. Mrs. McCracken presented a report of the activities of the local society at the Deanery meeting, and Mrs. J. Webb presented to the local society a report of the Deanery. Mrs. Webb's report stressed the great need for further missionary activities at home and abroad, especially in China.

Mrs. Frank Brown gave a resume of the fourth chapter of the Study Book, "Consider Africa." Africa of today and David Linvingstone's day, were compared. She also touched on the products of the country. The youth of Africa, their work in the mines, their moral life, and temptations faced, were well dealt with.

Mrs. Edgar Braithwaite read a story "Homecoming"; Miss Eunice Webb read a humorous story, and Miss Luella Timlin sang a solo, playing her guitar accompaniment. Contests were arranged by Mrs. Earl Braithwaite, and Miss Doreen Nichol, Rev. Wm. Stocks, rector, contributed piano instrumentals.

Following the benediction, pronounced by the rector, Mrs. Hallett, assisted by Misses Valda and Eunice Webb, served refreshments, and the usual social hour was enjoyed.

The November meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. R. B. Nichol, with Mrs. W. Houghtailing and Mrs. C. Braithwaite, as program committee.

TRENT RIVER

Rev. Dr. Smith, of Pickering, addressed the congregation Sunday afternoon, choosing the topic "The Gospel: Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel, the message God has for man." The speaker emphasized the fact that the power of the church is in the Gospel. Dr. Smith has travelled extensively but never missed the pulpit in 45 years. He served as captain in the British Navy.

The Young People's League meeting will be held Friday night. Rev. Mr. Kemp proposes to take up the study of the Life of Jesus beginning Friday night and thus help the young people to a higher view in life.

A car will be on the C.P.R. tracks Saturday to be loaded with fruit and vegetables for the Western relief situation. Assistance is asked for from any of the congregations.

Group 2 of the Ladies Aid are holding a quilting and pot luck supper in the church dining hall Wednesday. The quilts will be set up for quilting at 10 a.m.

Recent visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hendren were Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Payne, Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Payne of Peterborough.

Mrs. Joseph Tedford is still confined in Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough, where her condition is improving.

Mr. Gerald Buchanan, who has been confined to bed through illness, at Port Hope, has made a good recovery and is able to resume his teaching duties.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Hoffman and Mr. C. Hurlock, have returned to East Cleveland, Ohio, after a week, guests at Maple Inn Cook Cottage.

Mr. Will Christie, of Toronto, Spent the week-end at his cottage.

The Seymour West Women's Institute meeting will be held Thursday, October 21st, at the home of Mrs. A. M. Anderson. There will be an exhibit of Hallowe'en accessories. The program for September and October will be combined for this meeting. Roll call "Something to be thankful for."

Mr. and Mrs. John Bailey, of Stirling, were recent visitors with Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Inkster.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Thain and sons, of Warkworth, returned Sunday to their home, after spending a few days with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Thain.

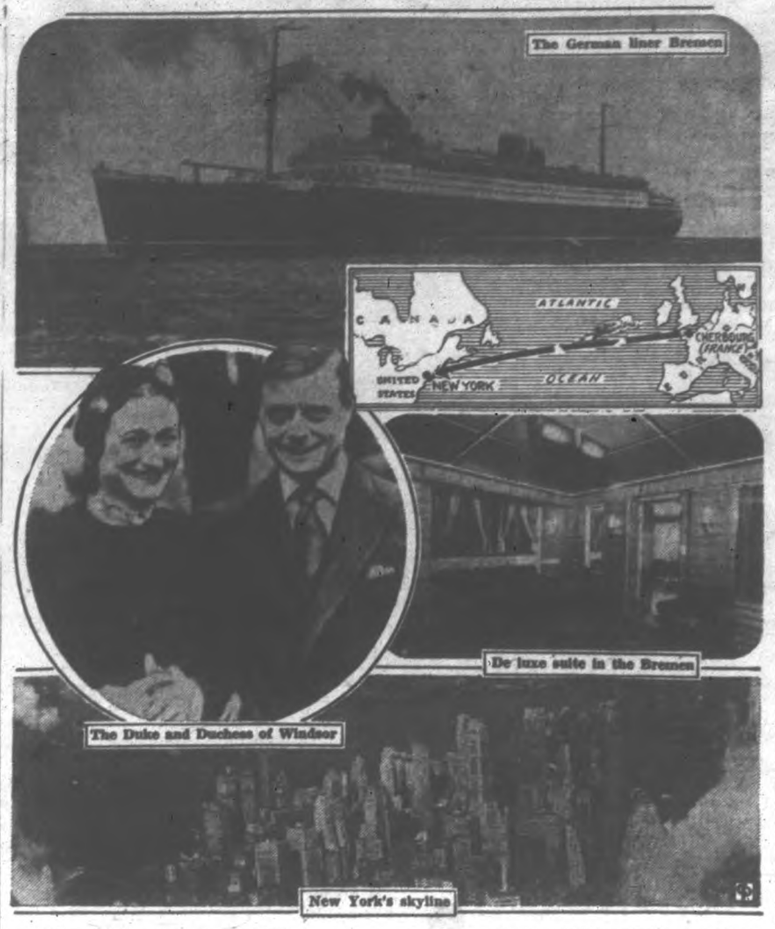
Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Lean and family spent Sunday with relatives at Baltimore.

STRIKE AVERTED

TORONTO, Oct. 25—(CP)—M. M. MacBride, Ontario Labor minister announced yesterday threatened strike of Toronto milk drivers had been averted.

The minister and his officials conferred with John Kellythornebn, president of the Drivers' Union, and announced "we have reached an understanding that there will be no general strike. The union has accepted the offices of the Labor department with a view to making an amicable settlement."

Windsors To Sail For United States On November 6



The Duke and Duchess of Windsor are due to arrive at New York with their entourage on Nov. 11, Armistice Day, to begin their American visit. The much-discussed couple probably will be surrounded by too many reporters and cameramen to view New York's skyline. They are scheduled to sail from Cherbourg, France, Nov. 6, aboard the German liner Bremen. The Duke selected this vessel because it will not touch an English port after sailing from Cherbourg.

Three Persons Owe Their Lives To Dog Three Others Drowned, Boat Upsets

PORT COQUITLAM, B.C., Oct. 25 (C.P.). — Three persons owed their lives to-day to Bunnie,brown and white springer spaniel, who pulled them to safety when a boating accident claimed four victims yesterday at Pitt Lake, 10 miles from here.

Bodies of David Henderson and Mansell Reece of this Fraser Valley town and of Joe Fountaine of nearby Silver Valley Gun Club were not recovered. A physician made an unsuccessful effort to revive four-year-old Marie Routley, whose mother was rescued by the dog.

Bunnie was in a 12-foot boat which overturned and sank with eight persons aboard. Emil Anderson and Mrs. Harold Routley were towed to shallow water and safety by clinging to the spaniel's long coat. With him Anderson carried five-year-old Jacqueline Hayes, whose mother, Mrs. Robert Hayes, was rescued by Cliff Thompson who put out in a launch.

HASTINGS CHOSEN FOR ANNUAL RALLY

(Examiner Correspondence.)

Mr. Fred Roy of Peterborough, will present a coronation pageant in the Hastings' Town Hall, on Tuesday evening, October 26, under the auspices of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church. The pictures which are being presented in many places are worthy of praise and are admired by all who are privileged to attend.

The W.M.S. of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church held their monthly meeting on Thursday afternoon in the basement of the church. After the business was transacted, Mrs. D. K. Perrie gave a very pleasing piano instrumental. Mrs. Charles Dodd, the president, gave as a very interesting reading, "The Child Leader."

The Society accepted the invitation of the Havelock W.M.S. to attend their meeting.

The Hastings W.M.S. on invitation from Warkworth, decided to hold the sectional meeting in Hastings, which includes Campbellford, Havelock, Norwood, Hastings and Warkworth. The date has not been decided as yet. The meeting closed with the Lord's Prayer.

The A.Y.P.A. of St. George's church held their first meeting for the fall term on Monday evening, October 17th, when plans were made to hold a Hallowe'en party on Monday evening, November 1. The schedule of programs for the next four months to the beginning of Lent will be arranged for the motto of the Society is "For Christ and the Church" and it is worked out along the lines of the basic principles: Worship, Work, Fellowship and Edification.

U.S. FREIGHT RATE INCREASE GRANTED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25—(AP). — Executives of the United States class one railroads, granted a $47,500,000 freight rate increase, indicated today they will ask the interstate commerce commission to approve a further increase of possibly 10 times that amount.

Railway officials accepted the higher rates announced yesterday by the commisston as only a fraction of what they need to meet higher operating costs.

Wage increases in recent months, the carriers contended, added $135,000,000 to their annual outgo, or three times the extra income approved by the I.C.C.

J. J. Pelley, president of the Association of American railroads, said the organization may file a petition for an additional rate increase next Thursday.

Without additional increases, said President William M. Jeffers of the Union Pacific, the railroads may be "forced back into government operation."

In Chicago, Chairman Harry Guy Taylor of the Western Association of railway executives said the increases would go largely to eastern lines.

NO MORE CONCESSIONS

TORONTO, October 25—(CP).—Veterans who fought on opposite sides in the Great War last night cheered and took up the cry: "No more war," uttered by Dr. F. Zeidler, president of the German War Veterans, at their annual banquet, attended by German, British, Belgian, French and Italian veterans.

"If all the statesmen of the world would get together and make whoopee the way we do, everything would be all right," said Dr. Zeidler.

HITLER, DUCHESS BECOME FRIENDS 2-HOUR TEA VISIT

BERCHTESGADEN, Germany, Oct. 25—(AP).—Chancellor Hitler played host to the Duke and Duchess of Windsor Saturday. The couple visited him for two hours in his country home in the climax of their 13-day tour of Germany.

Hitler awaited them on the steps leading to his home and showed them around the estate after a 20-minute talk with the Duke and tea on the balcony.

Members of the entourage reported the Duchess was visibly impressed with the Fuehrer's personality and he apparently indicated they became fast friends by giving her an affectionate farewell.

He took both of her hands in saying good-bye, after which he stiffened to a rigid Nazi salute which the Duke returned.

Woman Bites Policeman.

MUNICH, Oct. 25.—(CP-Havas)—A woman believed to be English, angrily bit a policeman's hand last night when prevented from offering a bouquet to the Duke and Duchess of Windsor, who arrived here by train from a two-hour visit to Chancellor Hitler.

Plainclothesmen guarding the station had a hard time subduing the woman, who kept shouldering her way toward the couple.

LAD BADLY CUT IN FOXBORO CRASH

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Oct. 25. — Two automobiles were badly damaged after sideswiping north of the village of Foxboro early last evening. Although no serious injuries resulted, Donald Phillips, 12-year-old youngster, sustained a nasty gash on his forehead when he crashed headlong through the windshield, and his mother, Mrs. George Phillips, both of West Huntingdon, suffered minor injuries. The injured persons received medical attention in Foxboro.

Mrs. Phillips and her son were riding in a motor car driven northerly by a neighbor, Thomas Elliott, of West Huntingdon, and were proceeding towards their home about 8 p.m., when a car driven in a southerly direction by Stanley Lavender, of the Village of Millbridge, sideswiped the north-bound vehicle.

The entire left sides of both cars were badly damaged, Mr. Elliott's car careening into the east ditch.

Provincial Police investigated the accident, and the matter of charges pending are in the hands of the Crown Attorney, who received a report of the accident.

Found Dead in Swamp.

John Johnson, 83-year-old resident, missing from his home in the Village of Hartington, County of Frontenac, since the 12th of October, was found dead late on Thursday afternoon. The aged man's body, upright and mired to the waist in the mud of a small creek, was found by a hunter and trapper, Russel Revelle, who was passing through the flooded swamps, which extend over a large portion of that county.

Two hundred men had searched for Johnson and a party had passed a few feet from where the body was found. It was not determined how long the aged man had been dead. The spot where the body was located was not far from the village, and it is possible that he might have wandered for days in the swamp country before succumbing to exhaustion, hunger and exposure. The remains had to be carried a mile to a road.

The aged man was last seen alive on the afternoon of the 12th of October, when a farmhand found him wandering across a field and set him on the road back to the village.

WELCOME GEN. BOOTH

WINNIPEG, Oct. 25—(CP)—General Evangeline Booth, head of the Salvation Army, was given a civic welcome here Saturday when she arrived to attend the Canadian Prairie Salvation Army Officers' conference. She will leave for Montreal Saturday night.

Only woman in the world to be called General, Evangeline Booth, commander of 3,000,000 soldiers of the international organization, was welcomed on behalf of the city by Alderman C. R. Smith.

to me. I won't deny it. . . . But it was more a vague apprehension than a concrete fear. Put it like this, Harold—if I were in her place, the question would arise in my own mind, whether it was worth going on. . . . I don't say I'd choose suicide, but the issue would be a real one. And I've wondered if Esther's mind works the same way. I don't pretend to have an absolute understanding of her. I doubt of a man ever understands a woman completely, however close they are. . . ."

Arkwright nodded his understanding. "Have you never tried to find out from her direct?"

"Good heavens, no—God forbid that I should put such a thought into her head."

"I see your point. But all the same it's a pity you didn't. . . . You're on the wrong track, Tim, and if only I'd realized before I could have saved you a lot of anxiety. You can get this fear out of your head entirely. Esther has no suicidal tendency whatever. As an uncle of hers, I've known her since she was a child, and I'm quite positive. . . . She's under the weather now, maybe, but she'll win out of it. I never knew anyone with a stronger will to live. She'd never have survived the early stages without it, Tim, you must see that."

"Yes, I suppose so."

Tim felt suddenly tired, as if all the power had been drained out of him.

"It was stupid of me to worry. I see now the idea's absurd."

Quite hopeless now. He would never dare to fly in the face of so positive an assertion. . . . They strolled back to Esther, who greeted them gaily.

"Well, Uncle Harold, has Tim told you the secret?"

"What secret?"

"I don't know. You must ask Tim."

"What's all this about a secret?" Tim inquired.

That's what I'd like to know. Come on, Tim, tell us."

"Tell us what?"

"Why you've been so mysterious today."

"But I haven't been mysterious."

"Oh, yes, you have. Item one." She checked off the points on her fingers. "You spent the whole of this heavenly morning scribbling away in the library. Item two—you suddenly dashed away from the table at lunch, in the middle of your soup. No proper explanation offered. Item three—mysterious disappearance immediately after lunch. No explanation at all. Item four—you seize Uncle Harold before he'd had time to digest his tea, and whisk him off as if we were in a bad play, and I had to be left alone for my big scene. . . . Honestly, Uncle Harold, didn't he come across?"

Arkwright shook his head.

"Not a single word."

"Then what do you think it is?"

"I don't know. Something sinister, I expect."

"I know—he's writing a book. A detective story. . . . Are you writing a detective story, Tim?"

"Ah!" he said.

Yes, quite hopeless now. . . . Two hours later, as he tore up the letter into tiny fragments, and pulled the water-closet plug upon them, he reflected bitterly that Esther had earned her reprieve. . . . Or rather, postponement; for there was to be no commutation of the sentence. His mind was already busy again.

ROWE AFTER FEDERAL NOMINATION IN OLD RIDING

HOUSE LEADER TO BE SETTLED SPECIAL CAUCUS

Henry Offers to Quit If It Will Aid Rowe

TORONTO, Oct. 26 (CP).—There was no indication today who would be next Conservative leader in the Ontario Legislature. The question will be decided by a caucus of Conservative members before the session.

While the party leader, Hon. Earl Rowe, decided yesterday to continue as leader without seeking a legislative seat, he also instructed the Whip to call a caucus to select a House leader.

Former Premier George S. Henry, House leader in the last Legislature and re-elected member for York East in the October 6 general election, will be one to received serious consideration, it was believed.

"I told Mr. Rowe yesterday that if it would solve his problem I would resign and he told me he did not want me to resign and that if he took a seat in the House he wanted me there with him," Mr. Henry said today in an interview.

But the former Premier did not say if he aspired to be party leader again in the House.

SHOT AT TRUCKER GETS GUNMAN $500

DETROIT, Oct. 26 (CP).—Police said today William Bommarito, paroled convict, alleged to have shot and killed his mother-in-law and wounded his wife here last week, was the bandit who fired at a suburban Dearborn fruit merchant early today and escaped with $500 cash and $265 in cheques.

"I'm desperate. I'll kill you if you don't hand your money," Joe Moceri, the fruit-dealer, said the bandit told him. He said the thug then fired a shot through the window of his truck. The affair occurred in the driveway of Moceri's home.

Bommarito is said to have killed his mother-in-law, Mrs. Fox, when she attempted to reach a telephone as he allegedly fired at his estranged wife, Constance, 23, who is now in hospital.

At that time, police believed Bommarito was possibly heading for the Canadian border, and Customs officials at Windsor and Sarnia were warned to be on the lookout. A description of the man has been sent various municipalities, police said.

GIRL NOT WIDOW IS CLAIM MADE

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 26—The 14-year-old bride and the widow of 17, reportedly held by Peterborough City Police on charges of vagrancy, are both well known in this Northumberland county town.

A check-up reveals that the story told by the younger of the pair about her age and marriage is substantially correct, though there is no record of the older girl having been married or widowed.

The 14-year-old was reported to have last attended school here in September, 1936. She was then rated around 13 years of age. She was married during the past summer at a local parsonage, with the girl's mother as one of the attendants. After the wedding the 14-year-old bride and her husband left here on a honeymoon trip that reportedly took them as far as Havelock. There they are stated to have pitched a tent on a swampy piece of ground east of the C.P.R. yards.

The romance was short-lived, for after a brief spell at housekeeping in their tent home, the husband allegedly set out for a lumber camp north of Havelock Village, leaving the little bride to look after herself.

Her 17-year-old companion in distress left school about two years ago when in senior third, and in the intervening period it is said her parents endeavored to keep her at home without success. She told them she was in domestic service at Peterborough.

Informations Are Thought Stolen From Court Clerk

Papers Relating to Liquor Control Act Charges Removed From Office of Toronto Court Clerk

TORONTO, Oct. 26—(CP)—Disappearance of an unknown number of informations and remand charges from the office of a police court clerk gave police a knotty problem today.

The papers, relating to several persons charged with offences under the Liquor Control Act and to several remand cases, disappeared Friday, it was learned today. The loss was said not to be serious.

"There are only a few missing, reckless driving and liquor cases, and the information is still on our records," Magistrate Arthur L. Tinker said. "We are hardly even inconvenienced by the loss."

CONACHER'S LEAD CUT TO 37 VOTES

TORONTO, Oct. 26.—An appeal against the decision of Judge Ian Macdonnell in the Bracondale recount proceedings may be lodged with the Appellate Court by Russell Nesbitt, defeated Conservative candidate. The recount argument by counsel concluded yesterday with Lionel Conacher's majority set at 37.

Mr. Nesbitt consulted his legal advisors on conclusion of the recount and while no announcement was made, it is believed there is a strong possibility that a judge of the Supreme Court may be asked to adjudicate on the legal points raised during the argument before Judge Macdonnell.

Under the Election Act an appeal may be made within forty-eight hours of a decision, and it is likely steps will be taken by counsel for Mr. Nesbitt either today or tomorrow. Many of the former Conservative member's friends are urging him to appeal the judgment, believing that it stands a good chance of being upset by the higher court.

AFTER GAS TAX

KINGSTON, Ont., Oct. 26 (CP)—Session of the royal commission on transportation in Kingston is being asked by the city council. The decision of the council was made with a view to getting a portion of the gasoline tax for the upkeep of provincial highway No. 2, which passes through Kingston.

It is likely that Belleville, Napanee, Gananoque and Brockville will be asked to join Kingston in the request.

2 NICKELS FOR $1,000

HAMILTON, Ont., Oct. 26 (C.P.).—If the Los Angeles banker who offered Carroll Wade of Mexia, Tex., $1,000 for a 1913 Buffalo nickel communicates with Gerald Burrows of Hamilton, he can have two of them at that price.

It was reported from Mexia on Saturday 13-year-old Carroll was sitting tight and waiting for the "highest bid." Burrows said last night he had found two of the rare United States coins and that he would part with both of them for $1,000 pretty quickly, too.

JAPS TAKE TAZANG KEY CHINESE TOWN, THREATEN CHAPEI

SHANGHAI, Oct. 26. — (AP) — Japanese forces today occupied Tazang, a key Chinese defence position five miles north of Shanghai, and fought their way to several points on the Shanghai-Nanking railroad.

Severing the railway made Chinese withdrawal from Chapei and Kiangwang impossible along that route. Chapei, on the northern border of the International Settlement, and Kiangwan, north of Shanghai, have been chief centres of Chinese resistance.

The Japanese advance followed air and artillery bombardments which ploughed up acres of barbed wire entanglements and levelled bitterly contested Tazang and other villages. Japanese were said to have occupied the Chengju radio station, on the western border of Chapei.

After reaching first objectives, the Japanese columns spread out in an effort to pull the strings of the bag where stubborn Chinese still defended Chapei and Kiangwan.

The Japanese navy spokesman announced "the entire Japanese naval air force in the Shanghai area has been mobilized to assist the army by bombarding intensively all Chinese positions facing the Imperial army."

150 Planes in Raids

Although Japanese authorities refused to state the number of planes participating, foreign military observers counted 49 in the air at one time and estimated 150 were engaged in the day-long bombardments.

Despite the threat defenders of Chapei and Kiangwan would be surrounded, the Chinese spokesman said, "For the time being" no withdrawal orders would be issued. He said new supply lines to the rear had been opened.

The spokesman announced a "strategic withdrawal" from Miaohong because of developments at Tazang, and said new lines were being formed north of the Kiangwan racecourse.

The swift lunges of Japanese flying columns made it impossible to determine just where the Shanghai-Nanking Railway was broken, but foreign observers believed the break was near Nanziang, eight miles west and slightly north of Chetei.

Chinese were expected to form new defence lines on a triangle between the Shanghai-Nanking and Shanghai-Hangchow railroads immediately facing the International Settlement.

That contingency would shift the battlefield to the borders of the settlement western section, close to the French concession. St. Johns University, in the path of the Japanese, advance, was evacuated.

George VI Pledges Fight For Peace China, Spain

Promises Air Raid Protection At Home, More Help For Needy In Opening Parliament

LONDON, Oct. 26.—(CP) — The Speech from the Throne read by King George at the opening of Parliament to-day, pledged the government to attempts to restore peace to China and Spain.

At the same time, the speech promised air raid protection at home and forecast more help for needy families.

King George opened his first Parliament from the Throne dais in the House of Lords—with Queen Elizabeth in a chair of state at his side—and concluded with this benediction:

"I pray that under the blessings of Almighty God the outcome of your deliberations may advance the happiness and well being of my people and the peace of the world."

The speech began with: "My relations with foreign powers to be friendly."

It told the assembled Lords and Commons that the King had invited King Leopold of Belgium to visit him in November and King Carol of Rumania next spring.

Then it dealt with the wars on two continents:

"My Ministers have followed with growing concern the continuance of the conflict in Spain. It is their aim to do everything which lies in their power to assist towards restoration of peace among the Spanish people. They believe that strict application of the International policy of non-intervention in Spain will materially contribute to this end.

Watching the Orient.

"My position in the Far East will continue to engage the earnest attention of my Government, who will persist in their policy of attempting, in co-operation with other Governments, whether members of the League of Nations or not, to mitigate the suffering caused by the conflict and to bring it to a conclusion."

DEMANDS ENGLAND USE DUKE BETTER

LONDON, Oct. 26 (AP).—The Liberal News Chronicle in an article asserting the Duke and Duchess of Windsor's trips to Germany and the United States have "given rise to a swarm of rumors and speculations" yesterday urged the government to "regularize" its relations with the former king.

Under the heading, "The Duke and the Future," by a News Chronicle political writer, A. J. Cummings, the newspaper said:

"The deep-seated belief especially abroad that relations between Edward and the British Government are strained and even bitter is bad for British prestige; in particular the effect on colored races of the Empire is bad."

The article asked the government to "get rid of the grotesquely furtive official attitude toward the Duke, break down reluctance to breathe his name or even recognize his existence, to enable him eventually to return to England as a useful citizen and close with dignity the last chapter of the abdication."

PAROLE SYSTEM BADLY FUMBLED DRAPER CHARGES

By John Leblanc
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

MONTREAL, Oct. 26 (CP)—The law must keep a jump ahead of the criminal, J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the United States G-Men, warned in a paper prepared for delivery today to the International World Police convention.

Not only in crime's scientific aspects but even in the business of handling a gun it was up to the policeman to out-distance his criminal quarry, Hoover said in his paper, prepared for submission to more than 50 law enforcement chiefs from many countries. Otherwise, he said, crime would take advantage of any let-up.

"It is our duty to prepare our traps before the vicious animals of depredation establish their game trails," he said.

Hoover's special agents, he said, are trained as "marksmen and sharpshooter." They are proficient in the revolver, the rifle, sawed-off shotgun, riot gun, tear gas gun and machine gun. They shoot only when necessary. But when they do, the No. 1 G-Man said, it is with "the knowledge that the job will not be attempted in vain."

Firm Handling Needed

To Hoover's outline of ways of catching the criminal, Chief Constable D. C. Draper of Toronto added an exhortation that Canada not be too soft on her criminals; once they are convicted. He declared in another paper that he "definitely took issue" with those who "shed crocodile tears for the criminal, and forget the innocent victim of his lawless acts."

To "foist" repeater criminals upon society before the completion of their full term constituted a "menace." But with proper co-ordination between police and parole boards it should be possible to avoid "mishandling of criminal cases."

There had been fumbling of the parole system, the Toronto chief said. "The glaring mishandling of parole in this, and maybe other, countries," he declared, "is a condemnation of administrative policies which permitted it, and should be ample proof that drastic reforms in the parole system are long overdue."

From Charles A. Wheeler, superintendent of police in Bridgeport, Conn., the police executives heard a plea for a worldwide system of police radio communication.

Especially between Canada and the United States and the other countries of North America, the Connecticut chief said, there should be "an adequate system, for the transmission of messages—over our imaginary border lines."

ELIXIR SHELVED AS DEATHS REACH 46 ACROSS STATES

CHICAGO, Oct. 26 (A.P.). — A Government official said to-day virtually all of the elixir of Sulfanilamide which caused 46 deaths in the United States has been removed from the market.

J. O. Clarke, Chief of the Central States Division of the United States Food and Drug Administration, said Federal investigators had confiscated or accounted for all principal shipments of the preparation, 700 bottles, mostly pint size.

Five deaths in Georgia, and one each at Madisonville, Tex., Copley, O., Cary, Miss., Clayton, Ala., and St. Louis, Mo., were the latest reported to the American Medical Association.

Dr. Morris Fishbein, the association's spokesman, said other deaths were being investigated to determine whether they were caused by the preparation.

TWO COMMITTED LONDON MURDER

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 26 (CP). — Preliminary hearing was waived today in the murder charge against Lauchlin Robertson and his wife Emily and the London couple were committed for trial by Magistrate Donald Menzies.

The middle-aged factory watchman and his wife are charged with the death of Mary Wilkinson, whose body was found floating in the Thames River, September 14. The Crown alleges the 37-year-old public school teacher died Septebmer 9 after an illegal operation.

Dr. Charles A. Cline, 70, was committed for trial on a similar charge Saturday.

When the case of the husband was called today his counsel, Alex. Fergusson advised the Magistrate of his client's wish to forego hearing in the lower court. His Worship decided, however, to take the waiver from the gray-haired defendant himself.

This was done and Mrs. Robertson was then brought into court. The woman's voice broke as she declared her willingness to waive the hearing.

All three defendants have been in custody since September 19.

Will Remain Leader Ontario Party Till Convention

Believes He Can Organize Best From Outside; Speaks Plainly in Heated 15-Hour Tory Caucus

TORONTO, Oct. 26—(CP)—Hon. Earl Rowe, Ontario Conservative leader, today announced he would stand for nomination at the Dufferin-Simcoe Conservative convention this afternoon. The conventionwas called to select a Conservative candidate for the November 15 federal by-election.

The Dufferin-Simcoe riding was represented in the last House of Commons by Mr. Rowe who resigned the seat to lead the Conservative forces in the October 6 Ontario elections. His party suffered defeat and Mr. Rowe lost out in Simcoe Centre to Hon. Dr. L. J. Simpson, Minister of Education.

Following a lengthy Conservative caucus yesterday, it was announced Mr. Rowe would continue head of the Ontario Conservatives. In announcing his intention of seeking the nomination in Dufferin-Simcoe, Mr. Rowe to-day said:

"Under the present circumstances I can best reorganize the Conservative pirty in Ontario from the outside. In order to justify my actions with the rank and fyle of the party and vindicate my record in public life I propose to let my name go before the Liberal-Conservative convention in my home constituency of Dufferin-Simcoe to represent that riding for the approaching session of the House of Commons."

Province-Wide Parley

Early today in a statement that followed 15½ hour caucus of members-elect, Mr. Rowe recommended that the Conservative party "give consideration to future leadership and policy at a province-wide convention." Meanwhile, he will direct party policy from outside the House, perhaps again as a member of the Dominion Parliament.

The caucus, attended by 21 of the 23 Conservative members-elect, began at 11 a.m. yesterday and wound up at 2.30 o'clock this morning. Mr. Rowe left the caucus room several times so the members would feel free to discuss the propositions he put before them.

He made no public announcement that he would be a candidate for the nomination at today's Dufferin-Simcoe Conservative convention to pick a candidate for the by-election made necessary by Mr. Rowe's resignation from the federal house when he entered the Ontario campaign.

May Run For Federal House

Several attending the caucus said afterward he would be a candidate for the federal seat.

The young, graying farmer who has run the political revenue from township reeve to the federal cabinet and then made an unsuccessful bid for the premiership of Ontario, talked plainly to the caucus, the delegates indicated, about need for party reorganization. In return he heard plain talk about necessity for leadership of the party in the legislature by a member.

At the caucus gathering, it was learned, Mr. Rowe began by reading a letter he had prepared, but not

SKILLED WORKERS SCARCE IN ONTARIO LABOR HEAD SAYS

OTTAWA, Oct. 26.—(CP)— J. F. Marsh, Ontario Deputy Minister of Labor, told the Ottawa Board of Trade last night "we are short of skilled workers in every part of this province."

He warned there would "come day, if something is not done, when the wheels of industry will be at a standstill because of a shortage of mechanics and skilled operators."

Technical school of the province were doing good work but the educational system should be revamped. "In reply to criticism of indifference, carelessness and in ability on the part of young men going out to get a job, I wish to say they cannot go out and get a job because the employer wants a skilled worker," he said.

"Our educational system does not provide the opportunity of learning the skilled trades. We should set up special classes for skilled training but we must have the cooperation of the employers if we are to have trained operators to carry on the work of this country. While there is opportunity to learn a trade." He said technical schools taught only fundamentals of a trade, and what was needed was the teaching of the technique.

40 Pupils Strike Over Football

STELLARTON, N.S., Oct. 26. — (CP).—School authorities believed 40 students of Stellarton High School would return to their desks today, after a one-day "strike" in protest against regulations preventing their football team from playing games outside Pictou County.

All but three students stopped work yesterday and walked out of the school after their demands for a wider scope for their team were refused. The strikers declared the Stellarton high team — in second place in the Pictou County High School League—should be allowed to arrange games with teams outside the county.

Authorities believed the students had called the "strike" to "show how they felt about their requests" rather than with any idea of prolonging it to enforce their demands. Investigation by the School Board was expected.

3-Point Peace Plan Presented By CIO

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26—(AP).—The Committee for Industrial Organization submitted a three-point peace plan to-day to the American Federation of Labor at their joint peace conference.

The proposal called for establishment of an "autonomous" department within the A.F. of L. to include industrial unions in the mass production, marine, public utilities, service and basic fabricating industries.

Workers in these industries would be organized only on an industrial basis, as opposed to the traditional craft union organization policy of the A.F. of L.

KINGSTON, Ont., Oct. 26.(CP)—Kingston City Council at their meeting last night decided to abolish the statute labor tax that has been in effect here for some time. It was said the revenue from the tax was approximately $2,000 last year.

Bennett Relief Charges Stir Heated Denial By Gardiner

Minister Suspects Tory Chief's Claim Inspired By Memory Of Winnipeg Celebration

OTTAWA, Oct. 26 (C.P.). — Back from a visit to Western Canada, Minister of Agriculture Gardiner replied to charges made by Conservative Leader Bennett to the effect Mr. Gardiner was using relief funds for the purpose of building a political machine in Saskatchewan.

His reply was a denial and an assertion the only time relief in Saskatchewan was distributed by a political-controlled organization was when Mr. Bennett was in office at Ottawa and the Anderson Conservative regime held power at Regina.

Mr. Bennett's charges were made in a speech at Brandon while Mr. Gardiner was at Regina attending a meeting of the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Committee. The minister arrived in Ottawa to-day with agreements between the provinces and the Dominion covering drought rehabilitation for approval by the Federal Cabinet.

The Old Set-up.

Commenting on the Bennett speech Mr. Gardiner said:

"Previous to the provincial election of 1934 there was an organization set up by the Provincial Government and financed by the Federal Government to handle relief in Saskatchewan.

Radium Discovered In Port Arthur

Port Arthur, Oct. 26 (CP)

DOMINION Geologist Dr. T. L. Tanton reported today he found radium in the rock formation comprising the hill on which part of Port Arthur is built.

The radium was contained in ash from the mineral called anthroxolite, which is practically all carbon and like anthracite in appearance. The geological survey at Ottawa has commissioned a local mining engineer to gather samples so that further examination may be made with a view to determining whether the mineral is available in commercial quantities.

Streetsville, Ont., Oct. 26 (CP)

GRACE Wolfe, 18-year-old daughter of a prominent farmer here, received a note last night signed "the Streetsville Ghouls" warning the family of the late Hayden Pope the writers "would be over to see them some night soon."

Chief Constable Fred Elderfield took charge of hte note and declined comment. It was understood the word "ghouls" was spelt "shouls." It could not be learned how the note was delivered to Miss Wolfe.

Two weeks ago the grave of Pope, 21, was opened and the body taken away. A note demanding $100 for its return was left in the casket. The body subsequently was found in a ditch seven miles from Streetsville, which is 20 miles southwest of Toronto.

Mexican Interference Is To Go Before The Radio Parley

Havana Meet Will Arrange Equitable Distribution Of Broadcasting Wave Lengths

OTTAWA, Oct. 26 (C.P.).—Canada's delegation to the North American Conference on Radio Wave Lengths leaves here to-day for Havana, Cuba, where the conference opens on November 1.

The conference, designed to arrange an equitable distribution of broadcasting wave lengths, will be attended by representatives of Canada, United States, Mexico, and some Central American countries. It will continue the work done at the last conference in the spring of 1936 when a technical basis for allocating frequencies was settled. The delegates return this time with the official views of their Governments on the arrangements agreed upon then.

Among the matters to be raised will be elimination of interference by powerful Mexican stations in Western Canada and the Toronto area and allocation of channels for Canada's new 50,000-watt stations.

SEAGRAM IMPROVES

KITCHENER, Ont., Oct. 26 (CP)—Condition of J. E. Prowde Seagram, well known Canadian turfman, was improved in hospital here today after an emergency operation over the week-end. His father, E. P. Seagram, well-known race-horse owner, died last winter.

Begging In Montreal Costs $11.05 Fee

Montreal, Oct. 26 (CP)

IT costs $11.05 to beg legally in Montreal, it was pointed out at City Hall today. Alderman George Layton requested no more permits be granted to blind beggars—and then it became known a beggar's permit cost $10 plus $1.05 surtax.

London "Listening Periods" For Pupils Aimed To Restore Lost Art

London, Ont., Oct. 26 (CP)

LONDON school officials are planning to introduce "listening periods" in public schools because they are convinced the ability to listen is rapidly becoming a lost art. The periods will be used to give the children impressions of great works of literature and history. Education authorities said the speed of modern times is responsible for the fact people generally do not know how to listen to speakers or musical programs.

The new program of studies inaugurated this year in primary schools of Ontario, permits of latitude in defining the outlining courses. In this city it is expected the reading of poetry will be part of the curriculum.

PARIS ON VERGE BOLTING PARLEY FOR LONE ACTION

Demands Duce Drop Morocco and Balearics

LONDON, Oct. 26 (U.P.).—France threatened last night to break away from her "united front" with Great Britain at to-day's meeting of the Non-Intervention Sub-Committee, unless Premier Mussolini is forced to abandon his Fascist hold on Spanish Morocco and the Balearic Islands.

Word of the new French stand was brought to the Foreign Office by Hugh Lloyd Thomas, pole-playing diplomat attached to the British Embassy in Paris, when he flew to London after consultations with French leaders.

France, angered by three new "pirate" attacks on her merchant shipping close to the Balearics, was ready to insist upon not only a swift agreement for withdrawing all foreign "volunteers" from Spain, but the curbing of Italian activity in Morocco and the islands.

Ready to Denounce Pledge.

Unless this settlement can be assured quickly the French Government, Thomas reported, is ready to denounce her "non-intervention" pledge and regain "full liberty of action."

This liberty of action probably would result in a re-opening of the Franco-Spanish frontier to the benefit of the Spanish Loyalists — and perhaps some counter-move in the Loyalist island of Minorca, where a French air-mail base was bombed by a "pirate" seaplane yesterday.

MICHAEL BECOMES AN ARMY OFFICER

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Oct. 26 (AP)—Crown Prince Michael got a firm but kindly lecture from his father, King Carol, yesterday as he celebrated his sixteenth birthday by becoming an army officer.

The King told his son, who stood at attention during ceremonies at Sinaia: "You are turning your back on the carefree days of youth. Henceforth, you are to be a man. You will have more duties than rights. I give you to the army, but don't think that thereby I am honoring the army. Rather the army is honoring you. Be worthy of your new uniform."

When he finished Michael saluted him with the sword, inscribed "For Defense of the Fatherland," given him by the War Ministry. The Agricultural Ministry gave him two polo ponies.

Return True Bills Belleville Cases

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Oct. 26 (CP) A true bill was returned by the grand jury in the case of Winfield H. Ross, charged with manslaughter. A petit jury was immediately formed this morning before Mr. Justice Nicol Jeffrey to hear the evidence.

The Crown alleges Ross was negligent in operating his automobile when Mrs. Emma Root of Tweed was killed on the Tweed-Belleville highway May 2.

A true bill was also returned against Gordon Coleman, charged with attempted rape. A number of jury cases involving motor accidents are down for decision at the fall assizes of the Supreme Court, which opened Monday.

PEDALLED 2,000 MILES

WINDSOR, Ont., Oct. 26 (CP)—John Roles and James Boak, both 19, have set an example for hitch-hikers by pedalling their bicycles 2,000 miles from their homes in Bruno, Sask., northeast of Saskatoon, to Windsor to find work. Their fathers' crops have been almost wiped out by the drought and jobs are scarce.

'Miracle' Evidence

Smiling, happy, freckled Peter Smith, ABOVE, 16-year-old Bronx boy, may seem just another ordinary boy to you, but to the highest officials of the Roman Catholic church Peter is a mortal in many millions. He is living evidence of a miracle, which now is being cited in the cause of the beatification of Mother Frances Xavier Cabrini, founder of the missionary sisters of the Sacred Heart, who died in Chicago in 1917. When Peter was but one hour old, the error of a nurse inflicted upon him blindness, bronchial pneumonia and third degree burns. Doctors said his case was hopeless, but in 72 hours he was well and unmarred. Credit for the miracle was given to a relic of Mother Cabrini which had been pinned on the apparently doomed infant. Peter is now studying for the priesthood at Cathedral college.

JAPAN MAY STRIKE AT RUSSIA NEXT

TOKYO, Oct. 26—(AP).—General Sadao Araki declared to-day that "it probably is necessary to strike directly at Russia" to eliminate the Communist influence which many Japanese claim to be the root of the present turmoil in China.

General Araki, who was Japan's fiery Minister of War during the Manchurian incident of 1932, advocated stern military measures in a gentle voice. He castigated Russian Communism while munching Russian bon-bons.

There are two principal causes of the present Chinese-Japanese conflict, the general told the Associated Press.

"The first comes from Chinese violation of the agreements signed after the 1932 fighting which provided a demilitarized zone about Shanghai," he said. As soon as possible Chinese built permanent fortifications and moved garrisons into them.

"Beneath this tangible fact lies the invisible influence of Communism," he continued. "Premier Chiang Kai-Shek first used Japanese aid in unifying China. Now he has decided to cast his lot with Communists. He has switched from one to the other several times in the past. Undoubtedly he memerly is using Communists now, and when no longer are available he will turn elsewhere — perhaps to Japan.

Jews In Poland Grow Uneasy Over Segregation Moves

Special Sections Reserved In Universities—Emigration To Palestine Pressed

(Editors: This is the second of a series of three articles dealing with the position of the Jew in some European countries.)

WARSAW, Oct. 26.—(AP).—The "classroom ghetto" has heightened anxiety of Poland's 3,500,000 Jews, long beset by a rising tide of anti-semitism.

This recent innovation to segregate Jews in Polish universities is looked upon apprehensively by the Jews as evidence of official yielding to anti-Jewish agitation.

For two years Jewish students struggled against unofficial attempts to force them to sit in segregated "Jewish sections" in class rooms and lecture halls. Rather than yield, they heard lectures standing.

But when the universities re-opened this fall, orders were issued by all rectors to mark seats distinctly with initials indicating which might be used by Christians and which by Jews.

A protesting delegation of Jewish deputies were told by the Minister of Education the purpose of the formal segregation was to end rioting growing out of friction between Jewish and Christian students.

Later, similar official segregation measures came to light in various sections of the country when gram-

BENNETT RELIEF CHARGES BRING HEATED DENIAL

bution of relief should not be under the control of an organization set up by either Government, but that distribution should be handled by the municipal councils irrespective of the municipal councils irrespective of their party alignment.

"After the election was over, the Relief Commission was abolished and the organization set up to distribute relief was disbanded. Since that time distribution has been in the hands of the municipal councils. The Federal Government has supplied funds to the province and the province has paid the accounts incurred by the municipalities.

"The only organization the Federal Government has is the necessary set-up to check and audit the expenditure of federal funds. My connection with the whole matter is that I am expected to see that no unnecessary expenditure of Federal money is made.

"It is very difficult to see how one could possibly set up a political organization in relation to what the Federal Government is doing.

The Winnipeg Celebration

"In view of the fact Mr. Bennett apparently went West to take part in a celebration at Winnipeg of the expenditure of $4,000,000 which his government allotted from relief funds in the election year to the city of Winnipeg I think it must have been an association of ideas which put the thought in his mind. He thought someone else was doing the same thing.

(At Winnipeg, Mr. Bennett attended the opening of a sewage disposal system started as a relief project with federal assistant during his term of office.

(At Brandon, Mr. Bennett said: "Concerning relief in Saskatchewan, money is being given by the people of Canada and being used to create a great political machine. How long can democratic government last with that sort of thing?")

"In the distribution of food which has recently been sent into the drought area," Mr. Gardiner continued, "we have set up a committee composed of Dr. E. W. Stapleford, until recently Principal of Regina College, as chairman; J. J. McGurran, secretary of the Association of Rural Municipalities; and F. H. Headly, chairman of the Voluntary Relief Committee.

No Political Tinge.

"These men have appointed as their committees in each municipality the Council of the municipality. The Federal Government is also paying the secretaries of the municipalities from the time the cattle movement started until November 1 to be our officials in connection with relief and assistance of every kind.

"It will be seen from this that our organization consists of the elected representatives of the municipalities and their employees and can in no way be looked upon as a political organization.

"The same system applied last year in Alberta and Manitoba as well as Saskatchewan and applies this year in Alberta. There is no drought relief in Manitoba this year.

"Saskatchewan is the only province in which it was ever done in any different way and that was during the time Mr. Bennett was in power at Ottawa and Mr. Anderson was in power at Regina."

WINNIPEG GRAIN

Late weakness at Chicago, attributed to uneasiness of stock markets, was reflected on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day, sending wheat futures from 3¼ cent high point to close 1⅝ to ⅞ cent higher, October at $1.26¼; November, $1.24; December, $1.19½ to ⅝; and May, $1.17⅛ to ¼.

Despite sales of Canadian wheat for export estimated around 750,000 bushels and reports of a fair crop trade in United States hard winter wheat buying thinned and trading turned dull near the close.

Southern interests reported on both sides of the market earlier, withdrew orders while profit-taking pared 3⅛ to 3¼ cent advances in mid-session deals.

MAJORITY OF JEWS STILL IN GERMANY WELL "MUZZLED"

(Editors: Following is the first of a series of three articles dealing with the position of the Jew in some European countries.)

BERLIN, Oct. 25—(AP). — The Jew has been eliminated politically by the Nazi regime, but he still is a factor in the German scene.

Since the Nazis came into power in 1933 approximately 100,000 Jews have emigrated, leaving—according to Jewish sources—some 400,000 still in Germany.

Nazi statisticians, however, contend all racial Jews should be included, even those the churches classify as Christians. They place the total at 500,000, with 200,000 in Berlin.

In either case, it is obvious the majority of Germany's Jews are still here, stripped of whatever political power, social prestige or cultural influence they have enjoyed in days before Chancellor Hitler rose to power.

It is impossible for a Jew to hold public office; he is not even classified as a citizen. He is merely a German subject.

Socially he is an outcast. Marriage or extra-marital relations between Jew and non-Jew can land the offender in jail.

Jewish actors, opera singers, playwrights and directors can perform or produce only for Jewish audiences. In other words, they are permitted to function only on a Ghetto basis.

No Jewish Articles.

All newspapers, of course, are under the direct or indirect control of the propaganda ministry. No Jew may edit or contribute to any one of them, unless it is a Jewish newspaper published only for the Jewish population.

Books by Jewish authors — even law books—are taboo for Germans. An exception is the Bible. It has not yet been forbidden, but there are churchmen who favor throwing the Old Testament overboard.

Jewish scholars and scientists no longer play a prominent role in German universities. Of 1,000 recently listed as emigrants, 270 have found posts in Great Britain, 239 in the United States, 52 in Palestine, 64 in France. The remainder were scattered among 42 countries.

In business the Jew is being eliminated more gradually. One by one the big Jewish department stores, restaurants and other establishments are passing into "Aryan" hands.

Acquitted In "Honor" Slaying

MR. AND MRS. JOHN DRENNAN, DAUGHTER MARGARET

Overwhelmed with joy, Mr. and Mrs. John Drennan embrace their daughter, Margaret, center, 20-year-old secretarial student, at New Brunswick, N.J., after she had been acquitted of the "honor slaying" of Paul Reeves, 25, father of two children. A jury of 11 men and one woman found the defendant "not guilty" after trial in which she testified she shot Reeves in his bungalow as Iselin, N.J., to ward off a second attack.

Ontario's Apple Crop Is Estimated 735,500 Barrels – Increase On 1936

TORONTO, Oct. 26—(CP).—Ontario's apple crop was estimated at 735,500 barrels in the agricultural department's fruit and vegetable crop report today. In eastern Ontario apple production was down 23 per cent from 1936 but in western Ontario it was up 28 per cent. The 1936 crop estimate was 703,500 barrels.

Peach crop was estimated at 523,000 bushels, 30 per cent above 1936, and the plum crop at 56,000 bushels, up 38 per cent. Pears were down, estimated yield being 157,400 bushels as against 197,800 in 1936.

The report says: Present fruit prices are generally below last year, particularly for pears, apples and plums, although pears exported to Britain have brought satisfactory returns. Prices for basket grapes have been unusually variable and following frost damage, grapes in bulk tumbled from 45 a ton to as low as $20.

Breaks His Arm In Cranking Car

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Oct. 26. — James Beamish, formerly of Saskatchewan, and who now intends taking up farming in Percy Township, had the misfortune to fracture his right arm on Friday while in Peterborough Mr. and Mrs. Beamish, in company with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Beamish, had completed their shopping and were ready to leave for Hastings, and while cranking his car, Mr. Beamish suffered a fracture of his wrist. He was taken to the Peterborough Clinic where he received medical attention.

PLAN FORECLOSURE ON DOUKHOBORS

YORKTON, Sask., Oct. 26—(CP).—Application of two mortgage companies for right of foreclosure on Doukhobor lands in the Verigin district, 25 miles north of this eastern Saskatchewan town, has led to the Saskatchewan Government recommending the lands be sold to individual Doukhobor members of the community who will hold title to the land.

In a letter received here to-day by A. C. Stewart of Yorkton, solicitor for the community, Hon. T. C. Davis, Provincial Attorney-General, recommened the foreclosure action be permitted to proceed but that pending the interim and final foreclosure order, the mortgage companies work out a plan of re-sale to the Doukhobor occupants of the lands before the final order is issued.

The Government also recommended that the companies arrange for formation of a committee of community members so that division of assets may meet with approval of the community.

A final recommendation urged community members to whom lands are sold be given agreements for sale and not lease options with the qualification that individual cases be decided upon by the debt adjustment board.

At a conference in Regina Saturday of company officials, Doukhobor representatives and Mr. Davis an agreement was reached granting a week's adjournment in the companies' application in Yorkton Judicial District for order of foreclosure.

Indebtedness against the land involved including mortgage principal, interest and taxes amounted to $142,498.

SCHOOL OFFICIAL JAILED FOR THEFT

STONEY POINT, Ont., Oct. 25.—(CP). — Henri Vezina, secretary-treasurer of the School Board of Separate School Section No. 1, Tilbury North Township, was arrested here during the week-end and charged with embezzlement of $2,100 in School Board funds. Stoney Point is approximately 30 miles east of Windsor.

Police said an audit of the school section's books was in progress, and the amount of the alleged defalcations may be increased. Bezina will be taken to Windsor to-day to face a charge of theft by conversion.

Vezina operates a general store here. Until several years ago he was manager of the Provincial Bank branch at Stoney Point, the bank in which the School Board's funds are kept, police said. Bezina resigned his position with the Bank to take over the store business he has been operating.

Armand Racine, Windsor counsel for Vezina, said he would ask for a remand to-day. He said the charge would not likely be proceeded with until the audit has been completed.

JAP AVIATOR GUNS NEUTRAL SHANGHAI KILLING BRITISHER

SHANGHAI, Oct. 26—(AP)—General Chiang Kai-Shek's Chinese troops stopped the Japanese juggernaut offensive today after six days and nights of heavy fighting on the Shanghai front.

Destruction of bridges, mining of highways, and acres of barbed wire entanglements halted the Japanese assault.

British authorities, as an aftermath of the slaying of a British soldier by a Japanese warplane yesterday, issued orders to all their defence posts to fire without hesitation in self-defence against any airplanes.

Simultaneously, British officials lodged two protests on the incident. Seven Americans and about a score of other foreigners were endangered yesterday when a Japanese plane sprayed machine gun bullets near the western edge of the international settlement.

Cross Creek At High Cost

Japanese succeeded in crossing Tsaomatang (trotting pony) creek after costly hand to hand fighting and dug in on the south bank in the face of reinforced Chinese resistance.

Foreign military experts said they believed Japanese will take a breathing spell to bring up heavy artillery with which to attempt a new drive toward Nanziang, well to the rear of Chinese lines.

The experts said they considered Chinese defending Kiangwan, northwest of Shanghai, in a dangerous position because of the possibility of their being cut off by a Japanese advance on Nanziang.

It yas asserted however, Kiangwan is of little military value and Chinese probably will withdraw from that sector as quickly as rear defence lines are strengthened.

Informed observers estimated 160,000 Japanese with superior mechanized equipment, planes and warships were engaged against 300,000 Chinese.

After Japanese warships bombarded the Kiangwan race course with considerable damage to the clubhouse and grandstands, Japanese infantry advanced from the civic centre and asserted they occupied territory on each side, including the Commercial University, with the race course a no man's land.

Two Protests

British officials lodged two official protests on the slaying of the British soldier.

Sir Charles Little, vice-admiral protested to Japanese Vice-Admiral Kiyoshi Hasegawa, and Herbert Phillips, British consul general, protested to Japanese consul general Suemasa Okamoto. The Japanese said a court of inquiry would meet to determine responsibility and possibly punish the pilot.

British disclosed they were referring the case to London and a Japanese official said the incident was being referred to Tokyo because it was "too big to be dealt with locally."

The affair, which brought the death of W. McGowan of the Royal Ulster Rifles, was described by British army authorities as a "deliberate attack." British soldiers returned the Japanese pilot's fire with automatic rifles.

Japanese naval officials said the airman fired on a British defence position along Keswick road under the mistaken impression it was a Chinese post. He swooped low over the road five times, spraying the road with machine gun bullets.

ALBERTA TRADE BEST SINCE 1918

CALGARY, Oct. 26—(CP).—Premier Aberhart Sunday told the Calgary Prophetic Bible Institute he was informed "Alberta leads the west in business improvement."

The Social Credit Premier said merchants' report showed this year was the best since 1918-19. Many reported sales 25 per cent higher than previous years, he added. Mr. Aberhart said the government had not disrupted business and it had made progress.

All government departments showed progress, Mr. Aberhart said. The Lands and Mines Department reported increased activity with improved development in the Turner Valley oil fields. The lumber industry was active and the Department of Education was making progress in establishing a new and modern program.

Critical of political opposition efforts to discredit his administration, the Premier said:

"I am satisfied the people will judge for themselves. The powers that be have determined Aberhart must be ousted.

"We are ready and willing, when the proper time comes to leave this matter to the people.

"Alberta is the only province," he added, "that has checked its debt-plunging practices in the last two years."

Mr. Hull was accorded an honorary degree from the University of Toronto during his visit to the city. Previously, while in Ottawa, Mr. and Mrs. Hull were given a state dinner by the governor-general.

Fear Campaign Is Bringing Results

TORONTO, Oct. 26—(CP)— Reduction "of the horrible carnage and needless waste" caused by automobile accidents was due largely to a newspaper campaign carried on during the past several months, Hon. T. B. McQuesten, Ontario highways minister, said today.

Although conclusive statistics were not complete, he said "there can be no question that the 'fear' campaign which the highways department has conducted has had a definite effect on the reduction of the horrible carnage and needless waste which has been stalking our highways."

CANADA THE SPOT FOR BRITISH CASH

LEEDS, Yorkshire, Oct. 26.—(CP).—Predicting Canada would be one of the most important places for future investment of British capital, Edgar Lee, general manager of a firm of chemical manufacturers, told a gathering of busines men here how to drum up Canadian trade.

He recently completed a tour of Canada and had been impressed by the intense leaning to Great Britain by Canadian who "are ready to do whatever they can to Foster trade with the mother country."

Canadian busines men were keen, he said. They expected salesmen from England to be equipped with technical knowledge of their wares, "an enormous" amount of typed literature and good letters of introduction. Mr. Lee also urged a general understanding of the physical aspects of Canada.

"I found out there that almost every busines sman knew the intimate affairs of almost every other business man in the same trade, even so far as 100 miles away," he declared.

"One had to be very discreet not to let some hint or remark escaped from one's lips about one's interviews with other business men."

Sound Advice

A young man of 17 years who faces a charge of shooting in Hamilton gave himself up to the authorities on the advice of Reg. Stott, secretary of the Big Brother movement in that city. Mr. Stott accompanied the sought-for young man to the police station. He had gone to Mr. Stott seeking advice regarding what to do, and it is tribute to Mr. Stott and the organization he represents that a youth wanted by the police on a serious enough charge should go and seek counsel from him.

And of course the advice was sound. It may not have been just what a young man facing such a predicament might want to hear. It may be he would have been interested in finding some other way out, but the known fact is that he was advised to give himself up and he went and did it.

Organizations doing that kind of work justify their existence in no uncertain way. If that is the Big Brother movement in a nutshell then we are all for it.

When A Paper Is 85

Brantford Expositor announces that it has had a birthday. And without a blush admits it is 85 years of age, but does not even give the date of the October day on which it was born. Nor does the paper celebrate elsewhere in its issue; no cake with 85 candles and no after-dinner addresses.

It did not take the Expositor 85 years to become a good newspaper, because it was in that class long ago. When the present building was first erected the top floor was reserved for the Oddfellows, but now it is Expositor from basement to the roof. There are more people in the place; more and greater machines, and more pages and material in the paper. When the present publisher, W. B. Preston, was still a young fellow home from college he was receiving his training under the hands of his father, the late T. H. Preston, and that was good training of the old and substantial type.

At that time there were four old typograph machines which set the type for the paper, while today on another floor there is a great battery of linotype machines. In the old days there used to be a double-feed Wharfdale in the basement at which two men stood to shove in sheets of paper after which the papers were run through a folder. Today a modern rotary pours out the paper printed, folded and cut all in one operation.

It is certain enough that Brantford and district likes its Expositor and the folk there will continue to feel that way about it. At 85 years the Expositor does not seem to be bent at the shoulders or weak in the frame, nor has its ability to see things and speak clearly of them decreased. It may be a strange way to state the case, but one cannot but feel that the T. H. Preston of other days would approve entirely of the Expositor of today. It is probably just such a paper as he had intended to build.

One Man Was On Trial

Joseph C. Lee of Hamilton goes to Portsmouth Penitentiary for the rest of his life for the shooting of two former business associates. The charge against Lee was reduced from one of murder to manslaughter and to that he was willing to plead guilty, and it was on that reduced charge that sentence was passed. Admittedly it was a strange case all through. Evidence was submitted which showed that the man was considered of unsound mind at the time he committed the crime, and that mental condition must have undergone a change since as otherwise it would have hardly been possible for one suffering from such trouble to instruct counsel that he would plead guilty to a reduced charge.

In accepting the reduced charge the Crown announced it was willing to do so "in view of the previous good record of the accused and the position of his two sons in the city." A man's previous record is undoubtedly a factor to be considered in any case, but it is difficult to see what his sons have to do with the affair. They were not on trial, and the only point was the conduct of Lee himself.

They Might Try It

Sir Gerald Campbell, British Consul-General in New York, addressed the Canadian Club in Ottawa, and it was his opinion that the world was suffering from an overdose of alarmist talk. He put it this way: "All the people who don't know very much are writing to beat the band these days. It would be very nice if they would stop speaking and writing for a while." Sir Gerald was also certain the world was being forced to live its life in the atmosphere of "foolish fears of what might happen."

In several ways the British speaker from New York was right enough in what he had to say. It is a fact that if all the things which have been predicted or openly hinted at within recent years had actually taken place the whole world would have rocked with the frequency of new horrors and those left alive in the world today would surely be cripples from much wounding.

Again it is abundantly plain that the voice of the calamity individual can always make itself heard. When the war-maker speaks he has an audience and newspapers themselves have done their full part in seeing that the audience is always present. We are inclined to agree with Sir Gerald Campbell that much good might come if alarmist writers and speakers would go on some sort of a self-imposed strike.

Skilled Workers

R. F. Thompson, supervisor of Youth Training in the Department of Labor, says Canadian industry is not doing its share to train young people for skilled vocations. He believed too that if industry does not do something about this then industry itself is going to suffer as it will not have the supply of skilled workers to enable it to compete with other countries.

There are some industries which have done their share, and there are others where nothing has been done. We suppose it is much the same as with training newspaper workers. There are offices where only experienced reporters or desk men are taken on, while in other places the rule is to start with cub reporters and keep on training them until they become useful and skilled. The offices where no training is done will express their attitude by saying they have no time to bother with cub reporters. And it is possible they have no inclination either.

Mr. Thompson will find that in recent years there has been the minimum of training done in many factories because production has been at a low point and there has been no demand for more mechanics. It is also a fact that a good many of the old-time skilled trades have undergone a decided change by reason of the introduction of so much automatic machinery. Handy-men can operate the machines and produce work on a quantity basis which was formely done by the skilled mechanic one piece at a time.

But the day of the highly skilled worker is not over, and there are places in the Dominion today where the skilled man is in demand more than the handyman or the laborer. If we are going to develop as an industrial people we have to keep on providing skilled workers and there is hardly room for argument on that point. And it is only fair that industry in general should participate in the production of such workers.

Those Brave Asturians

The Asturian miners have been defeated. In their little province in the north of Spain they have held on for months against the vastly superior army of Franco. Their method of warfare has been largely one of bomb throwing, and according to all the laws and averages of war they should have been defeated long ago. They were outnumbered, they had poor equipment, but they had courage and a thorough knowledge of all the rocky passes in their land.

Now the Asturians have been informed they are expected at once to join with the ranks of the rebels or suffer the consequences, and Britain and France have called on Franco to observe "the rules of humanity" and alter this order. Following the surrender of the Asturians many of them headed off toward safety on French soil and many of their leaders have already made the trip before Franco could cut them off.

History tells that a thousand years ago a small band of Christians held out in the mountains of Asturias against the Moorish masters of Spain, and from that small beginning grew the movement which eventually swept the Moors out of Spain. Whether Franco will be inclined to give any consideration to the Asturian miners is a question. By their long and stubborn resistance they have undoubtedly held up his campaign for a long time and made it necessary for him to keep between 75 and 100 thousand troops employed against them. If ever a small band of people earned consideration by the stubborness of their resistance against heavy odds then the Asturian miners are in that class.

So He Wants To Quit

There was a youth of 16 years in Peterborough a couple of days ago. He belongs in a town, and decided he would come to the city to see if he could get anything to do here. There is that much to be said for him—he is willing to work. The trouble is he is certain he is not getting on fast enough and is not being paid enough money where he is working now.

It is necessary for him to go to work as his parents have not the means to keep him at school or to assure him of higher education. That is something he will have to work out for himself as he goes along. Many others have had to do the same thing. For a year or more he has been working in a printing office where he had agreed to go and learn his trade, but he wants to quit because he is earning only $6 a week, and he is certain that is not enough. He has built up quite an argument in his own favor and has apparently convinced himself that he is being exploited. He told about the boss owning a car and being able to go off on week-end trips "while I am slaving away long hours helping to pay for it." One can possibly understand just how this youth would be able to convince himself that things were not fairly balanced in this world. He had thought along that line so much that he had decided it was time for him to quit and look elsewhere for something better. He is paying his parents $2.50 per week for board, and that seems right and fair enough, although there have been cases where young fellows have had to put all their earnings in the home treasury to keep the place going. And it is also a fact that such an experience never worked injury.

This young fellow seems to have lost sight of the fact that he is only starting. In order to become master of his trade it will be necessary for him to serve a number of years. In the larger places an apprenticeship in the printing trade is five years, although it may be less where this youth is employed. It has probably never occurred to him that he may not be worth much more than $6 per week starting his second year. There are a good many people in the world of newspapermen and mechanics today who started at $1.50 per week, but that of course has no particular bearing on this case. His mistake is that he is thinking of turning aside when he should be keeping straight ahead. He may find it hard to understand that the wages he receives now have not a great deal to do with the situation at all. He is being trained; it is much the same as keeping on at school only his schooling is taking a practical turn.

It has often happened that a young chap who starts drifting from one line of business to another makes a muddle of the whole thing. If some one were to offer him $12 or $14 a week on some job where he would probably never go any higher he would likely jump at it, and consider only the difference between his present $6 a week and the prospective increase. Perhaps at his age it is difficult for him to look ahead to the time when he will be a master printer and able to command a good salary; all he looks at is the rather lean years in between. We hope this young fellow stays home and remains right in the printing office where he is working now and keeps on paying his board to his parents. It might not help matters to tell him he is not worth any more because he has not yet learned enough, but there would be a good measure of truth in such a statement.

NOTE AND COMMENT

We are getting back to normal. We notice where a tramp figured in a story from Brampton. Since 1929 they have been known as transients.

A Utah village reports that it is festooned with cobwebs that came over night. They have the same condition in Toronto but it took longer to set it up.

Police chiefs from all over the world are meeting at Montreal. They should have a lot of stories to tell if the reporters can find a way to get them to talk.

Four hundred permits to shoot pheasants in North Grimsby township have been issued. The birds in the district should go away on a holiday.

Brandon man offers to supply Saskatchewan with rain at $100 a month. The terms are so reasonable that folk can scarcely help feeling there must be a catch in the thing somewhere.

Cordell Hull, Uncle Sam's Secretary of State accomplished something by his Canadian visit. He managed to get Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Premier Hepburn into a huddle.

York township veterans want the Dominion government to take over the full responsibility of relief for ex-servicemen. That will give Ottawa a chance to show how diplomatically it can say "No."

There are said to be rumblings in Ottawa of a Dominion election soon. Let us hope that whatever Ottawa folks are hearing it is not the sound of an approaching political campaign.

WHEN SHE WRITES

(By A. R. K.)

¶ When my Aune Julia writes to me, I read her letter after tea, when I have lots of time; for there is interest in each word, she tells me things I've never heard, has news in every line.

¶ You'd think Aunt Julia lived alone, and that she never stayed at home, was always on the go; that she must travel here and there, and dabble in each small affair, and gossip to and fro.

¶ You'd think she passed through every door, and trailed each secret to its core, asked many questions too; for when Aunt Julia writes to me, it's very plain for me to see, she knows what people do.

¶ She takes me up and down each block, and now and then provides mild shock, of what has taken place; she writes about our relatives, and how each one gets on and lives, discusses too their pace.

¶ When Aunt Julia's done one sheet, where she has written plain and neat, she still has more to say; and so she turns the sheet around, because some other news she's found, and writes the other way.

¶ That's why I wait till after tea, when my Aunt Julia writes to me, of what the home folk do; I read all that she has to say, then turn each page the other way—before I get it through.

IT MAY BE a surprise to learn that bats, the only mammals capable of true flight, possess greater flying skill than birds. Nerves in the wings of the bats enable them to detect the nearness of objects and avoid them, by sensing air-current vibrations. The zigzags, loops and turns of bats in flight are movements that no bird can duplicate.

Animal's Eyes.

ACCORDING to Iroquois Dahl, author of One Thousand and One Outdoor Questions the eyes of the animals that hunt, such as the dog the cat, the wolf, the fox, the lion, the bear, the tiger and the leopard have developed frontally so that they may both be trained on an object at the same time. The eyes of the hunted animals, such as the rabbit, the squirrel, the mouse, the deer and the antelope are placed on each side of the head. All birds, with the exception of the owls, have eyes on each side of the head thus increasing the range of their vision without the necessity of turning their heads.

Genuine rosewood, prized by cabinet and furniture makers for hardness, good grain, reddish brown color and the fine polish it takes and holds is not from a rose but is so-called because of the rose odor of the freshly-cut wood. Commercial rosewood comes in half-round "flitches" 10-20 feet long and 5-12 inches through the thickest part. It is one of the few woods sold by weight—so much per pound-net by board measure.

Letters To The Editor

Correspondents Discuss Various Topics.

SETTLED

Editor Examiner:

Sir: Your editorial in the Friday 22 inst. of your paper, regarding a letter of mine contradicting a statement that appeared in your paper, that the Humane Society meetings would be closed to the Public. No doubt caused amusement and laughter to many of your readers. But had you been at the head of an organization which was wrongly represented, and if you had received the questioning I received on the streets of this city regarding closed meetings I think your excursion into the field of sarcasm would have been more severe than mine, judging by the dignified sarcasm that is revealed in the paragrapha of your editorial. However I thank you for your editorial. It has given the Humane Society and myself some more publicity, and hoping still to retain you as a friend in the newspaper world.

Yours in Co-operation.
THOS. E. SARGENT.

REPRIMAND

Editor Examiner:

Sir: As a general rule I enjoy your editorals very much as they usually stress the fruits of the spirit ie; love joy, peace, long-suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness and temperance.

You have told us many times of the neighborly and kindly attitude people have to one another on the Tenth Concession and held it before us as an example. Also how the East is responding to the West in their time of great need. And yet you show very little of this attitude towards Mr. Thos. Sargent in your Friday evening's editorial entitled "It's a Strange Life."

I barely know Mr. Sargent, but I feel if I were president of any Society I would feel under restraint if I thought every minor detail of a meeting was going to be printed for the public to read.

However, what was the attitude your reporter took when excluded from the Humane Society meeting? You state, "Even being asked to depart from a gathering with so kind a name as the Humane Society will not put a reporter out of commission." And yet, apparently, he must have felt quite bitter to go back to the office and blazon across your paper that the public (not just himself) was to be excluded and also brought back to life an old sore which had healed satisfactorily. Our Master's teaching "A soft answer turneth away wrath" would have applied here admirably.

If Mr. Sargent attempted as you state a mild sarcasm by referring to the reporters as "ambitious bright lights," you exceeded his satire a hundred fold in your last conjecture. Which all boils down to this—It is easier to preach (or print) Christianity than to live it.

Yours very truly,
HAZEL BALLARD.

IN IRELAND

Editor Examiner:

Sir: A front page article appearing in Saturday's issue of the Examiner will appeal to many of your readers that Ireland in the last half century by trying to keep within the circle of law and order has moved from one extreme to the other. Several years ago it was a common occurrence to read in newspapers of some one being assassinated, murdered, killed or shot. Section eighteen of the 1935 Criminal Law Amendment Act known as "De Valera's Vice Law" was envoked. The law forbids any Act offending modesty or causing scandal or injuring the morals of the community. Julia Clarke, a Scottish lass, blue eyed and brunette, was barred for life from the Irish Free State for kissing her boy friend in public. Unless Julia is an exception to the rule of the average Scot, her penalty will not mean anything as far as her night's rest is concerned. This boy friend being fined $10.00 fared the worst of the two, but after all he had value for his money and the right change back.

When Every Home Had a Bootjack

And Nearly All Were Made on the Premises; Came Into Use When the Day Was Closing

Enterprise (Ore.) Record Chieftain.

ONE OF THE forgotten household implements is the bootjack. Young men of today don't know what you mean when you speak of it, and whole families never have seen one. But there it was in the old days, kicked around on the back porch, often hidden under the wash bench and inclined to elude pursuit when most urgently and noisily needed.

It was not an elaborate piece of furniture. You could make one in a few minutes if you had a hammer and saw and a bit of six or eight inch board from twelve to eighteen inches long, with a scrap for cross-piece. You cut a notch in the end of the board and nailed a sturdy cross-piece not far from the middle and the thing was done. Of course, if you had a really good home and a classy farm you put a little style into the bootjack, selecting a planed board and cutting the notch rounding to fit the heel of a boot, although the V-shaped notch served to draw millions of boots.

There was only one way to use the implement. You placed it on the floor with the cross-piece underneath and the notched end away from you. Then you stepped with one foot on the near end of the board, causing the other end to tilt into the air high enough so that the upper part of the heel of the other foot fitted into the notch. Steadying yourself with one hand against the door-jamb, you yanked and pulled until the boot came off, when you repeated the operation with the other foot. The common practice was to kick the jack back against the wall and pick up your boots and carry them into the kitchen. This little ritual signified that the day's work was done.

The bootjack belonged to the age of conquest, to the day of the clipper ship and the covered wagon, that intermediate period between the settled days of the old world and the feverish present of the new. It was part of life when America was all frontier and we lived in the thrill of dreams of the beyond. Then men wore boots.

The Church Building Has Its Place

Generally the Finest Place in the Community; Yet It Opens Its Doors to Many Functions

(Ottawa Journal)

PEOPLE TAKE the existence of church buildings too much as a matter of course. In reality, considered as a fact in the life of society, these buildings are a wonder.

Churches are often spoken of as public buildings. But they are not public except as being intended for the good of the people in general. They are made and maintained by bodies of private persons, and, of course, they are in private control.

In every Canadian city—and in every town village and rural district for that matter—the church buildings are landmarks. In many cases they are the best the locality has in architecture. Their effect upon the life and work of society must be extensive and momentous.

For instance, the church building is a place of meeting aside from the public services of worship that are open to all who wish to attend. Besides accommodating the activities of all the elements within the church itself—which in these days may extend from badminton matches to weighty assemblies of the church's local or general governing bodies—the building opens hospitable doors to many other organizations. The general result must be to afford means of expression to many movements not connected with the church but useful as promoting thought and preventing community stagnation.

On the other hand, these buildings have a wonderful effect in steadying society. Suppose, for instance, a city or other large community in which the church congregations were deprived of their buildings and forced to carry on for an indefinite time in rented premises. Would not such a community tend to drift and disintegrate?

There are people who find fault with the cost of church buildings. Seeing that none contribute to the cost unless they choose to do so, the only basis for such fault-finding is the belief that the community is not benefited in proportion to the expenditure. Suppose this to be true, it does not prove that the churches are in the wrong. It may be that the community has not fitted itself to receive to the full the benefits which those who provide these buildings desire to render.

BIG SALARIES.

(Lindsay Watchman-Warder)

THE PETERBOROUGH Examiner has again waxed indignant over the salary being paid to Freddie Bartholomew, a juvenile English star in the Hollywood firmament, who, after much wrangling on the part of a parsimonious aunt, will receive a $50,000-a-year pay increase. According to the new contract he will now exist on the miserable pittance of $2,000 per week for 40 weeks of film work, and $3,000 per week for personal appearances. This brings the youthful Thespian's salary to the magnificent total of $98,000 a year.

The Examiner claims that there are a good many other places where it could be spent to better advantage. Yes, but Hollywood does not need any more yes-men. They are too well paid as it is, but perhaps the poor extras and the set hands could use a bit more.

"Getting $86,000 a year may be about the worst thing which could happen to a clever and apparently quite natural sort of a lad," our contemporary concludes. Well put; but one could go a step further and rightfully say that this amount of money is harmful to anyone, man woman or child. No person can honestly claim to be worth that amount of money in any vocation, and while large industries such as the film industry continue to pay single salaries of this magnitude they must be prepared to accept the responsibility of sowing seeds of revolt in the minds of those not half so lucky.

CASUAL INVENTION.

(New York Herald Tribune)

NO ONE NEED despair of the rise of new industries, it seems, when one considers how capriciously some vast ones have come into being.

The business of making and selling, wholesale and retail, carbonated drinks and syrups and ice cream, mixed or unmixed, is a good example. Many billion bottles of pop and incalculable amounts of ice cream soda are now sold the year around because a Nonconformist preacher with a delight in chemical experiment found a crude means of introducing carbonic acid gas into still water more than a century ago.

The great Dr. Joseph Priestley, whose mind, effervescing with the liberal idealogy of the later eighteenth century, also persuaded well water to bubble like champagne and thus became, quit absent-mindedly, the great-grandfather of the soda fountain, itself about a century old.

Helen Beatty, Youngest Pupil To Hold Fraser Oratory Cup

First Place Over Field Of Fifteen Entries At Campbellford

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 26.—Helen Beatty, 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Craig Beatty, Front street was judged winner over a field of fifteen entries in the Public and Separate School Oratorical Contest held in the High School auditorium on Friday. Helen, who is in Junior Second is claimed to be the youngest pupil to ever hold the Fraser Cup for one year. Her subject was "Shirley Temple."

Harold Neal who stood second was awarded the Board of Education Cup and Catherine Kieran of the Separate School was awarded the Town Council Cup by His Worship Mayor F. F. Long. Chairman for the evening was F. C. Bonnycastle and the judges were R. W. Umphrey, George Bick, A. Todd, Russell Long, Misses Ella Cock and Doris Rannie.

"Shirley Temple"

"At eight years of age she is Hollywood's most famous personality, and as charming as she is famous, she has won her way into the hearts of millions with her childish appeal. For two years her name has led all the others at the box office" exclaim Helen Beatty, in a clear unhesitating maner which won for her the judges' favor.

"Shirley as you all may know is the world's most popular movie star. She was born near Hollywood. For fifteen years her mother had wanted a baby girl, so she devoted her time to making her little daughter happy and healthy. Shirley has two brothers, 22 and 18 years of age. Her father, a former bank manager is now in business for himself in the capacity of financial adviser. Shirley as a baby was never any trouble. She ate what was good for her and always seemed happy. She was a very intelligent child, fond of music and at the age of three took her first dancing lesson. Shortly after she entered a baby burlesque. Many of her dance routine were taught to her by Bill Robinson, famous negro dancer.

"Her school work comes before her picture work and takes about three hours a day. She arises at seven and has orange juice, eggs or cereal, and milk for breakfast. She eats spinach too. After breakfast she leaves for the studio. Shirley very seldom makes a mistake during a scene. Between scenes she plays with her doll. Her mother is paid $500 per week for coaching her. Shirley makes a game out of everything and this is why her pictures are so vast a success.

"She has had many small parts, but her first big picture was "Stand Up And Cheer" for which she received $150.000 per week. Next came "Little Miss Marker" and the whole country knew that they had found a star. These were followed by Curly Top, Dimples, Captain January, Bright Eyes and others. She is paid by her studio at the rate of $50,000 per picture but receives more from Shirley Temple products than she does from her acting—one-half million dollars a year.

"What the future holds for Shirley Temple no one knows, but one thing her parents have decided, and that is, if Shirley ever becomes self-conscious over her screen importance they are going to cancel her contracts immediately and let her grow up into normal girlhood far away from Hollywood. Shirley has no idea that she has set the world on fire, and if she ever finds out it will mean the end of Alladin's Lamp for her," predicted Helen in conclusion.

"Princess Elizabeth"

"Her Royal Highness Princess Elizabeth, the charming little daughter of the King and Queen of England was the subject that claimed third place for Catherine Kieran.

"Almost for the first time since her birth has the spotlight of publicity turned for a time more fiercely upon her parents than upon the princess. With the Coronation over and the nation looking forward to a lengthy and happy reign, the little princess cannot help but move once more into the forefront of the Empire's thoughts. "For unless unforseen fate makes monarchy once more its plaything this gay and fascinating child will some day hence take up the crown that her namesake wore so well in past centuries and give Britain a Queen again as sovereign.

"Already it is said that she is aware of her destiny—her mother and her grandmother have trained the child as a future queen. "Fitting perfectly into the roles she is compeled to play, this child who was born the sweetheart of millions can change in a moment from a gay tomboy to a demure and dignified daughter of royalty accepting as her rights the homage of silk-hatted diplomats or taking her proper place in the circle of society. She has been taught to appreciate the interests of the people and their interest in her and while her parents' service to the Empire has been added to a hundred fold by their station in life they too will place as a foremost part of their service the task of rearing their daughter to some day rule as queen.

A pleasant smile and a pair of roguish eyes played no small part in helping Harold Neale put his speech, entitled "The Romance of Gold," across. Harold has already been invited to repeat his address before the oRtary Club on Monday.

Among those who took part in the varied program which was presented during the evening were Miss June Burgiss, who gave a piano solo; Jack Bell, violin solo; piano and guitar duet, Roy and Helen Young; vocal solo by Monica DeCarrol, accompanied by Patricia Ironside; piano duet, Mary O'Rourke and Collette O'Keefe; an Irish dance by Catherine Kieran, accompanied at the piano by Bernice Clark; Highland fling by Verna Black, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. J. Black; tap dance by Mrs. P. Patterson, accompanied by Jack Cassan. One of the most interesting features of the program was a violin solo by R. Dawson of Warkworth, who played on a violin he made himself fourteen years ago. Mr. Dawson was accompanied by Jack Cassan.

Australian Senate Swings Labor

SYDNEY, Australia, Oct. 26. —(CP Cable.)—A definite swing toward Labor in Australia's senatorial elections became apparent early today.

While the Coalition government headed by Prime Minister Lyons apparently retained its majority in the House of Representatives, the political correspondent of the Sydney Morning Herald said the trend in the counting of Senate votes suggested the possibility the Labor party headed by John Curtain may have a majority in the Upper House.

Such a situation, the paper's political correspondent added, would likely precipitate a government crisis when the new Senate meets next July.

SAFE-ROBBING TRIO GIVE POLICE SLIP

PICTON, Ont., Oct. 26—(CP). — Disturbed by Loule Young, 15, burglars, who had dragegd a large safe to the front door, escaped here today after an attempt to rob the Shannon Brothers' tobacco store. A. Armstrong, night clerk at a hotel, obtained the number of the car and then was transmitted to Belleville police, who tried to bar the way at the Bay bridge, but the car with three or four men in it spared past.

Police gave up the chase three miles east of Belleville when the robbers were gaining ground. Napanee police were notified but the robbers apparently slipped through the police cordon at that point and headed for Kingston. As yet no trace of the car nor men have been found. The car was believed stolen in Toronto.

University Honors Secretary Of State

Amid a downpour of rain which lasted all day, Cordell Hull, United States secretary of state, paid a visit to Toronto to end his three-day "good-will" visit to Canada and to receive an honorary Doctor of Laws degree from the University of Toronto. Accompanying the American statesman on his visit to the city were Premier W. L. Mackenzie King and Governor-General Tweedsmuir, both of whom had welcomed the distinguished guest to Ottawa. Mr. Hull is shown ABOVE shortly after he had received his degree through the handclasp of Sir William Mulock, chancellor of the university.

STEEL PRODUCTION SLUMP TESTS C.I.O.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 26—(AP). — Mill workers were beginning to-day to feel effects of the slump in steel production, which simultaneously is furnishing a new test to the recently gained Committee for Industrial Organization labor contracts.

Production in the Pittsburgh area has slipped from beyond 90 per cent. of potential capacity to less than 50 per cent. within the past few months.

One prominent operator normally employing 20,000 workers, reported the laying off of more than 2,000 within the past fortnight and the discharge of an additional 1,000 who had been engaged on construction work, which either had been completed or discontinued.

Another producer, employing approximately one-half of the more than 100,000 steel workers in the district, said less than 550 men were dropped from the payroll during the past ten days.

Working schedules in many mills, however, have been cut from a 40-hour week to less than 24.

The C.I.O.'s Steel Workers' Organizing committee, which has contracts with more than 400 firms, said the letdown in production has brought up numerous problems and increased the work of its committeemen, but so far has failed to produce any crisis in relations with operators.

MINE TOWN BANK ROBBED OF $3,600

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Oct. 26—(CP).—Word was received here to-day from Goudreau in the heart of the Goudreau mining field of a $3,600 robbery at the branch office of the Bank of Montreal in the Algoma Central Railway freight shed. Goudreau is 17 8miles north of the Sault.

The robbery occurred Saturday night or early Sunday. The strong box 30 inches long, 20 inches wide and 20 inches deep containing the money was carried off. The theft was discovered by Branch Manager C. G. Hugill, formerly of Toronto. The door of the bank office was pried open and the box weighing almost 200 pounds carried away.

The money was shipped recently to Goudreau from a Sault bank and the numbers have been recorded. They will be furnished business men in the mining area and all other persons likely to receive the stolen bills.

Police found the rifled strong box in the bush about 200 yards from the office. The $3,600 was missing but all the bank records were intact.

Smile Of Victory

Never before has a camera approached close enough to General Francisco Franco, leader of Spain's nationalist insurgent forces, to make such an intimate study as this. The rebel chief is indulging in one of his rare smiles during the "Festivity of the Race" celebration in Burgos. Maybe the fact that he had just learned that the fall of Gijon, last Asturian stronghold, was imminent had something to do with inspiring the smile.

THEFTS NUMEROUS IN OSHAWA AREA

OSHAWA, Oct. 26.—For the first time in several years, an epidemic of housebreaking in the northern section of the city, where numerous homes have been broken into during the course of the past few nights, is in progress.

Little has been taken and entrance to the houses has usually been effected by forcing a cellar window, police report. One night three houses on Buckingham St. and another on the next street were broken into but only in one house was anything taken, two dollars and odd change.

Two nights ago, two Oshawa police officers in plain clothes spotted a suspicious looking person hanging around the northern part of the city, near the Simcoe street entrance to Alexandra park. Pursuing the man, he eluded the two officers.

No break-ins in other sections of the city have been brought to the attention of police.

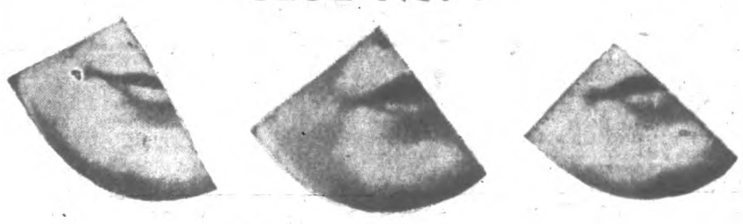
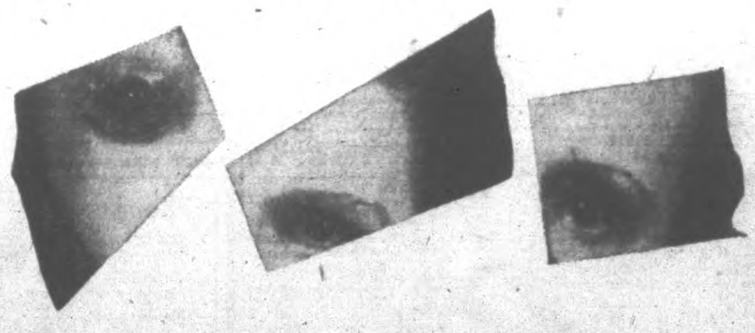
CLUE NO. 1



Mouths tell a lot. It has been definitely established from torn photographs, which fortunately have been found, that one of these is part of the mouth of Miss Peterborough. Do not neglect this important clue.

CLUE NO. 2



More pieces of the torn photographs have been found. It is now known that one of these shows an eye that belongs to Miss Peterborough. That the other two are those of accomplices is strongly suspected.

Observing Of Hallowe'en Especially For Children

Mary Moore Gives Some Timely Hints On How To Prepare Party Menu

By MARY MOORE

SO FAR observing Hallowe'en in our house is a necessity but a fairly simple one.

It consists of the youngsters having their dinner with us, all of us wearing silly high hats and masks if we can stand it, an orange paper table cloth and other little variations all of you have thought of one year or another.

After that I take them for a tour of our neighborhood friends' homes to say "boo" through their fierce, "fault faces", and by eight o'clock we are home again. Even that mild excitement keeps them wakeful after they are in bed—but the door bell, rung by youthful raiders, is the pest—for my youngsters want to rush down and see who's there, and I (being an old softie) let them.

But maybe your youngsters are older and spurn such mild fun. I can be "Mother's little helper" with the food if you have to have a party for them.

HALLOWE'EN SUPPER MENU

Skull-and-Cross-Bones Welsh Rarebit (a masterpiece)
Triangular Olive Sandwiches in Rye Bread
Pumpkin Face Tarts
Cocoa with Whipped Cream
Cocoa with Whipped Cream Face
Orange and Black Jelly Beans

Does the very name of the Welsh Rarebit scare you off? It needn't. Make a plain Welsh Rarebit thus:

Welsh Rarebit

One tablespoon butter, 1 teaspoon cornstarch, ½ cup thin cream, ½ lb. soft mild cheese, coarsely grated, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon mustard, few grains cayenne, cut out rounds of toast. Melt the butter in top of double boiler, add cornstarch, and stir until well mixed, then add the cream gradually, while stirring and cook 2 minutes. Add the cheese and stir until it is melted. Add seasoning and serve on the cut-out rounds of toast which should be about 3½ inches in diameter. Use a rather large cookie cutter.

To give it the skeleton effect, use a piece of pimiento about 1½ in. long and ½ inch wide, tapered towards the ends. This is to be placed on the Welsh Rarebit when it is served on the toast, and is a mouth. Use a clove for a nose and two slices from a stuffed olive for eyes. Over the head cross two wide sticks of celery to be the "cross-bones." If you wish to take the time you can make the "mouth" appear to have teeth by cutting jagged edges on it.

Make plenty of sandwiches so that if this is the regular dinner time for some of your guests they will not feel hungry for the rarebit is not very filling.

For the pumpkin Face Tarts make pumpkin tarts, and use raisins for eyes and strips of citron for nose and mouth.

To make the cocoa properly festive cover the surface with whipped cream and using chocolate shot or medalions, for features make a grinning face on this, too.

Hallowe'en Refreshments

Open face sandwiches give the best opportunity to produce startling effects. We fancy spreading rounds of rye bread (about size of a medium cookie) with Philadelphia cheese and making eyes, nose and mouth on it using pieces of ripe olive for the features. I think these taste grand.

THREE NEW DESSERT IDEAS

Witch's Hat (a desert)

First invert the empty cone on a plain cookie, and spread the outside of the cone (which is the crown of the hat) and the outside edge of the cookie (which is the brim of the hat), with either melted cooking chocolate or thin chocolate icing. When ready to serve separate these and fill the cone with chocolate ice cream packing it well because none must protude, and then stand it upside down on the cookie and serve immediately. The best way to eat these is in the fingers holding them with a small square of waxed paper. I'm warning you it will save your table linen and the kiddies clothes, but is such a good idea it is worth the fuss.

Hallowe'en Ice Cream Sandwich

Use two thin rounds of chocolate cake as the bread, one thick round slice of orange ice cream as the filling, and sections of orange to make the inevitable face on the top of this delicious dessert sandwich.

Goblin Salad

This consists of one half peach with round side up on a curled loaf of lettuce. Use red apple with jagged edges for a mouth, two cloves for a nose and two black berries or raisins for eyes. Put an elongated mound of whipped cream at the top of the head for hair. (Did any of you ever hear of a platinum blonde spook or goblin?)

There has been a rage in our house for popped corn and I bethought myself to have it to pass out to the neighborhood youngsters when they ring the bell on Hallowe'en night. We'll make Popcorn Balls like this:

Two cups granulated sugar, ½ cup corn syrup, ½ cup molasses (or brown sugar), 2 tablespoons butter, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon vanilla or 1 tablespoon vinegar, two-thirs cup water. Dissolve the sugar, syrup and water over a low fire and boil to 300 deg. Fahr. Test in cold water if you have no thermometer; it should be as thin as glass and brittle, and the syrup will begin to discolor. Remove from the heat and add molasses and butter and stir until it turns golden. Add the vanilla. Mix in all the freshly popped corn the syrup will take up, about 3 quarts. Wet the hands in cold water and roll into small balls as soon as cool enough to, handle working quickly. For extra occasions add peanuts, and if you like add all molasses instead of corn syrup. These are very good, (and cheap fun.)

Chocolate Coated Popped Corn

Select the best kernels of corn when popped and place in a mixing bowl. Make a syrup of 1 cup sguar, 5 tablespoons water and 1 square cooking chocolate, and boil until it hairs, then pour over 1 quart of popped corn and stir quickly until all kernels are cloated. This is delicious at any time of year.

Plain cookies may be converted quickly into Hallowe'en food by placing a chocolate medalion in the centre of each, melting them slightly by holding under the broiler, and with a toothpick draw enough of the chocolate away to make the legs and head of a cat. (Orange and black spots are beginning to float in front of my eyes so I am going to stop.)

Sally's Sallies

Successful people make hay with the grass that grows under other people's feet.

Fashion Service

The contrast of the shiny black satin at the vee neck of this simple black wool dress is strikingly smart. A slim panel down the front makes this model so entirely becoming and flattering to mature as well as young figures. It's a perfect "backbone" dress for any wardrobe. The high shirt collared version is delightfully smart for school, office and football games in plain or plaid wool with white piqué at the neck. Suit your own taste about the short or long sleeves. You'll sew it so quickly, it will be a revelation.

Style No. 2765 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42-inches bust. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 39-inch material with ¼ yard of 39-inch contrasting.

Enquiry Column

Conducted by
Mrs. MARY MOORE

QUESTION: I read your Cookery Page every week and would be grateful if you would print recipes for Cranberry Catsup and Ginger Cordial.—M.S.

ANSWER: Thank you for your letter.

Cranberry Catsup

Five lbs. cranberries, 3 lbs. sugar, ½ pint vinegar, 1 teaspoon each cloves, cinnamon, salt, and mixed black and red pepper, allspice. Mix all together and boil 1½ hours. Strain, reheat to boiling point and bottle in clean bottles. Seal with paraffin.

NOTE: Whole spices may be tied in muslin bag and removed from catsup, before bottling—this gives a brighter red and more attractive catsup.

The recipe for Ginger Brandy is similar to a cordial and I hope will suit your purpose.

Ginger Brandy

Two oz. Jamaica ginger, 1 quart brandy, ½ pint water, 1 lb. sugar, 2 oz. mixed black and white juniper berries. Crush finely the ginger and juniper berries, put them into a wide necked bottle and pour in the brandy. Cork securely and let the bottle stand in a warm place for three days. On the third day boil the sugar and water to a thick syrup and when cool add to the brandy, which must previously be strained through fine muslin or filtering paper until quite clear. When quite cold, cork securely in clean bottles, and store for future use.

QUESTION: Enclosed please find recipes for Sauerkraut which I find best of all and have used for many years, also good recipe for Rice Pudding.—Mrs. M. B.

Sauer Kraut

(Contributed by Mrs. M. B.)

Fifty lbs. shredded cabbage, 1 lb. salt (more or less if liked), 3 large onions slices, 2 tablespoons celery seeds. Mix all this with the cabbage and press down hard until juicy in crock or barrel. If in few days it gets dry pour in few quarts cold water—never let it go dry. Keep in warm place 3 weeks, then remove to cold place. Cover with wooden lid and heavy stone on top.—M.B.

Rice Pudding

(Contributed by Mrs. M. B.)

One cup washed rice, 3 cups hot milk (or four), two well beaten eggs, 1 cup sugar, half cup raisins, 1 teaspoon vanilla, half cup cream (the cream may be omitted). Cook on stove 15 minutes then bake in oven until done.—M.B.

ANSWER: We are grateful to you for your generosity in sending us these tested recipes, and hope to hear from you again and that we can help you.

QUESTION: Some weeks ago I think it was Friday, September 17 Journal, you published through your page some recipes for potatoes. I wanted to keep them and try them, but it seems as if the paper has been destroyed. I was wondering if you have these on file if it would be possible for me to obtain a copy of them. The recipes I am referring to included Potato Puff, Canadian Mashed Potatoes, French Mashed Potatoes, Potatoes au Gratin and some others. If there is any way in which I can get a copy of these recipes at this late date please let me know.—Miss M.A.

ANSWER: Thank you for your letter. Would you be kind enough to write again, giving date, and stating "Cookery Page" and address your request to Circulation Dept. and enclose stamp? We will then send it.

QUESTION: Will you please tell me if you have ever heard how to use yeast in baking tea buns or ordinary muffins in place of baking powder? A friend asked me and I do not know either. I will feel very grateful if you can enlighten me as said friend is unable to procure baking powder in the rural districts where her husband is a mining engineer.

You columns are always interesting and helpful and am sending a sample of my walnut cake and recipe soon and hope you receive it in good order. It is my favorite. Best of luck to you always.—Margot W.

ANSWER: Thank you so much for your kind letter.

Tea Biscuits (using yeast)

One cake Fleischmann's yeast, ½ cup milk, scalded and cooled, ½ cup lukewarm water, 1 tablespoon sugar, 3½ cups sifted bread flour, ¾ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons melted butter. Dissolve the yeast and sugar in the lukewarm water. Then add the butter and half the flour. Beat these until smooth. Add the salt sifted with the remaining flour, or enough flour to make a moderately soft dough. Knead and roll thoroughly, then roll out and cut with biscuit cutter which has been floured. Place in well buttered shallow pan leaving 1½ inches between biscuits, and cover and let rise about 2 hours or until double in bulk. When light bake at 450 deg. Fahr. for about 10 minutes.

Graham Muffins (using yeast)

One cake Fleischmann's yeast, 2 cups milk, scalded and cooled, 4 tablespoons molasses or brown sugar, ¾ cup chopped nuts (these may be omitted if a first course muffin is desired), 4 tablespoons melted butter or good shortening, 1 egg, 1½ cups Graham flour, 1 cup sifted bread flour, 1 teaspoon salt. Dissolve the yeast and sugar (or molasses) in the warm milk, then add shortening and well beaten egg, then the Graham and white flours sifted together, add them gradually to procure a batter that drops heavily from the spoon. Then add salt and nuts (more of the combined flours if necessary). Beat until smooth then cover and set to rise in warm place until light—about 1½ hours. Grease muffin pans and fill two-thirds full and let rise to tops of pans, covered, for ½ hour in warm place. Bake 20 minutes at 425 deg. Fahr.

We hope these are what your friend needs, and that we can help you again.

Valuable Gems Gleam In Court Case

Jewels, purportedly worth $100,000, were introduced into Leopoldine Konstantine's suit for separate maintenance against her playwright mate, Geza Herczeg, at Los Angeles. The Viennese actress is seeking $3,000 monthly pending outcome of her suit—but Geza maintains that she is wealthy to the extent of $150,000 and doesn't need any money from him. Leopoldine Konstantine is shown here with an $8,000 string of pearls.

Dinners of The Week

(By MARY MOORE)

All These Meals Have Been Served, Eaten and Approved

Sunday
(Invite guests for this one.)
Devilled Baked Pork Tenderloin (See note)
Emem's Baked Sweet Potatoes (in their jackets)
Cabbage and Celery Salad Garnished with Tomato
Small Baked Apple Dumplings with Lemon Syrup
Coffee.

Note.—You will know better than I if you need two large tenderloins or if one will do your family, but these proportions are for two large ones because you will want some for Monday night, I know. Split two large tenderloins lengthwise, salt and pepper them on both sides and spread sparingly with prepared or dry mustard. Place on buttered baking dish, cover each one with slices of apple, pour over ½ cup of brown sugar, sprinkling it evenly over the surfaces and cover the whole thing with milk. Cover and bake at 400 degrees, Fahr. for 20 minutes, then remove cover and cook 15 minutes more to brown the liquor. If you have a presentable pyrex dish to bake this in, it is best served from it at table as the gravy is not disturbed—quite a picture.

Monday
Thinly Sliced Leftover Baked Tenderloin Relish
Cauliflower au Gratin
Boiled, Mashed Hubbard Squash (add plenty of butter and some cream)
Fresh Pear and Cream Cheese and Crackers Coffee.

(Tuesday (Hasty)
Sauteed Canned Sardines on Toast Strips Lemon
Mashed Potatoes Celery Hearts
Canned Peaches and Cream or Sliced Bananas and Cream
Tea or Coffee.

Wednesday (Oven Meal)
(Economical too.)
Beef Loaf Baked (see note)
Baked Irish Potatoes
Spinach with Cheese Sauce
Baked Apples Sweetened with Brown Sugar
Health Biscuits Coffee.

Note.—We ask our butcher to put 1 pound shin beef (no fat or skin) through the mincer with ½ pound fresh shin pork. To this we add 1 tablespoon minced onion, 1 tablespoon each catsup and Worcestershire sauce, ½ cup fine cracker crumbs, 1 egg, pepper and salt, and about ½ cup milk. Shape into roll or pack into loaf pan buttered, sprinkle top with paprika, and bake about 50 minutes at 325 degrees Fahr. basting with butter and boiling water twice. Slices nice cold besides being a grand hot loaf.

Thursday (Strictly Vegetarian)
Broiled Crumbed Halved Green Tomatoes
Potatoes Diced in Parsley Cream Sauce
Broccoli with Hollandaise
Steamed Squash in the Shell
Steamed Cranberry Pudding with Custard Sauce Coffee.

(Friday (Sea Food Dinner)
Raw Oysters for those who like them
Stewed for those who do not
Finely Shredded Cabbage and Crab Meat Salad
Hot Graham Muffins (aplenty)
Fruit Cup of Imported Grapes, Chopped Pears, and Canned Peaches, flavored with Lemon and Corn Syrup
Cheese Coffee.

Saturday (A Great Favorite)
Bacon and Egg Sandwich, using French Toast for the Sandwich part (a grand combination)
Sliced Tomatoes and Celery Hearts
Deep Apple Pie. Heavy Cream
Coffee.

I Like Oysters

IF YOU WANT to enjoy oysters to the nth degree, eat them raw, with just a touch each of salt, pepper, lemon juice and horseradish.

If you want the most nourishment from them make them into stew Emen fashion (below).

If you want to make them stretch to serve quite a few fry them—by dipping in sifted crumbs, egg diluted by half with water, then crumbs, frying them rather quickly in butter, but do not very brown the butter.

We were having oysters last Saturday night for dinner after making grape juice, community fashion with my sister-in-law and her husband—and on asking them how they preferred theirs she said "stew"; he said "raw." I wondered at him being so decisive about it so prevailed on him to taste the stew. He said it was surprisingly good—and that when he thought of oyster stew it was the restaurant version, many overcooked oysters swimming in dark looking milk — nothing else much. So I give you the following oyster stew just so you may know yours is no restaurant fare.

Emem's Oyster Stew

Braise what oysters you care to spare for the stew in enamel pan in at least 3 tablespoons butter until edges begin to curl a little (braising is gently frying). To these add 3 cups milk (to any amount between ½ and 1 pint oysters, 3 cups or 1 quart whole milk will do). Add ½ cup finely sifted cracker crumbs, the liquor which has been all drained from the oysters, 1 teaspoon salt and good shake of white pepper.

We consider, an ample green salad, and rather substantial dessert a nice big meal when oyster stew is served first.

WATER BOTTLE FATAL

LONDON — (CP). — Mrs. Clara Loveday, 80, died of scalding from the bursting of a hot water bottle pressed against her foot in bed.

WOMAN'S PRIVILEGE

DETROIT — (CP). — A woman doesn't park, says The News, she leaves a sedan somewhere and lets the situation adjust itself to the car.

Wife Preservers

A little starch in the rinsing water used for curtains will make them easier to iron. When rinsed in slightly starchy water the curtains will stay in place better and soil less easily.

Tested Favorite Recipes

(By MARY MOORE.)

Hubbard squash is one of choicest of vegetables in my mind, but my family does not think so. So the only way I even get to taste it is to buy a small one, cook enough for myself, and use the rest for Squash Pie, which I think is equally as good as pumpkin pie, maybe a little better.

Emem's Squash Pie
(1 10-inch pie)

One and ½cups boiled or steamed squash, mashed fine, 1½ cups hot milk, 2 eggs, two-third cup sugar (¾ cup if you have a sweet tooth, brown sugar may be used in place of white, ½ teaspoon each cinnamon and mace, 1 teaspoon each salt and grated lemon rind, 2 tablespoons butter. Mix all these together and pour into large unbaked pie shell. Stand on lowest level in oven, having bottom oven turned on high and bake in this position for 10 minutes, then turn heat to low, turn top oven on low and bake until filling is set. This method bakes crust fast and prevents it soaking.

Blended and packed in Canada

WHEN making coleslaw, you strip off the coarse, overgrown, rubbery cabbage leaves—you serve the tender, crisp, sweet inner leaves. And they have a delightful flavor.

When they are older, this flavor changes—becomes unpleasant. Remember this when you're buying TEA.

For like other plants, the choice, young tea leaves are rich in flavor. These are what you get in every package of TENDER LEAF TEA—leaves picked at the peak of fragrance and flavor. No coarse, heavy leaves are included for bulk.

A new scientific instrument was used to measure the amount of aroma in 14 brands of tea—and what a difference it showed! Tender Leaf Tea—and one other, more expensive brand—came first. Some of the remaining brands had as little as one-sixth the aroma of Tender Leaf Tea.

Your grocer has this tea in two convenient sizes. "Tender Leaf Tea"—the name suggests how good it is!

A. R. Kennedy Addresses Prince of Wales' H.S. Meeting

Prince of Wales Home and School Association's regular monthly meeting was held on Monday evening in the Kindergarten room of the school, with a record attendance of fathers, mothers, teachers, members and friends. Most gratifying to the Association was the large number of fathers present for "father and son" night, and it is hoped they will often come out to the meetings.

Introduced by the principal, G. S. Mattice, the guest speaker of the evening was A. R. Kennedy, who gave his audience many delightful memories of his school days and of friendships formed. Both children and adults were most interested listeners. A vote of thanks was extended to the speaker by T. Allen.

Mrs. P. Black, vice-president of the Association, occupied the chair for the business and social meeting, in the absence of the president, Mrs. H. Darling. The banner for the month was won by T. Allen's class for the largest turnout of parents. A most hearty vote of thanks was given by Mrs. Black to all who had assisted at the Regional Conference held in Prince of Wales' School on October 15. The members were requested to attend the annual church service of the Home and School Associations to be held in George Street United Church on November 14.

An enjoyable musical program consisted of the following: Piano solo, Chris. Huffman; boys' trio (in the neo-modern Western American mode), Clayton Drury, Donald Batley, Gerald Schwelr; duet (cornet and euphonium), Reggie Jones and Arthur Shadgett; guitar solo, Herbert Henry.

Refreshments were served by the social committee, in charge of Mrs. Gurney and Mrs. Constable, assisted by members of the executive committee.

Merrett-Williams.

A horseshoe of turquoise and pearls —the same brooch worn by her mother on her wedding day— was pinned to the gown of a charming bride of Monday afternoon, when Gwendoline Ellen Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Williams of Engelburn avenue, was married to Herbert Merrett, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Merrett of Burnham street.

Lovely bouquets of flowers with ferns decorated the altar and chancel of the church. The wedding music was played by Frederic G. Mann, L.Mus., and during the signing of the register, one of the choir boys, Leslie Groombridge, sang most beautifully a solo.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a lovely gown of white lace over satin, made on princess lines with high neckline and long close-fitting sleeves. Her short veil of fine white net fell from a little cap made entirely of white violets, and she wore white satin slippers. Her flowers were a bouquet of pink roses.

The two bridesmaids were Miss Dorothy Merrett, sister of the groom, and the bride's own sister, Miss Edna Williams, who were charmingly gowned in pale blue taffeta. Dark blue velvet trimmed the bodices and edged the hems of their gowns, and they wore matching velvet off-the-face hats, pale blue slippers, white lace mittens, and carried bouquets of pink carnations.

The groom was attended by Harry Wells.

Following the ceremony, a reception attended by forty guests was held at the home of the bride, where Mrs. W. Williams, mother of the bride, and Mrs. F. J. Merrett, the groom's mother, received the guests with the bridal party. Mrs. Williams were a gown of violet velvet with matching hat, and a corsage of white baby mums. Mrs. Merrett was gowned in navy blue sheer, with black velvet hat and corsage of pink roses.

The happy couple left later for Kingston and Montreal, the bride travelling in a suit of dark green wool with brown fur collar, brown hat and accessories. They will reside at 168 McDonnel street when they return to the city.

The groom's gift to the bride was a string of pearls, to the bridesmaid a brilliant clasp, and to the best man a pair of gloves.

Ryan-Lynch.

LINDSAY, Oct. 26.—A wedding was solemnized in St. Mary's Church on Monday, when Mary Leona, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Lynch, South Ops, became the bride of Joseph Dominic Ryan, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ryan, Lindsay. Right Rev. W. J. McColl officiated at the ceremony and Nuptial Mass.

The bride, given away by her father, was gowned in navy tricotine, with turquoise trimming and navy accessories, and carried a pearl rosary and her mother's white ivory and gold wedding prayer book. Miss Loreen Lynch, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. She was in navy taffeta en fitted lines, and wore pink and navy accessories. Mr. Joseph O'Connell, Downeyville, was groomsman. Wedding music was played by Miss Ruth Shannon. A wedding breakfast was served at Ye Olde Cottage tearoom, Mrs. Lynch receiving in a gown of navy sheer, and Mrs. Ryan in beige chiffon. Later the bridal couple left for Toronto, Hamilton and Niagara Falls, N.Y. They will reside in Lindsay.

Bedford-Lambden.

Silverthorn United Church, Toronto, decorated with palms and mums, was the setting for the wedding of Miss Marion Edwina Lambden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lambden and Charles Bedford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bedford. Rev. F. Smith officiated and Mrs. E. Percy played the wedding music. During the signing of the register, Miss Ruth Simpson sang. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a lovely gown of white satin, made on the princess lines with long train. She wore a matching satin cap from which fell a shoulder length veil and carried a bouquet of red roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Laura Lambden was her sister's only attendant and was attired in forget-me-not blue taffeta with matching hat and a bouquet of Talisman roses. Norman Bedford was his brother's best man. A reception was held following the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, where her mother, charming in wine crepe with black accessories and a corsage of pink roses, received the guests. The groom's mother also received, wearing a gown of blue crepe with matching accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses. The couple then left on a trip to Montreal and Quebec, the bride travelling in a burgundy fall suit with black accessories. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Bedford will reside at 65 Wallace Avenue, Toronto.

Miss Marion Lambden was born in Peterborough, where she has many friends, having returned to this city nearly every summer at vacation time.

BATHROOM BRIGHTER.

The bathroom outshines the kitchen in color, according to a survey by the Bureau of Standards and the National Retail Dry Goods Association.

The analysis shows it requires seven colors to meet ordinary demands for bathroom decorations, while six serve for most kitchens.

The Merrett-Williams Wedding

Old St. John's Church on the hill was the scene of a very lovely wedding on Monday afternoon, when Miss Gwen Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Williams of Engleburn avenue, was married to Herbert Merrett, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Merrett of Burnham street. The bridal party ABOVE include: Miss Dorothy Merrett, sister of the groom, and Miss Edna Williams, sister of the bride, who attended as bridesmaids; the bride and groom, and the groomsman, Harry Wells. BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

NEVER GIVE UP

MANY A CONTRACT which is made would be impossible against double-dummy defense. Fortunately for these declarers, however, the defensive side is playing in the dark and frequently has to guess at the location of missing cards. Everybody got into the sharp bidding on this deal. South began it with a third hand call of 1-Diamond, whereupon West bid 1-Spade, East 2-Spades, South 4-Clubs, West 4-Spades, North 5-Clubs and West doubled.

The opening lead of the spade K was of course ruffed by South, who saw at once that making his contract was impossible if he lost three tricks in the trump suit. With all of the top three honors out, his only chance consisted in finding two of those in the West hand and a third one singleton in the East.

The club J was led to the second trick, with a hope that West would cover and another honor would pile on top of it from the other defender. When this occurred the contract was safe.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"The common problem, yours, mine, everyone's,
Is—not to fancy what were fair in life
Provided it could be; but finding first
What may be, then find out how to make it fair
Up to our means, a very different thing!"

—Robert Browning.

Dear Friends:

How many times we must take "what may be" and try to make it fair and likeable in our lives. Our hearts reach out for the lovely harmonious things, but we must take the ugly and try to make it beautiful.

Yet, an ugly pool can mirror the blue sky, and we can get a lot of exhilaration in turning the best side to the front. Which reminds me of a cupboard I wanted so badly for my kitchen. I knew the kind I wanted alright, so when I saw it was impossible I got some boxes, had the lids fixed with hinges, got an extra lid for a shelf, painted them, and so took "what may be" and made it into the thing I wanted.

We can't always get the best, but we can take what we got and make the best out of it, and in the doing we build up something within ourselves.

Everything, as a rule, has a core. All fruits, seeds, nuts, trees, and many other things have this core. We, too, have something far inside of us that no one ever sees, something which makes us fight a losing battle, that keeps the tears back, that makes us square our shoulders and go on in spite of many defeats.

But if we let that core rot, we are finished indeed. Fruit or trees that go bad at the core, are good for nothing but the fire, and sometimes not even good for that.

So, it is up to us, no matter how many batterings we get from outside, to shield that core of our being with our very lives. Once it goes, we go also, there is nothing left. We may get discouraged, we may feel our burdens are too great to be borne, we may think we would be better to kick the whole thing over, but as long as we do not let it reach the core of us, there is still hope we shall pull out with honor.

All the things we are fighting, have been fought before, and often in a much harder way. When you start at school the problems are simple, but as you get into the higher grades they become more difficult.

And so it is in life. If you do not grapple with them until you have solved them, you do not "pass," neither do you get your diploma, nor can you enter the professions where a diploma is necessary. It is so easy to say, "I shall never master that because it is too difficult" but there is a great satisfaction in working your brain until you HAVE mastered it.

Taking a small understanding and making it so big it envelops all humanity. Taking an intolerance and making it into tolerance. Taking an impatience and taming it into patience, above all, taking your drawbacks and making them into assets.

Those are the things that keep the core of you sweet and wholesome, that make you stand out above your fellows. Not just looking for the fair things in life, but making them fair to fit your needs.

Some of us think our environment is the core of us. Others think ancestors are the main thing. But out of the slums have risen great men, and from those of noble birth many degrading things have sprung. No, neither birth nor environment will ever take the place of the inner core which guides us if we will let it, which makes us raise our heads when we feel like drooping them, and brings success out of seeming failure. Your Friend, ROBERTA.

Less Sterilizing Of Girls Planned

HAYS, Kas., Oct. 26 (AP).—Mrs. Kathryn O'Laughlin McCarthy, former member of the United States Congress, today urged the State Board of Administration to prevent further sterilization in state correctional institutions.

Mrs. McCarthy charged last week "wholesale sterilization" had been performed on 62 inmates of the Girls' Industrial School at Beloit the past few years. She told the board in a letter today:

"I hope I have brought enough information to your attention for use in drafting an amendment to the present (sterilization) law."

At Topeka, Will T. Beck, former chairman of the board, labelled "unfair and untrue" Mrs. McCarthy's charges girls were sterilized as punishment in 1935 and 1936.

W. H. Burke, chairman, announced the present board contemplates ordering further operations only in "extreme, obvious and isolated cases."

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLLE

For Wednesdy, October 27.

Disturbed and doubtful conditions seem to affect the affairs of this day, judging by both lunar and mutual aspects. Treachery or duplicity, with some underhanded work to be guarded against, is shown. Sudden journeys or abrupt change of plans may bring benefits if handled wisely.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of unrest and possibly a sudden revamping of the plans, with commotion and change, removal or travel. If they are handled carefully, these should result profitably, but be alert to deception and underhanded methods, particularly concerning strangers.

A child born on this day may be somewhat restive, changeable and given to a sudden uprooting of itself and its plans. It may be affectionate, likeable and may make many happy friendships in its private life.

ACHING FEET AID.

There's a simple night ritual that is almost certain to bring comfort to aching feet. It involves soaking the feet in soapy, lukewarm water or a solution of baking soda in warm water, rubbing the feet dry with a Turkish towel, and massaging with olive oil.

If you have any old heavy gold jewelry now is the time for all good women to come to the aid of their antiques. Heavy gold jewelry is not only "good" this season, it is ultra smart. If you haven't any antiques, buy yourself some inexpensive—or expensive, we don't care—gold necklaces and wide belts—and go to town.

WILL NOT SEEK SEAT BY-ELECTION

mailed, addressed to William Ireland, president of the Ontario Conservative Association, stating his intention to leave the party leadership and asking a convention be called.

Delegates at the closed meeting indicated that at times the caucus developed into a battle between what they termed "the old guard," headed by former Premier George S. Henry, and those who seek complete reorganization.

All elected members were present except Mayor R. D. Arnott, Hastings East, and W. A. Summerville, Toronto Riverdale.

Rowe's Statement

At three o'clock this morning, Mr. Rowe handed the following typewritten statement to the press:

"In view of our recent election I have called together a caucus of the members elect of the legislature today (Monday).

"After a lengthy discussion of matters of future party interest, I have decided to recommend that the rank and file of our party give consideration to future leadership and policy at a province wide convention, as and when the Liberal-Conservative Association of the province may decide it is in the best interest of our party.

"I appreciate the unanimous desire of the elected members that I should take a seat in the legislature. In view of the need for immediate re-organization and because of being defeated in my own riding, I have decided to carry on my present responsibilities of leadership outside the legislature until such a convention may be called.

"Shortly I intend to call together a meeting of all the Conservative candidates as a first step toward the immediate re-organization of our party on a sound and more modern basis.

"In the meantime I have instructed the whip of the party to call a meeting of the members-elect to select a house leader for the approaching session."

Battles Keep Session Going

Several times the caucus was near adjournment; several times there was assurance a statement would be forthcoming in five minutes or so. Two members left shortly before six o'clock, believing matters had been settled, but a wordy battle cropped up again and the meeting plodded on. Lunches were served in the caucus room.

At least five of the 21 Conservative members present were ready, it was learned, to resign their seats to permit Mr. Rowe to avail himself of Premier Hepburn's promise there would be no opposition by the Liberal party in a by-election.

(Premier Hepburn said last week he was delaying calling a by-election that would enable Hon. Colin Campbell, Minister of Public Works, to contest a seat until it was known what Mr. Rowe would do. Mr. Campbell was defeated in Addington. It was Mr. Hepburn's announced intention to have two by-elections, if necessary, as soon as possible should Mr. Rowe decided to enter the house.)

Loud voices were heard from the caucus room more than once, and all persons not attending were kept off the third floor of the Albany Club. As members drifted out at intervals for a few minutes' re-

FARMER ENDS LIFE WITH RIFLE BULLET

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BANCROFT, Oct. 26. — Despondent because of bad health for a number of years, David Watson, a farmer living on the Paudash Lake Road, three miles from here, took his life on Monday morning at 8.45 o'clock by shooting himself on the verandah of his home. A bullet from a 38-calibre rifle penetrated his heart and death was instantaneous.

Constable Palmateer, County Constable Wells, and Dr. Lamb, coroner, investigated, and decided that it was a clear case of suicide, and that no inquest was therefore required.

Watson is survived by a widow and a family of two daughters and four sons.

Father Devine's $28,000 "throne car"—a 10-passenger limousine—is ready. It is seen at Pasadena, Cal. The car, which has "thrones" in the rear compartment, is equipped with "most everything", including a microphone through which the Negro cult leader or his disciples can spread "Truth, it's wonderful" along the highways. The car was to have been driven by John Wuest Hunt, west coast Devine disciple, but Hunt now is serving a three-year sentence in federal prison on McNeil island, Washington state. The "throne car" is registered in the name of "John the Baptist." It is expected to create a sensation in Harlem.

KING GEORGE VI. FIGHTS FOR PEACE

Turning to the proposed Indian Durbar, the speech said His Majesty was looking forward "with interest and pleasure to the time when it will be possible for me to visit my Indian Empire."

The speech dealt thus with rearmament:

"With the full co-operation of my people, the work of expanding and equipping my defence forces now is making rapid progress. My ministers are anxious that energetic steps be taken to complete measures for the protection of the civilian population against air raids. A Bill to put the necessary arrangements on a statutory basis will be brought forward for your consideration."

Throne Speech Text

Text of the speech from the throne read at the opening of the new session of parliament by the King today, follows:

My Lords and Members of the House of Commons:

My relations with foreign powers continue to be friendly. I have invited the King of the Belgians to visit me in November and a similar invitation has been extended to the King of Rumania for the spring of next year. I shall welcome the visits of their majesties to my capital and trust that they will conduce towards a consolidation of the friendly relations existing between our nations.

My ministers have followed with growing concern the continuance of the conflict in Spain. It is their aim to do everything which lies in their power to assist towards restoration of peace among the Spanish people. They believe that strict application of the international policy of non-intervention in Spain will materially contribute to this end.

My position in the far east will continue to engage the earnest attention of my government, who will persist in their policy of attempting, in co-operation with other governments, whether members of the League of Nations or not, to mitigate the suffering caused by the conflict and to bring it to a conclusion.

I am looking forward with interest and pleasure to the time when it will be possible for me to visit my Indian empire.

Members of the House of Commons:

The estimates for public services will be laid before you.

My Lords and members of the House of Commons:

With the full co-operation of my people, the work of expanding and equipping my defence forces is now making rapid progress. My ministers are anxious that energetic steps be taken to complete measures for the protection of the civilian population against air raids. A bill to put the necessary arrangements on a statutory basis will be brought forward for your consideration.

I rejoice to know that the outlook for trade and industry remains favorable and that there is every indication that the progress made in the last year will be maintained. My government will continue to take all possible measures to encourage industrial activity at home and develop our overseas trade.

A bill will be submitted to you to provide for unification of coal royalties under national control and for the furtherance of the reorganization of the coal-mining industry. A measure for improving my government have announced their intention to assist production and increase the consumption of milk, and to facilitate an improvement of milk distribution. A bill to this end and further proposals for the welfare of agriculture will be submitted to you.

You will be invited to pass legislation to provide for reorganization of the white fish industry and for other matters related to sea fisheries.

A comprehensive publicity campaign is being undertaken to ensure the fullest use of the public health services and to encourage their expansion.

The policy of improving housing conditions will be energetically pursued. My government will further develop their social policy by introducing legislation to enable meals to be supplied to boys and girls attending junior instructional centres; to provide medical care for the young persons who have left school and entered employment; to reduce the age limit for the award of pensions to blind persons; to enable further information to be obtained for the study of the population problem; to amend the final provision for slum clearance and the abatement of over-crowding; and to make further provision for improvement of agricultural housing.

A measure will be laid before you to amend the penal law and enable improved arrangements to be made for dealing with offenders including juveniles and those who commit repeated offences.

Proposals will be laid before you are proving for such additional judicial strength for the probate, divorce and admiralty divisions as will enable the High Court to discharge the additional duties laid upon it by the Matrimonial Causes Act of the last session; for carrying out some recommendations of the Royal Commission on the despatch of business at common law; and for giving effect of certain recommendations of the Law Revision committee on the subject of limitation of actions.

Among other measures which you will be invited to pass will be bills to amend the present scheme for securing renting and exhibition of a certain proportion of British films; to prevent frauds in share dealing; to make better provisions for preventing abuses of the law relating to clubs; to improve the efficiency and organization of fire Brigade services of the country and regulate wages and conditions of employment in the transport of goods by road.

Scottish affairs will continue to receive the close attention of my Ministers. Legislation on the subject of rural housing in Scotland and on other matters of Scottish interest will be submitted to you.

Other measures of importance will be laid before you and proceeded with as time and opportunity offer.

I pray that under the blessings of Almighty God the outcome of your deliberations may advance the happiness and well being of my people and the peace of the world."

JEWS IN POLAND GROWING UNEASY

mar schools opened. In Minsk Mazowiecki two schools were reserved exclusively for Christian children, a third for Jews.

Move To Palestine?

This idea of a gradual "evacuation" of the country's Jewish population was given international emphasis when Foreign Minister Beck last year told the League of Nations council Poland is deeply interested in Palestine affairs in view of the alleviation of Poland's overpopulation which could be achieved through extensive Jewish emigration to Palestine.

Polish Jews were much aroused by this speech, which they interpreted as an admission by the Polish government of a desire to get rid of them.

More recently, the question of mass emigration of Jews has been taken up by parliament, and there is hardly a day that some Polish newspaper does not call the public's attention to Jewish emigration as a cure for the country's economic ills.

In the face of this agitation, emphasized by chronic anti-Jewish riots and Jew beatings, many Jews say they would like to emigrate, "but hod, and to what country?"

"There is a strong desire on the part of large Jewish groups to emigrate," Heshel Gotlieg, Jewish deputy, said recently.

"The majority, however, would like to emigrate to well-organized countries. If the United States were to amend its immigration laws, long lines of Jews would stand before the American consulate in Warsaw. We do not, however, boycott any proposal as to emigration possibilities."

HERE COMES PACKARD FOR 1938

-the only cars that can make you all these promises!

MIRACULOUS RIDE—The new Packard Six and new Packard Eight (formerly called Packard 120) bring you the gentlest ride ever offered to motorists—a ride that literally re-makes roads!

UNEQUALLED SAFETY—These new Packards are outstanding in safety. Side-sway is eliminated and the danger of skidding is tremendously reduced.

REVOLUTIONARY REAR END—The foregoing things have been accomplished by a trio of epochal improvements which now bring the effect of independent wheel suspension to the rear end.

NEW QUIET BODY—As a result of years of research in cooperation with a great University, Packard brings you a really quiet all-steel body with an all-steel top.

MORE LUXURIOUS SIZE—Both the Packard Eight and Packard Six are seven full inches longer in wheelbase than last year. Bodies are far wider. Trunks challenge those of any cars for roominess.

SERVICE NEEDS CUT—The need for service is still further reduced. Example: Chassis lubrication is now needed only twice a year!

ENDURING BEAUTY—The famous Packard lines are now more beautifully streamlined than ever. But they still proclaim your car a Packard, still guard it from early style obsolescence. Only Packard gives you both long mechanical life and long style life!

EASY AVAILABILITY—YOU can afford one! See your Packard dealer. He will give you proof that, if you can afford to buy and operate any new car, you can afford to buy and operate a Packard!

YOU HAVE A DATE TUESDAY EVENINGS

Each Tuesday evening at 9:30 E.S.T. over the N.B.C. Red Network, Packard brings you one of the most outstanding full-hour shows on the air! Lanny Ross, Charles Butterworth, and Florence George head a brilliant cast that entertains each week one of the topmost stars of radio, stage or screen!

Brighton Township Bride Is Missing Since September 13 Husband Is Sought By Police

Parents Fear Daughter Is Being Held Against Her Wishes

Provincial police are trying to locate Beryl Carr, 19, daughter of Walter Carr, R.R. 1, Brighton township, who was married at Codrington on September 11 to Edward Gordon, 35, and has not been heard from since September 13.

Miss Carr has been employed as a waitress in Child's restaurant at Yonge and Dundas streets, Toronto, where Gordon is said to have been a chef. Her custom of writing home at least once every two weeks was broken by a silence which has caused the deepest anxiety by her parents.

Enquiries by police into Gordon's record have elicited information alleging he was convicted on two unstated charges, that he is a married man, and also that he is in some way involved as a white slave operator. Mr. and Mrs. Gordon fear that their daughter may be held against her wishes in some immoral house.

Passed "Rubber" Cheques.

Gordon is said to have given a worthless cheque to the minister who married him and Miss Carr at Codrington. A taxi driver was paid in the same valueless currency. It is also said he flourished a cheque for one thousand dollars made out to himself which he told his bride was a wedding present from his wealthy father.

He told friends of Miss Carr in the Brighton township neighborhood that he had lived in Detroit and Sudbury, and intended taking his wife to Sarnia after a honeymoon trip to Buffalo.

No trace of Gordon and Miss Carr has been found since September 13, two days after the wedding, when they took train from Trenton, where they had spent the night after their marriage, to Toronto. The last thing Miss Carr promised her parents as she started on her wedding trip was to write to them frequently. Suspicions were first directed to Gordon when the phony cheques he had generously passed out were found to be valueless. There were no funds in the bank on which they were drawn.

Not Reported at Border.

An effort to get in touch with Gordon in regard to these financial affairs proved fruitless. Police were unable to find any trace of him or the Brighton township girl he had married. Enquiries at the Buffalo border were also unavailing, and Sarnia police reported that Edward Gordon had not been there.

Nearly seven weeks have passed since the wedding at Codrington, south of Campbellford, in Brighton township, and no letter has come to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Carr. Their daughter has completely disappeared and with her the man who married her in what police declare to be a bigamous marriage on his part. Toronto police, it is said, have discovered that Gordon had an assortment of surgical instruments in his possession, and one of the questions they are probing is what he kept them for.

NO VACANT HOUSES TO BE FOUND HERE

In the role of a house hunter, A. G. Metheral, relief officer, drove forty miles on Saturday around the streets of Peterborough, and the net result of his search was mainly confirmation of the general impression that dwellings are all occupied. Mr. Metheral was looking for several places for families that have been living in tents all summer. "If we are lucky we will probably be able to move one o the families this week" he said today, "and we may have the two others under winter roofs also. But, it is a difficult assignment trying to find a house for even the best of tenants right now." Mr. Metheral's trip took him all around the fringe of the city, and even the North Monaghan suburb failed to provide any prospective accommodation for the city's several families who are regarded as a responsibility upon the community.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

By an Examiner Reporter.

FOUNTAIN SHUT OFF

Another sign of approaching winter is the fact the colored fountain at the Filtration Plant has been shut off for the season.

COURT OF REVISION.

There will be a regular meeting of the local court of revision to-night when a number of assessment appeals will be dealt with.

COMMITTEE MEETINGS.

Council committees will meet on Thursday night to get the slate cleared for the regular meeting of the council, scheduled for next Monday night.

MADE IN GERMANY.

The Examiner has discovered that most of the masks, false faces and other Hallowe'en equipment at present on sale in Peterborough was made in Germany. That probably explains why there is no mask caricaturing Hitler in the assortment.

INQUEST DATE SET.

The adjourned inquest into the death of Mrs. Judith Scobell, wife of Colonel S. B. Scobell of Toronto, who lost her life when the car in which she was a passenger backed off the government wharf at Lakefield has been set for Monday evening next. It will be held at Lakefield.

LIFE-SAVING COMPETITIONS.

The Y.W.C.A. senior competitions in life saving will be held Tuesday from 6.30 p.m. on, for the silver medal or award of merit and the bronze medallion. School girls of the city are invited to the Y.W. Hallowe'en masquarade party at 10 o'clock Saturday morning in the "Y" gym.

PREPARING FOR HUNT.

The Round Lake hunting party, of which Robert Knox of Otonabee is organizer, is to meet Thursday afternoon to make final arrangements for this year's outing. It is expected the party will comprise seven or eight members. They had good luck in the same district last year.

MOVED INDOORS

The two alligators at the Utilities Commission's Filtration Plant zoo have been moved indoors for the winter and are now enjoying the 70 degree temperatures which their native Florida would afford them. The rest of the zoo has been left outdoors and is still attracting daily visits from local citizens.

NO PETERBOROUGH LUCK.

Recent mails, according to street report, brought nothing but receipts of Peterborough money paid for Irish hospitals lottery tickets. Some Canadians are sharing in the distribution of the money on the basis of the results of the Cesarewitch race in England, but luck passed by the holders of tickets in Peterborough.

AWAITING POWER

Warsaw residents are still wondering when they are to get the Hydro power the H.E.P.C. promised them. Although the Commission announced during this summer power lines would be carried from Lakefield across to Warsaw to serve the village and district, no beginning has yet been made on the work.

ONCE LIVED HERE.

Postmaster Charles Lacheur has received a letter from Mrs. A. Pope of Streetsville, mother of the boy whose body was stolen by ghouls from the Streetsville Cemetery recently, in which she states that she was once a resident of Peterborough, living on Brock street and attending school here. Her father was the late Thomas E. Boddy at one time uptown ticket agent for the C.P.R. in Peterborough.

BOYS ARE COACHED.

A group of boys from which teams to represent Peterborough County in judging at the Ottawa Winter Fair, November 9 to 12, and the Royal Winter Fair, November 16 to 24, will be selected, was given first coaching by Agricultural Representative A. D. Runions to-day. The boys were taken to district farms for practical judging work. The candidates for both teams will be coached in a group this week, but attention will likely be concentrated on those to be selected for the Ottawa Fair next week.

GAIN IN MEMBERSHIP.

Membership of the Workers' Educational Association showed a gain of six for the first meeting in the new course of study of political economy at the Collegiate Institute Monday night. Dr. Hill, in his introductory lecture, spoke on the general functions of the democratic state as illustrated by Great Britain, the United States, France and Canada. Any other workers wishing to join are invited to attend the next meeting, Monday, November 1.

CHEESE FACTORIES ACTIVE.

Recent rains have improved plowing conditions and added life to pastures. Milk is flowing satisfactorily for the season, cheese factories are all working and the industry is still booming in the district with the quality of the product showing no decline? The price is holding firmly; most of the cattle are still in the fields, although a few farmers have begun to put them in the barns at night. The bulk of the potato crop has been harvested in this district.

FLORIDA SEXTET GIVES CONCERT ST. JAMES' CHURCH

Seldom has a Peterborough audience had the privilege of hearing a group of singers equal to the famous Florida Sextet, who appeared for the first time in St. James' United Church, on Sunday night in sacred song and on Monday night in grand concert.

This group is considered the most versatile in America, and at each appearance in St. James', the seating capacity was taxed to its limit, and a most enthusiastic audience greeted the Florida singers, each of whom is an individual artist.

Maurice Cooper, the manager of the group, was introduced by Rev. Fred Craik, pastor of St. James', who announced that this musical treat was being held under the auspices of the Brotherhood of the church, of which Roy Moynes is the president.

Mr. Cooper, the tenor, in turn, presented the members of his troupe, which included Elizabeth Johnson, soprano; Vivian Morrison, contralto; Arthur Crittenden, pianist; James Cooke, basso, and Joseph Stubbs, baritone and reader.

Two Parts to Program

The exceptionally fine program was divided into two distinct parts, the first being made up of spirituals, plantation songs, sacred and camp meeting songs, while the second part was more classical in type and featured operatic excerpts, male and mixed quartettes, popular songs and costume readings.

With the complimentary opening, "O Canada" this group won the approval of its audience at the very beginning and followed with the humorous selection, "Hard Trials." A beautiful arrangement of "The Lord's Prayer" in the setting by Josephine Forsythe, made a sacred appeal, while in contrast was the comic rendering of "Chicken Pie," led by Joseph Stubbs, baritone.

Long ago, the negro slaves looked forward to a happier home "Over Jordan"— a phrase often used in the sunny south. The next song, "Bells Over Jordan," expressed this poignant longing, and was led by Mr. Cooper.

The negro spiritual always has its peculiar appeal, and the following typical song, "Every Time I Feel the Spirit," led by the charming contralto, Vivian Morrison, was no exception.

"Hallelu," another rollicking song told how the animals came aboard Noah's ark, and was marked by the same fine harmony and rhythm as all the group songs.

Another negro spiritual, which brought a three-fold challenge, was, "Rise, Shine, Give God Glory," while an old favorite in a new guise was sung by the male quartette in "Old McDonald."

Composed by the most famous white writer of negro music, Lily Strickland, was the beautiful "Ma Lindy Lou," sung by the mixed quartette.

The concluding number of the first group, "Jubilee, Jubilee, My Lord, Jubilee," was a taste of the old-time revival and very realistic.

During this first part of the program, the costumes were quaint print frocks worn by the ladies, with overalls by the men.

More ambitious in scope was the latter half; when the artists appeared in formal dress.

The brilliant pianist, Arthur Crittenden, in his group of solos, delighted everyone. These were "Liebsfroid," by Kreisler, and "Juba," by Dett, a negro composer.

Mr. Cooper's solo offering in his persuasive tenor voice was the song made famous by John McCormack, "I Hear You Calling Me," with "Duna" as an encore.

In her marvellously sweet contralto, Vivian Morrison sang the difficult selection, "My Heart At Thy Sweet Voice," from the opera "Samson and Delilah," with a recall number, "Mighty Lak' a Rose."

Mr. Stubbs, in a costume reading, recorded a conversation heard on the telephone. His encore was exceedingly funny, being the impersonation of the cry of both a white and a black baby.

"Song of The Soul," by "Breil," was an exquisite number in solo, in which Miss Johnson in her wide range of soprano did splendid work. Her encore was "Daddy's Sweetheart," by Eliza Lehman.

A variant in style was the offering "Steam Calliope" by the male quartette, whose yodelling was greatly enjoyed. This was followed by the mixed quartette singing, "Will You Remember." A popular song from motion picture "Maytime."

One of the longest-to-be-remembered numbers of this outstanding program was the last, the prison scene from the opera "Il Trovatore," by the entire group, who were recalled again and again.

The Brotherhood of St. James' is to be congratulated upon their success in bringing so distinguished a group to this city. On behalf of the organization, Mr. Moynes and Mr. Welch expressed their sincere appreciation to the singers, upon their first visit to Peterborough.

Brighton Bride Missing Since Wedding

Beryl Carr, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Carr, R.R. 1, Brighton township, was married at Codrington, September 11 to Edward Gordon, chef at Toronto restaurant where she was employed as waitress. They left Trenton two days later on what was to have been a honeymoon trip to Buffalo, and all that has been heard of both them since then are worthless cheques with which Gordon is said to have paid the wedding expenses, including one to the minister. Provincial police say Gordon was previously married and has a police record.

Generous Public Response Being Made To The Appeal For Western Relief

"The prospects of filling the three freight cars from Peterborough City are exceptionally good," declared Alderman James Dutton, chairman and treasurer of the Western Relief Committee, acknowledging the generous public response to the appeal on behalf of those living in drought stricken sections of the prairie provinces.

The three cars will be placed at ten o'clock Wednesday morning on the sidings at the south-east end of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company's freight sheds here, and with assistance of volunteer workers the loading will be undertaken immediately.

"A generous interest has been taken in the appeal by all sections of the community," Mr. Dutton said, "and the contribution from Peterborough will be worth while."

To date over $400 has been received in cash donations to the Fund, while produce has steadily continued to pile up at the Salvation Army Temple utilized by the committee as central receiving depot. All the money donated is to be expended by the committee on produce to complete the car loadings.

Further donations in cash are acknowledged as follows: Park Street Baptist Church, $9; Salvation Army, $7.50; "Interested," $3; "A Friend," $5; Rotary Club, $25; Murray Street Baptist Church, $6; St. Luke's A.Y.P.A., $10; Mayor George A. Macdonald, $10; St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, $19; St. Luke's Church, $29; A. L. Killaly, $5; R. S. O., $1; Mark Street Church, $18; Miss Nicholls, $2; St. John's Church, $51; James Dutton, $10.

From Keene area 200 bags of produce were received by the committee. In North Monaghan people are taking their gifts to Springville United Church and tomorrow the produce collected will be brought in to the city and loaded direct into one of the three waiting cars.

At the Collegiate Institute and throughout the Public and Separate Schools of the city, students and their teachers are making a generous response to the appeal.

Apart from the three freight cars to be loaded here, a car is coming through from Havelock, Norwood and Indian River, while already two cars have been dispatched from Millbrook with the offerings of the people of that community and the neighboring communities of Cavan and South Monaghan.

BANCROFT YOUTH PNEUMONIA VICTIM

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, October 26—Edward Simmons, a young man from Bancroft who, for the past seven years has been suffering from a broken back, and who spent nine months in the Ross, Hospital, Lindsay, passed away at his home on the week-end. The deceased, who was 22 years of age, was driving a team of horses in his father's lumber yard when the accident occurred. He fell off the wagon and the wheels passed over his body, breaking his back. The young man put up a brave fight during that seven years, his courage winning him the admiration of the hospital staff, but an attack of pneumonia proved fatal.

Provincial Traffic Officer Massingham, who has been stationed at Lindsay for the past five years, received word Monday to report at headquarters, Toronto, when he will be assigned to new territory.

The funeral of Mrs. James Thompson of Bobcaygeon, sister of David Thompson of Peterborough, took place at that village on the week-end. The deceased, who was one of the oldest residents of the village, formerly resided in South Verulam. She is survived by her husband, two sons, three daughters and five brothers.

The death is announced at Vancouver, B.C., of a former resident of Manilla in the person of Rev. A. M. Cosnie. The deceased attended the Lindsay Collegiate and later Albert College, Belleville, and the Wesleyan College, Montreal. For a number of years he was stationed at Bewdley.

OBITUARY

MICHAEL BURKE.

The death of Michael Burke occurred in this city on Monday evening following a short illness. He was 83 years of age.

Son of the late John Burke and Mary McMahon, he spent the greater part of his life here. He was a member of the Immaculate Conception Church. Surviving are three sisters, Mrs. J. O'Brien of Edmonton, Alberta, Mrs. D. O'Brien and Mrs. W. Guerin of Peterborough, and three brothers, Patrick of Toronto and Thomas and John Burke of this city. His wife predeceased him a number of years ago.

The funeral will be held on Wednesday morning at 8.45 a.m. from the residence of his sister, Mrs. Guerin, 678 Armour Road, to the Immaculate Conception for Mass at 9 a.m., and to St. Peter's Cemetery.

SAMUEL DONNELLY

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Oct. 26—The death of Samuel Donnelly, which occurred following a brief illness, on October 19, in his seventy-sixth year, removed a well-known citizen from the community.

Deceased was born at Durham, Ontario, on April 27, 1862, his connection as a resident of Millbrook dating back for thirty-two years when he removed to this village from Carmel, continuing to live here until his death. Until comparatively recent years, Mr. Donnelly was actively connected with the Orange Order, and during practically all of his time in Millbrook he was a very helpful member of the local volunteer Fire Company.

The immediate survivors include, his widow, two daughters, Kathryn at home, and Mrs. Norman Gilmour of Peterborough; and three sons, Kenneth of Campbellcroft, John S. of Peterborough, and Walter of Toronto; also three brothers, all of Durham, Moses, James and David Donnelly; and one sister, Mary, of London.

The funeral took place from his late residence, King street, Millbrook, on Thursday at 2.30 p.m., Venerable Archdeacon William Simpson being in charge of the services. The pall-bearers were Messrs. Douglas Sheppard, William Tremaine, Thomas Laing, J. J. Clarke, F. W. Smith, and William Larmer. Interment was in the family burial plot at St. Paul's cemetery.

VIOLATED PAROLE MAN IS SENT BACK TO REFORMATORY

George LeClair, Montreal appeared on remand before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., this morning having previously pleaded guilty to theft of a bicycle. He was further charged with a violation of parole while serving a term of from three to six months at Ontario Reformatory at Guelph over a couple of years ago.

On the latter charge to which he also entered a plea of guilty, LeClair was sentenced to 4-months imprisonment to commence at the conclusion of his unexpired term at Guelph. He was similarly sentenced on the bicycle theft charge. Both terms are to run concurrently.

Chief Parole Officer C. F. Swayze who was in court stated LeClair was wanted at Goderich for having allegedly broken jail there when serving a term for vagrancy. The accused declared he got away at Goderich because, "there was no padlock on the door of the gaol."

Peter Grant, transient, was sentenced to 15-days imprisonment on pleading guilty to a vagrancy charge. He enjoined the Bench to let him go on the promise that he would leave the city at once, but the Chief declared the accused had received fair warning to get out of the city on a previous occasion and had not take the opportunity. "He is a regular nuisance Your Worship. He begs on the streets and then buys wine with the money given him by sympathetic people," the Chief stated.

HOUSE FLY RANKS PUBLIC ENEMY 1 SPEAKER ASSERTS

The common house fly ranks as Public Enemy No. 1 so far as the health of the people of Canada is concerned, Rotarian Alf. Baird, of the Dominion Entomological Laboratory of Belleville told members of the Peterborough Rotary Club at the weekly luncheon today in speaking on the subject "Insects and the Future of Canada".

President A. D. Runions was in the chair and the club on motion of Rotarians G. A. Gillespie and A. L. Killaly voted $25 toward the Western relief fund. H. L. Garner, new member of the club was introduced by President Runions.

It was announced that the Toronto club would celebrate its twenty-fifth anniversary on the evening of November 5, with Paul Harris, founder of Rotary, as guest speaker and at least three past presidents of Rotary International in attendance. President Runions urged a good attendance from Peterborough for the occasion. Members were also reminded of the Y.W.C.A. canvass and of the coming to Peterborough next Monday of the district governor.

Rotarian Baird was introduced by Rotarian Mac Gordon. The speaker began by pointing out that the things in which people were most concerned were their health, food, shelter, clothing and recreation and stressed the fact that insects adversely affected all of these.

Urges Campaign

So far as health was concerned the Public Enemy No. 1 was the common house fly and in this connection he said that service clubs could contribute no more useful work than by a campaign against this pest. There was no need for putting up with the house fly, the speaker said; controlling it was merely a matter of eliminating the breeding places of the fly.

"It may be only a coincidence", said Rotarian Baird "but to some of us it appears more than a coincidence that the epidemic of infantile paralysis with which Ontario has been contending should come in the worst fly year the province has experienced.

The speaker showed that grains and other foods were attacked by insects, grasshoppers, caterpillars, army worms and other pests during their growing stages and even afterwards while in mills and elevators, forests were menaced by other insects such as the sawfly, clothing was attacked by moths, and recreation threatened by the destruction of areas for fishing and hunting.

Rotarian Baird briefly described the various means of controlling these insect pests. One was to starve them out of a particular crop by stopping growing that crop for a while but that was not a satisfactory method, another was to use chemicals but that was a costly plan and not entirely safe from a health viewpoint.

The latest and most promising method was a system of biological control. That was by the use of parasites which warred upon the insect which it was desired to exterminate. It had been found that all such insects served as the food for some other type of insect so that the problem was to find out what parasite was needed in each case and then see that these were established in Canada to wage warfare upon destructive pests.

Mr. Baird said that much of the trouble was caused by introduced insects that had come from other countries. He himself had listed more than 100 of these coming from Europe alone.

Investigations Are Ordered Into Two Peterboro' Estates

Estates Of William Irwin And His Wife To Come Under Review

Investigation of succession duties paid by the estates of the late William (Big Bill) Irwin and his wife, Susan Irwin, prominent residents of Peterborough who died within a few days of each other in 1929 has been ordered by Queen's Park. It was reported here today. The two estates totalled over $206,000.

Apparently in accord with the Government's province-wide succession duty check-up promised during the recent election campaign, notice that the accounts of the two estates shall not be passed or the executors discharged until an inquiry by the Provincial Treasurer's office has been completed has been served by the Attorney-General's office. In accordance with usual estate routine, a full accounting of the handling of the estates by the executors, the Toronto General Trust, was submitted to Judge Sheldon Smoke here two weeks ago, Hall, Hall and Stevenson representing the executors and W. B. Gordon acting as agent for the Official Guardian. The Court passed the accounts subject to the consent of the Provincial Treasurer.

Increases Found

William Irwin died on November 18, 1929. An accounting of his estate on January 15, 1930, set its total value at $61,799.07. The accounting comprised the following items: Book debts, promissory notes, etc., $8,301.25; monies secured by mortgage, $14,422.04; monies secured by life insurance, $4,077.41; bank stocks and other stocks, $2,710; securities for money, $22,313.37; other personal property, $9,500; real estate, $550; clothing and jewellry, $25.

The estate accounts reveal the Treasury Department subsequently found increases on personal property amounting to $13,470 and an increase on real estate amounting to $500, increasing the value of the estate from $61,799.07 to $75,769.07.

The accounts reveal that during December, 1930, $6,978.31 was paid the Provincial Treasurer for succession duty. During July that year, $795.87 was paid the Province of British Columbia in succession duty and during November, $29.62 was paid the United States treasury for inheritance tax.

The estate of Susan Irwin who died December 2, 1929, was much the larger of the two. An accounting filed March 7, 1930, set its total value at $129,169.22. The accounting included the following items: Household goods, etc., $1,000; book debts and promissory notes, $1,654.45; monies secured by mortgage, $20,781.35; bank stocks and other stocks, $27,080; securities for money, $31,608.18; cash in bank, $6,148.42; other persoal property, $2,671.82; real estate, $38,625; clothing and jewellry, $100.

Succession duty amounting to $16,209.64 was paid the Ontario Provincial Treasurer from this estate during January, 1930. The sum of $398.13 was paid British Columbia in October that year.

The will of William Irwin directed that the residue of his estate be paid to his wife, and that, in the event of his wife's death, equal shares be given his daughters, Mrs. Elizabeth Somerville of Waterloo, and Mrs. Eva M. Ferguson of Vancouver. Mrs. Irwin's will, made prior to her husband's death, directed that the residue of her estate be paid to her husband and that, in the event of his death, equal shares be given to the same two beneficiaries mentioned in Mr. Irwin's will.

Toronto General Trusts Corporation acted as executors of both estates. The petitions to the Peterborough Court that the accounts of the two estates be audited and passed was filed on September 30 this year. The same list of beneficiaries is given in both petitions. In addition to the two daughters named in the original Irwin wills, the list names William I. Ferguson of Vancouver, Mrs. Mary Izabell Duffus of Vancouver, and Ann Elizabeth Somerville of Waterloo.

The Rambling REPORTERS

NOW WHAT DO THEY WEIGH?

Four little lads on George street today wanted to get weighed on one of those automatic weighing scales but found themselves with only a single penny among the four. Undismayed, the four climbed on the scale platform simultaneously. The lad who was standing the treat put in the lone penny and the scale indicator went to its maximum position, 300 pounds.

"That's what we want to know," one of them explained. "If the four of us weigh 300 pounds, my father will know a way to figure out by arithmetic how much each one of us weighs."

Even though they stood little chance of ever determining their avoirdupois from the machine, the four received a printed slip which told them their fortune.

—CPK.

A WORTHY EXAMPLE.

In all schools throughout the city, response to the appeal on behalf of people in the drought-stricken areas of the Canadian West, has been a generous one, the chairman of the Western Relief Committee reports. An illustration in point was provided at the Collegiate Institute. Following an appeal for donations that was made at that school, a 13-year-old pupil told L. J. Pettit, B.A., he had already made his offering at Keene where he resides. He said he had a garden of his own which he cultivated throughout the past summer and that he gave one-quarter of the produce he raised for Western relief. Mr. Pettit told the student body of the lad's generous gift at assembly to-day and held him up as a worthy example for the rest of the school.—R.

COUNTY TEAMS SCORE AT GUELPH

High standings were obtained by three teams representing Peterborough County boys' grain and live stock clubs at Guelph over the week-end. They competed with the pick of the talent from sixty other Ontario clubs.

Clare Leahy of Douro and Jim Moore of Smith won second place in foal judging, representing the Lakefield District Boys' Foal Club. Fourth place was taken by Gordon Stalker of Smith and Jim Hunter of North Monaghan, representing the Boys' Grain Club. In particularly stiff competition, the Norwood District Holstein Calf Club team composed of Irwin McIntosh of North Monaghan and Richard Coughlin of Asphodel, won eleventh place.

The Peterborough boys gained many points on their competition in the reason giving sections of the judging, showing unusual strength in that department. They had been coached by Agricultural Representative A. D. Runions who accompanied them to Guelph.

DROP IN HOSIERY SHIPMENTS

Great Passchendaele Victory Triumph For Canadians

Just 20 Years Ago Currie Swung Up For Attack That Climaxed Struggle Of '17

Editors: Following is No. 36 of a Canadian Press series on Great War anniversaries.

"Canada at war twenty years ago," written for The Canadian Press by Capt. W. W. Murray, M.C.

Twenty years ago Monday the Canadian Corps moved up from First Army Reserve to its line of attack on the Heights of Passchendaele that hitherto had defied attacks of the flower of the British Army, including the Australians.

Throughout the summer of 1917 the Canadian Corps had engaged in aggressive operations in the neighborhood of Lens. Following the capture of Vimy Ridge in April and the steady advance of the Canadian line eastwards across the Plain of Douai, the Canadian had devoted considerable attention to the eventual capture of Lens. Bitter fighting on a modest scale had continued throughout the summer, and this culminated in the middle of August in the brilliant operation at Hill 70.

General Sir Arthur Currie had drawn up comprehensive plans for an operation against Sallaumines Hill, south of Lens, the capture of which should have, in all possibility, resulted in the abandonment of the coal mining metropolis by the enemy. Everything had to be concentrated on the great scheme of the Commander-in-Chief—the capture of Passchendaele Ridge.

Haig Delivers Own Orders.

Haig's orders to Sir Arthur Currie were delivered by word of mouth for reasons that one may attribute to his natural anxiety and the distractions to which he had been subjected. Haig apparently conceived it his duty not only to order the Canadians to Passchendaele but to explain why he was doing so. His arrival at Canadian Corps Headquarters, at Camblain L'Abbe, early in October, synchronized with a conference to which General Currie had summoned his divisional commanders—MacDonell, Burstall, Lipsett and Watson.

Disengaging Sir Arthur from the conference, the Commander-in-Chief walked to and fro with General Currie. Haig spoke earnestly and betrayed great anxiety. He disclosed a state of affairs from which he found it impossible to withdraw, and for which no compromise existed.

Prior to this, Sir Julian Byng, former Canadian Corps Commander now commanding the Third Army, had prepared plans for his great offensive at Cambrai late in November. Haig had approved them and was favorable to the transfer of the Canadian Corps to the Third Army. It was Byng's opinion, maintained to his last hour, that had he had the support of the Canadian Corps for this novel operation, the astounding success he achieved in the first battle of Cambrai would have been consolidated and increase in momentum into an actual breaking through. As it was, lacking reserve troops, the initial success ended in failure and reverse.

The plain fact was the military and political situation, as well perhaps as the pride of the commander-in-chief, demanded a victory at Passchendaele. So the Canadian Corps moved north and went into action on October 26. On October 24 the morale of the Italian army was destroyed at Caporetto and it became more than ever important to pin down the German reserves in Flanders.

Climax of the Year

"Passchendaele must be taken." That was the unequivocal command Haig gave to Currie. And these were the exact words Passchendaele had been vested with such a character that failure to wind up the year's operations by its capture would have been interpreted as a crushing British defeat. Haig's last hope was the Canadian Corps.

Sir Arthur Currie had his own ideas as to how the operations at Passchendaele should be conducted so far as his own men were concerned with an independence of mind which is not permitted to the professional soldier, the Canadian leader was determined that the Corps would not fight under any army commander not of its own choosing. The second and fourth British armies divided the Ypres front; and Sir Arthur insisted that the Canadians be placed under Sir Herbert Plumer, commander of the second army. To accommodate him, the army frontages were re-aligned and, marching up from Lens in mid-October, the corps came under Plumer.

Before this, however, the Corps commander had made a personal survery of the situation. What he discovered was depressing in the extreme. There were no roads; they could not be built on account of the swamps. But, on that very account, Sir Arthur insisted on their construction. The 4½ miles of plank road leading up from Wellje was the result. The Zonnebeke road also was repaired.

Artillery deficiencies were corrected. Sir Arthur noted that batteries shown at a strength of six guns possessed only four; and these sunk to their axles in mud, were firing at extreme range. Sir Arthur had been told by the staff at general headquarters that the batteries were not at full strength, he could "indent for guns". This evoked the classic explosion: "I can't fight the Boche with indents. It's guns I want."

The stage then was set. The most critical battle of the whole war was imminent.

Fur Queen

Selected by consuls of 26 countries and a committee of notable artists and theatrical personages, Geraldine Novak, 26, pictured in her regal attire, was crowned international fur queen at New York. Geraldine, of Siberian ancestry, led the field of 26 beauties, each wearing a fur of her native land. Her fur, in which she is pictured, was a $25,000 Siberian sable coat.

REBELS ADVANCE ON ARAGON FRONT

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Oct. 26—(AP)—Government forces yielded ground to what officers called "superior numbers" of insurgents in heavy fighting today on the Aragon front in Northeast Spain.

General Franco's troops occupied the hermitage of San Pedro in the Sabinanigo sector after laying down an artillery barrage and twice attacking with Moorish infantry.

The first charge was repulsed but the second wave swept the government troops east to an area known as the "Ocan woods."

Insurgents also reported a victory at Pueblo de Alborton, where infantry was said to have seized "trenches abandoned by the enemy in which were found bodies, guns, supplies and clothing."

The seizure by the insurent cruiser Almirante Cervera of two ships transporting 150 fleeing Asturian officials was reported by Franco's Headquarters.

WHITBY GIRL, 7 KILLED BY AUTO

WHITBY, Oct. 26.—Helena Garrett, 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Garrett, Dundas street east, died within a few minutes after being struck by a car driven by Charles J. Griffiths, Bay street, Toronto, at 4.10 p.m. yesterday afternoon on Dundas street west, near the town limits.

The little girl with two companions, Muriel Lane and Barbara Brown, was returning from school, walking along the north side of the road, and was about to cross over to the south side.

According to Griffiths, who was driving west, a car ahead of him swerved to miss one of the girls and he did the same thing, missing one, but striking the other.

Taken to Dr. G. L. MacDougall's office, the girl was found to be dead. An inquest will be held Wednesday, stated Dr. R. T. MacLaren, Chief Coroner.

The accident was investigated by Chief H. Quantrill, and no charge was laid against Griffiths.

Helena was the only daughter in the family, who had moved from Oshawa to Whitby a few months ago. She is survived by her parents and several brothers.

YOUTHFUL ORATOR ROTARY SPEAKER AT CAMPBELLFORD

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 26.—Harold Neal Jr. was the guest speaker at the Rotary luncheon held in the St. Lawrence hotel on Monday. The winner of the Board of Education Cup for second place in the oratorical contest held in the High School auditorium on Friday night last Harold was asked to repeat his address "The Romance of Gold." Captain Sharpe of the Salvation Army who was also present made an appeal to Rotarians to assist in transporting members of the Peterborough Salvation Army Band to Warkworth next Sunday afternoon. The Captain told the club that the band which had made arrangements to visit Campbellford next Saturday was also to provide a concert in Warkworth the following afternoon.

Harold N. Carr introduced the speaker whose smooth and unhesitating flow of language held the members to close attention. "Gold has been more influential than any other metal in shaping the course of human history. The lure of gold has drawn man to the remotest corners of the earth", began Harold, "and has thus paved the way for settlement and civilization in many new countries."

Gold was valued at first as an ornamental substance of considerable rarity. It soon became a common means of barter and exchange. Gold was probably the first metal with which man became acquainted. Its color and lustre in striking contrast with the ordinary dull pebbles of a stream bed can hardly have failed to attract the eye of primitive man.

Old Standard of Values

"In egypt gold appears to have become a standard of value at least 5500 years ago. The earliest English gold coin was the gold penny made by King Henry III in 1257. In Canada gold coins have never been popular as a means of exchange and the quantity issued has been very small. None has been made since 1919. The speaker claimed that Canada was according to the latest figures third among the gold producing nations of the world of which Ontario accounted for 53.5 per cent of the Canadian gold output in 1936.

The speaker gave a general idea of the method of extraction of gold from the Hollinger mine, stating that the ground rock and cyanide solution were put in tanks thirty-five feet deep and eighteen feet in diameter where the gold finally dissolves and is separated from the ground rock and zinc dust to which the gold clings is added. Following it is put in a blast furnace where the gold and zinc are separated. The gold output of this mine is $360,000 per week and with the proceof gold for 1936 being $35.03 an ounce the value of this mine is estimated at $4,000,000 and employees 3000 men. The speaker then went on to describe the Lake Shore mine situated 400 miles north of Toronto which was staked in 1914 by Harry Oakes who still has the controlling interest. "This is today the largest gold producing mine on the American continent." Situated in the Kirkland Lake gold belt the chief producing mines occur within an area four miles long and three-quarters of a mile wide.

MAN WITH LONG NAME

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 26 (AP).—Police arrested an old man with a long white beard last night and charged him with vagrancy. The desk sergeant asked him his name. The man, a Finlander, told him no one understood. He wrote out twice: Maillilaigeyeayaegyaye Edeyueayearaylio Anillyllayio.

Maillilaigeyeayaegyaye Edeyueayearaylio Anillyllayio came and was sentenced to 10 days in jail.

SEVENTEEN CASES AT TONSIL CLINIC

(Examiner Correspondence.)

APSLEY, Oct. 26.—Dr. Macgregor, of Toronto, assisted by Dr. Caldwell, held a tonsil clinic at the Red Cross Hospital on Saturday, when no less than seventeen persons, five of them adults, had their tonsils removed. Most of the patients stayed overnight and the resources of the outpost were taxed to the utmost. The Red Cross nurse from Coe Hill outpost assisted Miss Finnemore during the afternoon and evening.

The Board of Trustees of Apsley School held a meeting on Friday evening at which Mr. Taylor from the Department of Education addressed the members on the subject of installing an improved system of sanitary convenience in the school. After discussing the matter, it was decided to call a meeting on Thursday next in the Town Hall, of the ratepayers of the school section, when Mr. Taylor will attend and explain the proposed improvement.

The first snow of the season fell on Saturday afternoon, after 30 hours of continuous rainfall, and on Sunday morning the countryside was covered to a depth of two inches.

Toronto Argonauts Remain Un beaten In Big Four Race

Toronto Argos assured themselves of a place in the Big Four playoffs by downing Ottawa on Saturday 10-4 in a rough battle that was made all the tougher by a slippery gridiron. The Rough Riders were favored over the lighter Toronto crew in the earlier stages of the game and the above picture shows the big Rider tacklers stopping one Argo thrust in the shadow of their own goal post, tossing back the Scullers for a loss. Teddy Morris is the ball carrier and the tackler is Arnie Morrison (19) Ottawa quarter. Big Dave Sprague (11) is helping Morrison and Rocky Roccano (15) Rider kicking half is also in the play. At the left Ottawa's Tiny Herman is carried out of the play by Jim Palmer (55) of Argos.

BIBLE IS PRIZE FOR GOOD RECORD

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Oct. 26.—An interesting feature in connection with the annual Children's Day service in St. Thomas' Anglican church on Sunday evening, was the presentation of a handsomely-bound Bible to Tom Howson, as a reward for taking highest standing in the examination covering the year's work in the Sunday School.

The Bible was the gift of the Religious Tract Society and came from England, the marks taken having been sent on by the General Board of Religious Education of the Church of England in Canada. The Tract Society offers this award each year for the pupil having the highest record at the annual examination, to encourage attendance and study.

In making the presentation, the Venerable Archdeacon Sinclair congratulated the recipient of the gift, and urged other scholars to make an active endeavor to attain this objective when the annual examinations take place again next May.

The Children's Day services were observed throughout the Parish of Cavan all day Sunday, and in the afternoon, at the regular session of St. Thomas school, the acting superintendent, Mr. E. H. Barnes, addressed the scholars in place of the regular teaching period.

Farmer Named To Contest Seat In Frontenac-Addington

Hon Norman Rogers Addresses Liberal Nominations—Farm Market Wanted

SYDENHAM, Oct. 26. — Angus McCallum of Sunbury, a Frontenac County farmer and graduate of Queen's University, was nominated on Monday at the Liberal convention here to contest the Frontenac-Addington Federal by-election created by the resignation of Hon. Colin Campbell now Ontario Minister of Public Works. The vote will be taken on November 15.

The Conservatives will nominate a candidate in Enterprise on Wednesday afternoon.

Dr. T. W. Warner, Yarker, and Samuel Stinchombe, Olden, Federal Liberal candidate in 1930, were named by the delegates, along with Mr. Campbell, William Wallace, and Archibald Millar, but the latter three withdrew. Mr. McCallum had a clear majority over the other two who stood.

Rogers Backs Trade Policy.

Chief speaker at the convention Hon. Norman Rogers, Minister of Labor at Ottawa, declared a general stimulus to Canadian industry had resulted from Mr. King's policy of stimulating world trade by opening up new markets.

In creating a foreign market for Canadian merchandise, particularly with the United States, the Liberal Government at Ottawa had proved through experience a doctrine of trade already known on paper. Employment had increased and relief rolls been cut in half, the Minister stated.

In reviewing the record of the King Government during the past two years, Mr. Rogers recalled the condition of the country in the closing months of 1935. A restricted trade policy which created a surplus on the home market, tariffs which were "higher than ever before," increasing unemployment and rising relief rolls, afflicted this country, Mr. Rogers told his audience.

Farm Market Wanted.

The Liberal Government, Mr. Rogers said, was "interested in wider markets, particularly for farm products, so that Canada will not suffer again from our surplus."

"The by-election," he told the convention, "will not change the Government, which the people in 1935 elected in such emphatic terms. But it will strengthen Mr. King's position." Mr. Rogers said that the Liberal Government in Ottawa was stronger than on taking office two years ago, and that its position had been strengthened by the return of Liberal Governments in the Provinces, notably in British Columbia, Ontario, and Nova Scotia.

Mr. Rogers declared that unemployment was an "exceptional problem" in Canada, and that the Liberal Government had adopted the right approach in stimulating trade and in having the jobless absorbed into private industries. Public works and road building had also been helpful, he declared.

"The whole picture of economic life is vastly more encouraging now than at any time since 1930," Mr. Rogers said. For the next few years, he believed, Canada would be faced with "problems requiring Liberal toleration."

Campbell Heard.

Hon. Colin Campbell, Minister of Public Works, declared that Right Hon. R. B. Bennett, in attempting a comeback, must win some traditionally Conservative seats, and would likely make a concerted drive to capture this seat in the by-election.

"I am sorry, and it grieves me," Mr. Campbell said, "that I am not to represent you in the Ontario House. I asked to run in this constituency, but it appears I did not run fast enough. I am pleased to be a member of Mr. Hepburn's Government, which has reduced taxes, and to have supported Mr. King, who has raised the standard of living."

It was pointed out by both Mr. Rogers and Mr. Campbell, that Frontenac-Addington has faced five elections in as many years. They both agreed that the electors of the riding were rich in political experience, unequalled in any other riding in the Dominion.

HONOR COMPOSER

TORONTO, Oct. 26 (CP).—While slanting sunshine touched bronzing leaves, a group of school children and civic notables stood yesterday beneath a maple tree and sang "The Maple Leaf Forever."

It was the tree which, according to legend, Composer Alexander Muir sat under several years ago when he wrote the nationally-loved refrain. Mr. Muir was then principal of Leslieville School. One of his former pupils, the wife of Mayor W. D. Robbins, attached to the trunk of the tree a plaque on which the story is inscribed.

SURVEY TO MAKE WORKER HAPPIER

NEW YORK, Oct. 26—(CP)—Dr. Goodwin Watson, professor of psychology at Teachers College, Columbia University, this fall inaugurates a new series of studies to find out how the average city worker can be happier in his work.

Aided by a staff of research workers, Dr. Watson will make case studies of the lives of manual laborers, stenographers, doctors and dentists to prove that it is not wages alone that count, but also the "hidden happiness that lies in labor."

TRAINING NOTES FROM N.L. CAMPS

TORONTO, Oct. 26 (CP).—Ah! Comes a break in the silence at the Muskegon, Mich., camp of Chicago Black Hawks. Coach Bill Stewart, head whistle-tooter last season in the N.H.L., bobs up with the announcement Cully Dahlstrom, rookie centre who played with St. Paul last year in the American Association, is impressive in workouts.

Fans in Edmonton are ready with some big huzzahs for Neil and Mac Colville. The starry brothers will play in the Alberta city tonight, when New York Rangers play Americans, for their first appearance since they joined junior ranks three years ago to join Rangers' amateur team, New York Rovers.

Trials and tribulations of League President Frank Calder are many. Right now he's middle man in at least three contract squabbles, the latest involving holdout Tommy Anderson of Amerks. The centreman's salary dispute has been placed before the prexy by Manager Red Dutton.

It's just an exhibition tour but Amerks and Rangers take it pretty seriously. They didn't even travel together from Calgary to Edmonton, where they play the second game of the six-game set-up tonight. Rangers took a morning train yesterday, while Americans left at night.

Montreal Maroons cut adrift four rookies from their Lake Placid, N.Y., camp yesterday. Coach King Clancy thought Lloyd Perras, a goalie; Johnny Mahaffey, a Montreal winger; Doug. Boston, Toronto defenceman and Frank Sullivan, Regina forward, needed more experience.

Seen at the Toronto Maple Leafs workout: George Hainsworth, one of hockey's great goalies, and in Leafs' uniform for a part of last season, watching from the sidelines, Chuck Shannon, a lightweight in comparison, getting much pleasure from spilling Bad-man Red Horner.

SCHOOL BOARD TO ASK COUNCIL FOR $3,000 GRANT

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 26.—Use of the High School auditorium for the Seymour oratorical contest which is to be held on November 5th, was granted by the School Board at its meeting Monday evening.

It was learned that members of the Board would face the Council on Monday, November 1st, with the request that grants be made to cover the recent expenditure for new equipment in the High School which has cost well in the neighborhood of $3,000.

Dr. H. O. Richardson reported to the Board that the Provincial grant to cover fifty per cent. of this amount would be made as soon as the vouchers for the accounts were presented and approved by the Department. The purchase of two fire extinguishers for the High School was authorized, following the report of the committee left to investigate the matter.

Mr. C. S. Haig, principal of the Public School, told the Board that the new system of supervising the school during the noon hour had been working out very satisfactorily and was receiving the co-operation of all the teachers of the staff. Mr. Haig was authorized to make the purchase of supplies for the rooms where new courses were being taught and E. H. Greig, High School principal, was authorized to purchase certain equipment, including tables, to be used in connection with the Art course.

CANADA Calls SOUTH AFRICA

...brings "aid and comfort" to a worried mind!

A subscriber writes to tell us of a talk he has just had with his son "in a little town near Johannesburg, South Africa".

Cam Gray Maintains Group Lead In Eastern Grid Scoring Race

Five-Way Tie Created At Top In Big Four Point-Garnering—Stirling Spurts Up

TORONTO, Oct. 26.—Despite Cam Gray's lowest single scoring performance of the season, the husky University of Toronto backfielder has easily maintained his lead in the race for the East's football scoring championship of 1937.

Booting four singles in a tie against the Western Mustangs, Gray held a seven-point edge with the season half over, it was shown by the second scoring summary of the Canadian Press. Herbie Moores of Toronto Balmy Beach, leading the Ontario Union, had eleven points.

Gray was all alone at the top of the college group, Bernie Thornton of Queen's and Boyce Sherk of Western holding a second-place tie with seven points each. Russ Merifield of McGill dropped to fifth place when a convert of a last-minute touchdown against Toronto on October 16, originally credited to Merifield, was given to Bob Keefer.

Hugh (Bummer) Stirling, Sarnia's triple-threat half, made the greatest gain in the O.R.F.U. when he booted a field goal and five singles in Imperials' 13 to 9 victory over Balmy Beach. Stirling, with nine points, held third place to Moores and Eddie Thompson of Beaches who had eleven and ten respectively.

A five-way tie for the Big Four leadership was created when Johnny Edwards and Annis Stukus of Argos and Tiny Herman of Ottawa stretched their scoring totals to ten while battling each other at Toronto. Hamilton's Eddie Wright and Tommy Burns of Montreal, scorers of two touchdowns each, went pointless Saturday. The standings:

EDMONTON GRADS' RECORD RECALLED

EDMONTON, Oct. 26—(CP)—Although most basketball fans believe Edmonton Grads have held the Canadian women's crown since 1922 and the North American title since 1923, the record book shows otherwise.

Percy Page's proteges, who have established an amazing record of sustained superiority, did not win dominion honors on four occasions in the last 15 years and have been international champions only since 1934.

The Albertans have never lost a series for the Canadian championship since defeating London Shamrocks in 1922 but four times—in 1929, 1931, 1936 and 1937—they did not attempt to win. Most followers of the game, however, have conceded the Edmonton team was tops in Canada even in those years.

The Underwood International Challenge Trophy has been retained by Grads since it was donated in 1922 but the first series for the North American championship was played in Edmonton in 1933 when the United States Amateur Athletic Union for the first time authorized its recognized champions to compete for the international title.

After winning their first dominion title in 1922, Grads held the title until 1929 when there was no final and no team was awarded the championship. The Edmonton girls recaptured the laurels in 1930 but the following year defaulted to Toronto Lakesides and the title was awarded to the Ontario outfit. Later that year in an exhibition game Grads trounced a Toronto "all star" team composed entirely of Lakeside players.

Coach Page did not enter his team in the title hunt in 1936 as a European tour was planned in conjuction with the Olympic games. In 1937 Montreal Notre Dame de Grace, eastern champions, wanted to come to Edmonton for the Canadian finals but Grads' management refused to guarantee expenses, contending the Quebec team was not strong enough. The previous year Grads had overwhelmed the same team 99-20 in an exhibition game on the eastern squad's own floor.

Durant, Okla., Cardinals captured the international crown with three straight victories in 1933 but the American champions for the next three years—Tulsa Stenos—lost each time to Grads. Little Rock, Ark., Flyers won the United States title in 1937 but they failed to arrange a series with the Canadians. The amateur union in that country refused to designate any other team to represent the United States with the result there was no series for the crown. So Grads still are North American champions.

YOUTH TO CARRY TORCH FOR LEAFS IN N.H.L. STRIFE

TORONTO, Oct. 26 (CP)—Youth will carry the torch for Toronto Maple Leafs in the coming National Hockey League campaign. The old stalwarts have gone and in their place Conny Smythe has assembled the youngest of his veterans and mixed them with budding minor leaguers and a few outstanding amateurs.

Half the defence Leafs started the 1936-36 with is gone—Happy Day to New York Americans and King Clancy to coach Montreal Maroons. It is yet unknown whether Smythe has uncovered replacements of sufficient skill. Certainly there was none of the Leaf rearguard last spring to replace the drive and leadership the King gave.

The making of a great hockey club lie in the surviving members of Toronto's front lines where Harvey (Busher) Jackson, Syl Apps, Charlie Conacher, Gordon Drillon, Bill Thoms and Buzz Boll will carry the burden of offensive. There's unlimited power among these forwards. But, maring the defence problem all the more acute, they are not the best back-checking men in the business.

Horner With Fowler

The oldest member of the team at 28, Reginald (Red) Horner will team with young Jimmy Fowler as the No. 1 rearguard in front of Walter (Turk) Broda, who promises to be improved in his second year among National Leaguers. Reg Hamilton, in all probability will draw a third regular berth on the defence.

There is a fourth, and perhaps a fifth, to be chosen from Jack Church, Jack Howard, Chuck Shannon, Jack Fox, a member of Winnipeg's Dominion junior champions, and Bab Davidson, a forward who has been shifted back in Leaf workouts at Galt. Promising reports have come from camp on the husky Fox, likely to receive a year's seasoning with the Leaf's farm at Syracuse.

Punch, Smythe expects, will be added to the attack by Murphy Chamberlain from Sudbury's Allan Cup Tigers and Bill Thomson, former Port Arthur Bearcat and regarded as one of the best amateur wingmen in the country last season. They are fighting for regular spots along with Regis (Pep) Kelly, Nick Metz, and a half-dozen Syracuse Stars who can go up from the International - American League if they show enough prior to Leafs' Nov. 4 opening.

One of the outstanding rookies in camp, Pete Langelle may make the N.H.L. in one jump from junior ranks. Also from Winnipeg's championship Monarchs, Langelle has big-league class.

Old Faces Gone

Gone from the Leaf roster, besides Day and Clancy, are Frank Finnigan, retired, Jack Shill and Art Jackson, sold by Smythe in the greatest rebuilding campaign attempted since the club relinquished the Stanley Cup in 1933. No matter what lineup comes out, there will be new faces for the ever-faithful Toronto fans to cheer.

When this season starts several questions regarding this Leaf machine of 1937-38 will have the beginning of answers. Not the least of these concerns Charlie Conacher's come back after his poorest season. Injured most of last season, Conacher left a gap that was hard to fill.

MARRIAGE IMPROVE TRACKMAN'S SPEED

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., Oct. 26 (CP)—Does marriage help a track and field star? Opinions differ but it seems correct to say it does in the case of Robert "Scotty" Armitt, 21-year-old Lethbridge runner who is a nominee for the British Empire Track and Field team.

In 1934, young Armitt started his running career. He always showed plenty of stride and stamina but his performance were not particularly spectacular. Today he is an ace among Alberta trackmen.

Six months ago he was married. Since then he has won every race he entered.

Breaking championship records is part of his training, under the guidance of trainer Frank Miles, who lengthened his stride. He takes a tremendous stride now—about seven feet. New Alberta records stand in his name today.

Plugging steadily on a pair of piston-like legs through rain, snow and mud, over gravel, concrete and dirt roads, "Scotty" set a new record here in the annual Thanksgiving Day three mile road race.

Armitt finished the grind with a rousing sprint to clip 4 4-5 seconds off a record set under ideal conditions in 1931 by Charles Conner of Bellevue, Alta. The new mark is 16 minutes, 15 2-5 seconds.

For Armitt that time was slow. In practice after practice he easily beat the old mark. Once, running against time, he covered it in 14:50, a full minute and a half under the record he broke.

The winner gained the distinction of becoming the first home-brew—he was born in Lethbridge—to capture the classic in its 20-year-old history. He finished far ahead of Cyril Barton and Dave Harris, of Medicine Hat, second and third respectively. Harris won the race last year.

In the recent zone trials for the British Empire Track team at Vancouver, Armitt finished the three-mile race alone.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

PRO RASSLIN' returns to Peterborough next week, after an absence of nigh onto two years. A three or four-card program will be put on at the Brock St. arena Friday, November 5th, at popular prices. Incidentally that term "popular prices" has always intrigued us. What is a popular price? A dime for a stein of suds has never been too popular with the parched but seems most popular with the proprietor of Ye Olde Sud Shoppe. What is one man's meat is another gee's poison—and so it goes with popular prices. Anyway, with work improved around this town a grest deal now—sure, and isn't everyone fairly rollin' in the stuff?—and the meaty matmen back with their grunts and groans, such a show ought to be a success. The ex-Summer Gardens on the Rue Brock always was popular for these cards, too.

* * * * * * *

BOB MORLEY of Windsor is the promoter of this grapple stable. He hopes to run one every few weeks here if the customers go for the bouts. Morley has a good bunch of guys on his list, several being well-known around these parts. For instance, Alex Kaasboski, Frankie Hart and Jack Kogut. Also Max Martin, Al George, Walter Strois, a masked Myster Man, and the Great Mephisto. Others, too, whose names we dunno yet. The prospective program ought to be along some time this week. And the suspense will be ovah.

NORM BOWLER of the Riverview A.C. informs us that the local boxing club had to call off its proposed show this month since Toronto clubs did not open for training till October, and there were no Toronto amateurs in shape. The local mitt-slingers move this week to their new place on George St., opposite the "Y", where they have two floors over a barber shop for training purposes. New equipment will be purchased and installed right away and something definite should be announced shortly. They may line up a card at the Brock within a couple of weeks or so.

CENTRAL WON the School Soccer League championship for the year last e'en at King Edward Park by copping a 2-1 triumph over King Edward School. The uptowners had won the first play-off fray by a 1-0 score. This is in marked contrast to the soccer payoffs between these teams last autumn when the lads battled nine ties and finally called the whole thing off. The K.E. kids missed two penalty kicks in this last p.m. or it might have been a different tale. Congrats to the winners and a pat on the back for the losers. Coaches Munro and Crawford rate credit, too, for their work with these teams. Next thing on the program for the school boys will be hockey—no, no, no; not hookey, Willie!

HERE IS a letter on ladies' basketball: "Dear Sir—The L.O.B.A. is endeavoring to interest prospective teams in affiliating with the L.O.B.A. either individually or in local or district leagues. It has been drawn to our attention that there are two teams in Peterborough, the C.G.E. and Westclox, that might be interested. Would it be possible for you to ask their managers to contact me in this regard? Cobourg girls are anxious to enter. There may be others around that district and if so we would like to give any assistance within our power to form leagues. L.O.B.A. annual meeting is in Chatham at the Wm. Pitt Hotel at 8 p.m. November 13th, and prospective teams or leagues are invited to send representatives. If a Central Ontario League can be formed, the L.O.B.A. will be glad to assist transportation of a representative from said league to the first meeting. Copies of the L.O.B.A. constitution will be sent to anyone requesting them. Yours truly, Frances J. Watson, Secretary; (Mrs. John G.)" Local managers might write to this lady.

THERE HAS been some criticism of the local executive calling off the Eastsides-Orfuns' grid game here Saturday because of the weather—but it wasn't such a foolish move, after all. Conditions were bad in the first place what with the field half water and half mud, and a steady downpour of rain which turned to snow and hail in the afternoon. Teams could not be expected to play decent rugby under these conditions nor could fans be expected to attend. A healthy financial guarantee had to be offered Toronto to obtain 'em and the club wasn't looking for a financial beating if possible to avoid it. And furthermore it seems that Eastsides, in line with the old Toronto custom in sports of holding an ace up the sleeve, will be trotting into O.R.F.U. playdowns, anyway, as a T.R.U. intermediate representative. So they wouldn't insist too much on being given their mathematical chance in this grouping. They didn't want to risk injuries any more than the local officials.

* * * * * * *

A FEW of the scribes around and about commented on this postponement—since rugby games are rarely postponed (though Peterborough did it before for infantile paralysis). Oshawa writer says the players were sissies, whereas the Lindsay columnist says he doesn't blames the boys a bit. Though, of course, the players themselves were willing to play—they had no choice. Belleville scribbler remarks that the Camp Borden-Trenton R.C.A.F. tussle Saturday was not played owing to weather conditions. Fitzgerald in the Tely writes: "Peterborough made rugby history by calling off a game owing to wet grounds. However, it was reported the degree of wetness was such as to submerge the field. After all, it is not so imperative that any game be played when swimming is part of the play. At that, a couple of high school teams waded through a game on the same field that day."

* * * * * * *

LINDSAY BLUE Bombers continue to throw threats this way, saying they will not disband for the season till after Saturday when they will trim the pants off the local Orfuns. It is cold weather to be without pants and we doubt very much if the Orfuns will stand for any depanting (a new word), regardless of the revenge motif on the part of the Blew Bombers. One of the latter players stated the other day to the Scugog scribe: "Get your big type all set up for next Saturday because we're going to lick the Orfuns." It is a most commendable attitude but we would not advise the Post's sports editor to lay out a 92-point heading for the occasion just yet. Better keep the 11-point type handy, too. Those Orfuns are orful ornery at 'ome, y'know.

Junior Sports Hour Held in Y.W.C.A. Pool

The Y.W.C.A. pool was a poplar place for the junior sports hour when the shuttle relay races for the Public schools were very closely contested.

Central school won from Prince of Wales.

Queen Alexandra from King George school.

St. Mary's Convent from Queen Mary.

In the diving competition:

Convent 1st— Grace Schiarrizza, Angelino De Carlo.

Queen Alexandra 2nd — Phyllis Liddell, Joan Foster.

King George 3rd—Ruth Harris, Iris Forbes.

Central 4th—Doris Panning, Agnes Heal.

Prince of Wales 5th — Loreen Bradley, Beulah Milburn.

Queen Mary 6th — Beverley Hughes, Ann Boyle.

Schools are now in the second schedule with Queen Alex leading, with Prince of Wales a close second in the races. The school finals will be held in late November. Miss Littlefield announced about the big Hallowe'en party in the Y.W.C.A. gym Saturday 10 a.m.

EKELUND DENIES SUGGESTING BAN

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 26 (AP).—Bo Ekelund, secretary of the International Amateur Athletic Federation, Monday termed as "perfectly ridiculous" reports that he suggested banning the United States from the Olympics at the instigation of Italian sports officials.

The reports were that the I.A.A.F. was considering punitive action against the American Athletic Union of the United States because of its anti-Nazi stand. Jeremiah T. Mahoney, president of the A.A.U., led the fight against the United States participation in the 1936 Olympics. He lost, but after the games was elected head of the organization.

Last summer the Foreign Relations Committee of the A.A.U. refused to permit a touring American track and field team to compete in Germany.

GOODYEAR
TIRES WILL KEEP YOU GOING

LUG TIRES For TRUCKS And BUSES
● All "bad road" driving of truck, bus or tractor calls for Goodyear Lug Tires. They go through deep snow and mud with ease and security. Sturdy, deep, diagonal cleats to bite in—to find their own traction—to keep on rolling. Less slipping and sliding than with ordinary tires.
No need to worry about skiddy, sharp turns, narrow, greasy, high-crowned country roads. Goodyear Lugs take them all in their stride. Their safe, sure traction saves time, gas, oil and nerve strain.
STUDDED For PASSENGER CARS
● Goodyear Studded Tires on your passenger car will save you nerve strain in off-the-pavement driving. They'll save you gas and oil, too, because they give sure traction.
Deep snow and mud that stop-up ordinary tires are easy for these new Goodyears. In soft ground or greasy ruts, they keep you moving truly and safely. Avoid the hazards of tough going on ordinary tires—if you are one whose duty takes you into the mud and clay of unimproved roads, put Studded tires on your car.
Get ready for the "bad road" season that lies ahead, drive in and let us put new Goodyear "Lugs" or "Studs" on your car, truck, bus or tractor now.

Orillia Baby Terriers Secure Game Lead In Title Series

Easterners Come From Behind To Beat Vancouver Bluebirds 11-10 In First

ORILLIA, Ont., Oct. 26.—(CP)—Orillia Baby Terriers held a one-game lead over Vancouver Bluebirds to-day in their race for the Canadian junior lacrosse championship. Terriers came from behind here last night to beat the coast team 11-10 in the first of the best-of-five series for the Minto Cup.

Second game of the series will be played here to-morrow and the third Friday. The fourth and fifth games, if necessary, will be played here Nov. 1 and in Toronto Nov. 3.

The Minot Cup, placed in competition for professional lacrosse teams at the turn of the century by the Earl of Minto, then Canada's Governor-General, is now emblematic of Canadian junior lacrosse supremacy.

Terriers trailed 3-1 at the end of the first quarter and 6-6 at half time. The three-quarter tally was deadlocked at 8-8, then Orillia outscored the coast team 3-2 to win the game. At one point in the second quarter Bluebirds led 6-1, but a scoring spree by the Terriers out down the margin while they held off their opponents.

Lead Scoring List.

Bob Lee of Vancouver and Terriers' Cassidy led the scoring honor list with three goals each. Good for two points apiece were Bradbury and Jimmy Douglas of Vancouver, and Worsencroft, Terrier defenceman.

Both teams checked hard and close, but the game was fast and comparatively clean, as only seven penalties were handed out by Referee J. Gunn, Vancouver, and Andy Tudhope, Orillia, pinch-hitting for Max Peart, Port Colborne. Vancouver men received four of the penalties and Terriers three.

Onions Smith, Orillia rover, started scoring at 1:30 of the first period, but Orillia didn't score again until 8:30 of the second session when Smith assisted Hewitt on a good shot past Herbie Delmonico in the Bluebirds' net. In that time Vancouver sent six goals whizzing past Ray Mortimer, Orillia goalie.

Five minutes after the third period opened, the Terriers were even with the Bluebirds at 6-6, but Johnny McDonald and Lee sunk two Bluebird goals to again take the lead. Before the period ended, however, Crowe scored unassisted and Parr sank the pass Cassidy threw to tie the score.

Mortimer and Delmonico were kept busy in the nets warding off fast shots as the Bluebirds and Terriers raced the length of the field in a fast session at the close of the third period. Terriers ran up a three-goal lead, their highest of the night, by the end of half the final period, Vancouver was only able to score twice before the final whistle, leaving Orillia with a one-goal victory.

Among Grand-daddies Of Big Time Hockey

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (C.P.). — When Butch Keeling returns to perform for New York Ranger fans here on November 11 he will not only be the veteran of the squad, but also one of the National Hockey League's eight grand-daddies.

Only 31, the Owen Sound sharpshooter became the Rangers' oldest player in point of service when Frank Boucher decided to devote most of his time to assisting Coach Lester Patrick. He has been in the big-time 12 years, and there are only eight players who were in the N. H. L. when Butch broke in with Toronto Maple Leafs in 1926, who are still active in the circuit.

Aurel Joliat, brilliant left-winger, and Babe Siebert, defenceman, both of Montreal Canadiens, were in the big-time when Keeling made his jump. Nels Stewart and Happy Day of New York Americans; Eddie Shore and Hooley Smith of Boston Bruins; Paul Thompson of the Chicago Black Hawks; and Hec Kilrea of Detroit Red Wings, are the others.

TORONTO CONSOLS TAKE ATHOLSTAN SOCCER TROPHY

TORONTO, Oct. 26 (C.P.). — Toronto Consols are new holders of the Athol stan Trophy and the National Soccer League title by virtue of a form reversal that enabled them to defeat Falconbridge Falcons 5-1 here last night.

Recovering from a 3-1 defeat the Northerners handed them on Saturday in the first of the two-game series, Consols cut loose last night under the floodlights with a slashing game that ran the Northern champions off their feet. They won the round 6-4.

Falcons played without Wallace, their regular netminder, who was injured in the first game, and appeared troubled by the lights. Once the Toronto attack got going in the second half, they were outclassed.

STENGEL IS NAMED MANAGER OF BEES

BOSTON, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Boston Bees Monday named Casey Stengel, former manager of Brooklyn Dodgers, as their pilot for 1938, succeeding former Manager William B. McKechnie.

In a room filled with newspapermen, J. Robert Quinn, president of the Bees, telephoned Stengel at the latter's home in Omaha, Tex., and offered him the job.

Stengel accepted. No terms were announced, but Quinn indicated the question of salary and length of contract would be settled when Stengel came to Boston early next month.

Stengel was idle last summer, although under contract with the Dodgers, from whom he was reputed to have received more money for not managing the club than Burleigh Grimes, the team's pilot, did for finishing sixth.

Central Students Win Soccer Championship

Defeats King Edward 2-1 In Hard-Fought Title Struggle

Central Public School won the soccer championship yesterday (Monday) afternoon, on King Edward Park, before a large crowd of spectators, by defeating King Edward in the second game of the series, by the score of 2 to 1, to gain possession of the Aldis Kay trophy which is emblematic of the soccer championship.

Drummond, Central goalie, was brilliant in goal and saved a penalty shot in the last minute of the game to give his team the verdict. Curtis, King Edward, also showing an excellent brand of goal tending. Millen scored the opening counter for Central and Royal Clarke scored from a corner kick. Parsons, Kiff and Bell Foster were the mainstay of the Central success as a perfect half back line.

Central won the previous game 1-0.

Pretty Combination

In the early stages the players indulged in clever combination to bring out the excellent qualities of the half-back divisions, in which Kiff, Central, concentrated in first-time tackling to offset the close dribbling of the King Edward attack that was very effective inside the goal area. Eventually excitement prevailed in the elusive play by Leether and Murduff, on the right wing, to work inside the shooting area to test Drummond with a criss-cross drive that he punted upfield. Parsons trapped the ball as it fell from the air to slip it forward to Moorehead who met Dalliday in a keen tussle, the latter gaining the decision. Murduff accepting the pass forward to meet Parsons in a tackle who sent his left winger away down the field. He land a perfect pass across the goal where Shea intercepted a dangerous raid. Play run from end to end with the defence standing up to the grueling test of a steady bombardment in the goal territory, in fact, the wing men dominating the situation with their timely raids along the line.

On one occasion, the Central full backs were caught up the field and Jamieson lying unmarked travelled towards goal where his effort was weak as Drummond, goalie, cleared with a punt up the centre. Kiff headed the ball forward to beat two men on an individual effort as he dribbled his way toward King Edward goal. He feinted a move that left Millen on the right wing uncovered and sent his man away into the corner where he beat two men as he centered across the goal to witness his men miss the opening and go past on the other side. Just before the interval, Foster, at centre half, intercepted a Central raid to send his wingmen. Leether and Murduff to the other end where the former tested the custodian with a beautiful effort. No scoring at half time.

Game Full of Pep

The second period opened up at a terrific pace with King Edward bombarding the Central citadel from all angles but the winners full backs, R. Clarke and G. Lee, responding with a superb stand against the stead pressure of the King Edward attack. Kiff, falling side right connected with a right footer to find the net. Encouraged by their success Central took things easy to find King Edward receiving a penalty kick when a ball handling decision allowed Langton to increase his reputation as a penalty scorer but his parting effort rolled back to aid his defence to meet his attack with stead punting and clever interception, to baffle the Langton, Murduff and H. Foster combination at the logical moment. The centre half from Central carried the ball up the field and drew out the defence to send Millen inside the full backs to test Curtis, King Edward goalie, with a stinging drive that he failed to hold as the Central outround the post. Central replied with another raid that brought a succession of corner kicks in which Curtis in goal, was outstanding but he had to admit defeat when Royal Clarke decided to try his skill from a corner kick that resulted in his shot hitting the inside of the far upright to give Central a 2-0 count. Within a minute, Foster (T), King Edward took a foul kick outside the goal territory to send a lightening drive into goal. Kiff jumped up in the air to head the ball but it skimmed off his head to beat his own custodian. Thereafter, King Edward responded with a steady bombardment that had the Central boys upset as they all fell back into goal to save their one goal lead. Kiff robbed Murduff as he was in act of shooting to send Parsons a timely pass out to the wing. He lifted the ball over to his pivot who delivered a nice pass out to Miller-Millen wing that evaded the full backs to find Curtis holding a fast drive from the foot of Burns that was slated for the corner. Again Curtis saving two stinging drives to let T. Foster transfer the ball to the other end. Murduff got the better of the argument with Parsons as the latter covered up the outside right but Moorehead conceded a penalty kick a minute before the finish. Excitement was at a high pitch when the south-end player drove hard for under the bar. Drummond, Central custodian pulled the ball down out of danger to kick clear as the whistle sounded. Central 2, King Edward 1.

The teams:

King Edward—W. Curtis, goal; H. Dalliday, L. Shea, full-backs; A. McMaster, T. Foster and K. Anderson, half-backs; R. Leether, C. Murduff, K. Langton, H. Foster and D. Jamieson, forwards; subs, J. Weaver and L. Smith.

Central—F. Drummond, goal; R. Clarke and G. Lee, full-backs; N. Foster, F. Kiff and J. Parsons, half-backs; W. Millen, D. Miller, E. Moorehead, S. Clarke and G. Batten, forwards; subs, G. Burns and W. Smith.

Referee—D. Buchan.

Pilots Reds

Second big league club to announce change in managers for 1938, the Cleveland Indians, has selected Oscar Vitt, above, 47-year-old manager of the Newark Bears of the International league, to pilot the Tribe. Vitt, whose home is in Oakland, Cal., and who is a former Detroit Tiger infielder, succeeds Steve O'Neill, former catcher of the Tribe. Previously the Cincinnati Reds had appointed Bill McKechnie as manager.

STRATHROY RETAIN BASEBALL 'A' TITLE

STRATHROY, Oct. 26.—(CP). — Strathroy won the Ontario Baseball Amateur Association Intermediate "A" title here Monday by winning both games of a double-header after Creighton Mines won the first contest of the three-game series at Copper Cliff last week.

Strathroy won yesterday's games 9 to 4 and 4 to 0. Creighton took the first game 4 to 1. The teams were snowed out when they attempted to settle the issue here Saturday.

Creighton used three hurlers in an effort to curb Strathroy in the first game, the winners combining eight hits and three Creighton errors to score their nine runs. Fidler on the mound for Strathroy allowed eight hits, but kept them scattered.

McDougall pitched four-hit ball in shutting out the Miners in the second contest. Marchildon, who also worked part of the first game, twirled for Creighton in the second. He allowed seven hits, the winners' runs coming individually in the first, third, fourth and fifth innings.

Hockey Players Not In Drawing Room

LONDON, Oct. 26 (C.P.)—Claiming "everyone knows" hockey players in England are paid, Trevor Wignall, the well-known sports writer, believes "a great blunder has been made in still labelling hockey with the amateur tag."

Referring to recent holdouts by some players, Wignall writing in The Daily Express says: "All the arguments this season have come from men who refused the terms offered them and it strikes me that the height of absurdity has been reached with the announcement that this winter a weekly limit of £96 (about $480) only will be permitted as expenses for a team.

"I understand this will work out at £8 ($40) per week for each player. But wouldn't it be more sensible if this were plainly written down as wages?

"It is customarily said that when tennis stars are made offers to join the professional ranks what bothers them is the possibility of losing social status. Ice-hockey players are not, in the main, drawing-room decorations and scarcely one of them would argue that his position as a wage-earner would interfere with his society leanings."

CATALAN COAST HEAVILY BOMBED

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Oct. 26 (A.P.). — Spanish insurgents occupied Osan Woods in the Sabinanigo sector to-day, their daily communique reported, after a day of intermittent fighting on the Northern Aragon front.

A Spanish Government communique admitted the insurgents seized the woods yesterday, but asserted "our resistance was most tenacious."

Reports from insurgent general headquarters at Salamanca said the insurgents captured a quantity of arms and ammunition and a field kitchen after the government troops retired, leaving more than 100 dead.

General Franco's commanders reported government entrenchments around the Agricultural School of University City, on Madrid's northwestern edge, had been destroyed with mines.

(Advices from Madrid told of a renewal of air raids on the former capital after a respite of several months. Two insurgent planes swooped out of low-hanging clouds yesterday and sprayed streets with their machine guns. No one was believed wounded.)

The insurgent communique reported extensive aerial bombardment of the Catalan coast of Northeast Spain, mentioning "the bombardment and serious damage to a merchant ship off San Seliu, near Barcelona.

(There was an unofficial and unconfirmed report that a French freighter had been sunk at Barcelona after a bombardment in which the Valencia Defence Ministry said three Italian tri-motored bombers were shot down.)

JAPS APOLOGIZE OFFER INDEMNITY

LONDON, Oct. 26 (CP-Havas) — Japan today officially apologized to the British Government for the attack on a British outpost at Shanghai on Sunday, which caused the death of Private R. McGowan of the Royal Ulster Rifles.

Tokyo also offered indemnity and announced an inquiry would be instituted to insure punishment of those guilty of the attack.

The celerity of the Japanese apology contrasted sharply with the dilatory tactics pursued when Ambassador Sir Hughe Knatchbull-Hugessen was injured by a Japanese airplane attack in August.

On that occasion the Japanese for several weeks denied responsibility. On this occasion there was no doubt whatever as to the identity of the attacker.

ANGRY CO-EDS DENY DETAILS OF ORGIES AT OXFORD PARTIES

LONDON, Oct. 26.—Students of Oxford University, both men and co-eds, rose up in a chorus of wrath last night against the published charges of one of their fellow-students that the place is a hot-bed of "drunken orgies and sex-indulgencies."

Keith Briant, editor last year of the undergraduate newspaper, "Isis," made the allegations in his new book, "Oxford Limited," the reviews of which shocked parents over the breakfast table yesterday.

Briant asserted, among other things, that one girl student out of five "experiments with sex" during her four years at one of the four women's colleges of Oxford. The ratio for men students, he said, is considerably higher—about one out of three.

Most of the students were irate in their replies to Briant, others "laughed off" charges.

"He's just a squealer and an opportunist," said one.

The girls seemed more angry than the men.

"It's nonsense to suggest that our lives are just one long alcoholic orgy," an attractive co-ed said. "We got here by hard work and can stay only by continuing to work."

She admitted, however, that a relaxation of the rules governing the women's colleges—Somerville, Lady Margaret's Hall, St. Hugh's Hall and St. Hilda's—would take away the lure of wild parties.

Most of the girls were inclined to agree with Briant, that the "spinster autocracy" of Oxford—the female dons who enforce the rules of conduct—could be blamed for many of the reported indiscretions.

"Their discipline is too strict, and if there is some outbreak, it is easy to understand the reason," a girl student explained.

"Our lives are very cramped here, and we resent it when we see the boys having a good time. But there are actually very few of the boys who have enough money to throw expensive parties such as Briant's book describes."

Briant's book, asserting that several Oxford girls, have become "actually notorious," described in detail a student "orgy" which he said he attended and where the girls were plied with potent and unfamiliar liquor.

DEAD RECKONING

BY

BRUCE HAMILTON

READ THIS FIRST:

Tim Kennedy graduated into wouldbe homicide from the school of armchair murderers. With a lucrative dental practice and an enviable social position in a small town near London, Tim, at middle age, feels happy and secure. Then Esther is run down by a truck, returning home a week later a physical wreck, with all her former beauty shattered. Tim loses all interest in his wife and is greatly attracted by Alma Shepherd, a widow. He becomes infatuated and finally decides that Esther must die. Trying to work his wife into a state of despondency over her condition, so he can make a suicide, Tim feels the time for the poisoning is ripe. His plans are spoiled when Dr. Harold Arkwright, Esther's uncle, in discussing Esther's condition, tells Tim he is positive she never would take her life.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 20.

So Esther got her holiday. They set out on the following Friday, and stayed away six weeks, returning at the beginning of September. Tim went away with his mind a complete blank on the subject of greatest moment to him. His confidence had been impaired by the failure of his first project, and his planning remained for a time hesitant, indefinite, an Utopian.

It was a long time before he was able, with the taste of sour grapes becoming a little less acid in his mouth, to persuade himself that his original plan fell short of fulfilling the ideal conditions he had postulated. But he did at last succeed in doing so, to his own satisfaction, and in retrospect the idea of a sham suicide, accompanied by forgery, began to appear naive, intolerably clumsy and entirely unworthy of him. He finally even reached a point when he believed he had abandoned it on his own initiative, without the pressure of external events.

Suicide, beyond question, had to be ruled out, and the conclusion he reached was that it had been damned from the beginning because of its lack of the cardinal necessity—simplicity. The perfect method was to engineer a death from natural causes. He saw that this was by no means universally impossible, and he could imagine or recall from his wide reading of detective fiction ways in which it could be brought about which would be beautifully ingenious and perfectly suspicion-proof.

Suppose, for example, Esther had a peculiar intolerance for some particular drug—say atropine or even the barbituric group, and he found that she could be dispatched by the medicinal dose or a little more. Or suppose she caught a winter chill that turned to double pneumonia, and by opening windows and doors, presuming there was no nurse to queer the business, he let in cold draughts that would virtually assure a fatal termination. There were half a dozen other possibilities that occurred to him, but they all required certain primary conditions, none of which were present here.

Next best to the artificial contrivance of a natural death was the arrangement of an accident. If he could manage to push Esther down a deep flight of stone steps, or over the top of a cliff, or get her into a boat and overturn it, it would be easy enough for him to invent, and impossible for anyone else to disaprove, any plausible fairy tale. But there were no suitable steps at The Wilderness, the lake was nowhere deeper than three feet, and he did not see how, in the near future anyway, it was going to be a practical proposition getting Esther to the top of a suitable cliff, or into a boat on a suitable river, under just the right circumstances.

He tried to look at the matter in a more realistic way, to examine Esther's own background, life, and health, with a view to bringing to light some idiosyncrasy or weakness which might be exploited. There was her arm, of course. . . . It was still discharging, and he was attending to the dressings himself. If he had been a doctor instead of a dentist, with the whole British pharmacopoeia at his disposal, and a scientific knowledge of what to do with it, it would probably not be difficult to introduce some toxic substance or organism which would do the work simply and expeditiously. But he was not a doctor, and he had no faith in his ability to work successfully by the book alone, even if he had any means of getting hold of his hypothetical toxin in a safe and regular way.

Here, if he had known it, he was getting a great deal warmer. But at the time, which was that of his first intense but fruitless cerebrations following the stillborn medinal attempt, it did not occur to him to look further afield than Esther's bad arm. And he presently abandoned that particular line of country as a blind alley. It was weeks before he returned to it, and then only by the help of a direct suggestion from outside.

This came on the last week of their voyage. They were returning from Piraeus on a Dutch liner. The holiday had been too much of a rush to give Esther the maximum benefit. Tim, who had never traveled any farther than France or Belgium, had in a parenthetical way been anxious to make the most of the trip, so that the original plan of an uninterrupted cruise had developed into a series of short jumps from port to port, varied by exhausting inland excursions.

Esther had, of course, been left in a hotel while Tim went on the more strenuous expeditions, but the strain and worry of coping with foreign tongues and habits, on top of the irregular and frequently uncomfortable journeys, had kept her back; and if it had ever occurred to her seriously to criticize her husband she might well have wondered whether the primary object of the holiday was her own recuperation or Tim's enjoyment.

On the last stage of the voyage, however, she did begin to pick up a little. They were lucky enough to strike the Mediterranean on its best behavior, and the meals, as is always the case with Dutch boats, were enticing and on a heroic scale. Her appetite for food which had shown a depressing want of enthusiasm since the accident, suddenly returned; she seemed, in fact, to be anxious to make up for lost time.

One night she retired early, after one of those formidable gastronomical orgies for which the word dinner seems entirely too modest a term. Tim stayed up till about 11 for a little bridge in the smoking room, and when he finally climbed into the upper berth of the cabin he noticed that Esther, though apparently fast asleep, was breathing

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S RESERVED SEAT.

"Ha! Ha! Ha!" laughed the Fox.

"What's the joke?" asked the Bob Cat hoping the Fox wasn't looking at the silly little tail the mewing Bad Chap wore.

"You are," said the Fox. "Do you like music? Oh, yes, Uncle Wiggily. Then listen to this rubber band. Snap Bang! Socko on the nose; eh what "

"Oh, cut it out," said the Bob Cat who really wasn't very polite, using slang as he did.

"Well, that's how it happened, hasn't it? Old Wiggy fooled you with a rubber band which hasn't any more music in it than a rusty door hinge. And you fell for it and he whammed you Zowie!"

"He would have fooled you just the same," said the Bob Cat.

"Never!" growled the Fox. "I'm too smart for him. I'd like to see Old Wiggy try to fool me."

"Well, maybe you will," snarled the Bob Cat.

Nearly Quarrel.

The two Bad Chaps had met after something happened that I told you about in the story yesterday. Now they were nearly ready to quarrel.

"You say Uncle Wiggily won't fool you?" mewed the Bob Cat.

"No. I am too smart for him."

"Well, here's your chance to try it," went on the Bob Cat, I see Uncle Wiggily hopping in the woods not far from here. You go after him and try to catch him. But don't let him fool you with any music from a rubber band."

"No fear; I shan't!" boasted the Fox.

So the Fox slunk to the woods after Uncle Wiggily, who had gone there to look for an adventure. Mr. Longears was wearing a new pair of red pants with his black coat and looked very stylish.

"I think I'll sit down on this flat stump and wait for an adventure to come along," said the rabbit gentleman to himself.

He was about to sit on the stump when, all of a sudden, he said:

"No, I've changed my mind. I won't sit on that stump. I'll save that seat for somebody else. If I sat on that I couldn't get up."

The reason was the stump was covered with a lot of sticky gum from the pine tree. If you have been in the woods and seen this gum ooze from a pine tree of stump you know how very sticky it is. Almost like glue.

Have a Seat.

So Uncle Wiggily sat on the next stump which wasn't sticky, leaving the sticky one for who ever might come along. And the first one to come along, of course, was the Fox.

"Ah, ha! Now I've caught you!" yapped the Fox.

"Oh, have you?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Yes, and you aren't going to fool me by asking if I like music and then whamming me on the nose with a rubber band," went on the Bad Chap "No, indeed!"

"I'm not going to try," said Uncle Wiggily. "But won't you sit down?" he asked politely, pointing to the sticky stump. "There is a reserved seat. After you rest yourself—"

"After I rest myself I'll eat you!" impolitely interrupted the Fox. He was so excited, thinking he had the best of the rabbit, that, without looking, he backed up to the stump and sat down.

"Take a good, long rest," laughed Mr. Longears as he leaped from his stump and hopped away. The Fox tried to follow but he was stuck as fast as glue. "Hope you enjoy the reserved seat!" said the rabbit.

So that's how it happened, all for the best. And if the tooth brush doesn't bite a piece out of the bath tub I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's ink berries.

PREDICTS HOLIDAY TRIPS TO ARCTIC SUMMER RESORTS

TORONTO, Oct. 26—(CP)—Edward Shackleton, 26-year-old explorer, sees the day, if aviation continues developing, that Toronto citizens will be making vacation jaunts to the Arctic. He is the youngest son of the late Sir Ernest Shackleton, Antarctic explorer, and despite his youth has journeyed into the jungles of Borneo and many corners of the Arctic.

Here to make several addresses, Mr. Shackleton said Ellesmere Land, in the Arctic, which he visited with the Oxford University Expedition in 1934 and 1935, has the "healthiest climate in the world."

In describing this part of the Canadian Arctic which he believed some day will be visited by holidayers in planes, Mr. Shackleton said:

"The temperature there doesn't drop lower than it does farther south. I think it might be an excellent place for sanatoria in the future. There is a little lake there, 900 miles north of the Arctic Circle that should be suitable.

"I have bathed in similar lakes on Greenland. I think a summer resort might be established. Remember, if aviation keeps on developing the islands of the Canadian Arctic will soon be only a few hours' flip from Toronto."

WHITBY PLANNING GREENWOOD PARK

WHITBY, Oct. 26.—A movement is on foot to create a new public park in Whitby on the site of Viscount Greenwood's birthplace and named in his honor. The proposed park would occupy two acres of land sold during the boom period to a stock company that failed to use the property and as a result is now held by the town for taxes.

F. Howard Annes, instigator of the park movement, stated that he was prepared to donate "a wonderfully fine specimen of Ailanthus, or Tree of Heaven, one of the most beautiful trees growing in this part of the world, introduced to America from China some 200 years ago, and which my grandmother, Mrs. Ezra Annes, had brought to Whitby by a member of her family who were Huguenots from Poughkeepsie, New York, during the United Empire Loyalists' trek to this Canada of ours."

Mr. Annes, a personal friend of Viscount Greenwood, stated he was sure that Viscount Greenwood would himself donate something toward the park, and if other public spirited citizens rallied, the cost of providing the town with a public park of beauty would be almost negligible. The acreage is situated at the western limits of the town and would provide tourists and visitors with equal pleasure, it was stated. The council will be asked to consider this proposal at the next meeting.

Doctor's Driving License Cut Off

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 26—(CP)—Dr. Angus McIntyre of Glencoe, will either have to get a horse and buggy, or have someone else drive him to see his patients for the next 10 days.

County Magistrate C. W. Hawkshaw took away his right to drive an automobile for that period, when he appeared to-day on a reckless driving charge, laid after Dr. McIntyre's car struck John King, an employee of the Department of Highways.

In addition, Dr. McIntyre was fined $10 and costs.

OSHAWA EX-MAYOR SAYS ASSESSMENT SHOULD BE LOWER

OSHAWA, Oct. 26.—Council should make some effort to have the present assessment reduced by 25 per cent. to give the city some leeway on appeals before the courts, ex-Mayor John Stacey told a meeting of the Property Owners' association, when discussing the proposed new assessment.

Mr. Stacey felt council by instituting the proposed assessment, was leaving itself open to having the assessment practically wrecked before the courts, on appeals to the county judge.

"The new assessment will increase the taxable property of the city by about $9,600,000. I do not know of another city in the province where they have left themselves as close to the margin as in Oshawa on this proposed assessment. In the village of Forest Hill property is only assessed at 25 per cent. of its value," he declared.

He claimed that under the old assessment of assessing at 60 per cent. of the property's value, the city left itself a margin of 40 per cent. on appeals before the courts. As it is at present it has none, he added.

"We are on dangerous ground. I understand at the present time there are a great many appeals listed against the new assessment. If there is a considerable reduction made on these properties where appeals have been made, the brunt of the taxation is going to fall on the properties on which no appeals have been lodged with the result, we again are going to have a lopsided assessment," Mr. Stacey asserted.

"There should be a better and more efficient way of assessing the city. The earning power should determine the assessment. I do not think that the mill rate will be decreased enough to counterbalance the increase in the assessment."

Referring to the present shortage of houses in Oshawa, the speaker suggested building contractors concluded property in Oshawa was a bad investment. "I understand that several large industrial concerns were thinking of locating in Oshawa but they are afraid to come here due to the shortage of houses. They are tearing down more houses than they are building," Mr. Stacey declared.

ENNISMORE

Miss Eleanor Shannon, R.N., Miss Regina and Mr. John Shannon of Buffalo spent the week-end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Shannon.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Cavanagh spent Tuesday with friends in Downeyville.

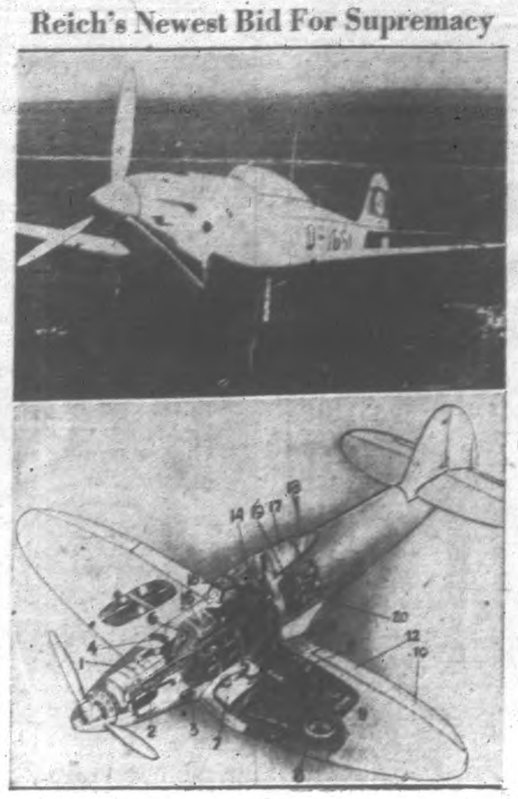
Reich's Newest Bid For Supremacy



With the nations of Europe racing for supremacy in the air, the development by Germany of this new pursuit aeroplane, the HE112, places her a step ahead of her rivals, according to German experts. The craft is built for speed, being capable of better than 300 miles an hour although the single motor boasts but 685 horsepower. The aeroplane is armed with two machine-guns and 6-10 kilogram splinter bombs. At TOP is a view of the aeroplane on the ground. BELOW, a photo-diagram, showing detailed construction. (1) Motor. DEAD RECKONING rather heavily and moving restlessly from one side of her bunk to another. . . . He went off at once into a deep sleep, but an hour or two later he was jerked suddenly to full consciousness by an agonized heart-piercing scream: "Let me out!— for God's sake let me out! . . ." He stepped down quickly.

"It's all right, Esther," he said. "Quite all right. . . ." Her hand had made contact with the inside of the wooden frame of the bunk, she had groped upward to the bottom of the one above, and realized she was shut in. . . . She was nailed in her coffin, 15 feet below ground; the gravediggers had gone; there was no escape. . . . He soothed her and, overcome with exhaustion, she fell asleep again almost at once, this time peacefully.

Others had heard the scream, and there was some little talk about it next day. But nobody seemed to have located it exactly, and the secret was kept.

Tim, indeed, in the smoking room just before lunch, was given a circumstantial and slightly salacious account of what had happened. He was told that there had been an attempted attack, and the identity not only of the victim, but also of the assailant was known to his informant.

It did not occur to either Tim or Esther to regard the incident in any other light than that of an isolated phenomenon, or to look for any nearer cause or occasion than the latter's recognized tendency to nightmare. So she went to bed the next evening at the same time as before—and the cycle was repeated, this time more seriously, and in a way that did not admit of any discreet hushing up.

Insects Drape Town In Cobwebs

Randolph, Utah, Oct. 26—(AP)

RESIDENTS of this village awakened today to find steeples, homes, wires and trees festooned with thousands of silky cobwebs.

The webs, stretched in skeins from 75 to 100 feet, presented a gay but fantastic picture, waving like weird veils in the breeze.

Dan Ingraham, County Farm Agent, said the webs were spun "by some type of insect."

TRENT RIVER

Mr. and Mrs. Russel Fox of Malone and Mrs. Soea of Trenton were recent visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood Soea and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Clarke and family as moving to the Kitchen place at Preneveau.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wood, formerly Doreen McMullen, celebrated the first anniversary of their marriage Sunday, October 17th by taking a motor trip to the Nephaline Company's mines at Blue Mountains in the north country.

Members of No. 2 Ladies' Aid group held a successful quilting and pot luck dinner Wednesday, October 20th in the church dining hall. Two quilts were quilted. The ladies served dinner at the noon hour. Luscious meat pies and many tempting dishes were served. A number of public school pupils attended with their teacher Mr. R. W. Umphrey, the small fee of 10 cents was made resulting in $5.60 for the group fund.

HAWAIIAN PRINCE HELD FOR MURDER OF GIRL IN BRAWL

HONOLULU, Oct. 26—(UP). — Prince David Kawananakoa, playboy son of Princess Kawananakoa, and lineal descendant of last Kings of Hawaii, was questioned by police to-day after a beautiful 21-year-old part-Hawaiian girl was found dead in her apartment, her throat cut and her face badly slashed.

The 32-year-old Prince was held by Detective Jack Bothelo for questioning when he admitted he had been on a drinking party last night with the slain girl, Arvila Kinales, a slender brunette, and her sister Rose.

Apartment in Disorder.

Kawananakoa said he had "no remembrance" of events which preceded the death of the girl.

Police said the apartment, in the Waikiki section, was in disorder, and it appeared there had been a "violent quarrel" during the night. The remains of a midnight supper were scattered about.

Bothelo said the Prince and girl apparently had fought around the room, knocking over chairs and breaking dishes.

Kawananakoa — known to the islanders as "Prinke Koke"—Has been in numerous scrapes.

Dr. Robert B. Faus, city and county physician, who examined the body of the girl, said she apparently bled to death.

There was a jagged hole in her throat, her jugular vein was severed and her face was cut in several places.

The Prince summoned the emergency hospital ambulance shortly after midnight, and doctors tried for more than an hour to save the girl.

Had Been Drinking.

According to Kawananakoa's story he and the two girls had been drinking earlier in the evening, but he said he did not recall any argument and that his memory was foggy about what happened before he called the ambulance.

The sister Rose also was questioned, but police did not say whether she divulged any important information.

Young Kawananakoa is the only son of the widowed Princess Abigail Kawananakoa, former wife of the late Prince Kuhio, who for twenty years was the Hawaiian delegate to Congress. He is heir to a vast fortune, which reportedly brings an annual revenue of more than $300,000.

Kuhio was the son of King Kalakaua, last male monarch of Hawaii, and inherited vast sugar lands and other holdings.

HAPPILY WED SAYS DUKE-ASKS ONLY USEFUL LIFE

BRITAIN WARNS JAP RAIDERS TO BE FIRED ON

Brands Inexcusable Fatal Shanghai Case

LONDON, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Foreign Secretary Eden, amid cheers in the House of Commons said today Great Britain had informed Japan she must "always" expect retaliatory fire if there be any repetition of the fatal attack on a British post in Shanghai on October 24.

Mr. Eden said the air attack, in which one soldier was killed, "was inexcusable" and said that British troops were "entirely justified" in shooting at the airplane.

Mr. Eden, who announced he would head the British delegation to the nine-power conference which will attempt to mediate the Chinese-Japanese war, disclosed His Majesty's government had accepted Japan's apology for the air attack, but gave out a warning at the same time regarding retaliatory fire.

He said the British authorities are awaiting a report now from the Japanese as to steps they have taken to fulfill their promise to "deal suitably" with the offending airmen.

Mr. Eden did not answer when the Communist, William Gallacher, asked him if he would report the matter to the League of Nations.

TWO GUNMEN ROB KING BANK OF $600

KING, Ont., Oct. 27.—(CP).—Two armed men robbed a sub branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce here to-day and escaped in a stolen car with currency estimated at from $600 to $800. King is about 15 miles north-east of Toronto.

While one of the robbers guarded the front door, his companion forced the branch manager, G. A. Philipson, against the wall and covered him with a gun as he took all available cash in the till.

But as he leaped over the counter on his way to the door, the robber's gun fell from his hand. It went off, a bullet going through the ceiling into the apartment above where Mrs. Philipson was doing housework.

The branch manager's wife ran to the window and took the license number of the car in which the robbers raced away. Police said later the plate were from a car stolen Sept. 22 at Barrie, Ont.

Given 30 Days For Cobourg Theft

COBOURG, Ont., Oct. 27 (C.P.).—Gordon Trinett, o Montreal, was sentenced to 30 days when he pleaded guilty in court to theft of a quantity of drugs and a hypodermic needle from the office of a local doctor.

The theft occurred last August.

Magistrate W. A. F. Campbell dated the sentence from the time of his arrest last September, and Trinett walked out of court a free man.

Glace Bay Swept By $50,000 Fire

GLACE BAY, N.S., Oct. 27.—(CP)—Thirty-seven persons were driven to the street and damage estimated at more than $50,000 was caused by a fire which included four buildings in its sweep through the heart of Glace Bay early today. No one was known to have been injured. The buildings were of wooden structure.

Twelve firms suffered fire, smoke or water damage. Club rooms of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, the Isle Royale Club and offices of a life insurance company, a dentist and two lawyers and several apartments suffered loss.

Defence of Shanghai Wavers, Breaks, Fire Sweeps City

Both Chinese and Jap. Troops Make Use of Torch International Sector Busy Fighting Flames

Whipped by a southerly wind, miles of flames swept through what was left of this one-time humanity-packed city. The fires started early today when the Chinese resistance to the Japanese collapsed.

The scenes here tonight were virtually identical to those this correspondent saw in 1932 when the Chinese 19th Route Army ended its heroic stand against the Japanese in the same sector.

Stretching from well toward Kiangwan southward into Chapei to the very edges of the International Settlement, thence westward for an undetermined number of miles, uncontrolled fire swept whatever was in its path.

Chinese Fight On.

Patches of shell-torn but thus far unburned buildings dotted this huge area in which courageous Chinese troops, refusing to retreat before the Japanese thrust, fought on.

But they seemingly were destined to be engulfed in the flames if Japanese bullets did not bring a speedier end.

Vast sheets of flame shot toward the sky. The heat was so intense it was felt throughout the city.

Firemen from the International Settlement, deployed on the south bank of Soochow Creek, continued to fight to save the foreign area from destruction. In a single area where the flames jumped the creek 150 buildings were burned, but the firemen said the fire was under control.

The fires were started by both Chinese and Japanese. Chinese put torches to buildings to cover their retreat from positions they had held for more than two months. Japanese did likewise to drive Chinese fearguard snipers from barricades and blasted ruins.

Miles of Flames.

Over an expanse of six or seven miles, towers of flame shot skyward.

British and United States defence forces guarding Settlement borders against possible military emergencies became fire guards as well.

As the flames roared on, Japanese warplanes strafed retreating Chinese. The Japanese announced their forces had occupied Chapei, but said a number of isolated Chinese units remained.

A Nanking, General Chang Chun, secretary of the Chinese political council, said the government is "not disturbed" by the Chinese retreats.

He described them as "strategic withdrawals, well planned in advance, and intended to give us stronger positions along second defence lines."

Japanese planes strafed Chinese troops along the route of the Shanghai retreat. One plane, British authorities said, opened fire with a machine gun on British outposts near Jessfield Park.

British troops returned the fire with machine guns, and said they

JAPANESE REJECT CALL TO ATTEND BRUSSELS PARLEY

TOKYO, Oct. 27.—(CP-Havas)—Japan today officially rejected the invitation to the Brussels parley of the nine-power pact signatories. A note rejecting the bid was handed to the Belgian ambassador.

Baron Albert de Bassompiere, the Belgian envoy, arrived at the foreign office to receive the communication after it had been approved by Emperor Hirohito.

Koki Hirota, the foreign minister, had gone to the palace with the note, and later received the British and United States ambassadors, Sir Obert Craigie and Joseph Clark Grew, "to explain why Japan is refusing to go to Brussels."

He also indicated the attitude that Japan intended to take toward the deliberations of the conference.

The note declared the conference was inspired by the League of Nations and would "put serious obstacles in the path of a just and proper solution" of the conflict.

(The Belgian foreign office announced yesterday in Brussels that the opening of the nine-power pact consultations had been postponed from next Saturday to next Tuesday.)

The Japanese foreign office simultaneously released a long informal statement which asserted the nine-power treaty was obsolete because of what it termed infiltration of Communism into China and said "the Japanese nation, rising as one man, is united in a determination to surmount all obstacles for the purpose of effecting a speedy settlement."

21 KILLED BY TRAIN

YOKOHAMA, Japan, Oct. 27 (AP)—Twenty-one men and women were killed today when an electric train, said to be a troop train, ploughed through a great crowd gathered along the tracks to cheer. Scores were injured. The accident occurred between Yokohama and Kangawa. The Domei, Japanese news agency said.

800 Armed Men Massing For Attack on Pelee

Biggest Pheasant Hunt In Island's History Starts At 8 a.m. Thursday

PELEE ISLAND, Ont., Oct. 27 (C.P.). — Eight hundred armed men massed on this Lake Erie island today awaited the strike of eight a.m. to-morrow to launch their two-day offensive against pheasants.

The army of hunters began to arrive yesterday. Two boatloads were brought here by Captain J. Earl McQueen's steamship Waubic. To-day, two more loads will arrive with all signs pointing to a record crowd for this year's pheasant shoot.

"The advance sale of gun licenses has been greater than ever before," Arthur Jensen, overseer of the Department of Game and Fisheries, said in Windsor.

"Stores also report they are selling more ammunition and hunting equipment than ever. Times are better and this is sure to be reflected in the crowds of hunters on Pelee Island and the mainland. Last year was the biggest pheasant shoot which has ever been held in this district. I expect that this year there will be even more hunters."

MONTAGUE FREED, JUDGE RAPS JURY

ELIZABETHTOWN, N.Y., Oct. 27—(AP)—Acquitted of a seven-year-old robbery charge, John Montague, plotted today a new and richer chapter in an already amazing life.

Shortly after a jury freed the fabulous golfing pal of movie stars, officials of the Paramount Studios announced in Hollywood that "Mysterious Monty" had signed a contract amounting to $1,000,000 in seven years.

The pact was signed with Everett Crosby, Bing's older brother, and calls for appearances on the radio, in pictures and as a professional golfer competing in the most valued tournaments, studio executive said.

"I hope eventually to get back to Hollywood," he told friends after a jury acquitted him of looting Kin Hana's roadhouse of $700 back in 1930, when he was known as Laverne Moore.

Elderly, Presiding County Judge Harry E. Owen banged his gavel, ordered the spectators out of the aisles after the jury returned their acquittal verdict and looked sternly at the jury.

"Gentlemen, this verdict is not in accord with what I think you should have returned. That, however, is up to you."

MINE ROADS GIVE THOUSANDS WORK CUT FREIGHT RATE

OTTAWA, Oct. 27.— (CP).—New roads, bridges, wharves, and even improvement of portages and remote mining districts, built this year under the Dominion Government's mine-roads scheme, have not only provided work for thousands of men, but have substantially reduced freight rates on mine equipment, a survey by the Mines and Resources Department showed to-day.

A total of 152 such projects are being completed in this year's program, under which the Dominion contributed $1,400,000 and the provinces half as much. This is in addition to an approximately similar amount spend last year in the same way, with the provinces recommending the projects and superintending the work under the Dominion's approval.

Freight rates have been drastically reduced in some instances. In Quebec they were halved in several places. Winter freight costs to many points in Ontario's mining area were cut by $30 to $50 per ton, through the building of new all-weather, heavy-duty mining roads.

Nova Scotia is spending its share mainly on improving existing roads into gold areas in 21 separate projects. Included in Quebec's 17 projects are improvements on the 125-mile stretch from Lake St. John to the mines, completion of the Latuque-Mud Lake road and completion of the Val D'or-Senneterre road.

A varitety of works is included in Ontario's 44 items, heavy truck roads, bridges, drainage, tote-road improvements. The government's appropriation is $331,000.

Largest single work is in the Red Lake area, from Gold Pineau to the Argosy property. Considerable work is being done in the Larder Lake and Timmins districts. A 50-mile road is under way between Gowganda and Shining Tree.

ROWE ACCEPTS THE NOMINATION IN FEDERAL SEAT

Proposes Reshuffling Party, Bottom to Top

ALLISTON, Ont., Oct. 27—(CP).—Hon. Earl Rowe, prepared to conduct a re-organization of the Conservative party of Ontario from "the bottom up," will seek in the Dufferin-Simcoe federal by-election November 15 to return to the House of Commons seat he held for 12 years.

In accepting yesterday the unanimous nomination by Conservatives of the riding to contest the by-election, made necessary through his resignation to contest a seat in the October 6 provincial elections, Mr. Rowe said: "I feel that reorganization of the party is necessary—from the bottom up, and if necessary, from the top down."

He told delegates of Monday's 15½-hour party caucus in Toronto when the legislative members-elect heard Mr. Rowe recommend a province-wide convention be called to discuss the party leadership. Meanwhile, he told the nominating convention, "I will continue to accept that responsibility until I have been relieved of it by a convention."

Five Names Go Up

Mr. Rowe's political intentions were unknown since the Ontario election in which Premier Hepburn's Liberal Government was returned to office. The Conservative leader was defeated in Simcoe Centre by Hon. Dr. L. J. Simpson, Minister of Education, and only 23 members of the party were elected.

Five names were placed in nomination, four of them withdrawing to permit Mr. Rowe to receive unanimous approval of the convention. Thanking the other nominees for their action, the Conservative leader, who represented Dufferin-Simcoe in Parliament since 1926, said the situation was unprecedented.

"We must have a reorganization of all our forces in general," Mr. Rowe said. "The present situation of the party is difficult but we are not downhearted despite the numerous

Stratford Raises Relief Budget

STRATFORD, Ont., Oct. 27 (CP)—The relief recipients budget for miscellaneous groceries and meats will be increased 10 per cent Nov. 16, the relief committee decided when it endorsed unanimously the proposal to Ald. James Stewart, chairman.

Ald. Stewart said the cost of living had advanced by approximately that amount in these food supplies. He said he had gone over a great many of the items with grocers and found there was a substantial increase in many of the items included in the miscellaneous list. The meat prices had gone up most but, fortunately for the relief recipients, are coming down now, he said.

STICKING TO POST

LONDON, Oct. 27 (CP Cable)—Great Britain, it was intimated today, has no intention of abandoning the international settlement in Shanghai. The British military forces there are under orders to use any means necessary to protect British Nationals and British interests.

Cannot Be Content With Leisure He Tells Newsmen

Scores Suspicion Of Any Ulterior Motives In His Travels—First Speech Since Abdication

PARIS, Oct. 27.—(AP)—The Duke of Windsor, in his first public speech since his broadcast farewell to the Empire after his abdication last December, announced today he was going to the United States as a "completely independent observer, without political consideration," and he hoped to aid in "solving some of the vital problems that beset the world today."

Speaking to more than 100 British and American correspondents, the Duke said:

"I am now a very happy married man, but my wife and I are neither content nor willing to lead a purely inactive life of leisure."

After completing his prepared speech the Duke said informally that "I want to thank you all sincerely for having allowed this association to be the platform from which I could express to you frankly the thoughts that I hope will go around the world."

After the luncheon, the Duke said he was sailing for the United States aboard the Bremen on November 6.

The Bremen will reach New York November 11.

In answer to a question from a newspaperman the Duke said he would not go to Canada "this time." He added that he had not even thought of going to South America. He revealed he and the Duchess would spend about five weeks in the United States.

"When Mr. Philip (Percy L., President of the Club) invited me to his luncheon on your behalf, I accepted with pleasure, but with the stipulation that I should not be called upon to make a speech," said the Duke.

"However, in the light of recent press comments, I have, with your chairman's permission, called upon myself to say a few words.

"They do not concern public affairs, but are of personal nature and I wish first of all to thank you for your hospitality and for the spirit of the invitation.

"When Mr. Philip originally invited me, he used the following words: 'At all times and in all circumstances you have shown such understanding of, and patience with those working newspapermen and those working journalists whose duty it has been to report your Royal Highness' doings and words in time past, that our association felt it would be to their very great pleasure to entertain you at luncheon as a private citizen during your stay in Paris.'

"I can assure you I appreciate these sentiments a great deal but, at the same time, they prompt me to speak openly to this important gathering of British and American journalists and to say that there have been occasions when the spirit of understanding mentioned by Mr. Philip has, I regret to say, not always been reciprocated by the press.

Embarrassing Moments

"All of you are familiar with my statement to the press of last June. In spite of my having adhered most faithfully to this policy, I am often at a loss to understand the extent of speculation and what sometimes appears to be a search for ulterior motives in regard to our doings.

"I naturally am not criticizing

TWEED DEATH CAR CASE IS HANDED BELLEVILLE JURY

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Oct. 27 (CP)—After being addressed by Mr. Justice Nicol Jeffrey, the jury empanelled to hear the evidence in the manslaughter charge preferred against Winfield H. Ross of Belleville, whose car allegedly struck and killed Mrs. Emma Root on the Tweed highway on last May 2 retired to consider their verdict shortly before one o'clock.

The Crown completed evidence with the statement from Thomas Gillinan, he heard a motor being "raced" shortly before he heard a crash.

Asked to explain this expression the witness stated he believed the driver was trying to bring his car out of the ditch and was racing his motor. He also said he noticed the car coming down the highway and it was driven in a zig-zag manner. He also said he saw Ross in the home of Roy Marsh and testified that his breath smelt strongly of liquor and he walked with an unsteady gait.

Character evidence was given by the defence and Ross was placed on the stand to give his version of the accident. He said there was considerable dust on the road and he was forced over the shoulder of the highway by an oncoming car and in trying to get back on the road did not observe Mrs. Root walking on the highway. He admitted having a couple of drinks earlier in the day but claimed he was sober at the time of the accident.

Double Rejection Deadlocks Unions

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (AP). — Labor's peace conference recessed today until November 4, after each side had turned down the other's peace proposal.

"The proposal suggests abject surrender," Philip Murray, chairman of the C.I.O. peace committee, said in a statement issued after the Federation had suggested dissolution of the C.I.O. as the basis of the settlement of Labor's strife.

Murray said the Federation had called for the C.I.O. unions which originally were affiliated with the A.F. of L. to "desert and betray the 23 new national and international unions that have joined the C.I.O. since its formation two years ago."

Trapped 18 Months Cat Is Rescued

Bradford, Eng., Oct. 27.

A CAT trapped for 18 months down a quarry shaft 45 feet deep on Idle Moor, Bradford, has been rescued.

An inspector of the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals caught it in a humane trap and hauled it to safety.

The animal was kept alive by residents who threw down scraps of food.

Bring New Hope For Cases Of Burns, Searing Chemicals And Ulcers

By Howard W. Blakeslee
(Associated Press Science Writer.)

CHICAGO, Oct. 27 (AP).—A rectangular shaped window in the eye is the latest contribution of surgery to persons made blind by burns, searing chemicals and ulcers.

These windows are made of bits of the cornea, the transparent outer covering of the eye in front of the pupil, and they are obtained from the eyes of persons newly dead. The windows replace operations which formerly attempted to transplant a cornea from the dead to the living.

The new developments were described to the American College of Surgeons by Ramon Castroviejo, M.D., of the Institute of Opthalmology, Columbia Presbyterian Medical Centre, New York. The beginnings of this surgical art, he said, go back to 1789 when physicians tried glass windows. They failed.

Recently worldwide attention has been attracted by operations in which the entire cornea was transplanted. But Dr. Castroviejo said, all the entire corneas "reported in medical literature" have been failures. These borrowed eye coverings ultimately became opaque.

Leave Cornea In

In the "window" operation the sightless cornea is left in the eye. A small piece of it is removed in front

Marmora Runaway Horse Jumps Car Then Returns To Inspect Damage

Marmora, Oct. 27.

AT least one horse in Marmora township is not short of horse sense judging by the following incident which occurred in Marmora village on Monday forenoon.

The horse and buggy belonging to Orville J. Leonard had been left to the rear of Dunlay's store, the former being tied securely, it was thought, to a post. Somehow the animal got scared and broke loose from the buggy to travel "in high gear," as its owner remarked, through the alleyway on to the street.

It saw a car driven by Sam Rollins of Madoc passing and vaulted over the top only causing trivial damage. As the car stopped within a few feet, the horse came back to inspect the car with an intelligent look.

Mr. Leonard has received suggestions that the horse be entered in worthwhile hurdle races next season.

Nickname An Election Asset British Press Suspects

'Brought Hepburn Thousands Of Votes' — Wonder Why It Never Caught On In Britain

LONDON, Oct. 27—(CP). — The Ontario election aroused interest in England if only for the repeated use of the nickname "Mitch" in the cabled reports. This country enjoys attaching a symbol to its statesmen —a pipe to Baldwin; a fishing rod to Chamberlain—but rarely does it resort to nicknames.

"It was worth thousands of votes at elections to Howard Ferguson," said a Times report, "that he was known far and wide throughout Ontario as 'Fergie'. To-day Mr. Hepburn enjoys a similar advantage through being styled 'Mitch' by all and sundry."

A writer in The Observer commented:

"Why is it that the nickname habit, with all its electoral advantages, has never 'caught on' in this country? Of recent years J. H. Thomas (known as Jimmy) is the only Cabinet minister who has been known to the public by a diminutive.

"Last generation had 'Joe' for Mr. Chamberlain and 'Dizzy' for Lord Beaconsfield, both generally used by political opponents. 'Campbell-Bannerman's 'C.P.' was not a nickname, but short cut. Truth seems to be that the nation suspects too much personal intimacy in politics, having, perhaps, reasonable doubts as to whether the 'hail-fellow-well-met' spirit is wholly in the public interest."

Port Arthur, Oct. 27 (CP)

STOPPING to light his pipe while crossing newly formed ice in Loutit Lake, 18 miles north of here, Ali Tammela, 35-year-old homesteader, crashed into the water and was drowned. Tammela was said to have ignored friends' advice not to cross the lake on skis.

TWO SENTENCED TO 18 MONTHS

COBOURG, Ont., Oct. 27 (C.P.).—Found guilty of breaking into two Millbrook stores on September 26 when they appeared in Police Court, Carl Checkett and Thomas Whiteman of Toronto were sentenced to 18 months definite and 7 months indefinite in the Reformatory. Whiteman received 18 months and 7 months for the hardware store robbery and three months' concurrent for the dry goods store robbery, while Checkett received 18 and 7 for the drygoods store robbery and three months' concurrent for the breaking into the clothing store.

From the hardware shop was stolen a crowbar to break into the drygoods store where $700 worth of clothing was stolen. Half the goods have been recovered.

Merchants Offering Special Values For Three Great Peterborough Days

THE Examiner publishes today a thirty-two page edition presenting a broad and attractive range of values that are being offered in Peterborough stores to the people of the city and district, featuring the three special Peterborough Days, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The enterprise of Peterborough's merchants is reflected in this big event to which they have devoted a great deal of preparation, and prospective buyers will find profit for themselves in a careful reading of the advertisements.

Associated with two other community efforts this week, the Three Peterborough Days reflect a local soundness and fulness

SOVIET STANDS PAT IN DEMAND ON VOLUNTEERS

Charges Italy Still Sending Franco Troops

LONDON, Oct. 27 (C.P.-Havas)—While awaiting the reactions of interested governments to Soviet reservations to a plan for the withdrawal of foreign volunteers from Spain agreed upon by representatives of Great Britain, France, Italy and Germany, Non-intervention Committee technicians to-day worked on practical details of the scheme.

In a five-hour session yesterday the "hands off Spain" sub-committee decided to ask technical experts to deal first with the membership and powers of commissions expected to be sent to government and insurgent Spain to check on the numbers of foreign fighters and arrange for their withdrawal.

Meeting again Friday, the sub-committee may then be in a position finally to adopt a resolution the text of which is being considered by member governments as a result of yesterdays session.

Suggestions from Portuguese and Italian representatives that the sub-committee proceed without Soviet consent caused Foreign Secretary Eden, acting as chairman, and French Ambassador Charles Corbin to remind the delegates that the resolution itself was the business before the sub-committee.

Would Put Finger on Russia.

Italian Ambassador Dino Grandi said the committee had consistently followed a policy of adopting resolutions unanimously. Strict application of this unwritten rule, he declared, would throw upon the Soviet Union responsibility for reaching an agreement.

He asked that governments be consulted on the question of whether a member forming the sole obstacle to unanimity should have the same rights on the sub-committee as the others.

In emphasizing his reservations, the chief of which was that all volunteers must be withdrawn before belligerency rights are considered, Soviet Ambassador Ivan Maisky charged that "Italian reinforcements for General Franco continue to arrive, and only three days ago three Italian regiments were handed at Cadiz."

STRIKERS WAIT VAINLY FOR COHEN

KITCHENER, Ont., Oct. 27 (CP).—J. L. Cohen, Toronto Labor lawyer, was expected here today to submit to striking Kaufman Rubber Company workers proposals—awaited in vain last night—for ending the five-week-old walkout.

A. R. Kaufman, company president, tendered proposals for a settlement last week to Labor Minister MacBride at Toronto for submission to the 600 employees.

Terms of settlement were scheduled for presentation to employees on Sunday by Mr. Cohen who is acting for the strikers. He was unable to be here then, and also was delayed last night.

After workers waited more than three hours for the Toronto man, strike leaders, saying they knew of no reason for his non-appearance, intimated he would be here today.

The strikers, members of the United Rubber Workers of America, a committee for industrial organization affiliate, seek wage increases.

Maurice Wanamaker, chairman of the Kaufman local of the union, said it was learned "unofficially" the company's proposal calls for strikers to return to work immediately.

He added resumption of work would be followed by an inquiry into wages and working conditions at the plant.

TRIAL ADJOURNED AS WITNESS SOBS

BELLEVILLE, Oct. 27.—Charged with manslaughter in the death of Mrs. Emma Root, who was struck by an auto on the Tweed-Belleville Highway on May 2, Winfield H. Ross, of Belleville, went on trial yesterday before Mr. Justice Nicol Jeffrey.

Ross was arrested at the home of Roy Marsh, where Mrs. Root died a short time after the accident.

Ross was intoxicated, the court was told by Constable Clare Hayes. While investigating the vicinity of the accident Ross kept remarking, "She is not dead,' the constable testified. Another witness, Mrs. William Baker, daughter of the dead woman, told of seeing a car zigzagging down the road just before her mother was hit.

When the witness began to sob, court was adjourned. The trial will resume to-day.

LIVES TO 100, HANGS SELF

A strange story comes from Sofia of a man who committed suicide at the age of 99 because he did not want to become a centenarian. He was Dimo Singuleff, of the village of Strashimirovo, Northern Bulgaria. Although he enjoyed good health and was active for his age, Dimo complained that he was lonely and that all his friends had died. Several times in recent years he declared that he was tired of life and would prefer to die. Seeing no signs of a natural end to his life he hanged himself in a stable within a week or two of his 100th birthday.

Farm Placement Scheme Tried Again In West

British Columbia Takes Up Forestry Work—Other Provinces Undecided

OTTAWA, Oct. 27.—(CP)—Autumn weather and slackening in seasonal work bring the problem of the single homeless unemployed man again to the attention of Canada's relief authorities.

Already the farm-placement plan which successfully met the problem last year has been put in operation in the four western provinces and forestry work on the same basis as last year will be opened soon in British Columbia.

No estimate of the number of men who will have to be cared for is possible but officials hope the number will be less than a year ago. It is believed a number of those placed on farms last year have become permanently established but crop failure and drought on the prairies have created special conditions likely to add to the unemployed of this class.

Some 2,500 men have been placed on farms under the arrangement by which the farmer receives $5 per month and the man $5 with a bonus of $2.50 extra per month if he remains until spring.

Fewer Going to B.C.

British Columbia, where men are inclined to drift to avoid the rigors of winter on the prairies and in the east, has already experienced an influx of homeless jobless but nothing like that of previous years. As opportunities for farm placement are not as plentiful there forestry work is being provided.

First attempt to deal with the problem on a large scale was establishment of relief camps. This plan met with much criticism and eventually was abandoned in favor of farm placement.

Last winter 46,995 persons were placed on farms under the plan, the cost being shared jointly by the Dominion and Provincial governments. The plan operated in the western provinces and Quebec. Ontario and the Maritime provinces did not find it necessary.

Of the total 38,567 were men and 8,338 women. A checkup during the summer showed that 21,966 had remained on the land and it is hoped a considerable number of these will remain permanently.

Total cost of the placements last winter was approximately $2,000,000, a decided improvement over the previous year when it cost $9,000,000 to keep men in relief camps.

Pedals 1,000 Miles To Look For Job

Winnipeg, Oct. 27 (CP)

RELIEFERS KEPT LEANING LIBERAL BENNETT CLAIMS

REGINA, Oct. 27 (CP)—Administration of relief in Saskatchewan under the present Dominion government was attacked by Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader, in a public address here last night.

He referred to an Ottawa statement of Agriculture Minister Gardiner yesterday, denying charges made by Mr. Bennett in Brandon, Man., Friday that Mr. Gardiner was using relief funds to build a political machine in Saskatchewan.

Mr. Gardiner said the only time relief was distributed in Saskatchewan by a politically-controlled organization was when Mr. Bennett was in office at Ottawa.

"These people have appointed as their agents the councils of the rural municipalities," said Mr. Bennett. "That's the basic unit of the Grit machine.

"It's not a Liberal government that gives you relief," Mr. Bennett said. "It's the citizens of Canada in a spirit of sympathy and helpfulness."

This year was not the West's first crop failure, he said, his government had seen the failure of 1931 as a national calamity and had tried to institute relief measures. A relief commission of five had been appointed.

No Political Tinge

"To this day I have never heard any man dare to say that relief was administered by them as a 'political or partisan matter,'" Mr. Bennett said.

He said the situation had changed. People in the south country did not dare to go to public meetings or read newspapers in which other than Liberal opinions were expressed. If they did, he said, they were reminded by relief inspectors that they were getting relief from a Liberal government.

The Conservative leader spoke of espionage in Germany and exile in Siberia in Russia. He compared these practices to his previous allegations concerning relief inspectors.

"Thank God there are people in this country who can't be intimidated in that way," he said. "I don't think the forces of public opinion will permit this thing to continue."

As in his Brandon speech, he attacked the Rowell commission on Dominion-provincial relations in regard to the trade treaty Prime Minister Mackenzie King signed with United States Mr. Bennett said "our successor came in and took advantage of all the things we had done."

Report May Bring Vote

In reference to the Rowell commission he said: "We are told there will be recomendations. Why waste time in having them do something that has to be done all over again by somebody else? There is already talk of an election on this report that may be made."

The members were not representatives of the people, the chairman was Chief Justice Rowell of Ontario, an eminent jurist but not a member of any parliament or legislature. The Western representative was John W. Dafoe, editor of the Winnipeg Free Free.

"Who is he?" Mr. Bennett asked. "have you ever heard of him?

"There is no public man who has ever disagreed with him that he has not insulted. There is no one of any other political faith than his own that he has not condemned,—and he's the man who is deciding the distribution of powers between parliament and the legislature."

"Do you mean to tell me that these men can find out anything that we do not already know," he commented. He said records were available with the necessary information.

"You have an irresponsible commission—a political commission to deal with the constitution," he said, declaring all political parties in Canada should be represented in dealing with a constitutional inquiry.

McQUESTEN CUTS ROAD WORK OFF

TORONTO, Oct. 27.— A general order to slow down all road construction work in Ontario has been issued from Queen's Park by Hon. T. B. McQuesten, Minister of Highways.

In many cases paving projects will be halted altogether, because of threatening frost and weather conditions. Necessary programs will be complete—but the residency engineers have been instructed to put all jobs under their respective jurisdictions in shape for winter with all possible speed.

"We figure the season is just about over," Mr. McQuesten declared last night, "and we are making customary provision for its windup."

GETS NOMINATION IN FEDERAL SEAT

handicaps." One of the handicaps faced in the election, he said, was an "inside story that cannot be revealed."

Denies Board of Strategy

He took full responsibility for the conduct of the Conservative election campaign and denied that a "board of strategy" conducted the party's affairs during the appeal to the electorate. "There was no board of strategy other than advice and general information of people like yourselves."

A Liberal nominating convention in the riding scheduled for last Monday was postponed indefinitely at the request of party headquarters in Toronto pending the result of the Conservative meeting. No date for the postponed meeting has been set.

Decision of Mr. Rowe to contest Dufferin-Simcoe, directing the party from Ottawa if elected, will mean only one provincial by-election will result from the October 6 elections. A seat must be found for Hon. Colin Campbell, minister of public works, defeated in Addington.

Previously, there was a possibility two would be necessary. Premier Hepburn announced shortly after the election the Liberal party would not oppose Mr. Rowe if a Conservative member resigned to enable the leader to direct the party from within the legislature.

REV. J. J. BLACK GUEST PREACHER

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 27.—Rev. J. J. Black of Lindsay was the guest speaker at the evening anniversary service of St. Johns United Church on Sunday. Urging the congregation not to cover up their sins but to expose them and seek forgiveness, he stated that one of the greatest defects of the 19th century was the defence of sin.

"You cant sin without conscience. Youre not clever enough," the speaker asserted. "Concealing ourselves from ourselves because of an unpleasant conscience is neither courageous nor scientific.

Rev. B. Simpson Black of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and Rev. MacMillan of Burnbrae Church assisted in the service and Mrs. Allan Watson of town and Mr. Fred Fowler of Belleville were guest soloists.

800 CARS OF FOOD SHAPING IN EAST FOR WEST'S NEEDY

TORONTO, Oct. 27. — More than half a million dollars worth of foodstuffs has been collected through voluntary efforts for the sufferers in the arid areas of Saskatchewan where crops for the most part, were a complete failure this year, it was learned yesterday.

Some time ago Protestant and Roman Catholic churches throughout Canada decided to pool their efforts to secure foodstuffs for the starving people of the Prairies, and under the direction of a joint committee, headed by Rev. Canon W. W. Judd, Toronto, sought contributions of fruit, vegetables, flour, canned goods and other food products from the more fortunately situated people in the Dominion.

Response Found Good.

"The response has been magnificent," Rev. J. R. Mutchmor said yesterday. "We're confident there will be as many as 800 cars of food distributed among the needy of the West. With the free gift of food and the free transportation provided by the railways, the aggregate value of the contribution to the people in the drought areas will exceed $500,000," he added.

Some 335 carloads of foodstuffs have been shipped from Ontario, Quebec, and the Maritimes, with the larger part of this from Ontario. Manitoba has forwarded 183 carloads. The more fortunate people in Alberta have sent 90 carloads to the arid districts of their own Province. From the Fraser Valley, in British Columbia some 20 cars have been despatched to the needy areas in the "Eastern" Prairies, and from the Okanagan Valley more than 80 carloads have been sent.

In Saskatchewan, J. W. Hedley and the Committee for Voluntary Relief is handling the distribution of all the produce forwarded to that Province. The needy area there is divided into two parts. In the southern, which comprises about two-thirds of the area requiring assistance, government help is being provided along with voluntary relief, while in the more northern part of the Province, the situation is being handled entirely through voluntary relief, Mr. Mutchmor explained.

Much Clothing Given.

Large gifts of clothing have likewise been made from many parts of Canada, he added. Each carpad that has been designated for Western relief contains products worth $350, and sometimes much more. He referred to typical letters of appreciation which were being forwarded from areas in Saskatchewan where foodstuffs had been sent.

Word was received here yesterday that the first carload of relief "North of 53" during the whole history of the West had been sent forth from Le Pas, Manitoba.

Mr. Mutchmor stated that the greatest co-operation had been provided by the railways. Often there would be more produce contributed than the amount required to fill the car which had been left on the siding for the purpose, and in such cases the railways would provide a further car. "In some places there were as many as four cars loaded," Mr. Mutchmor said.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

Dominated by weakness at Chicago, wheat futures on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day cracked down around three cents after scoring gains of more than a cent in early dealings. Final quotations were 2¼ to 1¼ cents lower, October, $1.24⅞; November, $1.21¾ to $1.22; December, $1.18, and May, $1.15⅞.

Local liquidation ran the market into stop-loss orders near the close with losses of two cents showing. October led the decline.

Earlier, export buying of Canadian wheat, estimated at 250,000 bushels, and other support accounted for brisk trading.

WELL SATISFIED TOURIST SEASON

Affairs of the Kawartha Lakes and Haliburton Tourist Association were wound up for the season at a meeting of the executive in the Chamber of Commerce on Tuesday afternoon. Officers expressed themselves as satisfied that the number of tourists brought into the district during the past summer well justified the work of the Association and the money expended.

Looking toward the new season, the meeting discussed the advisability of publishing a tourist booklet for 1938 free of all advertising. If whole-hearted support is given the Association by the municipalities in this district which stand to benefit, such a project will be easily practical, members agreed.

A small surplus in the treasury was reported. The executives decided on holding the annual meeting of the Association during the first week of December in Peterborough. Officers will be elected at that time. President G. K. Fraser of Burleigh Falls presided.

Cancer With An Annual Toll Of 11,000 In Second Place As Cause Of Death In Canada

Steady Rise Is Partly Due To Greater Skill In Detecting Disease

TORONTO, October 27.—Eleven thousand Canadian citizens will die of cancer within the next twelve months. Forty-five thousand Canadians are suffering from the dread disease today. That, concisely, is the staggering problem confronting public health authorities in this country.

Cancer is now the second major cause of death in the Dominion and on the North American continent. Ten years ago in Canada it ranked in fourth position. Steadily upward, until now it is in close position with that greatest enemy of mankind, diseases of the heart.

In 1926 the death rate per 100,000 population in Canada was 80.7. The next year it jumped to 82.3. The next to 86.7. The next to 87.8. In 1933 it was 99.9. It climbed every year for the ten-year period between 1925 and 1935 [illegible] ed 106.1. Last year 11,687 Canadians died of cancer and somewhere between 11,000 and 12,000 has come to be the accepted annual toll of the disease.

Now Better Detected

The reason for the increases are many and an examination of them relieves, to some extent, the frightening aspects of the case. One is that such diseases as those of early infancy and pneumonia, which in 1925 were second and third major causes of death, are now more controllable. Another is that the medical profession is more skilled today in detecting cancer in patients. Still another is that the people themselves have a greater knowledge of the symptoms of cancer and still another is that public health authorities have improved their mortality records.

Although such reasoning tends to dissipate alarm, the significant fact remains that cancer is still the second cause of death in the Dominion today.

What is cancer? What causes it? What are the early signs? What is the treatment?

Dr. John W. S. McCullough, who has devoted most of his life to public health service and who is even now conducting a vigorous and intelligent cancer crusade, can best answer those questions. Here is what he says:

Cause Of Cancer

"No definite cause is known. There are some predisposing causes of the affection. One of these is age. Only ten per cent of all cancers occur under the age of 35. Ninety per cent of all cases of malignant disease is found in persons who have passed the age of 35. The latter period is called the 'cancer age.' The reason or this is unknown. It probably rests in the tendency for control of cells being less effective in persons of middle life. Another predisposing cause of high importance in respect to cancer is that a great variety of irritants may, in a person predisposed to cancer, stir up a cancerous growth.

"Among the commoner irritants which cause the growth of cancer are: Tar, soot, which is a form of tar, certain lubricating oils, tobacco smoke or the juice of tobacco, another tar; chemicals such as arsenic, the effect of strong sunlight, strong winds and dust; a jagged tooth in the mouth, dirty teeth, ill-fitting dental plates, burns from any cause, too hot foods, and almost any conceivable form of irritation long continued. Temporary irritation has little effect in the production of cancer; the cause of the irritation must be long-continued.

What Is Cancer?

"Cancer is a disease due to disorders of the cells of one's body. Every one knows that the human is composed of cells, hundreds of millions of them. The individual cell is extremely small. If a body cell were magnified 500 times it would appear to be about the size of a small pin head.

"A cancer begins as a single cell. At first it looks exactly like one of the normal cells. It takes an expert with a microscope to detect any difference between a cancer cell and a normal cell. The cancer cell, like the normal cell, divides for the purpose of growth. The growth manifested by division of the normal cell is a regularly controlled process. There is certainly some force in one's body which controls ordinary cell division, starts it when necessary, stops it when division is unnecessary. This control in healthy persons is maintained throughout life.

"The growth of a cancer cell is uncontrolled. It is riotous. Instead of dividing like the normal cell in the course of from three to twelve hours, there may be many, many divisions of the cancer cell in that period. It is this rapid, uncontrolled division of the cell that constitutes the main difference between normal growth and cancer growth. If the lever of control in cell growth were discovered, we might therein have a solution of the cancer problem. Some investigators have come pretty close to the solution. One day it will be found.

Early Signs.

"There is nothing so important to the man or woman of 35 years and over as a knowledge of the early signs of cancer. Such knowledge is readily acquired by the average person of intelligence. Pain is not an early sign of cancer. It is a great pity that all beginning cancers had not the pain of an aching tooth. In such cases the pain would drive the persons to seek advice. The early signs may be grouped under the heads of lumps, bleedings, persistent sores, hoarseness of a chronic nature, difficulty in swallowing, change of regular habits in respect to digestion or movement of the bowels.

"Recognition of early signs of cancer and prompt action in calling in a physician are vitally important. The very existence of a man or woman may depend upon their early recognition. Many of them may be recognized by average persons. Keep your eyes open for the early signs mentioned above. Your life may depend upon it.

Treatment.

"The only resources for cancer treatment are surgery, which treats 70 per cent. of all treated cancers, and the use of radium and X-rays. No other form of treatment so far discovered has any lasting effect in the cure of cancer.

"No serum, vaccine, plaster, or cure, no matter how widely advertised, has any effect other than to delay the use of the rational methods of treatment. Every single case of cancer where the disease is accessible to the surgeon is curable in the early stage, for cancer is at first a local disease. The future success of cancer surgery depends very largely upon the education of the public in early cancer signs and of a very clear recognition of the fact that the greatest fear of cancer should be fear of delay."

Ex-Follies Beauty Sues For Million

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—The million-dollar breach of contract suit of Betty Randolph, former Follies beauty, against Louis Bamberger, member of the New York stock exchange, was scheduled to open here Monday.

Betty charges Bamberger promised in 1916 to support her for life to the tune of $100,000 a year. She says she kept the agreement until 1923 when he stopped payments.

Bamberger has testified he paid a total of $1,700,000 to Betty because she threatened to sue for beach of promise.

One of Them is Miss Peterborough!

CAN YOU FIND MISS PETERBOROUGH?

AT LAST, all the pieces of the torn photographs can be assembled. Among them is a studio portrait of MISS PETERBOROUGH. All you have to do is: Take your scissors, cut out the pieces and correctly assemble. When all the pieces have been properly placed you will have had lots of fun, and also the un-retouched likenesses of MISS PETERBOROUGH and her two accomplices. Remember, only one of them is MISS PETERBOROUGH. Now—

Can You Capture Miss Peterborough?

IF YOU CAN, it will be worth $5.00 in cash to you. To make it easier we will tell you where she may be found. Until captured, MISS PETERBOROUGH will be shopping (on Peterborough Days) from 10 a.m. till 11.30 a.m. and from 2 p.m. till 330 pm in the Peterborough Stores supporting Peterborough Days

THE FIRST THING to do is to make a purchase in one of these stores. On the Prize Ballot, which you will receive, write your name and address. Then, unless you are an employee of The Examiner or of a Peterborough Store, you are ready to capture MISS PETERBOROUGH.

JUST AS SOON as you see someone in a "Peterborough Days" store who resembles the picture you have selected as MISS PETERBOROUGH, walk up to her and say: "ARE YOU MISS PETERBOROUGH?" If you are right, and, if you have a PRIZE BALLOT filled in with your name and address, then MISS PETERBOROUGH will escort you to the Chamber of Commerce, where you will be presented with $5.00 in cash.

NOW ISN'T that easy? Start now to win that $5.00. Get out your scissors; arrange the several pieces and find out as soon as possible what MISS PETERBOROUGH looks like.

Not A Good Plan

Hon. Earl Rowe, leader of the Ontario Conservative party, is reported as seeking re-election to the Federal House in his old riding of Dufferin-Simcoe. The by-election is being called there because Mr. Rowe created a vacancy by resigning to participate in provincial politics.

It is also announced that Mr. Rowe, if elected as the Federal member, will remain as leader of the provincial Conservatives, but we doubt if the Conservative members of the Legislature or the members of the party in the province will regard that favorably as the solution. It was tried by the Liberals before Mr. Hepburn quit the Federal House and assumed the active leadership of the provincial forces, and it did not work well.

Such a plan means naming a house leader, and the house leader in turn is supposed to be in touch with the real leader who is not in the house. That is not a good arrangement and it does not give confidence or a sense of adequate direction to the members of the Opposition. The term remote control can too readily be applied to such a plan, and the Conservatives of Ontario would not be well advised to adopt it.

It Is Unusual

A story in the London Free Press tells of police having been called several times within recent days because a gang of young men "have been staging a series of raids on booking offices, tearing form sheets and racing schedules off the walls and getting in fights."

And that is one of those things which is hard to understand. The booking offices are establishments where bets are placed on horse races, and the law of this country does not permit such places to operate. The only place where one may bet legally on the races is at the race tracks through the pari-mutuel machine. All other forms of betting are illegal and those who engage in it are open to prosecution.

Of course there is a great deal of this illegal betting going on all the time, but it seems odd to read of the police being called to clear out people who were visiting an illegal place. If the police were called to a booking office and knew it was such then it would be their business to take action. Being called to such spots makes it certain that the police must know where they are located. But as a piece of news goes that story from London is unique—the police being called to protect booking offices.

So Much Wasted Energy

There is a tremendous investment of energy and moving about which produces no results. And the larger a city becomes the greater is the degree of this useless and meaningless motion which is taking place. In Montreal a few days ago there was to be a meeting addressed by Tim Buck and Alfred Coster, member of the French Chamber of Deputies, both of them communists.

Students came in numbers to the city hall and said plainly if the meeting were to be sanctioned it would mean trouble, as they would break it up. So to keep peace the meeting was cancelled.

But that settled nothing, as upon the heels of the cancellation came other deputations from the Civil Liberties Union protesting that such a meeting should have been allowed to proceed. And in all there has been a full measure of heated words, commotion, bad tempers and all such. And the expenditure of all this energy has not accomplished as much as some patient resident out in the country who took a spade and banked up the kitchen before the cold weather set in, and who in so doing made no speech, shook no fist and headed no parade and lodged no protest with the authorities.

People Want This And That

Probably most people have something in mind which they would like to do if they had sufficient money to finance the hope. Recently it was announced that two women who work in a western Canada hotel had drawn good tickets in a sweepstakes race, and they agreed they were going to do two things, (1) travel and (2) have breakfast served in bed. It may be from the nature of their work they have grown to look with envy upon others who have eaten the first meal of the day when propped up in bed, but we fear they will grow weary of it before long. The novelty of such an experience would soon wear off for one who was possessed of sound health.

Then there is another man in Hamilton, William Tuplin, who operates an elevator in an office building. The Irish Hospital Sweepstakes made him richer to the extent of $500, and he knows exactly what he wants to do. Travel is not mentioned in his list of preferences, nor does he long to have breakfast in bed. But he does want a new artificial limb, whether an arm or leg is not stated. We think people are foolish who buy tickets on sweepstakes because the great majority of them lose their money, but we admit to feeling a trifle pleased that one man who wants a new artificial limb is now in a position to get it. His desire is more to the point than a longing for breakfast in bed.

She Must Have A Way

Mrs. Margaret Upcott of Cedar Island, near the mainland of Essex County, now has her fourth husband. She is 75 years of age and she took on the last one just a few days ago. It seems strange at times how some women can get so many husbands while others have to go along the whole distance alone.

Mrs. Upcott says the last marriage was simple and natural. In fact before husband number three had passed along he had mentioned to her that if anything ever happened to him it was his wish that she would marry Mr. Upcott. So with a start like that there was every reason to expect that Mr. Upcott would win.

Mrs. Upcott even went so far as to tell how her fourth husband happened to propose. He was grading roads around the island and heard the widow was going away on a trip. He told her he was afraid some other man would "grab her off" when she went away, so he ceased from his grading operations and did his proposing and secured an acceptance right there and then. And as Mr. Upcott is the same age as the bride, 75, it must be admitted he knows how to speak his piece. And the lady in question, having had an unusual amount of experience in listening to proposals, would be able to identify one which was brief and to the point when she heard it.

Both Sides Spend Money

Mai Cheolin, 29, a newspaperman from Shanghai now touring Canada, gave it as his opinion that the lack of money would eventually defeat Japan in her war upon China. He said his people were prepared to resist the Japanese for three years until the Japanese military strength is exhausted. Then Mai Cheolin began talking in terms of dollars and war. Two months ago the Jap gold reserve stood at $400,000,000, and he was certain Japan was spending at the rate of $5,000,000 a day in carrying on the war. On that basis the gold reserve of Japan would now be down to $100,000,000. Of course this Chinese journalist can at best only estimate what Japan is spending. It is quite certain Japan has not furnished him with accurate information.

One thing is fairly certain, and that is that Japan's cost will keep on in an increasing line as the war continues. That is, the cost will be more the second month than it was the first, and so on. The largest obligation Canada shouldered in the World War came in the fiscal year of 1919, and it was $465,009,439. In the previous year it was $351,992,493, and in 1917 it amounted to $309,303,361. A war is not something which can be operated on a basis of known costs.

One thing of which the Chinese visitor made no mention was that it would also cost China an increasing amount to defend her country. Japan is spending money and so is China. Her costs for medical service and caring for wounded will increase and as her resistance increases so will the costs of that resistance. It may be a pleasant way for a resident of China to look at the situation and conclude that financial exhaustion will defeat Japan, but he should not overlook the plain and stubborn fact that China is also spending money.

What Will The Duke Do?

The Duke and Duchess of Windsor are going to visit in United States, and it has been reported the chief interest of the Duke will be in inspecting housing conditions where a start has been made on the more recent prospects. For some weeks he has been in Germany and he seems to be on good terms with all the people there, including the head of the state. The Duke and Duchess of Windsor have been in France also, and they spent weeks in Austria. It seems that what started out as a honeymoon trip is being drawn to considerable length.

There is nothing available to indicate what the Duke of Windsor intends to do with the observations he makes or the material or information he collects. It was known even before his short reign, and while he was the Prince of Wales, that he was interested in housing conditions, but has he anything in mind? We do not envy a person in the position of the Duke of Windsor because he can go from one country to othe other. It may be evidence of a form of restlessness and the trips may be made for the purpose of having something to engage the days as well as to make investigations.

It is not possible for a person to step down from so high an estate as the throne of Britain and not actually feel and experience the change. In his former post the now Duke of Windsor would have much to do; his days and many of his evenings would be charted out for him in advance. There would always be something engaging his attention. He would have to think and reason and act, and activity and happiness generally walk along together.

It is hardly possible for the average individual to comprehend the difference in the life and habits of the same individual as the King and then as the Duke of Windsor. There can be not the least doubt that he is popular wherever he goes, but that in itself is not permanently satisfying. There is no sense of accomplishment in it; there is no feeling of permanency or of being connected with any place or institution in particular. There will no doubt be a cordial welcome for the Duke and Duchess in United States although they have requested that no attention be paid to their movements. But the question always presses for an answer—what is the Duke going to do?

Let Us Call A Meeting

The St. Catharines Standard has made a discovery. This one:

"It is amazing how many Ontario newspapers have the temerity now to advise and tell the Conservative party what is good for it, and the same newspapers did not say a decisive word in the campaign. It's great to swim with the tide and there is nothing so seductively easy as arm-chair strategy after the event."

Perhaps it might be well before another election takes place if the chap in St. Catharines were to conduct some sort of a school; it might even be one of those short courses. But short or long it would give opportunity to sit at the feet of Gamaliel and learn how the thing should be done.

It may be too many of us are following the lines of least resistance and waiting until the electors have marked their ballots before telling how the contest is going to turn out. Perhaps we should have paused in the middle of the campaign and told the Conservative party it had no chance to win and that it was doing all things which it should not do and leaving undone those things which it ought to have done.

But the man in St. Catharines must know it is so much easier to wait until the people have spoken and then analyze the thing which they have done. One can speak with such wisdom after knowing the result, and can readily use wordage to convey the impression that what has been revealed at the polls was to him as an open book weeks ago. We are somewhat moved to protest against the plain desire of the St. Catharines man to take from the rest of us that delightful freedom of conducting a post-mortem shortly after the people have made plain their political desires. If it considered well that a change be made then let it be done in regular and impressive manner. Let us call a meeting with Jim Curran of the Sault Star presiding and Bill Elliott, of the Woodstock Sentinel-Review, himself a skilled writer of shorthand, taking down the things which are said.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A British diplomat says there is too much war talk and if he had not been a diplomat he undoubtedly would have added that there is also too much war.

Captain George Eyston, British racing motorist has been driving at the rate of 270 miles an hour just for practice. When he steps on the gas in earnest he should start going places.

When you see pictures in the paper these days you cannot tell at first glance whether they are rugby players with full regalia or soldiers wearing their gas masks.

An animal trainer in Toronto says mules are just like women. If he had reversed that statement we have an idea his training days would be practically over.

Two Canadian post graduates have sailed for England to engage in a series of debates. Until we know whether or not they are married we cannot decide definitely whether they are real debaters.

Although the Liberal party had a huge majority so far as constituencies captured in the recent election are concerned the popular vote shows just a fraction over 50 per cent of the electors supported the administration, a rather surprising feature of an unusual election.

SO QUIET

(By A. E. K.)

¶ I heard today from Thistleville, the little place upon the hill, and everything is fine; the barns are full, the cellars too, and nearly all there is to do, is wait for winter time.

¶ My friend who writes tells everything, of apples quartered on the string, of spuds all stored away; they're taking up their turnips now, and they can feed the brindle cow, for they have stacks of hay.

¶ This year he says he's well ahead, and he's already banked the shed, the winter squash are firm; the kitchen range is now inside, he mentions with a touch of pride, he's lots of wood to burn.

¶ They have no labor troubles there, and things are decent like and fair, it has been quiet this fall; they never hear a hungry sob, nor find men looking for a job, some folk don't work at all.

¶ No agitators ever spill, and break the quiet of Thistleville, and no one pays a fine; the evening hours are quiet indeed, they talk a spell or else they read, and go to bed at nine.

¶ There are no nervous cases there, for life's a very plain affair, nor do the people sigh; they're not beset by many fears, but just keep living on for years—they're ancient when they die.

THERE ARE no fewer than 230 clocks at Windsor Castle, many of them possessing elaborate and intricate mechanism. They are the craftsmanship of the world's most famous makers. The gem of the collection is the clock which King Henry VIII gave as a present to Anne Boleyn on their wedding day. It rests on a modern gilt bracket in the Chapel retiring room and is only four inches deep and ten inches high.

✧ ✧ ✧

At Buckingham Palace there are more than 200 clocks. The most curious of them is the negress head clock—a French spring-balance production by Lepine.

✧ ✧ ✧

In this clock the hour numerals are shown in one of the negress's twinkling eyes and the minutes in the other. It stands 2ft. 5-1-2 high, the head and bust of the negress being ormolu and enriched with magnificent decorative features.

✧ ✧ ✧

There are approximately 100 clocks at Sandringham, most of them being fine examples of the modern clockmakers' craft—gifts at various times to King Edward VII and Queen Alexandra.

✧ ✧ ✧

The first clock recorded in the British Isles was placed in Palace Yard, London in 1236.

✧ ✧ ✧

Thomas Hitzlinger a Vienna industrialist who died in that city recently at the age of 79 years was the father of 22 sons and one daughter. Of his sons thirteen were killed during the great war, seven of them on the same day. Only six sons and the daughter remain of his family.

About Handkerchiefs.

HANDKERCHIEFS of choice handmade laces, sometimes begemmed for adornment, were used in the seventeenth century. Oblong, round triangular and square handkerchiefs were common before 1785 in which year the King of France at the request of his wife, Marie Antionette decreed that throughout his kingdom "the length of handkerchiefs shall equal their width." Square handkerchiefs have since been customary.

✧ ✧ ✧

Desirous of taking to her grave the tears of joy that she shed on the happiest day of her life the bride in some parts of Central Europe keeps for her casket the handkerchief into which she wept at her wedding.

✧ ✧ ✧

Handkerchiefs costing fourteen dollars each have been bought by the Duke of Kent from a Paris wholesaler who used to supply J. P. Morgan with handkerchiefs at six dollars each.

✧ ✧ ✧

A jackal's tail mounted on a stick was in primitive times used as a handkerchief as well as a fan by the bushman of South Africa.

✧ ✧ ✧

Rescuer of twenty-nine persons from drowning in Swansea docks "Swansea Jack" a dog well known throughout West Wales died recently through picking up rat poison. This unusual dog had been awarded many medals for his life-saving exploits, including the dogs' V.C.—a shield from the People's Dispensary for Sick Animals, "Swansea Jack" continually prowled about the quayside and if any one fell into the water and got into difficulties would jump into the water, without any prompting and bring the person to safety. Over a number of years the intelligent canine had also rendered good service at carnivals and fetes by wandering round the town with boxes strapped to his back, collecting funds for various organizations.

London Bridge Fell Down.

IT IS RECORDED that during a terrorizing expedition to the coast of England in 1013 King Olaf of Norway had ropes attached to the pilings and actually caused London Bridge to fall down.

A bridge which is to be erected at Carlshad, Czecho-slovakia will be partially constructed of china as an advertisement of the porcelain products of that section while the bridge at San Mateo Bay in California is constructed of cement made of oyster shells.

✧ ✧ ✧

There is one river that is not spanned by a single bridge although it is 1,800 miles long. It is the Brahmaputra one of the great rivers of India and there is no bridge anywhere along its route.

✧ ✧ ✧

Engineers who design and build modern bridges must scientifically consider the structural dead load, the live load, impact, centrifugal and temperature effect, wind pressure, deformation and erection stresses and longitudional forces.

✧ ✧ ✧

All the homes of the late John D. Rockefeller contained elaborate medical equipment for checking his condition. There were machines for taking his basal metabolism, fluroscopes—the equipment of a small hospital. He always had on hand for special circumstances small tanks of oxygen and carried some of those tanks with him when he travelled.

✧ ✧ ✧

During the last years he used wheel chairs or was carried from one place to another in the arms of his male nurses in the constant effort to hoard every calory he possessed toward the increase of his days.

✧ ✧ ✧

It is estimated that approximately 31,000,000 persons in the United States attend some kind of religious service each week.

✧ ✧ ✧

It makes a difference where you are. In Canada and the United States they are called drug stores; in Britain folk speak of chemist's shops while in Italy the term is medical halls.

✧ ✧ ✧

They tell us there were bootleggers even in Julius Caesar's Empire. Rome made inferior wine and the choice brands had to be imported from the south of France. This was costly so Roman racketeers conceived the idea of getting containers with fancy labels filling them with domestic wine and selling them as "rare old nectar."

THE WIDER LIFE

RELIGION IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Editor Examiner:

Sir: Professor Brett the occupant of the chair of Education in The University of Toronto recently delivered a very strong plea for religious teaching for the young in our public schools. The possibility of the abolition of religious teaching in our elementary schools has alarmed him. He says that a knowledge of religion and a cultivation of the spirituality of children is so necessary a part of their education that without it the character of the child will develop without any knowledge of a spiritual existence and of the higher life. There is at present a strong move in support of Professor Brett's appeal.

J. H. BURNHAM.

DARK IN SPAIN

Editor Examiner:

Sir: It is obvious that the Spanish situation is farther from a settlement than it was months ago. Canadians generally wonder what force is tying the hands of Europe's strongest democratic countries. Nearly everyone can see reasons why the Spanish government doesn't get military assistance from France or Great Britain but are unable to see why the sale of arms to the Loyalists is prohibited, considering the military assistance Franco gets.

If you tried to stop two men fighting it wouldn't be fair play to tie the hands of one fighter. The other fellow would punch the head off him and that is precisely what is taking place in Spain.

Alleged Christian and democratic countries stand back listening to Mussolini stall and bluff the other powers while he continues this ruthless slaughter of children and civilians not taking any active part in the war at all.

People who were fortunate enough to hear Major Lord and his wife Thursday night tell of their experience on the Spanish front would quite willingly man a machine against Franco and Fascism. A Loyalist victory would end Anthony Eden's wild goose chase which has lasted a year too long now.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for the space to comment on this serious topic.

I remain,
JOHN MEEHAN.

LEAVE SUNDAY OUT

Editor Examiner:

Sir: When I read the announcement in our paper that an invitation was being extended to the Governor General to open a carnival of winter sports to be held on Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 5th and 6th I was thankful to know something of the character of the man which leads me to believe that he will not lend his name, nor presence to a carnival or anything else which openly advertises its intention to use the Lord's Day for it's sports program.

Addressing the Pan-Presbyterian Alliance in Montreal he spoke, he said, as a son of the manse and an elder of the Presbyterian church.

His address was notable for its clear, ringing challenge to return to the fundamental things of the Christian faith. "The essential things of religion," he said, "can never change. There is still for every man the choice of two paths, and 'conversion,' in its plain, evangelical sense, is still the greatest fact in any life."

"What we need is a new and wiser Puritanism. We are offered today many other versions of the Pilgrim's Progress, promises of Utopias in the future where life shall be rationalized, scientific, and padded with every material comfort. I cannot find in them much satisfaction for the immortal part of man."

"Those glossy millenniums are infinitely remote from the realities of life. They offer no comfort, no way of escape, to struggling humanity, with its load of sickness and sorrow and sin. They seem to me to be sadly like a new Vanity Fair, with Mr. Taskative as the chief figure on the town council.

"We need a quickened sense of sin; we need a profounder realization of the majesty and purity of God, that realization which was the support of Oliver Cromwell in his difficult life. I cannot but feel that the chaos of the world in recent years is bringing about this revival. We find it in the teaching of Karl Barth, which, though we may differ from many of its details, is firm in the fundamentals. We see it in certain popular religious movements, which may be fantastic in many ways, but which sincerely emphasize the meaning of sin. We are less inclined, perhaps, to be at ease in Zion. Our watchword should be those words of Cotton Mather about a famous New England Puritan, 'the character of his daily conversation was a trembling walk with God.'"

We cannot but thank God when the King's personal representitive and our own first citizen gives us such a splendid lead and all Christain people must pray that our life as a community and a nation will be builded on the sure foundation of Law and Order which is the Ten Commandments and the fourth of these will never be ruled out because it suits man's convenience and desire. I hope most sincerely that these dates, though advertised, will be changed so as not to include a Sunday.

Yours very truly,
J. DOUGLAS PATERSON.

Discussion Starts On Faith Healing

Every Tissue of Body Affected By Spirit; Recent Event Stirs Writer To Explanation

Woodstock Sentinel-Review

A DESPATCH from Cornwall, Ontario, last Thursday told of a "weeping" statue of Christ in the bedroom of a sick woman. The apparent phenomenon was noted by the patient after she had prayed nine days for recovery. Her physician and Cornwall priests are reported as ascribing the moisture on head and shoulders of the image to condensation of warm air in the room. Nevertheless, it is estimated that 2,000 persons, including visitors from states across the border, passed through the bedroom on one evening, to view the statue and in some cases leave gifts of money before it. Toronto Star on Friday published a layout of photographs, one depicting a section of the crowd awaiting admittance to the Villeneuve home, another showing a girl pilgrim "gazing devoutly at the image and praying fervently for the cure of a relative."

The thought which first impresses one is that all these people are demonstrating belief in a supernatural power, capable because it is supernatural of doing things which are beyond the resources of physicians. That power in this case has been invoked by prayer—to Whom? Almighty God, creator and preserver of all mankind, "Lord of life and death, and of all things to them pertaining, as youth, strength, health, age, weakness, and sickness." Unquestionably these people who throng to see the Cornwall statue believe in the Deity, omniscient, omnipresent, omnipotent, with the attributes not only of justice but of mercy. But do they even faintly comprehend the Christain conception of God, as One whose ear is always open to the cry of mankind, and who may be petitioned instantly, at any time and place. Centuries ago, a psalmist wrote and left for all generations the sonorous passage: "Lord, thou hast been our dwelling place in all generations. Before the mountains were brought forth, or ever thou hadst formed the earth and the world, even from everlasting to everlasting thou art God." After nineteen hundred years of the Christian dispensation, men and women of education such as no Old Testament writer ever enjoyed seem to measure divine power by drops of moisture on a plaster statue. We can tap the ether waves, and harness electricity and master the law of gravity sufficiently to fly across oceans and continents, but there is much about the divine revelation we do not even try to understand.

The incident is provocative of though in relation to those activities commonly placed under the head of "faith healing." They rely, of course, upon prayer. But men are so profoundly dependent upon things visible that from the earliest days of the Christian church there have been recommended visitation, the laying on of hands, sometimes annointing with oil. The church today seems to be dubious abut it; at least it makes no clear pronouncement. There is no hesitation about proclaiming the existence of a higher power that can be applied to human needs, but the Church for the most part is almost shamefaced when attempting to come to grips with the implications.

It is strange that it should be so, in view of the discoveries of science in relation to psycho-pathology and psycho-analysis. The American Medical Association has declared that every tissue of the human body is subject to effect of the spirit. Mental conditions may be so definitely reflected in the body that distress of mind results in bodily malady, and they must be simultaneously cured if a cure of either is to be effected.

Faith healing is not altogether new, either as to theory or practice, in this part of the province; but the Cornwall incident seems to indicate that there is a receptivity hitherto unsuspected or which at any rate has been ignored. Greatly daring, we reproduce here a passage which in a Canadian Sunday school publication is prefaced by warning that it should not be used without consent of the clergyman in charge of the parish:

"Spiritual healing through the laying on of hands and annointing with oil—in addition to God's blessings through medical science— has not only the warrant of Holy Scripture, but the testimony of many witnesses, thoroughly credible and supported by medical evidence, to support it. It is a practice admittedly open to abuse, through misrepresentation and fanaticism, yet the evidence in support of its benefits is overwhelming."

TOUGH GUY.

(Johannesburg Star)

ALTHOUGH natives are proverbially tough, Kumalo, a Zulu in the employ of Mr Meyer in the Harrismith district, must be one of the toughest.

Kumalo was sent to a neighboring farm in a trap drawn by two horses to deliver two bags of mealies. The horses took fright and bolted. The trap went over a stone and Kumalo was flung out on to his head. However, he clung on to the reins and, after being dragged nearly 400 yards over the veld, he brought the horses to a stop.

Then they swung round with the trap and one of the wheels went over his chest. As he rose one of the animals lashed out and kicked him on the head, flinging him on his back. He rose immediately, and then, after resting for about ten minutes, drove on apparently unconcerned.

WHY DON'T THEY?

(American Magazine)

MAKE PAPER underwear for Summer that can be thrown away after one wearing?

Place shelves under restaurant tables to hold women's gloves and pocketbooks?

Equip shower baths with safety straps, especially for older persons who are likely to slip and fall?

Make a double picture frame, so that when you grow tired of seeing one picture on the wall, you can turn the frame around and expose a different one?

Make a spiked platter from which a roast or a ham cannot slip while it is being carved?

Attach labels to all potted and cut flowers sent out from the florists, giving the common and botanical name of each plant or blossom?

SHIRT-TAIL APRONS.

The Book, "The Nine Old Men."

CHIEF JUSTICE Hughes once received a letter from a ladies' church auxiliary in Iowa, which read in part:

"In order to raise money for the church, our members are making aprons from the shirt-tails of famous men. We would be so pleased of you could send us one of your shirt-tails. Please have Mrs. Hughes mark them with your initials and also pin on them a short biography of the famous occasions in which they have been intimately associated with your life."

Mrs. Hughes framed the letter in ivory as the Chief Justice's dearest possession.

COST OF A VOTE

It costs Ontario half-a-dollar per vote to run an election. So your recent ballot was worth fifty cents, whether you voted "right" or "wrong."

AUTUMN

'Tis Autumn and beauty pours down on the dawn
All Nature seems wrapped in a mantle of song,
I think as I gaze on the blue, green and gold,
God's goodness and glory is never half told.

As wonders unfold in the heavenly skies,
All earth seems to echo that Love never dies,
Despair cannot live where a hope has been born,
The doubts of the night disappear with the morn.

that are bound to stimulate a sense of gratefulness that Peterborough stands in such a happy position in these times as compared with many other communities. And, this sentiment is directed not alone to the idea of getting and having, so much as giving. The response of the citizens to the appeal for aid to unfortunate Canadians in the west has been most generous, and opinion at the C.P.R. freight yard today suggested that three cars would not be sufficient to transport the huge quantity of goods that were given out of Peterborough's goodwill and sympathy.

Y.W.C.A. FUND

Another community effort is the campaign for a $50,000 building fund for the Y.W.C.A. that is in progress this week, predicating confidence in the city's ability to provide that amount out of its surplus.

And finally, the merchants of Peterborough are co-operating in making Thursday, Friday and Saturday days of real value to buyers, offering merchandise at appealing prices and especially placing emphasis on the ability of Peterborough's stores to serve this district on a broad business basis. Up to the time of going to press the list of Peterborough merchants co-operating on Peterborough Days are as follows:

C.I.O. INVITED BACK INTO A.F. OF L. FOLD

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(AP)—The American Federation of Labor submitted a counter peace proposal today, calling for return of all committee for industrial organization unions to the A.F. of L. as a suggested settlement of labor's civil war in the United States.

The proposal would permit the Committee for Industrial Organization unions which were suspended by the American Federation of Labor to return to the A.F. of L. with the same rights they held before the split.

Conferences would be held between other C.I.O. unions and corresponding unions in the A.F. of L. to bring about an adjustment "upon terms and conditions mutually agreeable," and would provide for settlement of all outstanding disputes at the next Federation convention.

"The foregoing contemplates the establishment of one united, solidified labor movement in America and the termination of division and discord now existing within the ranks of labor," the proposal said.

MEN WHO FEEL OLD

Get Back New Youth, Energy, Vitality

Too many men to-day feel tired out all the time—can't work, hate to get up mornings, haven't the vitality to do the things they used to do. A weak unhealthy liver caused by modern living, soft foods, lack of exercise, is the chief reason. Your liver is the storehouse for glucose or the "energy part" of the food you eat—it supplies energy to muscles, tissues and glands. If it is not strong and active no wonder you feel old! Take "Fruit-a-tives", it will build up your liver like nothing else will. You'll be surprised how young you soon feel. 25c., 50c., all Druggists.

Censored By Italy

JEREMIAH MAHONEY

Angered by alleged anubbing of Nazi, Germany, by United States' athletes on a barnstorming tour last summer, Italian sporting circles are reported seeking dismissal of United States from the International Amateur Athletic Federation, which would bar Uncle Sam's athletes from participation in future Olympic games. Jeremiah Mahoney, president of the America Amateur Union and at present a candidate for the New York mayoralty is censured by B. O. Ekelund, International Federation president for his alleged anti-Nazi activities in a letter, which reportedly contains a warning that if the anti-Nazi boycott persists in United States, dismissal of that country from the federation would be discussed at the next meeting.

CAT CAUSES MISHAPS

A car swerved to avoid the cat, hit an electric lamp post.

The driver was cut over the eye.

The car was badly damaged.

Two overhead wires fell.

Thirty lights went out, plunging the street into darkness.

Switchboards short-circuited and caused fires at a police station and a bakery, and the fire brigade was called to both places.

CANADA'S REBUFFS KEEP POET EXILED

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(CP).—Ralph Gustafson, young Canadian poet, who has had two volumes published without affecting a sackcloth or flowing hair, is in New York today enjoying a brief holiday before returning to England and his work.

He would be returning to his native Sherbrooke instead of England, he says, but he found slight encouragement to go on with his writing in Canada.

When two Toronto publishers refused his first collection of verse he took them to London and they were published in 1935 under the title "The Golden Chalice." John Masefield congratulated Gustafson for his work. Last year, when it ran through the first edition it was awarded the Prix David. The prize is that established by Athanase David, former secretary of Quebec, for the promotion of culture in that province.

Now this 28-year-old Canadian has woven "The Great Alfred," a richly poetic drama in three acts about the hardy king of Wessex. On its publication in London the Time applauded it as a "rugged work." John Gielgud gave it his blessing. It was written with the stage in mind and Gustafson is hopeful of having it produced.

Meantime, he has another collection of verse almost ready for the publisher, then plans to try a novel. "There," he says, "is where the money lies."

This tall, darkly handsome graduate of University of Bishop's College, Lennoxville and Oxford University—an I.O.D.E. scholarship first sent him to England—is quick to excuse the conditions which make him an unwilling career-exile.

"Our limited population," he says, "means a small field for the circulation of literature, especially verse. We must live. But it is a pity our Canadian culture cannot be nurtured at home."

HORSE IS KILLED BENEATH HIM AS CAR HITS STEED

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, Oct. 27.—While riding on horseback near Valentia on Monday, Frank Hood, of that hamlet had his horse killed underneath him when struck by a car driven by L. Mackay, of Lindsay. Hood had just reach the gate of his farm when the accident occurred. He was thrown violently off the horse to the ground and was rendered unconscious. The Mackay car was badly damaged.

A Sweeps Winner

An old gentleman named Kent, residing in the East Ward, it was announced today, was one of the lucky ticket holders in the Irish Sweepstakes. His winnings amounted to $500.00.

Constable Transferred

Provincial Constable Geo. Clubbe, who has been stationed in Lindsay for the past three years, has been transferred to London. Traffic Officer Massingham goes to Oakville.

Factory Threatened

The Standard Handle factory at Fenelon Falls narrowly escaped destruction by fire on Monday when heated tar ignited the roof. The good work of the village fire brigade prevented serious damage.

Large Funeral

One of the largest funerals held in this section took place Tuesday afternoon when the late James Mitchell, of Scotch Line, Verulam, who was fatally injured in an auto collision near Brechin on Saturday night, was laid to rest in the Dunsford cemetery. A large delegation of the employees of the Gravenhurst Brush factory as well as other citizens of the town attended the obsequies, which were conducted by Rev. Mr. Greer, of St. Andrew's Church, Lindsay.

A case of infantile paralysis has been reported at Kirkfield, Dougal McGillivray being the victim.

Road Work Stops

Highway construction work will stop for the season in this district at the end of the week. The Warren Paving Company has finished its contract on the Lindsay-Peterborough highway from this town to Hillhead. It has a further contract on the Fenelon Falls-Rosedale highway, but will not undertake the work until next spring. Many of the men who have been employed on the highways will go to the lumber camps for the winter, a number of which have been opened already.

OMEMEE

Miss Alzina Peel, a student of Peterborough Normal School, spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Peel.

Misses Mary Faulkner and Helen Moyer were weekend guests of Miss Jessie Lamb of Hastings.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Cornell of Oshawa visited the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Ivory Sunday.

Jersey Cow Sets New World Mark

Brampton Favorite Girl, bred and owned by B. H. Bull and Son, Brampton, Ontario, has recently completed a world's milk record for a four-year-old Jersey cow, producing in 365 days 19,175 lbs. of milk and 1,020 lbs. of fat, with a test of 5.32% and has been awarded a medal of merit, gold and silver medal certificates. She is the seventh Jersey cow in Canada to produce over 1,000 lbs. of fat, and is a daughter of Favorite Volunteer, recently awarded the first medal of merit certificate ever awarded a Jersey bull in Canada, and the fourth imported medal of merit sire of the breed.

CHURCH IS FIRM ON RE-MARRIAGE

LONDON, Oct. 27 (CP)—Divorcees whose partners of a former marriage are still living, will be obliged to go outside the diocese of Southwark if they seek to marry.

In his diocesan letter for October, Rt. Rev. Richard G. Parsons, Bishop of Southwark, declares he cannot under any circumstances give his permission for the use of the marriage ceremony or solemnization of marriage in church in such cases. He writes: "I would draw the attention of the clergy and laity to the fact that the passing of the recent Marriage Act makes no difference whatever with regard to the Church's duty in the matter of witnessing to the Christian ideal of marriage."

However varied the opinions of churchmen regarding the justice of the Act, the Bishop declares the clergy of the Church of England welcome the fact they are free from any compulsion to use the marriage service of the Church against their conscience.

The Church, he says, has proclaimed its unswerving to the standard and principle of marriage set forth for all time in the Gospels. "For no other kind of marriage will it use its solemn service, with its life-long vows, binding those who make them to each other as long as they both shall live."

9 POWERS MEET NOV. 3

BRUSSELS, Oct. 27 (AP).—The Foreign Office announced to-day the Brussels Nine-Power Conference set for October 30 to seek amend to the Chinese-Japanese conflict had been postponed until November 3— because of the situation created by resignation of the government of Premier Paul Van Zeeland.

FEAR 14 KILLED IN ALASKAN MINE

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Oct. 27—(AP).—Mine officials expressed fear to-day the death toll would reach 14 in an explosion in the Evans Jones Coal Mine, 1,800 feet up the side of a mountain. Six bodies were recovered last night; little hope was held for eight men still entombed.

For of the 10 men in the mine at the time of the explosion yesterday fled uninjured as the tunnel crumbled behind them. A fifth, Vic Raide, foreman, was brought out by rescuers. He was seriously burned and one leg was hurt.

HAS HOPE STILL FOR LOST FLIER

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 27 (CP).—R. H. K. Smith, San Francisco steamship company executive, is Australia-bound to aid the search for his brother, Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, who vanished nearly two years ago on a flight from London to the Dominion "down under."

Smith never has given up hope that his brother landed safely and that he and his co-pilot, Tom Pethybridge, still are alive somewhere in the Malay jungle. "I know that jungle well," he said, "and I know my brother. If he pancaked his ship, there is every chance he is still alive. And it is not to be wondered at that he is still in there. I've spent as much as 24 hours myself, hacking through undergrowth with a keen-edged hachet and progressing only a half mile."

Sir Charles last was heard from Nov. 8, 1935, while flying over Akyab on the coast of Burma. The Andaman Sea, shark-infested Bay of Bengal and Malay peninsula jungles were searched for weeks but no trace of the fliers was found. An Indian Ocean monsoon was believed to have forced them down.

HOW ARE YOUR KIDNEYS?

IF you suffer from restless nights, if kidney irregularities break your rest and you are tired and drowsy — suffer from headache or dizzy spells, these may be the signs of disordered kidneys. For the relief of minor kidney irregularities Dr. Pierce's A-uric Tablets have been found very beneficial. The action of this stimulant diuretic in flushing the kidneys, diluting acid, and relieving irritation has given relief to men and women in every part of Canada. Taking a cup of hot water and "A-uric" after every meal should bring remarkable improvement.

Buy of your neighborhood druggist now, Tablets 60c and $1.35.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Graham of Lindsay, were visitors in town today.

✧ ✧ ✧

Miss Catherine Wallis of Paris, France, was the guest of Peterborough friends the past week.

✧ ✧ ✧

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Cooper of Euclid Avenue, are celebrating the 22nd anniversary of their wedding to-day.

✧ ✧ ✧

Miss E. Lewis of Hudson Heights, Quebec, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Dela Fosse of Water street.

✧ ✧ ✧

An event of to-morrow afternoon will be the St. Paul's Ladies' Aid tea to be held at the home of Mrs. Marsh, 507 Homewood Avenue from 3.30 to 6 o'clock.

✧ ✧ ✧

Mr. and Mrs. George Rogers of 537 King Street celebrated the 27th anniversary of their wedding at a dinner party with members of their family on Tuesday evening.

✧ ✧ ✧

An event of today is the turkey supper being served by the ladies of All Saints' Church, commencing at six o'clock. A delicious menu of all manner of good things has been planned by the ladies.

✧ ✧ ✧

A distinguished visitor to the city on Monday next will be the Most Rev. Derwyn T. Owen, Primate of the Church of England in Canada. Archbishop Owen was one of the two hundred Canadians who had seats inside Westminster Abbey for the Coronation service in May.

✧ ✧ ✧

E. Wise has returned to his home in Kitchener after spending a few days with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Perks of George Street North. On his way to and from Peterborough, Mr. Wise stayed in Toronto to visit his brother, Frank Wise, who is ill at the home of his daughter, Mrs. F. Perkins.

✧ ✧ ✧

Rosamund McLean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. McLean of James street, W. celebrated her 14th birthday on Tuesday, gave a jolly Hallowe'en party at the week-end in celebration. Gay orange and black decorations were used in the rooms, the twenty-four guests enjoying an evening of dancing followed by refreshments.

✧ ✧ ✧

Hallowe'en Party
Knox Young People's Union

A lengthy ghost walk, beset by many perils and unexpected happenings, through the basement of the church, was a feature of a colorful Hallowe'en party held by the Young People's Union of Knox Church on Tuesday evening. Among the terrors, Orm Benson performed a ghostly "surgical operation" with tragic results.

In a lighter atmosphere, games were enjoyed in charge of Hazel Bradley and Bill Wedlock. A treasure hunt prize was won by Jack Millar. Refreshments served towards the end of the evening followed a Hallowe'en menu, and were in charge of Mrs. John Donaldson and Miss Helen Pratt. Gordon Morrison and Don Charlton arranged the "ghost walk."

The interesting and clever costumes gave the judges some thought. Prizes were presented to Mr. and Mrs. Art Pilchford, Mrs. I. Olsch, Miss Margery Lewis and Miss Ruby Millburn. The judges were Alex Gillies, Joseph Lancashire and John Allen.

✧ ✧ ✧

Miss Ilene Bowler
Entertains for Bride-Elect.

An enjoyable evening was spent recently when Miss Ilene Bowler entertained at her home on Sheridan Street at a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Elizabeth Heffernan, a bride of next week. The decorations were carried out in gay Hallowe'en colors, with balloons filled with confetti suspended from the ceiling. Many useful gifts were received by the guest of honor, who made suitable acknowledgment to her friends. Games and music provided a pleasant evening, with refreshments served by the hostess.

The guests included: the Misses Elizabeth Heffernan, Margaret Heffernan, Kay Hierons, Nora Orbell, Kay Jones, Lily Guggy, Marion Perry, Edna Thompson, Phyllis Pitchford, Ruth Farr, Violet Britnell, Doris Davis, Hazel Hickey, Thema Shannon, Marcella Pearson, Bella Johnston, Clara Pearson, Teresa Heffernan, Elizabeth McGowan. Gifts were received from Mrs. E. Herron, Mrs. Whitmore and Mrs. D. Johnston, unable to be present.

Kenneth Weldon
Addresses St. Andrew's Y.P.U.

St. Andrew's Young People attended in large numbers their regular weekly meeting on Tuesday evening, with the president, Jack McKone, in the chair.

As guest speaker for the "citizenship" meeting, Kenneth Weldon gave a most interesting and entertaining talk on his recent vagabond trip around the world. Many weird tales were told by the speaker pointing to need of missionaries in some parts of the world. Some of Mr. Weldon's experiences were of great educational value to his audience. It was arranged that he should give an illustrated lecture on the subject of his travels in St. Andrew's Church on Tuesday, November 30.

During the business session of the meeting, plans were made for several important engagements of the near future. Harry Vass was appointed acting secretary and treasurer until the annual election of officers in December. A letter of sympathy was sent to Norman Allen, the secretary, absent through illness.

The Union decided to be responsible for the providing and manipulation of the radio in the Sunday School Hall to hear the addresses of leaders of the United Church on Tuesday, November 9. The speakers will be heard over a coast-to-coast network from 8 to 8.30 that evening. The Union will also provide a program of games and recreation to follow the radio messages.

During the devotional period the Scripture lesson was read by Miss Dorothy Ridyard, and Miss Margaret Patoine led the singing.

Shower For Miss Olive MacDonald

An enjoyable evening was spent at the home of Mrs. S. Jackson, when three friends of a bride-elect, Miss Olive MacDonald, whose marriage to Orville Roseborough takes place this week, entertained in her honor at a miscellaneous shower. The hostesses were Mrs. H. Smith, Mrs. L. Quackenbush and Miss Violet Muldren.

A gaily decorated pink and white basket holding many gifts was presented by the Misses Viola Price and Irma Jackson, and a short address was read by Miss Hilda McKibbin. A delightful supper was served by the hostesses.

Those present included: Mr. and Mrs. W. Roseborough, Mr. and Mrs. W. Walters, Mr. and Mrs. H. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. G. Lancaster, Mr. and Mrs. S. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. L. Quackenbush, Mesdames Beatty, H. Clarke, Grey, R. Walters, the Misses Olive MacDonald, B. Larry, Loretta, Leola and Elva Roseborough, Viola Price, Mabel and Irma Jackson, E. Beatty, Dot Byers, Hilda McKibbin, Kate Munro, Violet Muldren; Messrs. Orville Roseborough, Jim Price, Randal Quackenbush.

✧ ✧ ✧

Mrs. T. P. Collins
Entertains In Aid of Bazaar

Mrs. T. P. Collins entertained most delightfully at her home, 437 Stewart street, when eleven tables of bridge were played in aid of St. Peter's Cathedral bazaar, which is to be held November 18, 19 and 20.

The Misses Geraldine and Marietta Collins received the guests with their mother. Following bridge, refreshments were served from the dining room where the table was charmingly arranged with an Irish lace cloth, centred with a basket of pink roses placed on a reflector, and surrounded with pink candles in silver holders. The assistants included: the Misses Isabel Glover, Nina Glover, Pauline and Helen Huppe, Cecile, Louise and Eva Letellier, Louise Flynn, Helen Collins, Myra Hickey and Helen Carson.

The bridge prizes were drawn for by Mrs. E. LeBarr, and were won by Mrs. J. E. Sullivan and Mrs. Ronald McGrath.

Slater-Crisp.

CENTRETON, Oct. 27.—A pretty but quiet wedding was held in St. John's Anglican Church on Saturday afternoon, when Cynthia Elizabeth, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Crisp of Haldimand became the bride of Ernest Charles Slater of Cramahe, the Rev. T. A. Nind officiating.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and was becomingly attired in a navy blue crepe frock and wore a wine felt hat with matching accessories.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Lena Crisp, and was gowned in glory blue crepe frock with a pretty green felt hat and matching accessories.

The groom was ably attended by his brother, Cyril Slater. During the signing of the register, Miss Maud Wolfraim played the Wedding March.

The happy couple left for their honeymoon trip amidst a shower of confetti and good wishes.

Upon their return they will reside in Castleton.

Facts and Fancies

Curing Wood for Furniture

Have you wondered why some piece of furniture you own has become warped, why the drawers stick (even in dry weather) and why, generally, it is unsatisfactory? It is because the wood used in its construction never was cured properly.

In all good furniture, wood that has stood in stacks in the open air for from two to five years is used. Nothing can take the place of this weathering by nature. After this period, it can be cured. That is, it can be put into kilns where warm, live steam is turned on it until it is all in the same state of dampness.

The heat is gradually increased and the dampness reduced until each board is uniformly and completely dried. It is then ready for the cabinet maker, and will not shrink or swell in the future.

A board that has not gone through this aging and curing process will reabsorb 12 per cent. of moisture while it is being shipped to a factory, or while it is in some wholesale storage room. It will never make a good piece of furniture, for it has not been properly seasoned.

WINS ARCHITECTURAL SCHOLARSHIP

Miss Elizabeth Cott, New York registered architect, recently won the Edward Langley scholarship for architectural research, the only woman ever to win the honor.

The research is into methods of economical house design. Her hobby is building small, livable houses.

With The Girl Guides

First Company had a jolly Hallowe'en party in place of the usual meeting on Monday. Prizes were awarded to Iris Whalen and Betsy English (Laurel and Hardy), and to Margaret Hooper (Old Lady).

Twelve of our Brownies passed their Parcel-Tying contest under Tawny's supervision, while the "Tweenies" studied with Brown Owl. The following "Tweenies" are to be enrolled Saturday: Alberta Chapman, Mona and Gloria Robins, Beverly Primeau, Helen Charles, Marie Grady, Winnie Land, Maureen and Marcella Crowe, Marie Leonard, Theresa Legrow, Isabel Scott, Isabel Carey. Any Brownie's mother is welcome, but a special invitation is extended to the mothers of the above recruits.

POOR FALSE CARDS

THERE ARE times when a false-card, intended to fool the opponents, gives them more information than if the natural play had been made. It is unwise, therefore, to get the habit of always trying to toss off high cards on tricks taken by the defenders. It can be better in some situations, to offer a complete lack of information rather than a strained effort at misinformation.

South opened the bidding on this deal with 1-Heart, which West raised to 2-Hearts and South took to 4-Hearts. That was the standard bidding at every table of a duplicate tournament, and also the same opening lead was made in every case, the K of clubs.

In every instance but one, the South player put the deuce on the opening trick and West then shifted to the diamond J, as he felt that his partner's three spot was probably the bottom of a holding which contained also the 3 and 8. At only one table did the South player put his club Q on the first trick.

This caused the man in the West, Edgar F. Tierney of Springfield, Mass., to put on his "thinking cap". Since the deuce had not appeared, he knew that his partner did not have three cards. If he had, they would have been the 8, 3, and deuce, in which event his partner would have played the deuce. East therefore had either a doubleton consisting of the 3 and deuce, and was starting a high-low, or else the 3 was a singleton. Consequently, West knew positively that the declarer still held the club 8 and possibly the deuce.

With this dependable reading, Mr. Tierney laid down the club A and then followed with a third club, which his partner ruffed. The diamond A thereupon set the contract.

ONLY TWO ENTRIES IN ORATORY TEST FOR NORTH CAVAN

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Oct. 27.—The initial public speaking contest, under the auspices of the Durham County Trustees' and Ratepayers' Association, for the current season took place in St. John's Parish Hall, Ida, on Monday night, the schools of North Cavan being the participants.

The attendance was gratifying showing public interest in the event, but unfortunately the program committee this season has been very dilatory in sending out the topics, rules, etc. for the contest, the teachers only receiving the official papers within the past week, hence only two scholars were prepared to enter the competition.

Fine Prizes Secured

Following the singing of "O Canada", Mr. Winslow explained that fine prizes had been secured for the successful contestants, and expressed regret that only two could be awarded at the North Cavan competition. To ensure perfect fairness for the order of speaking, the two girls who were taking part, Mary Seney, of "Beechwood", S.S. No. 4, Miss Dora Sharpe teacher, and Nan Fallis, of "Matchett's" S.S. No. 7, Miss Ruth Staples, teacher, drew numbered slips. This brought Mary Seney as the first entrant, her theme being "A History of Cavan Township", which she covered with good voice and careful attention to detail, the fact that not enough material was presented to adequately meet the topic having some weight with the judges in making their decision. Nan Fallis spoke on "Some Thieves that Rob the Farmer", presenting a wealth of material, well prepared, covering her theme thoroughly, the fact that she spoke a little too fast being a detracting feature.

The decision of the judges, Principal B. Dawson, of Millbrook Public School, and Misses Betty Montgomery and Pearl Burnham, was announced by Mr. Coulter, who presented the prizes, Nan Fallis coming first and receiving a handsome fountain pen (Parker's) and Mary Seney second, her award being a framed set of four pictures illustrating Dicken's works.

Contributing to the pleasure of the evening were choruses sung by the pupils of S.S. No. 7, under the direction of Mr. Leslie Unitt, of Peterborough, supervisor of music for the schools of Millbrook and Cavan; vocal solos by Master Ernest Boyles and mouth organ selections by George King and Ernest Boyles. A recitation, "An Evening Guest", by Isabell Carveth was also enjoyed, and the program closed with the National Anthem.

The next contest is at Millbrook on Thursday, October 28, in the Town Hall at 8 p.m. Winners in the township competition go on as entrants in the county contest, and the winners in this again participate at the district contest which, it is expected, will be about November 12, the place to be announced later. Final winners take part at the O.E.A. convention in Toronto at Easter.

FIRST SKIING HELD BY 'CAYGEON CLUB

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BOBCAYGEON, Oct. 27.—Several members of the Bobcaygeon Ski Club took advantage of the sudden change of weather and went skiing Sunday morning. There was about five inches of snow and was very good skiing.

Many of his younger friends will be glad to hear that Jeffery Kelly, son of Dr. Burrett Kelly is recovering from the accident he had a few weeks ago. Jeffery was playing in the basement of Hillcroft Continuation School of which he is a pupil. He was swinging from a pipe and fell onto the concrete floor. He was unconscious and with several of the pupils Mr. Pammett, the principal rushed him to his father's office where he received immediate attention.

The ladies of St. John's United Church, Verulam held an oyster supper in the Sunday School room of Trinity United Church, Bobcaygeon. A large crowd enjoyed a very tasty supper, after which they were entertained by a descriptive travelogue on the Mediterranean. The National Anthem closed a very profitable evening.

Mrs. R. J. Scott spent a few days shopping in Toronto.

Hallowe'en Supper For Youth Group

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 27.—The regular meeting of the Campbellford Youth Group took the form of a Hallowe'en supper on Monday evening in the Salvation Army Citadel. Following the customary devotional exercises which were led by Captain Sharp, supper was served, after which the members united in a number of interesting contests arranged by the Social Secretary for the occasion. The meeting was brought to a close with the Benediction.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"There is no one so good, who, were they to submit all their thoughts and actions to the laws, would not deserve hanging ten times in their lives."—Montaigne.

Dear Friends:

I had rather a witty letter the other day, in which this person asks me: "Please Roberta, do write an article on how hard it sometimes is to live with a good person. There is a man,....and how he antagonizes all of us by this Goodness in him."

The letter goes on to explain somewhat, but I can tell you no more, because naturally the one who wrote me does not want her identity known.

But I can truly sympathize with this woman. Now I get more pleasure when I am good than when I am bad, but I realize we are all human, and that often the spirit is willing, but the flesh is weak.

For anyone to be good all the time must take a lot of doing, and many people make their goodness so repulsive to others, that they make those others to be worse than they would be if left alone. After all who gives any of us the right to say how good anyone else shall be, nor the form it must take?

The truly good are so busy doing good to others, they have no time to criticize those around them. They are so busy also seeing their own feet do not slip, that all they can do is wonder how the other fellow does as well as he does under the circumstances.

Trying to be as good-living as you can does not consist in taking all the joy out of life for others. Forcing your point of view on anyone is like taking a horse to water. You cannot make him drink, neither can you make anyone use your own form of goodness. It might not fit them, and what is worse than an ill-fitting garment?

And that is what some forms of goodness is, a garment drawn over yourself to cover what is underneath. It is very evident that many are wearing those kind of garments, which fit where they touch, and they don't touch very often. Some have broken out of them so often that it has become like a seive showing the one who thinks they are covered, to all the world for what they really are, and that is, hypocrites.

But oh, how aggravating those kind of people can be, what a thorn in the flesh. They use their cloak of religion as an offence, as a shield, as something to flaunt in the face of all who do not do as they do. They are so righteous, it's a wonder they could ever do anything so human as to eat or drink, or make themselves comfortable.

They pride themselves on telling the truth, but it is always unpleasant truths. They quote the bible at length, but always o someone else's advantage. They make the way to God a hard narrow joyless way. Always they tell others, "You mustn't do this. It's bad to do that." And candidly they are a pain in the neck.

Quite a while ago a lady gushed over me, "Oh Roberta, you are so good, I never met anyone like you." And I said, not on your life, you can't pin that on me. All I'm doing is the best I can, and I'm having the same struggle as everyone else. There was only one we could truly say was good, and they crucified Him.

And some of those ultra good people crucify all they come in contact with, especially those they live with. They forget that our Lord preached love, tolerance, forbearance, forgiveness, understanding. He condemned the sin, but forgave the sinner if they were sorry. He understood our weaknesses and our strength.

Moses fell, David fell, Soloman fell, lots of them fell, but He did not turn them down, neither did He rub it in. So, for the sake of the One you are trying to follow, don't talk so much about your goodness and the other fellow's badness. But live your religion so that others may be induced to copy you, then you will get a true glimmering of real goodness.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

Woman, Eighty-Two, Is Oldest Co-Ed Attending Classes At University

By GEORGIANA WORTHLEY
Central Press Correspondent

Mrs. Minerva Drake Stivender, Lesburg, Fla., is probably the oldest co-ed in the world. Five days a week she reports at classes at the University of Florida in Gainsville, despite the fact that she recently celebrated her 82nd birthday.

Mrs. Stivender's latest courses were in Spanish and Shakespeare. She is never late to class always has her work well-prepared and recites splendidly, so her professors agree.

Going to school is no new experience for this spry, gray haired little old lady. She first entered summer school at the university in 1915. Last summer she attended Furman university. In 1892 she was married. When her husband died eight years later, she decided never to remarry. By a previous marriage her husband had five children, the youngest of whom Mrs. Stivender raised with deep devotion. Now she has three grandchildren living in Leesburg who soon will be old enough to go to college with grandmother.

"One cannot stand still in this busy world," she says. "There is too much to learn, so much to do."

Mrs. Stivender comes from the Drake and Rutledge families in the old school of southern aristocracy. She was born in Anderson county, South Carolina, July 12, 1855.

CAT ORDINANCE HELD UP

FAIRLAWN, N.J., Oct. 27 (A.P.).—If the cats heard what happened down at the Borough Hall last night they'd be howling with delight today.

The borough's proposed cat ordinance, which would have made life unpleasant for many a jabby here, was referred back to committee. Samuel Black, an attorney, said that the measure, which would require a $1.00 license and a collar for every cat, was illegal. Harry Reese countered with the claim cats are a "health menace." He said: "Lots of cats eat out of garbage cans."

OBITUARY

JAMES WATSON

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TRENT RIVER, Oct. 27. — The death of James Watson of Toronto occurred Wednesday, October 20th at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Melville Wight, Trent River at the age of 72 years, 6 months. Mr. Watson spent the summer months with his sister, Mrs. Alex Rose at her summer home but had been in poor health since August. After Mrs. Rose left for her home in Toronto at the end of the season Mr. Watson took up residence with Mr. and Mrs. Melville Wight. He had not been confined to bed and was able to be up and around. On the morning of his death he was seized with a heart attack.

Surviving are his widow and family who attended the funeral. Other relatives as three sisters, Mrs. Alex Rose, Mrs. Burns, Mrs. Robert Kennedy of Toronto. Others attending the funeral were his nieces, Mrs. G. A. Langstaff, Mrs. Bryans and nephew Walton Kennedy of Toronto. Others attending wer Mr. H. F. McNichol of Milton and Mr. Will Bryans of Toronto.

Service was conducted at Curtis' funeral parlor by Rev. Perry, ... tor of Knox Presbyterian Ch... Havelock at 3 p.m. Friday. Interment at Maple Grove Cemetery.

MRS. JEREMIAH DWYER

(Examiner Correspondence.)

DOURO, Oct. 27. — The funeral of the late Mrs. Jeremiah Dwyer took place on Thursday morning from the family residence to St. Joseph's Church and Cemetery, Douro. In the absence of Rev. Father Welsh, Rev. Father Grant sang the Requiem Funeral Mass and also said the prayers at the graveside.

Pall-bearers were James and Michael Casey, brothers of deceased, Harry Ayotte, P. G. Towns, Frank D. Leahy, and Daniel Delaney.

Among friends from a distance who visited the home or attended the funeral were: Mrs. Mary Doris, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Doherty and daughter Medeline, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McMurray and daughter, John and Mac Leahy, Austin Allen. Mrs. Edward O'Toole, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Devlin, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas O'Toole, Mr. and Mrs. William E. O'Brien and daughter, Mrs. Wade, Mrs. Gus Conlin, Miss Scott, Miss Florence Trebilcock, Mrs. Thomas O'Brien, all of Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. William Devlin, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. John Torpey and daughter, David Casey, Sr., Richard Doris, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Doris, all of Otonabee, Misses Genevieve and Elizabeth Leahy and Miss Kenneally of Toronto, Miss Margaret Sullivan and Martin Sullivan, Lakefield; Mrs. David Garvey and son William, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hefferman, son and daughter, of Asphodel.

MRS. THOMAS WINFIELD

MARMORA, Oct. 27—It was with feelings of surprise, mingled with deepest regret that residents of the Marmora district learned on Saturday morning that one of the oldest residents of Marmora Township had been called to her rest about 4 a.m. that day, in the person of Mrs. Thomas Winfield. Taken ill only three days previously, she lapsed into an unconsciousness that spared her from suffering, a consoling thought to her many relatives and friends. She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Michael Bedore and was born on December 28, 1853, on the farm in the 6th Concession of Marmora Township, where John Downward now resides. She received the Christian name of Katharine, the name borne by her mother. As a young girl, she with one or two others, was employed in the tailoring shop of the late John Devlin, which was situated on Forsyth street. Mr. Devlin did practically all the tailoring in the village at one time and later conducted a prosperous shoe-making business on Matthew street. On September 13, 1876, at the Sacred Heart Church, Madoc, with Rev. Father Davis officiating, Katherine Bedore became the wife of Thomas Winfield. The late Joshua Bailey, who died less than a year ago at the advanced age of 87, drove Mr. Winfield to Madoc in his democrat and returned to the village with bride and groom. A few years were spent by Mr. Winfield in the shanty and then purchasing land also sixty years ago from the late James Bailey Senior, father of the aforementioned Joshua Bailey, he cleared it and erected the log house which has been the continual abode of the Winfields ever since.

The late Mrs. Winfield shared with her husband the art of hospitality. Both were excellent step-dancers in their day and a dance was never enjoyed better elsewhere than at their home. The hostess of those days was an excellent cook. She was also an expert knitter. Only in recent years had she to give up knitting black wool at night and to resort to glasses to thread a needle.

Her husband survives her. Three children predeceased her; the seven surviving being: Thomas, Madoc Township; Frank, Belmont Township; Mrs. James Quinlan, Kingston; Mrs. Anthony Dacey, Ottawa; Mrs. Frank Bedore, Marmora; Mrs. George Spencer, Madoc, and Mrs. L. Hawley, Cordova. She is also survived by three brothers and two sisters: Julian, Marmora; George, Brighton; Frank, Peterborough; Mrs. John Ryan, Marmora, and Mrs. Polly McDonald, Havelock.

The funeral will take place on Monday, leaving her late residence in Marmora Township for Requiem Mass at the Sacred Heart Church at 10 a.m., with interment in the adjoining cemetery.

ARE YOU NERVOUS?

DO you feel so nervous that you want to scream? Are there times when you are cross and irritable... times when you scold those who are dearest to you?

If your nerves are on edge, try LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND. It will help Nature calm your quivering nerves and give you the strength and energy to face life with a smile.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood; 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching middle age.

BABY'S SIMPLE AILMENTS CAN BE SHOOED AWAY

MOST babies get sick easily. They also get well quickly. That is, if you use the right medicine to "shoo" their ailments away.

Read how Mrs. C——, of Freeman, Ont., does it. "My little girl was a small, delicate baby at birth, always constipated and cross. I bought a box of Baby's Own Tablets and used them when baby was cross, feverish, teething or at the first sign of a cold."

They will, also, promptly "shoo" away colic, simple croup, diarrhoea, upset stomach, simple fever, constipation and other minor ailments of babyhood.

Sweet-tasting. Easy to take. Prompt in action. Free from opiates and stupefying drugs. Absolutely harmless. Can be safely given to the most delicate baby. Analyst's certificate on every box.

Get a box today and be prepared. 25 cents. Your druggist will refund your money if you are not satisfied with the results.

W. COPP IS NAMED HAVELOCK TRUSTEE

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Oct. 27.—The regular meeting of the Public School Board was held last Thursday evening with Trustees Mrs. Brisbin, H. W. Roche, Dr. G. H. Gardner, W. Copp present and Chairman C. Taylor presiding.

Caretaker Buchanan reported everything to be in satisfactory condition with the exception of two small leaks in the roof of the south half of the school.

Mr. Copp was present to accept his nomination to the vacant seat on the Board, presenting his declaration of office and qualifications. He will finish out the term of the vacancy caused by the retirement of Mr. F. J. Squire, ending December 31, 1938.

All accounts were ordered paid on motion of Trustees Copp and Brisbin.

The Knox Women's Missionary Soiety held a very successful meeting last Thursday afternoon in the church basement. Hastings and Norwood societies were present and contributed to the program. Miss Clydesdale of Norwood leading in prayer and a musical number by Mrs. D. K. Perrie of Hastings. The scripture lesson was read by Mrs. A. S. Thompson and Mrs. Kinnaird lead in prayer. The special speaker was Mrs. Walker of Peterborough who gave a very inspiring address on the true idea of thanksgiving. Rev. D. K. Perrie closed the meeting with prayer after which a social time was spent and refreshments served.

The EXAMINER'S HOME SERVICE

First Impressions Count Most in Conversation

Clever Catherine! She knows how to bring that pleased smile to his face. He will cut in on her and date her, you'll see!

You, too, can meet people easily. Take the outstretched hand of the new acquaintance firmly in yours—no "limp-fish" handshake. Look in his face. Say the conventional, "How do you do," with an expression of pleasure or admiration as marked that his interest is aroused. He may ask you to explain. You could say, "I've heard what a marvellous dancer you are," or "brilliant lawyer." He'll like that.

Knowing the etiquette of conversation wins friends and invitations. Our 32-page booklet is full of helpful examples and pointers on expressing congratulations, condolences, leave-takings, gracefully, without fumbling for words.

Send 15 cents in coin for your copy of Secrets of Good Conversation to the Examiner's Home Service department, 60 Front street, West, Toronto. Be sure and write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS and name of BOOKLET.

COURSES PLANNED FOR RURAL GIRLS

TORONTO, Oct. 27—(CP)—Plans for four short courses to assist unemployed rural young women in obtaining full or part-time employment were announced to-day by the Women's Institute branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Funds for the courses will be provided by the Federal and Provincial governments.

Instruction in catering for tourists, marketing of home baked foods, simple dress-making and rug-making will be provided. More than 1,500 organizations in Ontario interested in the girls' and women's work are being notified of the program.

Some 28 courses of study are available in the four divisions, all of which will be taught free of charge. Living expenses and one return fare will be provided for necessitous girls living more than two miles from where a course is being held if they are vouched for by the municipal authority.

Bluing Rinse For Dull Black Hair

By GLADYS GLAD

"I've often heard that bluing rinses can be used on gray hair, in order to give it a snowy appearance. The other day, however, I was told that a bluing rinse is excellent for dull black hair as well. "Is this true- And how does one use this rinse on black hair?

"BEATRICE"

The bluing rinse can indeed be used to advantage on dull black hair. It helps to bring out its lovely bluish highlights. The bluing used is the same as that used on gray hair, but for black hair, a stronger solution should be made. It is best first to give black hair a hot oil treatment, and then a thorough shampoo with a bland soap.

After this, every bit of soapy lather should be rinsed from the hair with clear water. To prepare the rinse itself, enough hair bluing should be added to a pint of water to give it a rather deep blue tone. Then this solution should be used as the last rinse, and the hair should, if possible, be permitted to dry naturally.

Activities Add To Singer's Charm

By LILIAN CAMPBELL

GRACE MOORE, star of the Metropolitan opera, screen and radio, is living proof that a variety of interests and activities results in charm, personality and glamor.

Miss Moore can "point with pride" to six years of happy married life and a secure stance at the top rung of the musical ladder—a combination seldom achieved in modern life.

She takes an active part in running her three homes, goes in for athletics and traveling, and is considered one of the best dressed women of the day. She is well-informed, witty and as feminine as possible.

Miss Moore was born in Jellico, Tenn., and received her early musical education at a school near Washington, D.C. As a schoolgirl she sang in the choir of the Baptist church in her home town, taught Sunday school and secretly dreamed of a musical career. Mary Garden was her idol and inspiration.

Finally, she ran away from school and went to New York. There she took what jobs she could get—singing in anything from a Greenwich Village cafe to the number three company of a touring musical comedy. She finally reached Broadway via small musical comedy roles, becoming understudy for Julia Sanderson.

Just when her future looked bright she lost her voice completely, but after six months of silence she regained it. Then she went to Europe to study opera but was brought back to New York to star in three editions of Irving Berlin's "Music Box Review." Between seasons she went to Europe, for further study, met Mary Garden and was offered an audition at the Metropolitan. After months of grueling study she was accepted and became a member of the Metropolitan Opera company.

Miss Moore has been decorated by three kings—Christian of Denmark, Gustav of Sweden, and Haakon of Norway. Her husband is Valentin Parera.

PRIEST TO LEAVE

WHITBY, Oct. 27.— Members of St. John's Parish gathered at the rectory last evening to bid Father Ryan, parish priest here for more than twenty-three years, who leaves to take over a parish in St. Catharines to-day, God-speed and to present him with a purse and travelling bag. Yesterday afternoon the children of the Separate school presented Father Ryan with a gift, as did the young people of the parish last night.

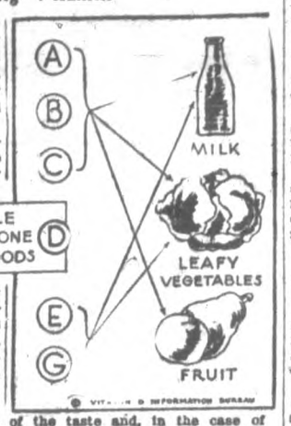
THE A-B-C's OF VITAMIN D

The "Missing" Vitamin

SIX vitamins are known to science. They are designated by the letters A, B, C, D, E, and G. All of them are essential to health. If we were to be deprived of any of them, we would sicken and eventually die.

Five of these vitamins are contained in our common foods. If we eat a varied diet, including plenty of milk, leafy vegetables and fruit, we get enough of all the vitamins except vitamin D.

Vitamin D stands apart from the others. There is very little of it in ordinary foods. Yet it is essential, especially to children, since it helps to build bones and teeth. Children who do not get enough of this vitamin suffer from rickets, a disease marked by poor bone development, and in later life, decayed teeth and other ailments which may cause serious complications. A child need not suffer from a severe case to run the danger of these weaknesses later on.



But how are we to get our vitamin D? The question would be easily answered if everybody took two or three teaspoonfuls of cod-liver oil daily. Cod-liver oil is one of the richest natural dietary sources of vitamin D, but because of the taste and, in the case of children, because mothers forget, it is not always taken regularly.

A process has been developed at Columbia University which makes vitamin D available through commonly used foods. The vitamin is extracted from cod-liver oil in a form free from the characteristic taste and odor of the oil. Many bakeries and dairies are including the extract in bread and milk, our two most commonly used foods.

YOU WILL FIND ABUNDANCE OF ALL THESE VITAMINS IN CAMPBELL'S VITAMIN D MILK

UNITY OF CANADA HER FIRST DUTY MARLER CLAIMS

NEW YORK, Oct. 27 (CP).—Canada intends to do everything in its power to preserve the peace of the world, Sir Herbert Marler, Dominion Minister to Washington, told the Canadian Club of New York as he issued a call for Canada to do its share to promoting peace and understanding.

The Minister and Lady Marler were honor guests at a dinner given by the club last night. Surrounded by distinguished Canadian and American figures, Sir Herbert said Canada could best take its rightful place among the nations by "preservation of our national unity, the development of our country, consultation with our sister members of the British Commonwealth, the preservation of the most friendly and intimate relations with the United States and the application of methods of conciliation with other nations."

The first duty "should be maintenance of the unity of Canada as a nation," he said, adding that Canadians could not help having a realization of the strains which exist in their homeland today.

Sir Herbert stressed the importance of international trade to the Dominion's economic life.

"Above all else we desire peace for ourselves as well as for the other nations of the world," he said. "We shudder at the thought of war or of participating in war.

"We do not claim that we are able to prevent war. We do intend to do all in our power to avoid war.

"In those respects we have not been idle. We believe that while the reign of force and compulsion is not over the reign of reason, conciliation and the effect of public opinion is gaining ground."

Sir Herbert said the relations between the United States and Canada over a period of 125 years had been growing constantly more intimate and more friendly, demonstrating that two nations could "live side by side in an ideal condition of political, social and economic contact."

EXPENSES IN RESIDENCE

BOSTON—(CP).—In spite of rising prices university girls at the Harriet Richards co-operative dormitory kept their weekly expenses below $8 a week each last year, it is announced.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLLE

For Thursday, October 28

Fairly active conditions both in business and in employment, are forecast from the lunar aspects. While these should thrive, there is a sign of some peril through rash tumultous or quarelsome conduct which may also have a disagreeable reaction on the private life. A rather sudden and surprising bit of good news may give much profitable satisfaction.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a rather lively and flourishing year, with the element of good news at the root of such activity in both business and employment. However, this happy and profitable course of events may be placed in jeopardy by a tendency to irritability and reckless and impetuous conduct.

A child born on this day may be versatile, clever, alert and quick to grasp opportunities in business or employment. Also it may have a rather tempestuous, aggressive and impulsive nature, calling for early discipline.

Style Whimsies

Wine red is a close second to black in the dresses and suits they are wearing on smart occasions.

✧ ✧ ✧

In the fall plaids, red is the favored color, as in a red and navy pattern, worn with navy Scotch cap and suede shoes. Green and blue are also popular colors.

✧ ✧ ✧

Plaid jackets with plain skirts and vice-versa are the choice of the younger group for the early fall football games. Sweaters accompany this type of costume more often than blouses.

In sports coats, the beige casual coat with fluffy fur collar again is in the spotlight.

PREDICTS BOY FOR CHAMPION CHESS PLAYER

TORONTO, Oct 27—(CP).—Abie Kahofsky of Winnipeg will be Canadian chess champion by the time he's 17. This is the studied prediction of Bernard Freedman, Toronto, secretary of the Canadian Chess Federation. Mr. Freedman gives Abie most of the credit for the rapid headway chess playing has made in Canada recently, especially by youngsters.

"Abie will be Dominion champion within four years," Mr. Freedman said of the 13-year-old son of a Winnipeg religious teacher. "He has an exceptional mind, unusual insight and will readily shoot to the top of the chess world. The boy doesn't need to force his intelligence to play the excellent game he now plays. The game seems natural to him."

Fourth in the Dominion chess championship at Quebec in August, Abie has shown Canadian youth the game was not restricted to elderly persons. He first came into chess prominence in 1933 when Mr. Freedman was visiting Winnipeg. He had heard about Abie's ability and, when he saw the lad play, determined to bring him to the Dominion championships at Toronto that year. Abie cleaned up the junior classes and gave several senior players a trimming.

Back to Winnipeg and school, Abie kept practising and this year when the championships were played Mr. Freedman made arrangements to bring the boy to Quebec and a chance at the title.

"Abie should have done better than fourth at Quebec this year but he was worried about financial matters and being alone so far away from home," Mr. Freedman said.

"To top it all he met the champion in his first game and lost when he shouldn't have done so. He was ahead of the champion and on the road to victory when he overlooked a good chance to win and lost the match.

"Abie lost the first three games he played. Then he took hold of himself and won the rest of his matches to finish fourth. It was an excellent showing for one so young and confirmed the general opinion he had an excellent mind."

Mr. Freedman coaches several hundred Toronto boys at chess and says Abie is the envy and inspiration of them all. By trying to equal the feats of the Winnipeg lad some excellent young players are developing, Mr. Freedman said.

MILLBROOK

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Sims, of Barrie, with their younger son, Paul, who is attending Trinity College School, Port Hope, were weekend guests of Mrs. Sims' sister, Miss Anna Kells.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gray, who have ben visiting their daughter, Mrs. M. Brown, and Mr. Brown, at Detroit, for the past month, have returned home.

Mrs. Frank Gray and three children, Bobby, Norma and Jackie, spent the weekend in Peterborough, guests at the home of her father, Lieutenant W. Peryer.

Among those from St. Thomas' Sunday School who motored to Lindsay on Thursday and attended the Sunday School convention held in St. Paul's Parish Hall, were: Rev. Archdeacon William Simpson, Mrs. Matt. Fallis, Mrs. L. Bristow, Miss B. McCorry, Mrs. P. Handley, Miss Margaret Simpson, Miss L. Crocker, Mr. E. H. Barnes and A. A. Needler. The principal speaker at the convention was Rev. Mr. Braden, of Montreal. There were afternoon and evening sessions.

Mr. Norman Locke, of Hamilton, spent the weekend with his mother and sister, Mrs. G. Locke, and Mrs. J. McKnight and Mr. McKnight, Tupper Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bigelow attended a surprise birthday party for Mr. Howard Jordan, of Port Hope, on Friday evening. Mr. Jordan was formerly principal of the local Continuation School, and is now inspector of public schools at Port Hope.

Mr. J. W. Thorndyke, of Toronto, and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Wolfe, and two boys, of Peterborough, were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thorndyke.

The W.M.S. of St. Andrew's Church is packing a bale of clothing for the West at the Parsonage on Wednesday, October 27, any contributions being welcome. The second car of fruit and vegetables is leaving for the West this week, from Millbrook, Cavan, and South Monaghan residents.

VIEW CRINOLINES BUT TALK SHORTS

LONDON, Oct. 27—(CP)—With Elaborate festivities in sight it seems in keeping that a London designer should show crinolines among his models at a fashion presentation. They swept the floor and were given the wide swaying silhouette by layers upon layers of stiffening sewn under the frills.

However, the fashions that are creating most London conversations are those illustrated in the new government booklet "Recreation and Physical Fitness" which shows a short baglike dress as the most suitable costume for women doing "physical jerks."

The Women's League of Health and Beauty are up in arms. "We've worn shorts ever since we started," one official said. "That was seven years ago, and we're not going to change now."

Office workers who belong to a huge "Keep Fit" association feel the same way. "Shorts are more free and neater and more modest," one explained. "You can't hang upside-down in a skirt and see what you are doing."

The National Fitness Campaign officials who published the book are finding it hard going. One cynical gymnasium instructor, however, remarked gloomily "what does it matter what they wear? They won't take any real exercise anyway!"

CROWS DESTROY CROP

BOY 14, SHOT BROTHER

RALEIGH, N.C., Oct. 27 (AP).—A 14-year-old boy was held in jail here to-day after Police Chief H. L. Pierce said, he tearfully confessed slaying his older brother "because he beat me up."

Chief Pierce said he booked the boy on a charge of murder pending an inquest. The boy's brother, Joseph Lee Williams, 19, a bullet wound in his abdomen, died last night en route to a hospital.

FORSAKE PEARLS TO FIGHT CHINA

DARWIN, Australia, Oct. 27—(CP) (Reuters).—Japanese members of pearling crews are being ordered to return to Japan to rejoin the battalions in which they were trained. Recently special permission was obtained by wireless to enable a Japanese vessel, the Kokoku Maru, to come within hailing distance of the wharf here to enable a Royal proclamation to be read.

While the boat manoeuvred off the wharf, the agent for Japanese luggers read out the proclamation ordering the men to return to Japan. The efficiency of the pearling fleet and the amount of shell they will obtain this season will be seriously impaired by withdrawal of the men.

ENCOURAGE WORK OF NEW WRITERS

NEW YORK, Oct. 27—(CP).—The Bureau of New Plays, an association founded by seven motion picture companies to discover and encourage young playwrights, announces the official opening of its second play competition.

Anyone who has attended a college in the United States or Canada since September 1, 1931, as well as those now enrolled as graduates or undergraduates, are eligible this year.

Awards of $500 will be made to authors of the six best plays submitted before December 15. Awards will be announced not later than March 15, 1938. Plays must be full-length, original, unpublished, and unproduced by any professional theatre. They must also have the written recommendation of the head of the English or Drama department of the college or university attended by the author.

Plan Dances To Lighter Tune For Royal Guest Of Belgium

Newer Ideas For Party For Leopold At The London Palace

LONDON, Oct. 27 (CP).—With the Lord Chamberlain's department pondering on the form of the dance to be given at Buckingham Palace Nov. 17 for the visiting King Leopold of the Belgians, the King and Queen decided it would be their private party and have arranged for several innovations.

It is understood the officials had thought of a state ball, with the diplomatic corps, army and navy officers and an opening quadrille, or a court ball with dozens of pretty young things and a royal procession at supper time.

As it is, a dance band will play in the white, gold and crimson ballroom, instead of the traditional military band. Their majesties enjoy the dancing. This will mean a distinct change to lighter music on the programme.

Evening dress is to be worn instead of full court dress, though the Lord Chamberlain is still inclined to insist that the men wear white waistcoats and breeches rather than ordinary evening dress. There are also bound to be some disappointed dowagers for only about 1,000 guests will be invited, less than those who attended Coronation court balls.

Another large event in the offing is the reception in honor of the prime minister by Lady Londonderry at Londonderry House in Park Lane, Oct. 26, the eve of the opening of Parliament. At one time Lady Londonderry's reception for the prime minister was an annual affair and the great political-social event. It had been several years since social and political London has met at a "Londonderry crush" in the historical house famous for treasures of art and sculpture.

Crinoline in Style

With such events ahead, London is preparing for the most brilliant season of evening affairs since the war. Jewelry, long hidden in vaults, taken out and remodelled for the Coronation will appear again. Sparkling diamond tiaras, gleaming necklaces and bracelets, plastrons of fabulous value, heavily-encrusted with rubies and emeralds from many climes will deck the latest costumes.

The fashions shown in London's exclusive dressmaking houses make use not only of most striking colors, sequins and metallic embroidery but frequently employ extensively the elaborate shirring, draping, bunching and stiffening of luxurious materials that appeared in party dresses of historically-festive times.

The bustle and crinoline are not appearing only on the stage but also in the ballroom. The Duchess of Kent has worn a wide-skirted crinoline gown with a becoming off-the-shoulder decolletage to several private parties.

It is due to the interest of the Queen and the young royal Duchesses and to the fact that London's social round is rivalling that of Paris, that the Empire metropolis is becoming more and more important as a fashion centre.

Whether or not London can launch evening dress millinery—if you please—is a question among the city's most dictatorial proprietors who still request women to attend the smart night clubs and cabarets without hats.

Molyneux and Victor Stiebel are the advanced designers. Molyneux showed several varieties of evening hats in his show. One was a Merry Widow of black felt 18 inches long and lined under the brim with black sequins. Stiebel's are equally ornate.

SHEAN RETURNS FOR PREMIERE

NEW YORK, Oct. 27 (CP).—Al Shean may be a believer in that bon mot, "I spent a year in Toronto one Sunday."

In 45 years of trouping he figures he has played Toronto at least 25 times. He returns to that city Nov. 1 to do the leading role in the premiere of "Father Malachy's Miracle," adapted from the novel of that name by Brian Doherty. Shean is willing to bet that his 25 engagements in Toronto would add up to as much time as Brian Doherty, born and raised in the Queen City, has passed there.

They will seek records of Shean's previous visits when they reach Toronto.

MADRID'S BABIES THRIVING ON WAR

MADRID, Oct. 27 (CP).—Babies born amid shell fire in this war-torn capital thrive under the hectic conditions. Madrid has more babies under a year old now than it did in normal times. The birth date has declined somewhat, but the infant mortality rate has declined much more due to wartime health and protection measures officials explain.

More than 50 infants are born here every day now. Since the outbreak of civil war July 18, 1936, 22,200 babies have been born at an average rate of 1,600 monthly. The normal birth rate was 1,750 monthly.

The decline is explained by the emphasis put on evacuation of expectant mothers, thousands of whom are housed in nursing homes in less dangerous areas. But while infant mortality was 28 deaths in 1,000 annually in pre-war days, it has been reduced to 18 or 20 per 1,000 now.

Sixty thousand children under five ytars old have been placed under supervision of the Institute of Child Care, with state feedings and regular medical attention. Madrid's war babies face no prospect of clothing shortage because stores are stocked high and children's clothes still sell at normal prices.

Conduct Wide Search For Elixir

Drug agents throughout the United States are carrying on a nation-wide search for more than 700 bottles of medicine containing diethylene glycol which is a toxic agent which has caused 46 verified deaths. The medicine named elixir of sulfanilamide, was thought to have been a powerful agent against infection. Of the patients given the medicine by Dr. A. S. Calhoun (ABOVE), Mount Olive, Miss., physician, six have already died. Nurse Evelyn Sharbrough, shown with the doctor, has revealed she was the 13th of the patients to whom the elixir was administered, but refuses to believe that she will die.

RECALLS DINNERS OF HARVEST TIME

LONDON, Oct. 27 (CP).—A Vermont editor metaphorically licks his lips when thinking of good things to come.

"Fall is chicken-pie time in Vermont. There is hardly a village that does not put these suppers on, usually for the benefit of some church or organization. With the piece de resistance will be served a variety of vegetables and relishes and a final course of thick mince, apple and pumpkin pies."

But what about the threshing dinners in pioneer Canada. J. D. Steinhoff of South London was interviewed by The Free Press and he had lively memories of those good old days, while admitting that chicken-pie dinners served by women today are not to be despised at this season.

Threshing dinners were a rather popular form of entertainment in Delaware Township in the '60s and '70s, when the women of the farm homes vied with one another in preparing elaborate meals.

So it was good fun for a young man to follow the threshing machine from farm to farm. Some of the meals prepared by these expert housewives for the threshers were like wedding feasts.

There were, however, the dark days when the machine pulled into a farm in which everything was topsy-turvy, inside and out. Yes, there were slovenly housekeepers and poor cooks then as now and their reputation spread. Excuses were "hatched up" and with the first screech of the noon-day whistle, several hands struck off through the fields toward home.

Mr. Steinhoff also remembered the night when the first locomotive whistle was heard on the tracks over at Komoka, and a young man, returning home on horseback from calling on his sweetheart, interpreted the screech as that of an evil spirit.

Turning his steed around, he dashed back to the home of his future father-in-law where he stayed for the night.

Sets Air Record

JEAN BATTEN

New Zealand woman flier, who set a new record for solo flying from Australia to England, with a time of five days, 18 hours and 15 minutes. The former record was held by H. L. Broadbent which he set during May of this year. Miss Batten clipped almost 17 hours off the old record and seemed exhausted and near tears when she landed her silver monoplane at Lympne, England.

INSULIN TABLETS USED ON DIABETES

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Oct. 27.—(AP)—A new method of treating diabetes with insulin swallowed in small tablets instead of by injections with a hypodermic needle, was forecast today before the National Academy of Sciences.

Three University of Rochester physicians, Dr. John R. Murlin, Dr. Lawrence E. Young, and Dr. William A. Phillips, announced they had successfully treated some human beings and dogs suffering from diabetes with the new solid preparation.

The compound is composed of insulin and hexyl-resorcinol, a common antiseptic and fever-reducing drug. The resorcinol acts as an emulsifier to clean fat from the linings of the stomach and intestines by making it more soluble in water than it is normally.

The University of Rochester experimenters had previously shown that insulin can be absorbed through the stomach and intestines and then acts in the ordinary way to burn up the excess sugar in the blood which produces diabetes. Presence of fats, acid conditions, and the enzyme pepsin prevented this absorption, however.

The next step, nearing completion in tests on human beings, was the addition of the resorcinol to neutralize the pepsin, produce an alkaline condition, and emulify the fat in order to clean up the digestive tract for entrance of the insulin.

Trials on the human diabetes sufferers enable the Rochester men to "state with certainty," Dr. Murlin said, that "insulin can be absorbed in sufficient amount to produce abrupt changes in blood sugar."

COSTLY ACCIDENT

PARKHILL, Ont., Oct. 27—(CP)—Daniel McCormick's farm home in West Williams township was razed last night when a flying stick of stovewood smashed a bottle of gasoline near a lighted lantern. The large two-storey frame house caught fire and was burned to the ground. Parkhill is 40 miles northwest of London.

Mr. McCormick was splitting wood in the shed at the time of the blaze and was trapped. He had to break open a nailed-up door with a stick of cordwood to escape.

CAN MAKE SEARCH IN BRIGHT LIGHT OF ARCTIC MOON

NEW YORK, Oct. 27—(CP).—The darkness of arctic winter, closing down on the polar wilderness where six Soviet aviators are lost in a world of eerie light, will not block new attempts to rescue the missing men. Proposed renewal of the search by Sir Hubert Wilkins, the Australian explorer and Air Commodore Herbert Hollick-Kenyon, the Canadian pilot, has been announced.

"For eight days in each of the next four months—four days before the full moon and four days after—there will be enough moonlight to carry on the search," said Vilhjalmur Stefansson, Canadian-born arctic explorer, in an interview.

"The rest of the time, of course, it will be inky darkness, day and night. But during those eight days each month, the search-fliers will have brilliant moonlight—as good as daylight to see by. Moreover, it will be crystal clear, with none of the fogs that have plagued fliers in the past seven weeks.

"If the Russians are alive—and I believe they are—I would not give up hope of their survival until the middle of next summer. They can live on polar bear and seal meat and water—nothing else. I did, on my third expendition from 1913 to 1918, going for months and months on that diet.

"Suffer?" he laughed. "Not a bit. It makes you healthy.

"These lost Russians aren't professional hunters, as we were, but they have plenty of ammunition, guns ,heavy clothes camping material and gasoline for their stoves to keep warm."

Stefansson said he believed the mass flight of eight Russian planes and the newly-projected flights by Sir Hubert Wilkins would be "almost bound" to find the party if they can hold out through the next four months.

Wilkins will establish headquarters at Barrow, Alaska, with a 4,000-mile cruising range in his hunt for the plane flown by Sigismund Levaneffsky and his five companions. They have been missing since Aug. 13, on a flight over the pole from Moscow to the United States.

TAKES HUGE JOB MISS JANE ADAMS

CHICAGO, Oct. 27—(CP)—Miss Charlotte Carr found herself confronted with an immediate problem of overhead when she tookk over her duties as head resident of Hull House, famed women's social settlement founded by the late Jane Addams.

But Miss Carr, who in 22 years progressed from an $18-a-month job as matron of a Columbus, O., orphan asylum to that of chief of New York City's emergency relief commission where she handled up to $9,000,000 a month, was not daunted.

She simply looked at the vaulted high ceiling of the huge living room in her apartment in Hull House and announced that most, if not all, of the dozen chandeliers, each showing the influence of a different country, would be taken down.

Miss Carr regards herself more as a labor leader than a social worker. She was especially interested in the problems of factory girls and girls in the low-wage groups. This dates from her experience with the New York Probation and Protective Association, when as a special policewoman during the Greart War, she came into contact with women factory workers in Brooklyn.

High spots in her career include the position of assistant employment manager of a large industrial concern, and acting director of a number of women in industry in the New York State Department of Labor. In 1925 she went to Pennsylvania to organize a similar bureau in that state's department of labor and shortly afterward became secretary of labor of Pennsylvania.

In May, 1935, she was appointed assistant director of home relief in New York City. Later she was made executive director of the city's relief commission.

On Rebel Council

With the fall of Gijon, last Loyalist stronghold in the Asturias, General Francisco Franco, nationalist insurgent leader, took the first step in the creation of a civil government by first creating a national council. NO FOREIGN POLICY IN THRONE SPEECH ATTLEE PROTESTS

LONDON, Oct. 27.—(CP Cable.)—The new session of the House of Commons began mildly on Tuesday.

Clement Attlee, Labor leader, opening debate on the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, spoke in interrogatives. He indicated the Labor Opposition would have an amendment challenging the Government's program on its omission of plans for peace with the establishment of economic conditions that would give security and social justice to all.

But on a whole Mr. Attlee sought information rather than delivered an attack. The Speech from the Throne indicated, Mr. Attlee said, no foreign policy. It was a speech of omissions.

"There was no indication of a long-distance foreign policy and no attempt whatever to bring about some settlement of the International situation," the Labor leader said.

There was a deepening division in the country over foreign affairs. Labor had not changed their belief that armaments were necessary for the preservation of world peace, but always had been opposed to competition in armaments.

Sees Slump Just Ahead.

Nor had the Government anything but facile optimism to meet the approaching end of the trade cycle. It was a rash man who was ready to prophesy that the next 12 months would not see the beginning of a trade slump. The masses of the people saw the increasing cost of living with apprehension. Yet here again the Government had no plan to deal with fundamentals.

Captain Harold Balfour and William Mabane, mover and seconder of the address, respectively, both wore court dress with swords. Both delighted the House with deft touches of humor.

Captain Balfour took a dry dig at War Minister Leslie Hore-Belisha's frequent appearances in press photographs. "If this publicity goes on," he warned the Commons, "we will have to impose a quota system on the Cabinet, and also on those members of the Opposition who would like to be in the Cabinet."

Murmurs of sympathy ran round the House at references to Prime Minister Chamberlain, who was unable to attend the State opening on account of an attack of gout.

The Prime Minister suffered a bad attack of the ailment over the week-end but it passed off and he was able to attend the pre-session reception at the residence of the Marquess of Londonderry last night. The gout recurred during the night however, and the Prime Minister was obliged to remain away from Parliament. It was stated he hoped to preside at tomorrow's meeting of the cabinet.

Simon Speaks for Premier

Sir John Simon, deputy leader of the House of Commons, spoke for the Prime Minister and said he hoped the debate on the address would be concluded by the middle of next week.

He listed the bills forecast in the throne speech in the order the government plans to present them. These, he said, included a "complicated and very important coal bill," which would be introduced as early as possible.

Reviewing the country's economic position, Sir John argued there were no signs the improvement in trade was slacking. Each quarter, trade had increased in comparison with last year. The government, he said, planned to press "most intensive efforts" to improve the unemployment situation.

He went on to say adequate air defences were planned. The financing of these arrangements would be put on a statutory basis between the government and the local authorities. But, Sir John added, the whole defence policy, while being strongly pursued, was not hindering the social program at home nor putting an impediment in the way of the exercise of the liberties of the people.

"Like A Remnant" Sale"

Sir Archibald Sinclair, Liberal leader, declared the government's program of legislation was "like the catalogue of a remnant sale." The King's speech was remarkable for what it omitted rather than for what it contained.

Turning to the Far East, Sir Archibald said "we all pray for peace from the coming conference (at Brussels) but is it to be the fait accompli kind of peace or are the government going to pay heed to the League resolution urging help for China?"

The Liberal leader chided efforts at air defence as belated and included farmers among those who, he said, would be discontented with the program of legislation submitted by the government.

Asking why the government did not take advantage of the overtures for lower tariffs made by Cordell Hull, United States Secretary of State, Sir Archibald charged the United States, France, Italy and many other countries had abolished or enlarged quotas and lowered tariffs while "this country alone has done nothing."

"It is time the government moved and gave an assurance of their sincerity in the wish to abolish quotas, lower tariffs, and revive international trade," he urged.

What About the League?

The Liberal leader continued there was no mention in the speech from the throne of the league as the basis of the government's foreign policy. Neither was there a pledge of continued loyalty to the League.

"For the last two years we have had it to the forefront of the King's speeches," he said. "Now it has been deliberately dropped and those in the country devoted to the cause of peace will not fail to draw conclusions from its omission.

"The government only thing of defending Britain's interests and are only concerned in a policy of economic imperialism, which can never restore faith in the League. We call upon the government to take the lead once again in reviving faith in the League."

DENIES SUICIDE ATTEMPT

MONTREAL, Oct. 27.—His throat hidden by bandages, Cleophas Conte, 59-year-old resident of Cedars, Que., appeared to plead not guilty to a charge of having attempted to commit suicide yesterday by slashing his throat with a razor blade. He was brought to St. Luke's Hospital here by provincial police. His condition was not serious as the wound was not deep, doctors reported.

Wounded In China

One eye missing and his right arm still in splints, R. Montague-Smith, representative in Shanghai of Imperial Chemical Industries, is shown (ABOVE), as he reached Vancouver in the liner Empress of Japan, en route home to England. He was injured in the bombing of the famous Cathay Hotel early in the Shanghai bombardment, and spent many weeks in hospital before he was able to cross the Pacific.

PLAY PRODUCTION DROPS SERIOUSLY

NEW YORK, Oct. 27 (C.P.). — There were only a few things of which the New York boards could feel proud to-day as the theatrical season swung along in its eighth week. But there was high hope the pernicious anaemia would be cured in the near future.

Such proven doctors as Lynn Fontanne, Alfred Lunt, and George M. Cohan soon were to come to town, the former pair in "Amphitryon 38," and the veteran Cohan in "I'd Rather Be Right," a salty satire on President Roosevelt.

To date 14 plays have been presented, compared with 27 for the same period last year, seeming to bear out a growing opinion that production is falling off seriously. Of the new items, "The Far-off Hills" and "Susan and God" are smash hits. Two others, "The Star Wagon" and "To Quito and Back" are moderate successes. Five have gasped and died and there were no tears.

The passing of "Virginia" created an immense cavity—but that was mainly because it was a super-stupendous production. It was a gallant mechanical enterprise, richly costumed and staged, but it could not live because there was no life in its characters.

"The Far-off Hills," third and brightest presentation of Dublin's Abbey Players, is a truly brilliant jewel in the theatre's dull crown. The success followed the unveiling of "Katie Roche," with which the troupe opened its New York engagement to the accompaniment of lous criticism, and of "The Plough and the Stars," which was not entirely satisfactory.

In "The Far-off Hills" Lennox Robinson gave the Abbey Players a vehicle liberally splashed with comedy, something to which the Irish could ascend whenever they would cloak the essential tragedy of their nature.

Mules Just Like Women In Opinion Of Trainer Who Understands Them

TORONTO, Oct., October 27. — Mules are affectionate. They have been grossly maligned for years and years and any one who thinks they are just plain stubborn has never come across Captain Belew who has spent twenty-one years with circuses training horses, elephants, mules and what have you for Hal Christie's Acts now playing with Bob Morton's circus at the Maple Leaf Gardens.

"A mule is the most affectionate creature you can imagine," said Captain Belew yesterday, just before he went on in his act of horses that do almost everything but sing. "You just have to treat them the right way."

And about mules being stubborn—certainly if a mule takes the notion not to do something you want he'll stand all day and let you whip him. But that, declared Captain Belew was your fault and not the mule's. You just don't go at it the right way.

"Mules, like women, have to be coaxed; not driven," he said. "Just coax them along and you'll find them turning circles or doing whatever you want just to please you."

LOVED THEM IN DEATH

LONDON, Oct. 27.—(CP)— Mrs. Constance Freeth, well-to-do widow feared and hated dogs and cats. She employed special guards to keep them away from her premises. She died at the ageof 85, leaving an estate valued at nearly $375,000 and 95 per cent of it was bequeathed to five animal welfare societies.

DANDURAND NAMED CANADIAN ENVOY

OTTAWA, Oct. 27.—(CP).—Senator Raoul Dandurand will represent Canada at the nine-power conference on the Sino-Japanese conflict meeting in Brussels, Nov. 3, Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced Tuesday. He will be assisted by Hume Wong, Canadian resident delegate to the League of Nations at Geneva as technical adviser, and Pierre Dupuy of the Canadian Legation in Paris, as secretary.

Senator Dandurand is a Minister without portfolio and Government Leader in the Upper House. He is a veteran of many League of Nations gatherings and headed Canada's delegation at the recent League assembly.

TIMES REVIEWS BUCHAN'S LATEST BOOK "AUGUSTUS"

NEW YORK, Oct. 27 (C.P.). — The New York Times to-day reviewed at length "Augustus," the latest book by John Buchan who is Lord Tweedsmuir, Governor-General of Canada.

The book describes the life of Octavius Augustus, ruler of Rome at the time of Christ. The reviewer, Ralph Thompson, said that "for presumably good reasons of his own, the Governor-General of Canada has picked this as the proper time to bring forth a laudatory study of the Fuehrer principle in politics."

"Not, of course, the principle as it is applied to-day,' he wrote. "At this moment in history that would be both unexpected and embarrassing in an official of the British Commonwealth of Nations. But writing of an age long past—and under the name of John Buchan, student of history and private citizen—the Governor-General has found it possible to speak as frankly as he pleases. The result is of even greater interest to democrats than to students of ancient civilization.'

Mr. Buchan wrote that Augustus was "unquestionably a strong man" who revised "the entire theory of government in his favor" and finally wrecked "such vestiges of Roman Republicanism" as his great uncle, Julius Caesar, overlooked, but that he started Rome along the path that led to its collapse.

Leans to Benevolent Despotism.

The review said that another sort of historian "could have praised the accomplishments of Augustus, which were real enough, without condoning his ruthless political opportunism—or at least without condoning it in the abstract. But Mr. Buchan has preferred another approach. He believes, it is clear, that benevolent despotism is sometimes necessary for order and decorum and faith and the good life—since there are moments when progressives become 'foolish' and reactionaries 'stubborn' and then only some such strong man as Augustus can, by hushing them up, save the world from chaos....

"In a foreword, Mr. Buchan explains that his interpretation is a 'personal thing, colored insensibly by my own beliefs.' This is both evident and to be expected since much of the primary data on the Augustan age has long been lost....

"In reconstructing as full and colorful a history as this on such a slender foundation of fact Mr. Buchan has once more demonstrated the resources of his scholarship and literary skill. That the interpretation is personal merely increases the significance of what is said."

SECOND DEGREE MURDER

HONOLULU, Oct. — (AP). — Husky Prince David Kawanakoa Kwawanakoa, 33-year-old member of the Hawaiian Royal Family, was charged with second degree murder to-day in the death of his pretty 22-year-old half-caste comapnion.

The charge accuses him of severing an artery in Arvilla Kinslea's neck with a broken plate during a fight with dishes. The scene was their cottage, where they were giving an all-night party last week-end.

Conviction would carry a penalty of 20 years to life imprisonment.

SEARCH FOR METEORITE

Soviet scientists are searching for a meteorite in the Komarinsk district of Russia, following the finding of a 35-pound chip and a 675 fragment nearby.

Leg Crushed But Directs Rescue

Frank J. Downs, 47-year-old electrician at the Army Base pier in Boston, Mass., is shown directing workers who freed him after he had been pinned between a two-ton steel door and a pier for a half hour. The hoist swung suddenly out of place and caught Downes' leg. Rescuers are shown driving wedges between the door and the pier to free him.

G-MEN FRIENDS CANADIAN POLICE

MONTREAL, Oct. 27 (CP)—The G-Men of the United States are glad to co-operate with Canada in the work of tracking down criminals, J. Edgar Hoover, head of Washington's noted force, said today in an interview.

The chief of the federal bureau of investigation in the U.S., here to address the International World Police Convention, said law enforcement co-operation between the two countries were loosely-knit but at the same time "excellent."

"It is informal, but good results are obtained whenever assistance is required from one side or another of the international border," he said.

The dapper G'Man's often-expressed contempt of the once-glorified public enemy in the United States was evident in the interview. "We don't call them 'public enemies'," he said, "we call them 'public rats'."

"In 1933 and 1934," Hoover said, "there was a strong trend in the United States to dramatize the rat. But the tide of opinion has turned, and now the public in general looks on the criminal for what he really is—a yellow rat."

The outcome now was that youngsters no longer wanted to imitate the famous criminals, and the public was being made "law enforcement-conscious" instead of "crime-conscious."

Much of this change in the public attitude towards crime, Hoover said, had been brought about by the co-operation of the press. "On the whole, the press has been particularly helpful in law enforcement.

Of his G-Men, Hoover said he liked to "think of them as symbols of law enforcement." The impression they were "two-gun men" was entirely wrong," he said, and he cited 2,000 arrests with only nine killings.

Scottie At The Bar

"They can't do this to me," seems to be what Mike, a nine-month-old Scottish terrier, is thinking as he is pictured behind the bars at Brockton, Mass., jail. Two boys found Mike wandering on the street, whimpering in grief because he was lost. His owner got him out of jail next morning.

IOWA GOVERNOR AUCTIONS CATTLE ON ONTARIO FARM

UNIONVILLE, Oct. 27. — The unique spectacle of the Governor of an American State acting in the role of auctioneer was witnessed on Monday afternoon at Glenburn the farm of Colonel F. H. Deacon where a sale of Shorthorn cattle was held.

When he took his stand at the opening of the sale, Governor N. G. Kraschel of Iowa, told the assembly his visit was a personal one, and that he found himself among many old friends.

"Truly, the sale is one of international importance, and there are many from my own country attending," he declared.

His words were later borne out when the day's top price was paid by the Connor Prairie Farms in Indiana, on the purchase of a 3-year-old heifer for $925. A 2-year-old bull from the Duke of Windsor's E.P. Ranch in Alberta brought the highest price in that class at $300, the purchasers being John Gardhouse & Son, Weston.

"Not until I had been on the scene for some time, did I learn who the auctioneer was," said Reeve James Rennie of Markham Township later. "Had I known sooner, we would have done something to welcome officially our distinguished guest."

Good prices prevailed throughout the day and buyers were spread over widely distant parts of the United States and Canada.

THREE ARE INJURED IN OSHAWA CRASH

OSHAWA, Oct. 27.—One man is in the Oshawa Hospital and two others received injuries as the result of a collision Tuesday evening on Highway No. 2, two miles east of here.

According to Robert Wallace, 381 Sunnyside Avenue, Toronto, who received injuries to his head, arms and legs, he was driving west when two cars cut out of line and forced him onto the shoulder of the road and trying to right his car he shot across the road, colliding with a car going east driven by Edward Hoar of Bowmanville.

M. Gravelle, Courtice, a passenger in the Wallace car, was taken to the Oshawa Hospital with slight concussion, while Hoar, though injured, insisted on going to Bowmanville for treatment.

GOUDREAU, Ont., Oct. 27 (CP) —Prospectors in this district launched on a different search for gold today when they joined police in the hunt for money removed in a safe from the Bank of Montreal branch here some time last week-end.

The safe, looted of the $3,600 in cash it was said to have contained, was found in woods about 200 yards from the bank yesterday after Branch Manager C. M. Hugill, formerly of Toronto, discovered it had been removed.

Prospectors were assisting police in searching old mine buildings and the property surrounding them in the district.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to go
The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.
A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

W.I. AT JANETVILLE HOSTS TO REABORO. NESTLETON LADIES

(Examiner Correspondence.)

JANETVILLE, Oct. 27—A delightful meeting of the Women's Institute was held in the United Church on Thursday afternoon, when the Reaboro and Nestleton branches were present in large numbers as very welcome guests for this annual event for which Mrs. M. Armstrong was convenor.

The president, Mrs. Bert McMullen presided, and after the usual opening exercises the minutes and correspondence were read by the secretary, Mrs. P. Hamilton. The latter included several notes of appreciation for fruit sent during illness. Notice of a short course in "Vegetables," to be held in Lindsay in November 10 and December 1st, as read, and Mrs. George Heaslip is appointed as local leader, with Mrs. Bruce Heaslip as alternative. It was voted that a delegate be sent to the W.I. Convention in Toronto in November, the delegate to be appointed at the next meeting.

The treasurer, Mrs. Wesley Campbell, presented a gratifying report.

The guest speaker for the meeting, Rev. M. A. Bury, B.A., delivered a most timely and inspiring address on the subject, "The Influences of Women in the World To-day."

"Be Not Slothful"

Mr. Bury, as pastor of the church, first extended a hearty welcome to the members of the Women's Institute and visitors and added that at the Congress of Adult Workers, held at St. Thomas during the summer, it was strongly recommended that the ministers of the various chuches cooperate with agricultural representatives and with the Women's Inkitutes. He also stated that both he and his wife would welcome any opportunity to be of service to the Women's Institute.

In his address, Mr. Bury pointed out the various ways that women have been of influence during more recent years, and also impressed his hearers with the possibilities that lay in their power if they chose to join forces and exert their influence to the utmost ability.

The speaker referred to the recent boycott in the United States where the women have agreed to not purchase any "made in Japan" goods or non-union material, and the influence and result of such a stand is obvious.

Continuing Mr. Bury emphasized the wonderful possibilities if the women all over the world took a firm stand against drink and war.

In conclusion Mr. Bury left with his hearers a text so appropriate and inspiring that it will be remembered by everyone for some time to come: "Be not slothful in business, fervent in spirit, serving the Lord."

Mrs. G. Thompson, president of Nestleton Institute, and Mrs. Endicott, vice-president of Reaboro, were given the president's chair and after expressions of thanks for the invitation to be present, referred in glowing terms to the address just given by Rev. Mr. Bury.

Visitors Put on Program

The following delightful program was presented by the visitors: Paper, "Behind the Show Windows," by Mrs. Kenneth Thorne of Reaboro; Reading, "The Two Weavers," Mrs. Proutt, Nestleton; Vocal solo, Jean Malcolm accompanied by Miss Jean Taylor, also of Nestleton; Reading, "Compensation," Mrs. Jackson; Vocal Solo, "The Lilac Tree," Jean Malcolm.

At the conclusion of the program the vote of thanks to Mr. Bury and the guests for their splendid numbers was moved by Mrs. Bruce Heslip.

A buffet lunch was then served in the tea rooms of the church where a long table spread with snowy linen and centered with late Autumn flowers surrounded by a tempting array of good things to eat, was the centre of interest.

Later, Mr. Bruce McNevin, M.P., of Reaboro, who was a guest of the tea hour, was called upon for a few remarks.

Mr. McNevin expressed his pleasure in being present, and spoke of the excellent work being done all over the world by the Women's Institutes, and also stressed the value of the exchange of visits of the various societies.

A vote of thanks to the Janetville Branch was moved on behalf of the visitors by Mrs. Thompson of Nestleton and Mrs. Endicott of Reaboro.

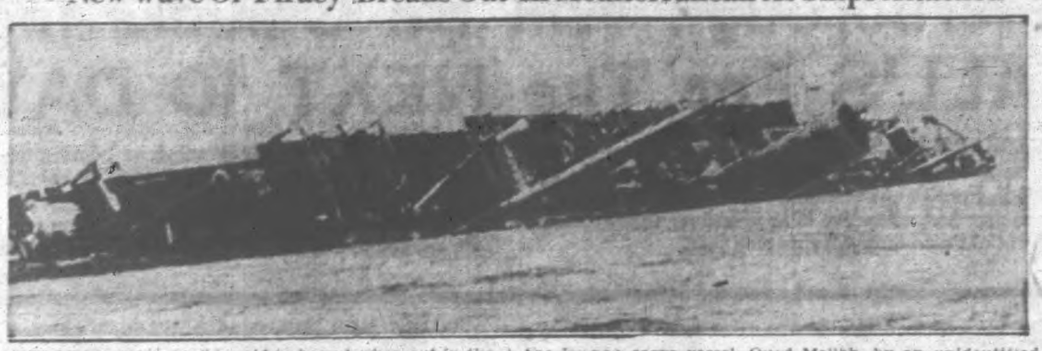
New Wave Of 'Piracy' Breaks Out In Mediterranean As Ships Attacked



A new wave of "piracy" is said to have broken out in the Mediterranean following attacks on French, German and Spanish ships by unidentified warships and aeroplanes, according to reports from France, Italy and Spain. One of the victims of the pirate boats, the Spanish steamer, Corfu, is shown ABOVE over on her side, just a few moments before she took the final plunge to the bottom. An attack on the French cargo vessel, Oued Mellah, by an unidentified aeroplane resulted in the sinking of the ship 50 miles east of the Balearic Islands. Another attack on merchant shipping, reported from Italy by the official news agency, occurred off Cartagena, on the east coast of Spain, when an unidentified German vessel was torpedoed and sunk. Details of the attack were not available.

SECTIONAL RALLY INSPIRING EVENT REPORTS ARE GOOD

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 27—The sectional rally of the Peterborough Presbyterial (Northern Section) was held in the Sunday School room of the United Church, Lakefield, on Thursday afternoon, October 21st. Representatives from Peterborough, Norwood and Warsaw were present. Miss Mitchell, travelling secretary, was guest speaker.

The Warsaw Auxiliary conducted the devotional exercises, with Mrs. (Rev.) Wilkinson in the chair. The Scriptural readings were given by Mrs. Millar and dealt with the Church of the Living God.

Prayers were offered by Mrs. Tucker and Mrs. Taylor.

Mrs. W. J. Charlton extended a hearty welcome to the visiting ladies.

Mrs. W. W. Leonard, Presbyterian representative from Lakefield Auxiliary, presided during the meeting and called on the different auxiliaries for reports.

Mrs. Allan Taylor presented that of Warsaw, and a most encouraging report it was. The members are wide awake to the missionary endeavor and are doing a worth-while work.

It was regretted that the members of Bridgenorth Auxiliary (six in number) were unable to be present owing to lack of transportation facilities. Anyway, a good report was sent over and read at the meeting. Among other things that the valiant six accomplished were ten quilts, pieced and quilted, for the sufferers in the West.

The report of the Lakefield Auxiliary was ably given by Mrs. (Dr.) Renwick. Three valuable bales have been packed, and during the year the ladies made a large quilt from woollen blocks knit by the members. The study book has been systematically taken up and it is hoped the entire allocation of nearly $500 will be met before the year closes.

An inspiring two-minute talk was given by Mrs. Alton of Peterborough, secretary of the Baby Bands. She said by showing an interest in her baby, the young mother is often led to take an interest in the church and its missionary work. Jesus loves the little children.

The literature secretary, Mrs. Stevenson, of Knox Church, Peterborough was present with her display of books and addressed the meeting, urging each member of have a copy of the study book and also of the annual report.

The Summer School.

A very interesting and comprehensive report of the Summer School for Missions at Whitby was given by Mrs. Renaud of Norwood. This year the school was held in August at the Ontario Ladies' College. Mrs. Renaud described the beautiful grounds of what was once Trafalgar Castle, now the property of the United Church. The spacious reception rooms and dormitories were thrown open to the delegates. The principal, Rev. Dr. Carscallen, and his wife, themselves returned missionaries, spared no pains to add to the comfort and pleasure of their guests. The retiring president of the Women's Missionary Society of the Bay of Quinte Conference, Mrs. Smyth of Renfrew, was present at the Summer School, and introduced her successor, Mrs. Jolliffe of Kingston. Mrs. Smyth gave a heart to heart talk long to be remembered for its inspirational content. Mrs. Renaud quoted some of the highlights from this address.

Mrs. Renaud said Dr. Jesse Arnup, author of our new study book, was present every afternoon and addressed the conference. He urged the United Church to put more forces in the field. A returned missionary from India was a valued speaker, and gave first-hand information of the missionary work in that sister colony. Mrs. Renaud closed her report amid a round of applause.

Mrs. Dr. Scott, president of the Presbyterial for the past three years, brought greetings from that body. Being a daughter of the manse and a returned missionary from India, Mrs. Scott has done much to nourish missionary zeal in the Presbytery. She said this was her last round as president, and thanked the members for their support.

The Guest Speaker.

The guest speaker for the afternoon was then called upon and received a hearty welcome. Having spoken in Lakefield before, Miss Mitchell needed no introduction. She said she wanted to tell in a brief way what had been accomplished. There were many different phases of the work, but the medical work went hand in hand with evangelism. The doctors and nurses in outpost hospitals go the second mile every day and incidentally win souls for Christ. Miss Mitchell told heart-touching stories of her visits to lonely fields on the Pacific and Prairie missions of the need in the dried-out area of the West, of a hospital near Medicine Hat where supplies had run out but a timely parcel from Ontario had saved the situation, bringing two layettes in time for the twins which had just arrived unprovided for. She also spoke of the 71 million dollars spent in liquor in Ontario, to the detriment of little children and of the best interest of the home.

Two pleasing musical numbers were rendered during the afternoon: a vocal duet by Mary Alice Renwick and Winnifred Murphy, and a solo by Mrs. Wm. Millage.

A report of the branch meeting at Arnprior was given by Mrs. Yale. It was a most masterly report of the three days' conference, April 28, 29, 30. As the afternoon was waning, there was no time to do justice to such an excellent report given in Mrs. Yale's own pleasing manner.

The offering was dedicated by Mrs. E. J. Millage, and Mrs. McKercher presided at the piano.

Mrs. (Rev.) Kelly moved a hearty vote of thanks to all those who had made the rally a success. This was ably seconded by Mrs. Burgess.

The ladies of Lakefield Auxiliary then served an excellent supper, and greetings and felicitations were the order of the hour.

GILLIAN, DIGGORY TAKE OCEAN TRIP

NEW YORK, Oct. 27 — (CP) — Mazo De La Roche is represented on the Autumn book lists by "The Very House," a volume that continues the adventures of Gillian and Diggory, the children that the Clarkson, Ont., author first introduced to the public in "Beside a Norman Tower."

The New York Herald Tribune, reviewing the new work by the author of the Jalna series, said the "children in one of the best books ever written for adults about children under four, 'Beside A Norman Tower,' have grown just enough older to be more articulate without losing their charm. Indeed they are just that much more charming."

The New York Times said that "readers who are acquainted already with those charming infants, Gillian and Diggory, probably will not need an invitation to accompany them on their further adventures . . ."

The story find the children on a liner, travelling from Canada to England. As the Times describes it: "They make friends on shipboard, they marvel at seagulls and icebergs, they watch apprehensively while the luggage is counted. Gillian has a moment of genuine terror, when there is some trouble over their hotel reservations. . ."

HE WAS ALWAYS TIRED AND ILL

Three Complaints Gave Him a Miserable Time

Suffering from three complaints—disordered kidneys, sciatica, and rheumatism, how could this man be anything else but always tired and ill? This is what he writes:—

"Up to a month or so ago, I had suffered continually from kidney disorder, sciatica, rheumatism, and generally felt off colour. I was constantly tired, and under medical supervision. I tried many remedies, but without effect until I gave Kruschen Salts a trial. In four weeks, Kruschen has brought about a complete transformation. I have a healthy appetite and once more feel that it is good to be alive."—S.V.N.

The kidneys are the filters of the human machine. If they become sluggish, impurities find their way into the blood-stream, and the seed of half-a-dozen common ailments is sown.

The scientific combination of salts in Kruschen quickly coaxes the kidneys back to healthy, normal action. Soon your ailments are relieved and life becomes a joy again. —adv.

DeLaval And Raybestos Assessment Appeals Set Over

Alderman Gordon Appealed Against The Assessment Of Two Local Companies

Appellant Not Present So Extension Until Next Monday Is Granted

Appeals for raising the assessments of the Canadian Raybestos Company and the DeLaval Company instigated by Alderman G. N. Gordon failed to materialize due to the absence of the appellant when the Court of Revision held its first sitting in the Council Chamber last night. An extension to next Monday night on presentation of the appeals was granted.

Mr. Gordon indicated in his application that he would endeavour to show the assessments on the properties of the two companies are too low and contrary to law. J. F. Strickland, K.C., was present on behalf of the Canadian Raybestos Company and F. D. Kerr, K.C., was present for the DeLaval. Both legal representatives objected to adjournment of the appeals, arguing that the appellant should have been before the Court when the appeal was called.

More than thirty appeals were given the attention of the Court. The sitting marked the first appearance of Thomas C. Ephgrave as a member of the Court, following his recent appointment by Mayor Macdonald to fill the vacancy caused by the death of W. F. Johnston.

Among the matters handled were the following:

Assessment on property of the B. Allen estate at 110 Simcoe street, appealed by Lottie Allen, was confirmed. Assessments on each of six houses in a tenement opposite the C.G.E. were lowered $50 on an appeal of Lottie Allen.

Assessment on 560 Bolivar street, appealed by Edward Barry, was confirmed.

Assessment on 583 Walnut street, appealed by W. W. Butcher, confirmed.

Assessment on 180 Perry street, appealed by Mrs. J. H. Callander, lowered by $190.

Appeal against assessment of Canada Crayon Company withdrawn by F. D. Kerr, K.C., acting for the company.

Business assessment, appealed by Sidney Crowe, confirmed.

Judgment reserved on assessment appeal of Elliott Drug Company.

Assessment on 209 Bethune street, appealed by Mrs. Ada Ephgrave, confirmed.

Assessment on 310 Frederick avenue, appealed by M. G. Hardill, confirmed.

Assessment on 303 Maitland avenue, appealed by Mrs. M. E. Heasman, confirmed.

Assessment of Peterborough Floral Company confirmed.

Building at 78 Lock street, tenanted by St. Paul's Sunday school, exempted on appeal of Peterborough Workmen's Building and Saving Association.

Assessment at 584 Bolivar reduced $184 on appeal of Mrs. S. Smith and G. W. Allison.

Assessment of Smith Transport property confirmed.

Assessment of Dickson estate property, Lot 3, south of Hunter and west of George, reduced $450.

Assessments on 265 and 263 Charlotte street each reduced $50 on appeal of M. and J. McDonald.

Assessments on 269 Charlotte street reduced $150 on appeal of M. and J. McDonald. Four other assessments confirmed.

Assessment of Waddell estate property at 600 Chamberlain, reduced $50 on appeal of Trust and Guarantee Company.

Assessments on 112 and 112A McDonnel street reduced $325 on appeal of Victoria Trust and Savings Company.

Has Picture Hung In Ottawa Gallery

A second time within recent weeks have honors in the photographic world been conferred on Fred Cripps, young local photographer. One of his prints has been hung in the Fourth Canadian International Salon of Photographic Art which opened at the National Gallery of Canada in Ottawa this week.

Entitled "Political Candidate," the print is one of the 181 selected from submissions the world over for inclusion in the salon. The salon is considered by the photographic world the leading photographic art show of the Dominion. Recently Mr. Cripps was honored by selection of three of his prints for the Western

17 TO 1 OUTSIDER TOPS CLASS FIELD CESAREWITCH RACE

NEWMARKET, Suffolk, Oct. 27 (CP Cable).—T. Westhead's Punch, a colt by Lancegave, out of St. Judy, today won the 99th running of the Cesarewitch Stakes.

Mrs. Sidney Freeman's Fet, the winner last year, was second, and E. Robson's Solar Bear third in the field of 31.

The winner paid the long odds of 17 to 1. Fet started at 20 to 1 and Solar Bear at 100 to 8.

The result, furnishing a stunning surprise because the three topmost public choices in the betting finished outside the money, set young fortunes into many hands through the workings of the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes.

A sensational last-minute betting rush had made Faite's Vos Jeux a clear favorite, but Lady Nuttall's gelding finished out of the money, as did the other public choices, James V. Rank's Epigram and Sir Abe Bailey's Maranta.

Bad Racing Weather.

The 2¼-mile race was run under bad conditions. A heavy morning rain followed by a gloomy mist made visibility as poor as it could be, and the going became very soft after the early races on the day's card.

Several entries went to the post overweight. Maranta carried 106 pounds, Miss Windsor 105, Fox Star 100, Prudence Act 97, Zeros 96, and Grecko 98.

In the defeat of Fet, winner last year, and of Sir Alfred Butt's Near Relation, winner of the event in 1935, tradition was preserved. Never since the race was first run in 1839 has a horse won twice.

His Majesty's Fairlead ran, but was little fancied and finished well out of the money.

Despite the terrible conditions, a large crowd watched the big handicap. Epigram started second favorite at 10 to 1, and Maranta third at 100 to 9.

Mr. Westhead, the winning owner, is one of the biggest bookmakers in the country, and, like the trainer of Artist's Prince, winner of the Cambridgeshire early this month, he publicly announced before the race that he expected Punch to win.

Lands At Winnipeg

Sir Hubert Wilkins, noted Arctic explorer and H. Hollick-Kenyon, well-known Canadian flier, are shown in the lower photograph as they were greeted by Mayor F. E. Warriner of Winnipeg, upon their arrival in the western city prior to beginning a second search for the lost Russian polar fliers. The huge aeroplane which they will use during the search, a Lockheed Electra, is shown in the upper photograph. Emblazoned on its fuselage is the "USSR" of the Soviet.

Generous Response Not Coming As Y.W.C.A. Canvassers Call

First Major Effort Ever Made By Y.W.C.A. In Over Thirty Years

At the report luncheon of the General Campaign Committee of the Y.W.C.A. at which reports were received from the various Ward Commanders, chairmen and captains today, such reports, while indicating conscientious effort on the part of the workers, proved the citizens as a whole were not contributing as generously as expected.

G. A. Gillespie, chairman, stated that in his opinion the citizens failed to understand this was not the usual annual appeal for public services, but was the first major effort ever made by the Y.W.C.A. in over thirty years, and that it would be a black mark on the generosity of the citizens of Peterborough were this appeal to fail.

Mr. Gillespie further stated that every dollar of the $60,000 the Y.W.C.A. was asking for would be spent in Peterborough in the nature of a loan, similar to a Home Improvement Loan as sponsored by the government, because indirectly it would go back to the citizens in the form of wages to the carpenter and the decorator and the electrician, with material, such as furniture and equipment, to our firms, and would therefore mean a stimulating of business in Peterborough this winter.

The total of reports, as submitted at the luncheon, together with what has been previously reported, indicated that the half-way mark in the campaign had been reached, or a little better than $26,000.

It was quite apparent at the luncheon that the workers had not lost confidence, particularly after the inspiring remarks of Rev. M. C. Parr in behalf of the workers, who addressed the gathering, and all left with the hope that by the evening of November 1st, when the workers, their husbands, wives and friends attend the closing "Open House" Rally at the Y.W.C.A. that evening, the objectives would be reached.

The Rambling REPORTERS

PUZZLER FOR COURT.

Andy Buck, proprietotr of the Andy Buck Shoe Store on George street, handed the Court of Revision a puzzler Tuesday night. He complained he is being taxed on property which his next door neighbor, the De Luxe Cafe, occupies. A tenant of the City Trust, he contended he is occupying only two-thirds of the space on his store premises and that the Cafe occupied the other third.

Concluding that the occupants of Mr. Buck's premises preceding Mr. Buck's arrival here in May have been paying taxes on the entire space for years past, the Court debated whether or not it has jurisdiction in correcting Mr. Buck's trouble. The matter was adjourned.

Mrs. Margaret Gillespie appealed against an assessment on a house which no longer exists. house was torn down during September but she is faced with payment of the last instalment she said. Decision of the Court was reserved.—C.P.K.

Arab Women Bathe With Clothes On Under Taps On The City Streets

Speeded to England by air mail and transferred there to a fast mail steamer, a letter has been received by Mrs. L. Groombridge, 263 Murray street from her brother, F. W. E. Hill, who is in the service of Imperial Airways Limited, Bahrein Islands, Persian Gulf. The letter reached Peterborough from that far-away point within two weeks.

In his letter Mr. Hill writes of having been in Khartoum, Kareima, Malakal, and Cairo and states, "I have done more than my share of flying since I joined this firm, but it has been mostly over desert so you could hardly call it a sightseeing tour." He remarks on the humidity being eighty per cent at the time he wrote and wonders what it is going to be like when summer time comes in his part of the world.

Referring to some of the native customs in the Bahrein Islands, Mr. Hill states in his letter, "Instead of the Arab yashmak the women wear a mask. Yes, a real mask with only their eyes showing. They never take off their clothes, and it is dead funny to see them under the various taps in the streets, bathing with all their clothes on."

The writer of the letter recently went to view a house he considered renting, and he was shown over the place by the landlord Sheik Hamed, one of the ruling Sheik's sons.

"He showed me over the place but took good care that the harem were shooed out of the way first. They moved so quickly that had I not seen them behind the bars the day previously I would never have known there were women there. The room they usually slept in was where I partook of coffee. One never goes into an Arab house without drinking coffee, as that would be an insult to the guest. I sat there with the Sheik and his retinue cross-legged on the floor for about half an hour, and didn't I know it on trying to get up again! The room was full of oriental rugs and cushions, and hanging on the wall were the sheik's gold belt and dagger, gold sword and gold and silver rifle."

In concluding his letter, Mr. Hill told his sister, "It is 4 p.m. Greenwich Mean Time; Arabic time is 1.23 p.m. and your time (Eastern Standard), is about 11 a.m.

He comments, "Imperial Airways are sure knocking the clock about now though, aren't they? I'll be popping over to see you for a weekend soon!"

UNKNOWN CANUCK $148,650 RICHER ON PUNCH TICKET

TORONTO, Oct. 27 (CP). — One Canadian, who used the pseudonym "Como" on ticket LR-02007, had the winner of the Cesarewitch race classic at Newmarket today in the Irish Free State Sweepstakes and won $148,650. His identity was not known.

"Como," who drew Punch in the ticket draw last week, topped more than 125 Canadian winners in the sweepstakes. Canadian winnings aggregated approximately $420,000.

John E. Sparrow of North Vancouver won $49,550 when Solar Bear placed third in the Newmarket race. Sparrow said before the race he had decided against selling any share of his ticket. If he stuck to that decision, all the $49,550 was his.

Twenty-six Canadians held tickets on starters and the 24 whose horses failed to get up in the top three had to be content with $1,920 each. They won the same amount as the 48 who drew non-starters.

His Second Ticket.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 27 (CP). — Calmly Mrs. E. Sparrow heard today that the second sweepstake ticket her carpenter husband ever bought had brought the North Vancouver family approximately $49,500.

"Everyone seems more excited about it than we do," Mrs. Sparrow said today when told that Solar Bear, on which her husband held an Irish Hospital Sweepstake ticket, had run third in the Cesarewitch.

"Of course we're happy about it," she said. "But we hadn't thought about winning because we didn't want to be disappointed if we didn't win."

"We'll probably take a holiday." But they hadn't made any plans. "We just put the ticket away and forgot about it."

Sparrow's nom-de-plume was "O Yes."

SLOW TRAVELLING

After showing his movie pictures, "Coronation Pageant of Empire" at Norwood last night, Fred L. Roy started the return journey to Peterborough shortly after eleven o'clock but did not reach here until ninety-minutes later. During the whole journey of 30 miles, Mr. Roy was obliged to drive with extreme caution on account of dense fog which shrouded the highway, it is reported. His assistant, Roy Pitchford, rode on the running board in the capacity of "look out." On the new stretch of pavement from Indian River to the city limits the "lookout" gave the driver directions by keeping his eyes on the black centre line. To have left the pavement, in the present unfinished condition of the highway, would have resulted in further delay if not serious trouble.

BREWER'S AGENT IS SENT TO JAIL FOR SELLING

For a period of thirty days, Sundays included, Laverne Lillow, of Lakefield, spent an average of fourteen dollars per day on beer and spirits, it was revealed during hearing of a charge of unlawfully keeping liquor for sale before Magistrate W. A. F. Campbell this morning.

Refusing to accept the explanation offered by the defence that Lillow bought the beer and spirits for the purpose of entertaining at his home in his capacity as brewer's agent, and notwithstanding that the Crown produced no evidence of sale, the Bench recorded a conviction. The minimum penalty of 2 months' imprisonment was imposed.

Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., conducted the prosecution, and Emmett F. Sheehy was counsel for the defence.

Constable David Silvester of the Ontario Provincial Police testified that on the evening of October 6 last he called at Lillow's residence and saw the accused and his wife there. He took possession of over 3 dozen pints of beer and two pints of whiskey he found on the premises.

Permit Produced.

Producing a liquor permit issued by the Liquor Control Board to Laverne Lillow, the officer declared that entries indicated that from September 7 to October 6 last, Lillow spent a total of $89.50 on liquor purchases.

Purchase slips from the Brewery Warehouse, also produced by the constable, further revealed that during the period, September 4 to October 4 last, the accused spent a total of $250 on beer.

David Fleming, manager of Peterborough branch of the Liquor Control Board, said the liquor indicated on Lillow's permit had been chiefly bought at the local store. One purchase during the period in question was bought at a liquor store elsewhere.

Norman Hughes, an assistant at the Brewery Warehouse, gave evidence of the purchases of beer, and said the fact that original copies of purchase slips were signed by Lillow indicated the purchases had been made by the accused.

At the close of the Crown's case, Mr. Sheehy moved for dismissal on two grounds: first, that the information and complaint was irregular; and secondly, that there was not sufficient evidence to prove the offence charged.

Amended Charge.

The Bench agreed there was a technical inaccuracy in the information before the Court, but gave the Crown permission to amend the charge to include the words "contrary to provisions of the Liquor Control Act of Ontario (Section 72-1)."

The sole witness called by the defence was Frank H. Gray, district sales manager for an Ottawa brewery, which the accused also represents. Witness said he was a paying guest at South Beach Hotel. Giving evidence regarding practice of the brewing trade, witness said that because advertising in the press was prohibited by legislation, brewers found it necessary from time to time to give away samples of their products.

Defence counsel argued that beer found on the premises by police and beer and spirits purchased in large quantity by the accused, was in connection with his business as a brewer's agent and was not kept for sale.

RESIGNATION ACCEPTED

BERLIN, Oct. 27—(AP).—The resignation of Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, German Economics Minister, was accepted today by Chancellor Hitler.

Dr. Schacht said: "My resignation took effect yesterday. I shall remain as President of the Reichsbank for the time being."

EIGHT YOUTHS ARRESTED.

TORONTO.—Police today said they arrested eight youths on charges of conspiring to rob, breaking and entering and theft. Police said they believed that they had broken up the gang which intimidated East-End messenger boys, called to houses on fake orders and then robbed.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

By an Examiner Reporter.

WORK HAS STARTED

Work was begun Tuesday on the new government wharf at Little Lake which is being built for the convenience of visiting boat-owners. W. H. Mells is in charge of the operations.

FINANCE COMMITTEE

The finance committee of the city council will meet on Thursday night and following this session there will be meetings of the other council committees.

SANTA CLAUS PARADE

Arrangements are being made to organize a Santa Claus parade for Peterborough to be staged early in December. The suggestion is that the affair which will be on elaborate lines should be held in the evening.

NOT ALL GONE SOUTH

The Examiner has received several reports from people who have seen robins still, around. Apparently the birds were not chased away with last Saturday's snow storm. Today Robert Orde, caretaker of Jackson Park reported seeing a robin.

COMING IN WELL

Supplies for Western relief were coming in so well this morning that the committee in charge felt confident not only of filling the three car objective set here but of completing the filling of the second Millbrook car which had not been fully loaded at that village.

TO ADDRESS KINSMEN

At their meeting on Thursday night at Empress Hotel members of the local Kinsmen Club are to hear an address delivered by "Rich" Richards, Cobourg who is national vice-president of the Association of Kinsmen Clubs.

TICKETS SOLD OUT

It is reported that tickets for the Policeman's Ball at the Legion Hall on Friday night are now at a premium. A constable was heard to remark, "We are not selling any more tickets. You couldn't get one now if you wanted to."

BUILDING POST OFFICE.

Work was begun Monday on the construction of the new Havelock post office of which T. A. Brown of this city has the contract. A building opposite the C.P.R. freight shed is being torn down, clearing the lot for the new post office which was obtained for Havelock through the representations made by Rork Ferguson, M.P. The plans were prepared by John T. Hornsby.

Garnett Drain was allowed to go on suspended sentence when he appeared on remand on a vagrancy charge. Wilbert Cross similarly charged with vagrancy was ordered to serve 2-days imprisonment.

DUCKS PLENTIFUL

A Hiawatha man reported to The Examiner today that ducks are more plentiful at Rice Lake than they have been for five or six years. "After I had gathered up my decoys last night," he said, "I listened to the incoming birds for some time and for twenty minutes there was a continuous sound like a strong wind blowing as the ducks came down from the north."

REMEMBRANCE DAY.

The Retail Merchants' Association is to meet on Monday night to discuss what is to be done in connection with the local observance of Remembrance Day and also to consider what action should be taken in regard to Boxing Day. At Port Hope the merchants have already decided that November 11th should be a full holiday and they are petitioning the town council to that effect.

HEADS STUDENT COUNCIL

Allan Park, fifth-former at Peterborough Collegiate Institute and Vocational School was elected president of the Student Council. Other officers elected were: Margaret Lundy, vice-president; Jean Moore, secretary; Kenneth Rose, treasurer; Edna Borland, orchestra representative; John Hooper, Camera Club representative; Jack Craig, social committee head; Haig Kelly, representing the Boy's Athletic Association, and Mary McPherson, Girl's Athletic Association. L. Brown, D. Brown and Miss H. Park complete the slate.

THREE CARS ARE BEING LOADED TO HELP WEST

Loading of three freight cars on the C.P.R. sidings here was proceeding apace to-day as indication of the measure of Peterborough's response to the appeal of the Western Relief Committee on behalf of people in the drought stricken areas of the Prairie Provinces.

One of the cars is under consignment to Orley, Saskatchewan; another to Moosomin, Saskatchewan; and the third is awaiting designation. In addition to the produce with which each car will be laden there is to be enclosed a number of tickets.

The tickets, which will be distributed by those in charge at the final places of destination to each individual receiving aid, are worded as follows:

"With best wishes from the City and Churches of Peterborough in Ontario. An acknowledgment would be appreciated addressed to the Mayor of Peterborough."

Alderman James Dutton, chairman and treasurer of the Committee, who was accorded a unanimous vote of thanks by the committee at a meeting held on Tuesday afternoon, in recognition of his energetic leadership, told a reporter: "The idea of the tickets we are enclosing is not that any of us seek approbation or approval for what we have done, but we thought the recipients themselves might be glad of an opportunity of extending their thanks on knowing where the gifts came from."

Excellent Response.

He announced that total cash contributions to date have exceeded the $600 mark and he termed it "a very excellent response on the part of every section of the community."

Besides the money which is to be used for the purchase of produce to complete the car loadings, gifts in kind have been steadily piling up at the central receiving depot at the Salvation Army Temple for days past.

While these contributions were being loaded into the cars at the C.P.R. sheds to-day, contributions from all hands came direct, in all sorts of conveyances.

Among the latest cash donations acknowledged by the committee are the following: Knox United Church, $60; St. John's Church, $56; Salvation Army, $4; All Saints' Church, $22.75; St. Paul's Church, $5; Trinity United Church, $119.50; St. Luke's Church, $21.50; The Men of St. Paul's, $25.00; "A Friend." $1.00; George Street United Church, $38.25; Kinsmen Club, $10.00.

TWO WOMEN HAVE NARROW ESCAPE

PORT HOPE, Ont., Oct. 27.—Two Peterborough women, Lillian Douglas, who gave her address as Monaghan Road, and Vela Robbins, Bethune Street, had a narrow escape from serious injury here late last night when the sedan in which they were riding, crashed down an embankment and overturned in the Ganaraska River.

The driver was John W. Forbes, Watson Avenue, Toronto, who was taken into custody by Chief Constable T. Murphy, on a charge of "drunk while driving." Arthur Fisher, Toronto, was the fourth occupant of the car. The machine was proceeding northerly on the shoulder of the road for 120 feet, rolled down an embankment, and landed in the water on all four wheels. No one was injured, but all four occupants received a wetting.

Milkman's Horse Runs Away Making One Complete Circle Of City Block

"Around and around she goes; where she stops nobody knows."

With apologies to a well-known radio personality, that is perhaps what Elden Martin, driver for Campbell's Dairy was thinking when his horse gave him the merry run-around on Tuesday afternoon.

After standing for a few moments at Dublin and George streets, the horse apparently startled for some undetermined reason started to run away east on Dublin street.

With a flying leap Martin hopped on the step of the swaying wagon, but as the horse sharply swung north on Water street he was thrown off. A split second later two cases of milk were jolted from the wagon to spill their contents over the roadway, as a wheel grazed the curb.

Like the horses of the circus ring, the frightened animal continued to complete the circle making a turn west on Edinburgh street and another turn south on George street. When almost back to the point from where the mad race had started the horse was brought to an abrupt halt when the right wheel broke from the axle after the wheel again struck the curb with added force.

Sudden loss of the wheel turned the wagon completely over. Fortunately no person or other traffic was struck by the runaway horse and wagon. And apart from the loss of a wheel; slight damage to the wagon; the loss of a couple of cases of milk, and the shock suffered by the horse to say nothing of the driver, the incident was without serious consequences.

TROUSSEAU TEA, BRIDAL SHOWER HELD IN NORWOOD

NORWOOD, Oct. 27—Miss Verna Scott, whose marriage takes place on Saturday, October 30, entertained her friends at a most delightful trousseau tea on Saturday afternoon, from three to six p.m. Miss Scott, wearing a pretty printed crepe dress, received the guests with her mother, Mrs. W. J. Scott.

Mrs. W. R. Burgess, aunt of the bride-elect, welcomed the guests, while Mrs. Armar Weir ushered the callers into the tea room, where the tea table was lovely with an ecru lace cloth and centrepiece of pink and white carnations in a silver bowl placed on a reflector with pink tapers in silver holders.

Mrs. Bert Scott, Mrs. Cleland and Mrs. J. A. Finlay presided over the silver tea services. They were assisted by Mrs. Renaud, Miss Rose Squire, Miss Ruth Burgess, cousin of the bride-elect and Miss Evelyn Scott, sister of the bride-elect.

Miss Helen Scott ushered the guests upstairs where the trousseau and gifts were displayed in four rooms in charge of Mrs. E. C. Squire, cousin of the bride-elect, Mrs. H. G. Carleton, Miss Florence Nevins and Mrs. H. J. Ford, sister of the bride-elect.

Shower Is Held.

Miss Florence Nevins, Hastings Road, Norwood, entertained a number of friends at a delightful "cup and saucer" shower on Wednesday evening in honor of Miss Verna Scott, whose marriage to Mr. Leo Cann will be an event of October 30th.

The guest of honor was seated in a chair prettily decorated in white. Little Miss Janet Giffen, dressed as a bride, entered the living room to the strains of the wedding march played by Mrs. Roy Nevins, wheeling the attractive gifts in a small decorated carriage and was assisted by Miss Doreen Nevins. Other gifts were also presented by Mr. and Mrs. Nevins.

The Misses Doreen Nevins and Janet Giffen each received a cup and saucer in memory of the occasion. Following the opening of the gifts Miss Scott expressed appreciation to her friends. The remainder of the evening was spent in games and contests. Miss Lila Kirke rendered a suitable solo.

After dainty refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants, all joined in singing "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow."

W. I. Hold Euchre Party.

FARMERS ADVISED TO STUDY FURTHER

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Oct. 27, (CP)—Hon. P. M. Dewan, Ontario Minister of Agriculture on Tuesday addressed a service club attended by about 500 persons, most of them farmers.

Mr. Dewan was introduced by Premier Mitchell Hepburn.

Mr. Dewan advised farmers they must think and act in terms of better farming if they were to take full advantage of the present recovery period and overcome their obstacles and set-backs before another period of economic depression arrived.

They must think of applied agriculture from the standpoint of improved soil fertility and better live stock, he said. He proceeded to show how closely soil fertility and live stock were allied. Better marketing methods and closer co-operation all along the line were stressed. He also said the farmer to be successful must be a good business man.

Present at the gathering were Sir James Dunn, head of the Algoma Steel Corporation, W. R. Reek, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, G. R. Green, Agricultural Representative of Oxford County and John G. Brown of Kitchener.

Farmer On Spree Gets Free Colt

Dundalk, Oct. 27.

EIGHTY - NINE - YEAR - OLD William Scutt of Maxwell was the life of the party at an auction sale of Western colts here when he bought no less than nine of the animals, receiving a free colt for purchasing the highest number.

Vernon Barber of Owen Sound paid the highest price and received a free colt as a premium. A Tiverton man got the prize for coming the longest distance to the sale, seventy miles. Fifty colts were disposed of at high prices.

Auto Kills Horse Rider Escapes

LINDSAY, Ont., Oct. 27—(CP)—Returning last night to Lindsay from Valentia, 12 miles south of here, L. Mackey of Lindsay was involved in an unusual accident. The car he was driving crashed into a horse ridden by Frank Hood, Valentia farmer. The horse was killed but the rider was not seriously injured.

Mr. Hood was returning to his home after a day's plowing and was riding one of the horses of the team he had been using. Mackey failed to notice the team and rider and struck the horse.

PROPOSE ATTACK ON CANCER BY USE OF REFRIGERATION

CHICAGO, Oct. 27—(AP)—A new attack on cancer by use of refrigeration, on the principle that the wild growth of this disease may be curbed the same as the growth of plants and some animals is stunted by cold, was announced to the American College of Surgeons here today.

The experiments were all done on human beings. Among them, one case of "hibernation" of a cancer was produced. Under refrigeration this particular cancer has disappeared, although the patient had been pronounced "hopeless."

The refrigeration technique was announced as "a new point of view" by Temple Fay, M.D., professor and head of the department of neurology and nero-surgery, and George C. Henny, M.D., director of the department of physics, Temple University School of Medicine, at Philadelphia.

The type of cancer refrigerated is metastasizing carcinoma. It is the kind which spreads from one part of the body to another. It is one of the most dangerous.

The clue to the refrigeration idea came from noting that this kind of a cancer was mostly confined to the warmer "segments" of the human body. The breast, for example, is warmer than the lower legs and also has more of this cancer.

Dr. Henny, the physicist, devised instruments which could be placed on the human body to lower temperature in specific regions. This temperature drop occurred on the skin and extended also some little distance into the body.

In some cases the refrigerating devices were in contact with the cancerous growth. In others they were close. They were used only on cases pronounced hopeless by any known method of treatment.

The most immediate and striking result of the refrigeration was "promptly and gratifying relief of pain." There was temporary improvement in the general nutritional state of the patients.

The report says the experiment has not been going on long enough to draw any conclusions as to the ultimate result of refrigeration.

INSTITUTE HELPS WAR ON STARLINGS

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAVAN, Oct. 27.—Cavan Women's Institute met for their October meeting at Mrs. R. A. Sutton's home, Ida, on Thursday afternoon.

There was a good attendance, the president, Mrs. A. B. Kennedy, was in the chair.

The topic for the meeting was "Health" and the roll call was answered by a health hint.

It was decided to quilt three quilts for Western relief, in the church basement, next Wednesday, commencing in the morning; each lady to contribute something towards the lunch.

The report was given by the fruit committee, who were to receive and pack the fruit at Mrs. D. J. Hunter's home. Seventy gems were contributed.

The reports from the teachers of the three schools in the district, concerning the starlings and starling's eggs destroyed by the children, was received, and the treasurer authorized to pay the sum due each school, to the teacher. Whitfield's School had earned the most money—upwards of seventeen dollars. Matchett's School received $5.45, and Cavan School over four dollars. The teachers, Mr. R. A. Sutton, Miss D. Slscoe and Miss Ruth S[illegible] will divide the money among the boys and girls according to the numbers of birds and eggs destroyed.

There was discussion as to ways and means of raising money for the Institute, but no definite plans were made.

The next meeting was announced to be in charge of Mrs. R. M. Howden's group.

Enjoyable Program

Mrs. R. A. Sutton presided for an excellent program during which Mrs. Kennedy read an informative paper on the lives and work of Louis Pasteur and Joseph Lister. Mrs. Sutton gave interesting current events. Mrs. Milford Byers read a paper on "Health," which gave many hints conducive to health. Miss Malone contributed a reading "The people on the Back Concession." Mr. R. A. Sutton gave a splendid paper on "Radium," he, having visited the factory at Port Hope and brought back much information concerning its origin, manufacture and use.

After this very fine program lunch and a social time was enjoyed. Mrs. R. Lough and Miss B. Touchbourne assisted the group in serving lunch.

Personals

Mr. Oakley Carley was in Cobourg last week, serving on the jury.

Mrs. Swain, Blackstock, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Oakley Carley and Mr. Carley.

The W.A. of Cavan United church are planning for their annual fowl supper, which will be served in Cavan Community Hall on the evening of Armistice Day, November 11. A play from Garden Hill will be the major portion of the program.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Snider spent the week-end in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. McPherson, Toronto, were visitors in Cavan on Friday evening.

Col. O'Dell, P.S.I., paid an official visit to S.S. No. 7, on Thursday.

Plan To Study Migration

Two prominent Salvation Army officers from London, who are in Canada to survey the possibilities of migration from Great Britain to Canada arrived at Quebec aboard the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Britain. They are Commissioner David C. Lamb, C.M.G., RIGHT, head of the army's intelligence department, and Brigadier M. O. Culshaw, secretary of the migration department.

LAMAQUE PROSPECTS

TORONTO, Oct. 27—(CP). — While making no predictions President D. H. H. Forbes of Teck-Hughes Gold Mine told shareholders at today's annual meeting it is likely Lamaque Gold Mines, a subsidiary, could retire $1,500,000 in outstanding bonds and be in a position to pay dividends within two years. Teck-Hughes has a 70.8 per cent. interest in Lamaque and has 100 per cent. board representation.

MISS RUBY ADAMS IS MADE DIRECTOR

(Examiner Correspondence.)

PENELLA, Oct. 27.—Mrs. Harry Hutchinson was hostess to Penella Women's Institute which was held in the Community Hall on Thursday October 21, with Mrs. Eric Sandercock, the second vice-president, in the chair.

The meeting opened with singing the Institute Ode, followed by the Lord's Prayer, in unison. The minutes were ready by the secretary. Roll call was answered by "Best ways for storing winter vegetables and Bulbs". Miss Ruth McFiggin resigned her office as district director and Miss Ruby Adam's was elected in her place.

Letters of thanks for flowers sent them during their illnesses were read from Mrs. G. Sandercock and Mrs. L. Bates.

Mrs. Eric Sandercock and Mrs. Cephas Brisbin were elected to attend the vegetable course at the home of Mrs. Wicks, Cobourg in November.

The next month's meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. C. W. Macklin, with the roll call "Idea for an inexpensive Christmas gift."

The program was then enjoyed: community singing; reading "The Old Lady and the Basket," by Mrs. M. Adams; contest "Dry Goods" by Mrs. H. George.

Mrs. Hugh Sherwin extended a vote of thanks to the hostess and a social half hour was enjoyed.

Mrs. Lyle Curtis is still on the sick list and is being nursed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Curtis, Coldsprings.

HOPE FOR HELP ABROAD

BERLIN, Oct. 27—(AP). — Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering's magazine, The Four-Year Plan, in its current issue, said Germans abroad were gradually becoming "moral-spiritual and economic factors upon which the Reich could count as representatives of her cause in the respective countries."

The magazine, which estimated there were 30,000,000 German-born persons abroad, explained Nazlism's idea of fruitful exchange of cultural and economic goods in which it viewed Germans abroad as the natural intermediary.

Nephaline Company Building Unloading Station In Lakefield

Plans To Transport Ore By Water Route From Head Of Stoney Lake

Having taken a lease on two lots on the waterfront adjacent to the Government wharf at Lakefield, the Canadian Nephaline Company is planning to establish a permanent unloading station for its ores, it was learned to-day. When the station is put into service next Spring, ores will be trucked from the company's mine to the head of Stoney Lake, taken by water to Lakefield and loaded directly in railroad cars for shipment to Canadian and American points.

The lots have been obtained from the village of Lakefield, a year's lease with the option of buying having been taken. It is reported the company plans to erect a crane for scooping the ore from scows alongside the station into railway cars on the C.N.R. siding. Three scows are to be used. While one is in transit, another will be moored at the end of the road from the mine on the other nextremity of Stoney Lake for loading and the other will be moored for unloading at the Lakefield end.

Steamer Chartered.

Chartering of the 96-ton steamer Wauketa which has now reached Lakefield after its long tie-up below the Lift Lock was a part of the plan. Although the steamer's draught of 7 feet 6 inches was too deep for the Lift Lock, it is expected the ship will be navigated without difficulty on the run from the mine outlet to Lakefield. Raised by means of pontoons sufficiently to pass through the Lift Lock, the ship was towed to Lakefield and paid its first visit to Stoney Lake under steam last week. The company is planning to dry-dock the vessel in the canal just above the Lakefield lock for overhauling during the winter.

Daily shipments of three carloads of ore screened for three-inch size are to be made from the loading station to Rochester. The ore in crushed form will also be shipped to Canadian points.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Oct. 27 (CP). —That almost mythical creature, a pure white crow, has been seen by Game Warden Herbert McCabe. He described the albino bird as having perfectly white feathers, pink beak and legs.

LAKEVIEW WOMEN VISIT WARKWORTH

WARKWORTH, Oct. 27.—The regular meeting of the Percy Women's Institute was held in the council chamber on Tuesday at two o'clock. Lakeview branch were the special guests for this occasion.

The president, Mrs. G. A. Helson, opened the meeting by all singing the Ode and repeating the Lord's Prayer. Mrs. James Black then gave a very inspiring talk on the motto, "For food and friends and all God sends, let us be truly thankful."

This was followed by the roll call, "One thing I am thankful for," which was responded to by members of both Percy and Lakeview branches.

The president announced, "The Leaders' Training School for the Care of the Clothing" project, to be held in the Community Hall on Oct. 21st and 22nd and Nov. 12th. Mrs. Lorne Evans is the local leader for this project with Mrs. Joseph Greenly the alternate.

The training school for leaders in the junior project, "Clothes Closets Up-to-date," is being held here on Nov. 1st and 2nd under the supervision of Miss Greta Pollard of Bowmanville. Mrs. G. A. Helson and Mrs. Eric Merrill are the local leaders for this project.

Mrs. Percy Windover and Mrs. Lorne Hutchinson are the delegates to the Belleville convention being held on Oct. 27th and 28th.

Mrs. James Black conducted a period of silence in honor of the memory of Mrs. R. B. Colloton, of Lorne Park, honorary president of the Federated Institutes of Ontario, who passed away very recently.

Mrs. Gordon Honey, president of Lakeview branch, took charge of the following program: Reading by Mrs. Martin; reading by Mrs. Honey, and a contest, "The Musical Plate," which was very interesting.

Mrs. William Shaw was in charge of the following program by Percy branch: Duet by Helen Black and Ruth Morgan; readings by Mrs. Joseph Greenly and Mrs. Peter Jones. Mrs. Black read a very interesting letter written by Alvin Maldens of California.

A basket of candy made by two Lakeview members from their talent money were quickly sold, the proceeds to be placed in the Lakeview funds.

The meeting then closed with the National Anthem, after which a delightful lunch was served by the committee in charge and all enjoyed a social half hour.

Premier of Belgium, whose cabinet resigned to facilitate charges of alleged financial irregularities. The resignation coincided with the strange death of a former director of the Goldsmeiber and Penso bank, the failure of which has figured in the investigation of the National bank.

ANNUAL SUPPER OF WOMEN'S GUILD

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Oct. 27.—A pleasant social event of Saturday afternoon and evening was the annual hot supper served in the Waverly Club Rooms, under the auspices of the Women's Guild of St. Thomas' church, the attendance being large considering the very unfavorable weather, and the occasion netting the Guild over forty dollars, from which, however, the expenses have yet to be deducted.

The tables were very attractive with runners of fluted green paper sown the length of each, and red candles burning in brass holders. The president of the Guild, Miss Anna Kells, welcomed the incoming guests, and had a general oversight of the whole event, a number of willing helpers giving capable assistance in connection with the service of the abundant menu.

Mrs. G. F. Harrington acted as cashier, and among those helping with the meal were Mrs. J. E. Allen, Mrs. Frank Stinson, Mrs. J. W. Hilton, Mrs. D. R. Fowler, Mrs. George Raper, Mrs. H. M. Trick, Mrs. T. A. Campbell, Mrs. L. M. Bonneville, Mrs. A. A. Smith, and the Misses Ada Attwooll, M. L. Collins, R. Macnamara, M. O'Brian, B. M. Turner, M. Chirstie, L. Crocker, Mildred Wood, B. McCorry, Margaret Wood, and M. Simpson.

The next event in the Anglican church calendar is the showing of the coronation pictures by F. L. Roy, in the Town Hall, on Wednesday, October 27, under the choir auspices.

DEAD RECKONING

BY

BRUCE HAMILTON

READ THIS FIRST:

Tim Kennedy graduated into wouldbe homicide from the school of armchair murderers. With a lucrative dental practice and an enviable social position in a small town near London, Tim, at middle age, feels happy and secure. Then Esther is run down by a truck, returning home a week later a physical wreck, with all her former beauty shattered. Tim loses all interest in his wife and is greatly attracted by Alma Shepherd, a widow. He becomes infatuated and finally decides that Esther must die. Trying to work his wife into a state of despondency over her condition, so he can fake a suicide, Tim feels the time for the poisoning is ripe. His plans are spoiled when Dr. Harold Arkwright, Esther's uncle, in discussing Esther's condition, tells Tim he is positive she never would take her own life. During a sea cruise Tim ponders over other means of ridding himself of his wife.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 21.

During Esther's second nightmare on shipboard she did not scream—or if she did, not sufficiently loudly to awaken Tim or attract any other attention. What did wake him was a sudden draught of cold air blown into the cabin from an electric fan outside.

He jumped to the floor and saw that Esther's berth was empty. An instant later a heavy crash from a little distance away sent him racing down the corridor. Others who had heard the noise were close behind—it was not yet 1 o'clock, and many of the people on board had not retired for the night. Among them was the ship's doctor, and it was he who discovered Esther crumpled on the floor at the foot of the stairs leading to the dining saloon.

The stairway was fortunately short, and against all probability she had escaped serious hurt. Bruised knuckles, which she had knocked against the banister, and a slightly twisted ankle, were the extent of her injuries. She was awake when she was found, though it took her a minute or two to understand where she was. Her mind had traveled back to an hotel in Rome, where the Kennedys had slept in a high room reached by a swift and vertiginous elevator; and somehow she had got into the well of the elevator, which began to descend upon her.

It was the ship's doctor who carried her back to the cabin. It was only his second trip after qualifying, and he treated the case with great solemnity, making Esther lie the whole of the next day, and personally administering enormous yellow capsules of uncertain composition at regular intervals.

He was a very earnest young man, with close-cropped fair hair, a broad, pink face, and china-blue eyes blinking naively through gold-rimmed spectacles. He had a talk with Tim, and as he spoke some French but very little English, unjustifiably assuming that the latter tongue was practically identical in vocabulary with the former, his meaning tended to be elusive.

"The Couch-mare," he said, "verray daungerers. When infant, bagatelle; when adulterer, verray daungerers. I have known gents to cass the brass, the jamb. I have known a mister ject himself from a high fenester; he blessed to death. The Couch-mare verray daungerers."

It is sad to think that this excellent young man should have sealed Esther's fate. It was his last instance that gave Tim the cue he had been waiting for, the case of the mister who jected himself from a high fenester and was blessed to death. For Tim knew of just such a high fenester. . . . From that moment it was only a question of working out the detail.

The rest of the voyage passed without any further outbreak from Esther. The other passengers did not quite ostracize the Kennedys' but they tended to avoid them. It was felt that such a malady was distressing and not quite seemly; besides, many people had their pet version of the first disturbance, and were indignant and resentful at having it exploded.

The first step was to ensure that Esther should get three or four hours' sound sleep. He did not give her medinal, because he wanted the conditions of this rehearsal to approximate as closely as possible those which would obtain when the performance was enacted in earnest. And he was not going to use medinal then; in the event of a post-mortem traces of a recent dose, inconsistent with nightmare-haunted sleep, would certainly be found.

Instead, making the excuse that it was their last night on board, he called for a magnum of champagne, and filled and refilled Esther's glass until she had drunk over a pint. Esther habitually drank little or nothing, but she liked to let herself go on rare occasions. Excess of alcohol invariably induced in her a childlike gaiety on which extreme fatigue supervened, and she would fall into a heavy sleep, becoming restless and disturbed after two or three hours, finally waking in deathly sickness about 4 or 5 o'clock.

So it was now. But at 3 o'clock, two hours after they had gone to bed, and while her first heavy sleep was still on her, Tim stole from his berth dropped silently onto the floor, and after opening the cabin door, lifted her with all the gentleness he could command from where she lay. He carried her into the passage, along which he crept stealthily for a dozen yards, then returned, laying her once more in the berth and covering her with the bedclothes. She never stirred. An hour or so later she awoke. She called out softly.

"Tim, dear, are you awake?"

"Yes, darling?"

"Will you get me a glass of water?"

He climbed down, switched on the light, and did as she asked.

"How are you feeling, Esther?" he asked.

"Awful. . . . I shouldn't have had that champagne."

"You'll be all right in the morning. . . . Any bad dreams?"

"Not a dream. . . . That's better. I think I could go to sleep again now."

"Right-o! Good night, dear."

"Good night."

He switched off the light, and climbed back into his bunk, well content. Within a few minutes he was asleep.

BEDTIME STORY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S INK BERRIES

"There," said Uncle Wiggily as he twinkled his pink nose at his wife. "I have finished typewriting this letter to Mr. Twistytail and now I must sign and mail it. Where's the ink, my dear?"

"Isn't there any in the bottle on your desk?" asked the rabbit lady wife.

"It's empty, my dear," said the husband rabbit.

"Where's your fountain pen?"

"That's empty, too. I want to fill it if I can find some ink."

"I don't believe there is any ink in the bungalow," spoke Mrs. Longears. "Can't you sign your letter to Twisty on the typewriter?"

"That wouldn't be polite, my dear. But since we have no ink, and as it is rather far to the store, I shall make some."

"Make ink, Unkie Wig?" asked Baby Bunty the orphan rabbit using just the two baby words she was allowed. "Can you make ink, Unkie Wig?"

"Certainly, my dear. Out of ink berries. Some grow in the woods not far from here. If you like you may come with me while I pick some."

"Oh, how wonderful!"

Off They Go.

"Thank you, Unkie Wig," said the orphan rabbit. Soon she was hopping beside Mr. Longears up hill and down dale over the fields and through the woods to the place where the ink berries grew.

"Maybe you could pick some fountain pens if you can pick ink berries," said Baby Bunty as she hopped along trying to make her little pink nose twinkle as brightly as Uncle Wiggily's larger one.

"Ha! Ha! That's pretty good!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "Are you joking, Bunty? Pick fountain pens off trees?"

"Oh, no," said the orphan rabbit. "But I thought maybe you were teasing me. Are there really such things as ink berries?"

"Of course there are. I'll soon show them to you," said the Uncle rabbit. "But what made you think of fountain pen trees?"

"Well, there are shoe trees and hat trees and clothes trees, so why not fountain pen trees?" asked Bunty.

"True, why not?" repeated Mr. Longears. Only there doesn't happen to be any. But I'll tell you about the ink berries."

All About Berries.

Uncle Wiggily explained that growing in some woods was a bush which, in the Fall of the year, had on it dark, purple berries. In some places they are called ink berries and in other places poke berries. The Latin name is Ilex Glaba and the ink berry bush is a sort of cousin to the Christmas holly.

"Do you dip your pen in one of the berries and then write?" asked Bunty as Uncle Wiggily stopped in front of a bush bearing clusters of the dark, purple berries.

"Oh, no," said Mr. Longears. "I must pick the berries, take them home and crush them to get the juice out. I shall use the juice of the poke berries for my ink to sign the letter to Twisty."

"Oh, how wonderful!" laughed Bunty. Then she helped Uncle Wiggily gather in a basket many of the ink berries.

"May I help squeese out the ink?" asked the orphan rabbit.

"I'll see," was all Uncle Wiggily would promise. And just then a rustling noise sounded in the bushes. "Come on, Bunty, let's hop fast!" called Mr. Longears. "Maybe it's a Bad Chap."

But it was only a brown thrush bird scattering the dried leaves looking for bugs to eat. So the two bunnies safely reached home and started making ink from the berries.

And if the tea spoon will take some sugar out of the salt cellar to put in the lemonade so it won't make sour faces at the coffee pot, I'll tell you about Uncle Wiggily and Bunty's fumble.

The policeman's lot is not always an enviable one.

As guardian of the law he must patrol his beat, be it in the heat of a summer's noon day sun; the depth of a sub-zero night in mid-winter; rain or shine. Nor is that all.

There are times, infrequent, fortunately though they be, that his job is faced with real danger to himself. Some years ago Peterborough was shocked when a police officer was shot to death. Not so long ago a constable was mortally wounded at Sarnia in a gun fight with a bandit; while more recently an officer at Sudbury was shot fatally and only this week his murderer was sentenced to be hanged.

Other cases could be mentioned where officers have been killed or wounded by desperate criminals in protecting the life and property of the community.

Some forces have their pension schemes, but members of Peterborough City Police Department are without any sickness, accident or death benefits, or at least they were without these things until The Police Benevolent and Burial Association was organized by the men themselves five years ago.

Since that time, the members of the Department have established a fund with the proceeds from the annual police ball.

The Policemen's Ball, now one of the recognized social events of the season, is being held at the Legion Hall on Friday night next under the patronage of His Honor Judge Sheldon L. Smoke, His Worship Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., and His Worship Mayor George A. Macdonald and others. Romanelli's 12-piece orchestra is to play for the dancing.

In the past years the ball has been well patronized by the general public, while the members of the force have always had the support of manufacturers and merchants alike.

This year, judging by the advance sale of tickets, another successful ball is promised, and funds of the Association will be further increased.

Inspector James F. Reid, first secretary-treasurer of the police organization is still acting in that capacity, while the president of the Association is Constable Gordon T. Puffer, J.P., with Constable William R. Piercy, as vice-chairman.

Since the fund was created, members of the force buried one of their fellow officers, who died from the effects of injuries received while on duty.

B. SEIBERT SIGNS TO END SAVARD'S HOLDOUT WORRIES

MONTREAL, Oct. 27 (CP).—Last year's model is good enough for the Montreal Canadiens. It was good enough last winter to roll into the National Hockey League's Canadian leadership, and the club isn't going to do too much tinkering with a machine of that horsepower.

Some of the parts may be getting old, and maybe there's a creak here and there in an aging joint as the new season adds one more to the weight of years. But there's youth mixed in to balance that, and Driver Cecil Hart vows the combination should be good at least for a playoff berth.

Every regular of last year has been signed up except for Howie Morenz, the old centre wizard who died at the height of his comeback, and Defenceman Bill Miller, who retired voluntarily. A brace of holdouts held things up for a while, but they were finally brought into camp.

Babe Seibert, the rugged mainstay of the defence last year, was the last to come in. He signed up yesterday after sticking out for weeks for a raise. Tiny Aurel Joliat, the will-o'-the-wisp left winger, capitulated three days before.

Fills Miller's Shoes.

Red Goupille of Canadiens' International-American farm at New Haven, is going to be moved into Miller's defence spot. But instead of leaving Seibert and Walter Buswell together all year, and teaming Goupille and Bill McKenzie for keeps, he's going to have a more flexible set-up. The 200-pound redhead and McKenzie will be switched back and forth in combinations with the Babe and Buswell, thus giving the backline four pairs.

"I think in the long run that system will work out best," Hart said today.

Up front, the Canuck mastermind has been working young Paul Haynes, Toe Blake and Johnny Gagnon, the veteran "black cat," on his No. 1 line. Up to now, Joliat's been on the ice only a few minutes, but when he gets in trim—if he can still hold the pace after 14 years under the big top—he'll slip into Blake's place to the left of Haynes.

Old Pit Lepine, his hair silvering but still swinging an educated stick, pivots Joffre (Dizzy) Desilets and George Mantha, whose flashing skates seem to carry all their former speed. Wilf Cude, the wily Welshman, will be in the nets.

INDIANS GETTING LIQUOR

CALGARY—(CP).—Indians who aid Royal Canadian Mounted Police in obtaining convictions of illegal liquor sellers will be rewarded, if the recommendations of Southern Alberta officers are approved at headquarters. The supplying of intoxicants to Indians is on the increase, police report.

Murph Chamberlain Slated For Leafs

GALT, Ont., Oct. 27 (CP).—Murph Chamberlain is given an excellent chance of making the Maple Leaf hockey team by Coach Dick Irvin.

Chamberlain, ex-Sudbury star, has all the necessary requirements — hockey brains, ruggedness, speed and stickhandling—for major league competition, Irvin thinks. Murph is not the only one of this year's crop of rookies to show National League ability, the canny coach said, but he should make the jump from amateur hockey in one leap.

CALGARY BRONKS WOULD LIKE GAME WITH EAST SQUAD

CALGARY, Oct. 27, (CP)—A good setup for eastern Canada has been proposed by Calgary Bronks, providing they win the Western Canada football title, Manager Larry Price of Bronks said here last night.

Price said he had tried to arrange a post-season game with Sarnia Imperials, Dominion champions, but that his team was not particular with whom they played. In Sarnia Jackie Baker, Imperials' manager, said a post-season game with Calgary would be impossible.

"All we want to do is play a game with any eastern team, a last place one if necessary, to try and bring the east and west together again," Price said. "We would like to play against Sarnia to repay the western visit they made two years ago. They beat us twice that time, 39-0 and 17-12 and we put up four-fifths of the guarantee for their trip."

Prefers Western Rules

Price said he would like to have the game played under western rules, to give eastern fans a chance to look at them. Bronks would play under eastern rules if demanded.

Price denied he had intimated in a message to Baker that the West would not challenge for the Canadian title.

"If we win the West, we cannot challenge for the title, because under their rules a number of our players are not eligible," he said.

"Of course, if Winnipegs win, they can challenge. But then they would play under eastern rules, and that would not stop the bickering between east and west, and it still would not put western rules on display in the east."

Winnipeg and Calgary will meet in the Western Interprovincial Union final.

WITHOUT UNION SANCTION

WINNIPEG, Oct. 27 (CP)—Joe Ryan, first vice-president of the Western Interprovincial Football Union, said last night Manager Larry Price of Calgary Bronks was without union authority in "prematurely seeking games, exhibition or otherwise, in eastern Canada."

Ryan commented on a Calgary despatch reporting Price had attempted to arrange a post-season game with Sarnia Imperials, Dominion champions. Price was quoted as saying Calgary, if they win in the West, could not challenge for the Canadian title because a number of their players are ineligible.

"When the winner of the W.I.F.U. is declared," said Ryan, "our union will challenge for the Grey Trophy and will nominate a club that will field a squad fully capable of representing western football and entirely as eligible as any team selected from the east to defend the cup."

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

AS A reminder that winter is rapidly approaching, the local Ski Club is lining up its plans for the Ontario zone ski championships to be held here the weekend of February 5th and 6th. Arliss Flint, chairman of the Technical Board of the Provincial zone layout for the Canadian Amateur Ski Association, was a visitor in Peterborough the other day advising the local club executive of the finer points of conducting a large ski meet of this nature. After looking over the jump at Nassau and the surrounding country, Mr. Flint expressed himself as being well satisfied with the facilities for ski-ing in this district. Now all we need is snow.

BUT LACROSSE hasn't altogether left the sports picture yet. The Fair Board sports' committee at Huntsville is trying to arrange an exhibition lacrosse game there between Auburns of this town and the Huntsville gang shortly. That team didn't play in any loop this year but had a few exhibition tilts and a lot of practise—and took a 9-5 win over the good Brooklin bunch. They are offering expenses for Auburns to go there, bringing the regular lineup along, and a referee. R. M. Tipper is the chairman, but W. N. McDonald, of Huntsville, is making arrangements. We hear the locals are considering the matter.

LOT OF folks here go for the pro rasslers and they'll be glad to hear of the show at the Brock St. arena a week from Friday. Under Promoter Bob Morley of Windsor. He has a good stable of mat maultrs but has informed us that he doubts if Kasaboski or Hart will be available for this first card in Peterborough. We told him this pair had always proven popular around these parts but it seems they are just heading east from the Pacific Coast now by easy stages —if ya called getting kicked around a couple of hours in and out of a ring nightly easy stages!—and will not be back to Ontario for over a week yet. But the Border City mat mogul stated he would make fans here grapple conscious again by staging a first-rate program packed with action. He hopes to run 'em regularly in this town again.

BIG GRID game here this weekend is the one betwixt Blue Bombers of Lindsay and the local Orfuns in Riverside Park on Saturday. The last tilt of the schedule—though Eastsides haven't been seen here so far this season—and it ought to draw another big crowd of local and Lindsay fans. Ye olde rugby rivals play for keeps in the towns of Lindsay and Peter's borough, and those Scugog huskies would sooner beat the Orfuns than date the glamorous Garbo—well almost, anyway! Orfuns love licking Lindsay, too.

* * * * * *

AS THE Lindsay Post scribe says :"Lindsay gridders are satisfied that they aren't going any farther than this group this season. They didn't intend to burn the loop up at any time this fall. They only had one ambition and that is to lick the Orfuns. They were weakened on Thanksgiving Day when the Petes came here and won handily, but their ambition is still there and they have strong hopes of taking the haughty champs (?) on Saturday. The feature of any season, hockey, baseball, rugby or any other sport, has been the Lindsay-Peterborough game. The Orfuns are looking for a full house when the Bombers and the Orfuns tangle — and how these rugby teams can tangle!" Yeah, you sure issued a flock of syllables there, pal.

* * * * * *

DUE TO the fact that the junior and senior P.C.I. rugby teams are playing in Oshawa this Saturday—and some of the gridders also play the cage sport—there will be no games in the juvenile or junior Church Basketball League this weekend at the Y.M.C.A. However, two bantam cage contests will be arranged for Saturday e'en in the "Y" gym, names of the contending squads to be announced in a day or two. Dunno for sure how many entries yet in this circuit but the officials have been predicting a 12-team loop, four teams to each section. More again on this matter.

* * * * * *

LOCAL HOCKEY Club executive had a get-together last night to make plans for the club's annual meeting, which will be held next Wednesday night at eight in the Chamber of Commerce. At that time, officers for the coming season will be elected and general plans for the winter made. They are thinking of running a raffle to raise necessary funds. Meantime, the O.H.A. has been contacted with regard to groupings for the Peterborough teams, junior and intermediate. Some of the new O.H.A. prospects here have applied already to the O.H.A. for transfers, and more info will be available within the next week. Not a great deal can be done for the time being.

* * * * * *

FOUR ONTARIO puckists have been added to the Hershey B'ars in the Eastern U.S. amateur (haw, haw, haw!) league for this winter. Coach Herb Mitchell's men won that title last season but are not resting on their laurels. All four of these newcomers have been seen in action with Toronto, Oshawa or Kingston teams in Peterborough the past few years. Jo-Jo Graboski goes to join his brother Tony, both of whom once shone for Oshawa; Fred Hunt, former Toronto junior, makes the hop across the line, too; Joe Catlin, who helped Kingston rub out our Colts a couple of seasons back, is another; and Ab Grant, classy defenceman with Toronto Goodyears, is the fourth. Guess the boys figure there is cream in those B'ars, what?

* * * * * *

UP AND down Sports' Rialto: Bill Smith of the O.B.A.A. invites all sports organizations to a meeting in Toronto tonight to organize his Sports Federation . . . Bob Elliott, Bill Kay, Max Swanston and the rest must marvel at the change in Smith . . . . Executive committee of the O.H.A. has a meeting Friday; annual meeting will be November 20th . . . . Johnny Munro of Queen's and Bob Elliott, who played for the Ponies at third, will referee the Belleville-Fliers' grid game Friday at the airport . . . . Quinte Panthers lost four good rugbyists this season through injuries; a benefit affair may be arranged . . . . No further word from Eastsides regarding their game with Orfuns . . . . Ought to be enough hockeyists here this winter to rinternediate "A" and "B" teams in the O.H.A., if groupings can be lined up . . . . Or wouldn't the O.H.A. give us special consideration now if we joined their skeleton senior series—and wouldn't that class of hockey pack 'em in here? . . . . Oboyoboyoboy! . . . . Fencing enthusiasts who want to join a newly-formed class at the "Y" are asked to get in touch with Jim McClenaghan there . . . . All we ask of life is to see just once a footballer get in on a rival squad's huddle on the gridiron—and get away with it!

CUKE KING

BROOKS, Alta.—(CP).—L. L. Trimmer is the "Cucumber King" of the Brooks irrigated garden lands. He grew 20 tons of cucumbers this year.

LEGAL MEN FIGHT FOR TOMMY FARR

LONDON, Oct. 27 (AP).—Tommy Farr, British Empire heavyweight boxing champion, and his manager, Ted Broadribb, exchanged a series of blows through their lawyers on Tuesday when Broadribb sought an interim injunction to restrain Tommy from participating in boxing exhibitions here except under his management.

Farr maintains the contract has been mutually broken. His affidavit alleged that during his fight with Joe Louis, Broadribb virtually blinded him for two rounds of the fight by an overdose of eye lotion and mishandled him throughout his United States visit, "as a result of which I cannot bear him in my presence."

Broadribb's counsel accused Farr of "seeking to kick down the ladder by which he climbed the fence."

TRAINING GOSSIP FROM N.H.L. CAMPS

TORONTO, Oct. 27.—Today's short, short (unsolved) mystery story: Which ace N.H.L. forward is Manager Red Dutton of New York Americans after? Dutton admits negotiations are underway but refuses to divulge with which team or for what player.

Quite a boost that was from Art Ross for Johnny Shewchuk, who played last year with Copper Cliff Juniors. Says Ross, coach of Boston Bruins: "He's the best rookie defenceman we've picked up since Eddie Shore came to Boston as a youngster 10 years ago."

Montreal Maroons needn't worry about Amateur Maurice Croghan being in shape. The husky Montreal-born defenceman, who just reported at the Lake Placid, N.Y., training camp yesterday, doesn't smoke or touch liquor and always sees to it he's in good physical condition.

Toronto Maple Leafs pack up their troubles, and everything else, in their old kit-sacks after today's practice and start out on a five-game tour with Syracuse Stars, a Leflan farm team. First game is at Galt, Ont., tomorrow.

You can hardly blame Cecil Hart, coach of Montreal Canadiens, for being happy today. The roster of his team is complete now that Aurey Babe Siebert, all-Star N.H.L. defenceman last year, has come to terms. Siebert ended his holdout siege yesterday after a talk with Team President Ernest Savard.

Leafs and Maroons have just reversed the order in their player experiments. The Toronto team has moved Bob Davidson back from a forward spot and Manager Con. Smythe thinks the youngster will fill the shoes of Hap Day, sold to Amerks. Maroons are attempting to make a utility man of Defenceman Roger Jenkins and have been playing the veteran at forward part of the time in training.

WINDSOR GRADS FAVORED

WINDSOR, Ont., Oct. 27 (CP). — Windsor Grads of the Junior O.R.F.U. will try to capture the division championship when they meet Woodstock Red Devils here Saturday. Grads have won two successive games and should Woodstock win here they will be tied with Windsor for first place. Sarnia, remaining team in the division, has lost the two games played by them.

ADMIRAL IN FAVOR

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 27 (AP).—Back in the races after a five months' layoff, War Admiral galloped 1 1-16 miles in 1:46 Tuesday to win his "comeback" race.

The brown son of Man o' War raced easily and crossed the line two and a half lengths ahead of J. A. Manfuso's Anerold, and six and a half lengths in front of E. D. Shaffer's Floradora.

MARMORA GAINS SECTION HONORS SCHOOL FOOTBALL

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Oct. 27. — Marmora High School defeated its Tweed rivals on the latter's grounds on Monday afternoon by 29 to 5, thereby securing the Central Hastings High School Society's championship and earning the right to meet the winners of the Bay of Quinte Association, namely Albert College.

Home-and-home games will be played on November 6 and 13, the first game to be staged at Belleville.

Both teams were at full strength for Monday's encounter. In the first quarter the visitors got two touchdowns by Joe Bertrand and Gus Leonard, Tweed failing to score, the score at the end of the quarter being Marmora 12, Tweed 2.

In the second quarter Tweed fumbled a kick which Marmora recovered and got a touchdown, making the score Marmora 17, Tweed 0.

In the next quarter Tweed responded with a touchdown. Marmora completed a forward pass to secure another six points, and make the score read Marmora 23, Tweed 5. In the opening of the final quarter Jack Gray of Marmora received on an end run and went over the line for another touchdown. Final score: Marmora 29, Tweed 5.

The girls' softball game was marked with high scoring, the Tweed girls running out winners by 50 to 27.

Sonshine's Injury Produces New Charges On Grid Front

Roughriders Claim McFall's Leg Broken Deliberately — Players Take Affidavits

OTTAWA, Oct. 27 (C.P.)—Charges and counter-charges flew thick and fast on Wednesday as Ottawa Roughriders and Toronto Argonauts carried on a long-range review of last Saturday's game in Toronto.

Argonauts, through President Tommy Alison, charged Bunny Wadsworth, 260-pound middle, with deliberate roughness in the breaking of Harry Sonshine's jaw.

Ottawa Roughriders countered with the charge Argo players ganged Elwood McFall, a young outside just up from junior ranks, and broke his leg with a deliberate kick.

Almost the only definite result of the wordy duel was a grand build-up for Saturday's return game here, with officials of the Roughriders considering whether they should build additional bleacher stands to accommodate the crowd.

Argonauts made their complaint to Dr. Andy Davies, president of the Big Four, insisting Wadsworth be suspended pending a full investigation of his play on Sonshine.

"I was at the game and saw nothing of an attack on Sonshine by Wadsworth," Davies said yesterday. He told of meeting Referee Joe Breen, Umpire Pean Bennett, and Frank Turville, head linesman, after the game, and not one of them considered Wadsworth fouled the Argo secondary. Wadsworth was penalized on the play for a high tackle, not deliberate roughness.

Davies said he had requested Bill Foulds of Toronto, referee-in-chief of the Big Four, to forward reports from the three officials to guide him in his decision.

Davies said he would decide alone whether the Argonaut protest was warranted and expected to be able to announce his decision in a day or two. If Argonauts were dissatisfied with his decision a meeting of the Union could be held here on Saturday.

The League President has had two interviews with Wadsworth, who has been in bed with a leg injury since his return from Toronto. Wadsworth told Davies he made no deliberate attack on Sonshine and used a bodycheck instead of a tackle in an effort to prevent the Argonaut from passing to Johnny Edwards, who was coming up fast on the play.

Davies received three affidavits from Argonaut players to-day setting forth opinions Wadsworth deliberately hit Sonshine with his elbow.

Jimmy McCaffrey, manager of the Roughriders, said team members were prepared to take affidavits McFall's leg was broken when an Argo player kicked him while he was lying on the ground, after being clipped from the play.

Davies, who set McFall's leg after the game in Toronto, said it was a direct fracture and could have been caused by a kick.

PICK GIRL ATHLETES CANADIAN TEAM

MONTREAL, Oct. 27 (CP)—Irene Wall, national secretary of the Women's Amateur Athletic Federation of Canada, announced Tuesday the selection of girl athletes to represent Canada at the British Empire Games in Australia next summer. The list has been forwarded for final approval to M. M. Robinson of Burlington, Ont., secretary of the British Empires Games selection committee.

The seven-girl team will include Robina Higgins, Winnipeg field event star; Jeanette Dolson, Toronto, Barbara Howard, Vancouver, Aileen Meagher, Halifax, Isobel Bleasdell, Montreal, all sprinters; Evelyn Goshawk, Winnipeg, broad jumper and sprinter and Yvonne Dingley, Vancouver hurdler, broad and high jumper.

Miss Wall stated the W.A.A.F. of C. had petitioned the games committee to have Roxy Atkins, Toronto hurdler and sprinter, included on the regular team if sufficient funds were available.

Miss Atkins has been placed on the reserve list along with Isabella Miller, high and broad jumper, Hamilton; Thelma Norris, broad jumper and sprinter from Calgary and Violet Montgomery, Winnipeg sprinter.

King Edward Beaten In School Final

Despite a game battle King Edward eleven lost the second game of the city soccer finals 2-1 to Central school which also was their second straight loss, having been beaten in the first by 1-0 count. They are front (LEFT to RIGHT): A. McMaster, H. Dalliday, T. Foster, L. Shea, D. Jamieson, J. Weaver. Rear (LEFT to RIGHT) K. Anderson, C. Murduff, H. Foster, W. Curtis, R. Leether, K. Langton.

'PA' JACKSON DIES

LONDON, Oct. 27 (CP Cable)—Nicholas Lane Jackson, grand old man of British sport, died yesterday. He would have been 87 years old on November 1.

Known to the sporting world as "Pa." Mr. Jackson founded the famous Corinthian Amateur Football Club and the London Football Association, and assisted in formation of the Lawn Tennis Association Council, on which he served for many years. He was vice-president of the Football Association.

Tall and wiry, Mr. Jackson participated in nearly every British sport. "Keep fit!" was the guiding principle of his life.

ADAMS PLEASED WITH EDDIE SHORE

BOSTON, Oct. 27 (CP). — Eddie Shore, Boston Bruins' great defenceman, "is in the best physical condition I have ever seen him," Weston Adams, club president, said today, after returning from the Bruins' training camp at Hershey, Pa.

"On his farm near Edmonton this summer, Eddie has conditioned himself for six months for this season's hockey," said Adams. "He is going about his work at Hershey with the enthusiasm of a rookie."

Adams said Shore is the "big news" of the Bruins' camp this year, and he expects the big fellow to play a major part in the club's National Hockey League campaign. Eddie suffered a back injury last season and did not see much action.

"Shore has taken Flash Hollett under his wing," continued Adams. "He knows it's his job to bring Flash along because they are going to play together all season, and it's the realization of Hollett's ambition to play alongside the man he hero-worshipped as a boy."

TOO STRENUOUS

BIRMINGHAM, England—(CP)—Ben Foord, South African heavyweight boxer, hasn't got what it takes—to play rugby. He turned out recently for Moseley United and before the end was palpably tiring.

HOLDS UNIQUE RECORD

LONDON—(CP)—Winner of races for three British sovereigns, Marconi, five-year-old gelding, is being sold by the Royal Stables. His first success was gained for King George V., who bred him at Sandringham.

Star Of Gridiron

CAM GRAY

Following the death of his father the day prior to the University of Toronto's game with University of Western Ontario Mustangs, Cam Gray, star half-back of the Toronto Blue and White, was excused from play, but insisted on being allowed to compete in the game. Playing with a heavy heart, but magic foot, Gray started off shaky and unnerved, but soon settled down to his brilliant form and passed and kicked with deadly accuracy. Incidentally, he has scored every point his team has secured so far this season.

Manitoba Amateur Signed By Adams

DETROIT, Oct. 27 (CP). — Jack Stewart, young defenceman from Portage La Prairie, Man., will make his professional debut in the second game of the city hockey series between Detroit Red Wings and the farm team, Pittsburgh Hornets, on Thursday. Stewart, who joined the training camp this fall, will play for the Hornets this season.

Stewart will team up with Ebbie Goodfellow, hard-hitting Detroit veteran. Goodfellow was the first to spot Stewart's ability, at an early practice. He called Manager Jack Adams' attention to him and he was signed this week.

Two other former amateurs will make their second pro start Thursday. They are Butch McDonald, right-winger from Moose Jaw, Sask., and Harry Curry, centre and right wing, from Hershey, Pa. Both will play for Pittsburgh this season.

RIDERS PEEVED OVER TORONTO ARGOS CHARGES

TORONTO, Oct. 27 (CP)—Ottawa Rough Riders drilled today for a determined stand against Toronto Argonauts in an atmosphere electrified by bitter dispute. If the Riders don't stop the unbeaten Argos at Ottawa Saturday the big blue team from Toronto probably will walk to the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union championship.

Ottawa's champions of 1936 couldn't block the Argo charge at Toronto last week but the leaders took the game by only a one-touchdown margin and the Riders were pressing at the finish. From that bruising battle arose a storm of controversy.

The Argonauts charged Harry Sonshine was delibertely injured by Bunny Wadsworth, big Ottawa lineman. But Sonshine's broken jaw was matched by young Elwood McFall's fractured leg and Ottawa players charged a Toronto man kicked McFall as he lay on the ground. The allegations were denied on either side.

Protests and reports of officials and players are being received by Dr. Andy Davies of Ottawa, union president. He will rule on the Toronto club's demand for suspension of Wadsworth.

At Montreal Saturday, Hamilton Tigers meet Montreal Indians.

Last week's visitors will be this week's hosts in the Intercollegiate Union, too. University of Western Ontario's leaders will be entertained by the second-place University of Toronto and McGill and Queen's will break their last-place tie at Kingston.

Sarnia Imperials are expected to continue their title march against the Ontario union's underdogs, the Panthers, at Hamilton.

REMARKABLE GOLF

LONDON—(CP). — Playing over his own course, W. J. Cox, Wimbledon golf club pro, posted a 59 for the 18 holes, 11 under par. Henry Cotton took 61 strokes two years ago, but the course has been lengthened since.

MAY GO "DOWN UNDER"

SYDNEY, Australia—(CP). — A plan is under consideration here to bring famous colored athletes like Jesse Owens, Olympic sprint champion; Ralph Metcalfe, runner-up to Owens, and Cornelius Johnson, Olympic high jump champion, to Australia next year.

Laterals Near End In U.S. Football

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(AP)—The lateral pass borrowed from the Canadian game and injected into United States football two years ago to become the people's choice as most exciting bit of byplay, is quietly expiring. If 1937 football technique has a trend, this is it—the lateral passes.

The lateral's two most inspired protagonists, Handy Andy Kerr of Colgate and Francis Schmidt of Ohio State, are cooling off on it.

"The lateral pass is a nice play to watch, but dangerous," says Lou Little, Columbia maestro. "Dovetailed into a balanced offense it is a factor, but not an important one in advancing the ball."

Hooks Mylin, mentor of Lafayette's unbeaten, untied and unscored on eleven backs Lou up "It's a great play to see done well, but often it is costly to the offensive team."

NEW SPURS FORWARD

LONDON — (CP). — Tottenham Hotspurs, second division English Football League club, have signed Colin Lyman, 23-year-old Northampton Town outside-left, who has been playing well in third division soccer.

LEAVES NORTHAMPTON

NORTHAMPTON, England—(CP)—After 16 years' service with Northampton Cricket Club, Ted Clark, international fast bowler, has been advised he will not be re-engaged for next season. He is 35 years old.

Fights Last Night

(By the Associated Press.)

CORAL GABLES, Fla.— Bobby Britton, 135½, Miami, Fla., outpointed the Yucatan Kid, 139½, Mexico (10).

NEW YORK —Eddie McGeever, 140½, Scranton, Pa., outpointed Leocard Del Genit, 144½, New York (8).

NEW YORK—Solly Krieger, 164, New York, technically knocked out Eddie Macguire, 160½, Ireland (7).

BUFFALO, N.Y.—Lou Presto, Buffalo knocked out Schoolboy Andrews, Buffalo (6).

HAD FAITH IN HORSE

GOREHAM, N.H., Oct. 27 (A.P.)—The only person with enough faith in Mac Harvester to place a bet on the horse in the eighth light harness race yesterday was its driver and owner, John "Red" Hanafin of Kingston, R.I. Mac Harvester led the field, paying Hanafin $496.70 for his "across the board" wager. The money was divided thus: $365.40 straight, $77.30 place, and $54.00 show.

To Relieve Bad Cough Quickly, Mix This at Home

Does the Work in a Hurry. Saves Money. Easily Mixed.

Here's an old home remedy your mother used, and, for real results, it is still a very dependable thing for distressing coughs. Try it once, and you'll swear by it.

It's no trouble at all. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking is needed—a child could do it.

Now put 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you 16 ounces of really superior cough remedy—more than you could buy for four times the money. It keeps perfectly, tastes fine, and lasts a family a long time.

This splendid home mixture has a three-fold action. You can feel it take hold at once. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. This explains why it gives such prompt, pleasing results.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine, in concentrated form, well known for its prompt action on throat membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

FRANCO ANNOUNCES BLOCKADE, SPANISH COAST

Eyston Hits 309 Mph In One Way Run On Utah Salt Flat

Frayed Tire Forces Racer to Cancel Return Trip; Plans Overhaul—Says Car Can Do Much Better

BONNEVILLE, Salt Flats, Utah, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Capt. George E. T. Eyston roared down this saline straightaway at a 309-mile an hour pace today, but mechanical trouble forced him to cancel an official assault on the world land speed record of 301.1292 m.p.h.

Eyston's 24 cylinder, streamlined monster automobile frayed a tire while passing through the measured mile, forcing him to "cut out" the motors.

Official requirements call for runs each way over the course and since the Briton was unable to make the return trip his mark — the fastest ever achieved in an automobile—did not count.

Despite handicaps, his mechanical powerhouse flashed through a glaring dawn at 309.6 p.m.h., exceeding Sir Malcolm Campbell's speed over the same course, in the same direction, when he established the present mark in 1935.

Campbell's mark for the first run was 304.311 and for the return trip 298.013.

Can Go Much Faster

"The car ran fine until I was almost ready to enter the mile. It guided splendidly. I think it is capable of speeds miles an hour faster that I did today," Eyston said with a smile.

"Since the car has proven itself capable of breaking the record, we'll pull it down and have a jolly good look round.

"It will take a few days before I'll be able to go after the record again."

When another run will be made is problematical.

Eyston, pending an overhauling of the car, had not determined whether it will be necessary to obtain new parts for the transmission. Then, too, the weather in this western Utah desert, once a dry lake bed, is uncertain at this time of year.

100 SYRIANS DIE IN WATERSPOUT

DAMASCUS, Syraia, Oct. 28.—(CP-Havas).— More than 100 persons were believed killed to-day when a huge waterspout engulfed the village of Dmeir, north-east of here. Twelve bodies have been recovered. The water in the wake of the spout attained a level of nearly 10 feet and severed highway communications between Damascus and Baghdad.

40 Die in Floods.

BATAVIA, Oct. 28.—(CP-Havas).—Forty persons were killed to-day in a flood which engulfed a large part of the town of Panjaboegan on the Island of Sumatra. Many homes and stores were washed away and destruction of a highway bridge interrupted communication between Padang and Medan, largest cities of the island.

IL DUCE DEMANDS GERMANY BE GIVEN AFRICAN COLONIES

ROME, Oct. 28 (A.P.).—Premier Mussolini, celebrating the 15th anniversary of the Fascist march on Rome, said to-day it is "necessary" Germany be restored to her "place in the African sun."

Il Duce thus voiced support for Germany's desire for return of her lost colonies. He spoke at Mussolini Forum in presence of 100,000 Fascists from all parts of Italy.

A German delegation, sent to Rome by Chancellor Hitler for the celebration, heard the Premier, along with other foreign diplomats.

Mussolini turned to what both Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy term the threat of "Bolshevism" in Europe.

"For durable and fruitful peace it is necessary that Bolshevism be eliminated in Europe," he told the massed Blackshirts and visitors.

"It is necessary that some clauses of the (Great War) peace treaties be revised," he said. "It is necessary that a great people, the German people, have once more the place to which it is entitled and which it once possessed in the African sun."

The Premier shifted to Italy's own colonial possessions.

"It is necessary that Italy be left tranquil because she has created her empire with her own blood and with her resources without touching a single corner of the empires of others," he said.

Resents Criticism.

He defended Italy against what he called foreign criticism in connection with the recently imposed 10 per cent. capital levy for rearmament.

"We cannot be judged by these ridiculous standards," Mussolini said. "If Fascist Italy capital is at the orders of the state, while in the great democracies the phenomenon is exactly the opposite—the state is the servant of capital."

Mussolini expressed appreciation for the presence of Hitler's representatives, declaring:

"This proves that besides the Rome-Berlin axis there is developing an ever greater solidarity between the regimes and ever more solid friendship between the two peoples."

The watchword with which Italy wished to inaugurate the 16th year of Fascism, he said, could be expressed by—"Peace."

"This word has been abused in the bleating sheepfolds of the so-called great democracies," he asserted, concluding with his prescription for peace which included restoration of Germany's former African colonies.

The 100,000 Fascists, who camped last night on the outskirts of Rome, had marched into the capital in a re-enactment of the history-making march of 15 years ago.

Loading Produce For Saskatchewan

There was a scene of great hustle and bustle at the C.P.R. freight sheds throughout Wednesday, as a large gang of volunteer workers drawn from various walks of life, helped load three freight cars with over 100-tons of produce. The three loaded cars which are even now rumbling westward, represent Peterborough's quota to the relief of people in drought areas of the prairie provinches. So generous was the response that the quota was exceeded and completion of a fourth car from Millbrook was accomplished here, while there is the possibility of enough produce being left over that a fifth car might be sent shortly. The three cars loaded here were despatched to Orley, Mossomin and Wishart, Saskatchewan. In (2) the Rev. P. J. Kelly and Adjutant Neil Warrander are seen at extreme right. Both did their share at truck-pushing. Alderman James Dutton, chairman and treasurer of the Western Relief Fund is seen in (3) standing on the loading platform at LEFT and in (4) is scene of how the produce was packed in the cars.

BELLEVILLE DRIVER KILLED IN HIS CAR COBOURG CROSSING

COBOURG, Ont., Oct. 28.—(CP).—William Lucas, 43, Belleville, was killed when his automobile collided with a Canadian National Railways passenger train at a level crossing here early to-day. The car was carried 150 yards along the tracks.

Hurled from the machine, Lucas' body was found beneath the second coach. The left arm had been torn away and the body otherwise mutilated. Identification was made through the driver's permit.

An inquest will be held.

Lucas was a resident of Belleville for the past four years. He changed employment a short time ago, joining the National Brewing organization and was moving to Toronto the later part of this week.

At the time of the accident he was on his way home from Toronto. His mother, and sister reside in Hamilton. His widow and one son, both living in Belleville survive.

AN 1812 BAYONET

PORT ERIE, Ont., Oct. 28.—(CP).—A rusty bayonet, believed to have been used in the war of 1812, was dug up during work on the Niagara River parkway. The relic has been turned over to the Niagara Parks Commission.

The visiting German delegation was headed by Rudolf Hess, Hitler's general representative, and Viktor Lutze, chief of staff of the German storm troops.

Heavy Drinking Of Wine Preceded Taking Life

Inquest Is Held Into The Death Of Robert Taylor At 172 Lock Street

Two bottles of wine and part of a third preceded the gulp of Lysol that snuffed out the life of Robert Taylor, 35, in the backyard of William Downer's house, 172 Lake street, about 11 o'clock on the night of October 21. Two of the three bottles were delivered to the house during the day from the wine store on Charlotte street in response to Taylor's order by telephone. The third one he bought at the counter early in the morning.

These incidental facts were brought out at the inquest Wednesday night before Coroner Dr. H. N. Young which was concluded by the jury's verdict that Taylor's death was "the result of drinking Lysol self-administered."

A record of purchases at the wine shop by Taylor, read by Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, showed that he had bought three bottles on October 21, the day he ended his life by poisoning himself; one on the 20th; one on the 19th; and on the 18th two; 16th two; 15th two; 14th three, and so on, evidence that he had become a confirmed drinker. Nearly all these bottles were of the same size, 26 ounces.

Taylor had received one dollar in the morning for some work he had done, and immediately bought the first of the three bottles, costing 35 cents. The other two were the same price, and when he telephoned for the third he ha dto turn in the two empties at two cents each to make up the addftional five cents, the thre of them had cost in excess of his lone dollar.

The jurors were: Harry Campbell, foreman; George Morency, Pat Coursey, Albert O'Dette, Nicholas O'Toole, M. J. Allen, Chas. Ireson, Jos. Bolton, John Henry, Michael O'Brien, Frank Barrett and Walter Metheral.

Began Day Drinking

Mrs. Olive Downer said she had known Robert Taylor about four years, from the time he had come to her home as a boarder. Replying to Mr. McElderry's questions she said Taylor was paid one dollar in the morning for some work. He went to the wine store on Charlotte street and bought a bottle of San Juan wine. She saw him take "small drinks" from it. In the afternoon three cords of wood were delivered to her house, and he helped carry some of it into the shed.

'While I was absent during the afternoon he telephoned for another bottle of wine. I saw him drinking some of it," Mrs. Downer said. "After supper I threw more of the hardwood into the shed, and Mr. Taylor helped again. I thought the work would straighten him up. I heard a step in the front part of

Miss Peterborough Has Not Been Caught

UP to the time of going to press this Thursday afternoon Miss Peterborough was still at large.

If not captured before 4 o'clock she will return to the scenes of shopping tomorrow forenoon between 10 and 11.30 and in the afternoon between 2.30 and 4.

That one is a blonde, one a brunette and the third has auburn hair is a clue which the photographs of Miss Peterborough and her two accomplices did not reveal.

CRASH KILLS FLIER HOUR AFTER START 2-WAY OCEAN HOP

ROUEN, France, Oct. 28 (CP-Havas).—G. N. Nair, Indian flier, who left Croydon shortly before noon on a projected South Atlantic flight in his airplane, "The Spirit of India," was killed today when his craft crashed near Forges-Les-Eaux.

The tragic end of Nair's dream of flying to South America and returning across the North Atlantic came at 1 p.m., when his plane plummeted to earth and was completely destroyed. Forges-Les-Eaux is about 22 miles northeast of here.

He was en route to Dakar, which he hoped to reach on Saturday. From there he had planned to fly the Atlantic to Natal, Brazil, and then proceed to Newfoundland for an eastward hop to Ireland.

His plane soared aloft from Croydon at 11.35 a.m. after it had been blessed by the Hindu priest, Hari Prusau Shastri. A large number of Indians were present to bid him bon voyage, showering the pilot and the plane with flower petals in keeping with Hindu custom.

Before hopping off, Nair told newspapermen he was attempting the flight in "The Spirit of the New India" in order to place India "on the aeronautical map."

RIOTING IN MOROCCO

CASABLANCA, French Morocco, Oct. 28—(AP). — Four Moors were killed and nine persons were wounded in a clash to-day between Moorish Nationalists and French police outside the Mosque at Port Lyautey after afternoon prayer.

Sets Base At Palma; Britain Sends Hood To Look On

Great Warship Will Guard British Interests; Rebel Move Enables Attack From Sea and Land

PALMA, Island of Mallorca, Oct. 28.—(CP-Havas)—General Franco today designated this strategic Balearic Island port as his principal naval base and announced a blockade of the entire Spanish eastern coast from the French frontier to Almeria.

The announcement followed by a few hours the departure of the British battle cruiser Hood, the most powerful ship afloat, from Gibraltar for Palma to protect British interests in this region.

This new centre of insurgent naval operations was placed under the command of Vice-Admiral Francesco Moreno Fernandez, who debarked at Pollensa this afternoon from the insurgent cruiser Canarias. He assumed immediate command of the naval post as well as the aerial forces on Mallorca.

An insurgent blockade from the French frontier to Almeria will threaten the entire length of the coastline left the government since the insurgent forces completed their offensive through the Basque and Asturian provinces in Northwestern Spain. The distance from the French frontier to Almeria is about 500 miles.

Attack From Two Sides

The insurgents this will threaten government territory from both the land and sea. Insurgent forces are massing for an offensive along the Aragon front from points close to the French frontier.

Besides naval units, the insurgent command here has at its disposal a large number of airplanes and seaplanes, both pursuit and bombing craft, and a strong garrison. Official quarters claim this garrison is composed entirely of Spaniards.

The troops are well-equipped and prepared to repel a possible attack against the island, considered unlikely, or to engage in other military operations.

(Reports abroad recently said an important Italian air base had been established on Mallorca, largest of the Balearic Islands which has been under insurgent control for a year).

WAUCHOPE OUITS PALESTINE OFFICE AS HEALTH FAILS

LONDON, Oct. 28.—(CP-Havas).—Sir Arthur Wauchope, High Commissioner for Palestine, resigned today for reasons of health.

No announcement as to his successor has been made.

Sir Arthur Wauchope, who has borne the brunt of Palestine's disorders over the past few years, feared neither Arab nor Jew. He is a 63-year-old Scot, and since 1931 has administered the mandate over Palestine which Great Britain holds from the League of Nations, endeavoring all the time to bring about a lasting peace between the Jews and the Arabs.

Testimony to his efficiency, in the eyes of the British government, is found in the extension last year of his term of office for a second five years.

No whisper of blame has been attached to his name over the recent rioting. He has been regarded rather as the strong man of the troubled days.

He has spent his life at soldiering and believes, with a conviction disturbing to the ordinary private, in army discipline.

He commanded a Highland brigade in the South African war and was wounded at Magersfonten, where his uncle, the famous General "Andy" Wauchope was killed. During the Great War he commanded the Second Battalion of the Black Watch, first in France, where he was twice wounded, and later in Mesopotamia.

Predict T. A. Hogg Hydro Chairman

TORONTO, Oct. 28 (CP)—The Evening Telegram said today Thomas A. Hogg, chief hydraulic engineer of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, will "probably be appointed chairman of the commission at today's cabinet session, it was indicated at Queen's Park."

The Telegram said it was reported T. Stewart Lyon, present chairman, had already tendered his resignation to Premier Hepburn.

The reorganized commission, will include Mr. Hogg, Hon. W. A. Houck, minister without portfolio in the government, and J. Albert Smith of Kitchener, member-elect for Waterloo North, the newspaper predicted.

PRESTON HUNTER DROWNS AT PELEE

PELEE ISLAND, Ont., Oct. 28 (C. P.). — Before a gun had been fired to open the two-day pheasant shoot on this Lake Erie island, Roy Cadwell, 35, Preston, fell from a small fishing boat near a dock last night and was drowned in rough water. His body was found washed up on the sandy beach, a quarter-mile from the dock.

Cadwell came to the surface of the choppy lake only once. Boatmen had only time to throw him a rope, but he was unable to reach it. Weighed down by his heavy hunting outfit, Cadwell sank in less than 10 seconds.

The Preston hunter came to Kingsville yesterday with Ernest Sage of Doon. With a record number of sportsmen headed for the island, Cadwell and Sage were unable to find accommodation on the S.S. Waubic as it made its second trip of the day to Pelee. Anxious to reach the island before shooting commenced to-day, the two men, with several others, chartered Cull Brothers' fish- others, chartered sl-caou-r cmfwyp

As the tug swung in to the dock he fell overboard, his cry of alarm being choked off by the water.

Cadwell moved to Preston from Toronto only recently. His parents live in Toronto.

Last Minute News Flashes

PARIS—Japan is disposed to accept friendly conversations with interested powers looking toward eventual restoration of peace between Japan and China, a high Japanese authority said tonight.

TORONTO—The Toronto market closed up today, bolstered by two waves of buying, one in the first hour and the second in the last hour. The interval was marked by sluggish trading and a slipping price movement. Action bulked in the gold group.

TORONTO — Police hunt for a motorist who early today struck and killed Peter Sweeney, 63, ended abruptly when Percy Abrams, 34, walked into a police station and said it was his car that hit Sweeney. Abrams walked into the station shortly after the department announced it would post a reward for information leading to the arrest of the motorist.

Children Enjoying Arithmetic Start Parents Worrying

New African Diamond Find Is Guarded

Cape Town, Oct. 28 (AP)

THE South African Government today despatched a special force of diamond police to Verneuk Pan to guard a newly discovered diamond field, pending a legal decision on an action to stay prospecting. Verneuk Pan is a lake bed in Calvinia where Sir Malcolm Campbell established automobile speed records in 1929.

Britain's Minister of Transport declares that 8,000 stop signs are too many for the country and will have many of them removed.

Protest To Minister, Believing In Adage Medicine to Be Good Must Be Bitter

TORONTO, Oct. 28.—(CP).—Only serious criticism of the new Public school courses in the first six grades comes from parents in regard to arithmetic, Dr. Duncan McArthur, Ontario Deputy Minister, said today.

"The parents remember the adage that medicine to be good must be bitter and they can't understand their children enjoying doing their arithmetic lessons and think they are missing something," said Dr. McArthur. "They think the course is too easy, but we think the children are learning as much."

The revised program of studies for the first six grades put into effect with the opening of the fall term seems to be working out satisfactorily, said Dr. McArthur. It is frankly experimental this year, but expectations are it will be continued. Revisions of courses in the two senior grades are expected next fall.

Many of the old rules that governed teaching of particular subjects have been eliminated. Geography and history have been linked together under the title "social studies." Elementary natural science is also being taught.

Masefield Sees Shakespeare Writing Car Ads Today

Poet Laureate Paints Amusing Picture Of Poetic Drama's Decline

GLASGOW, Oct. 28 (CP)—Such is the decline of poetic drama throughout the world today that even William Shakespeare would find difficulty gaining recognition from publishers and producers alike, declares John Masefield, England's poet laureate.

If Shakespeare were to go to London today with no training, little education and the desire to make a living as a writer, he would probably start by trying to get a job in a film studio, Mr. Masefield suggested in an address here.

"Shakespeare would probably be told at the door that his voice was his fortune," he added. "He would persist, however, and after a time would be taken on as the seventh detective or the eight gangster in a film."

His efforts to write for the stage would not meet with much encouragement, Mr. Masefield offered. He would take "Love's Labors Lost" to manager after manager and they would send it back because it was in verse. After years of disapointment he would achieve success by two performances of the play in the open air by the young men and women of a university town.

But genius such as Shakespeare's could not be squelched, added the poet laureate. He would turn his

Jury Goes 40 Miles To See Sick Wife

Quebec, Oct. 28 (CP)

EVERY one of the twelve men trying France Cote for murder moved today to a village home 40 miles from here where the wife of a juryman lay ill.

Juror Adjutor Fiset of St. Basile heard today his wife's condition was critical, and he asked to be allowed to see her. For a while, court officials were stumped, because the law says jurymen must not be separated.

Then some one solved the problem neatly by simply moving the whole panel to the Fiset home 40 miles west of Quebec. The jurymen slept there tonight.

Hit-Run Killer Escapes Chase

TORONTO, Oct. 28 (CP).—Peter Sweeney, 70, was tossed 20 feet and killed today by an automobile that did not stop at a central city intersection. Another motorist chased the runaway car driver several blocks, but was shaken off when the driver raced through a red light.

Ecuador is shipping most of this year's coffee crop to the United States.

Millions Of 12-Sided Pennies Vanish Fear They Are Going Into Puddings

London, Oct. 28 (CP)

THE Royal mint hopes the millions of the new 12-sided three-penny pieces that are disappearing are not being hoarded to put in Christmas puddings.

The coins are made of brass and nickel, instead of the safer (for the pudding) little silver coins that they are intended to replace.

The mint issued a warning: "It is inadvisable to place the new 12-sided three-penny piece in Christmas pudding. It is possible it might be poisoned."

The disappearance of the coins as fast as they are made available to the public has puzzled authorities. In most cases, they believed, the coins are being withheld by souvenir hunters. There have been numerous instances where the pieces have been welded into bracelets, necklets and other trinkets.

King George VI's Durbar Visit To India Unlikely Before Winter 1938-39

London, Oct. 28 (CP Cable)

THE King and Queen and unlikely to visit India before the winter of 1938-39.

Announcement in the speech from the throne, read at the opening of Parliament Tuesday, that they will go ends prolonged speculation and doubts about the proposed Coronation Durbar at Delhi, enabling extensive preparations to begin immediately.

The visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth is likely to be shorter than that of King George V and Queen Mary in 1911. They were in India three months.

Provision for the expenses of the Durbar, estimated at £1,500,000 ($7,425,000), was made in the last budget in anticipation of the royal visit.

The King and Queen have not previously visited India.

Battalion of Chinese Doomed, Fights On In Ruins of Chapei

British Troops Open Gates Into Settlement Giving Haven to Another 40,000 Refugees

SHANGHAI, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Single defiant flag of a doomed—but yet fighting—Chinese battalion still fluttered over Chapei tonight in the midst of scores of Japan's rising sun banners.

While scene of main fighting had shifted to Shanghai's western environs with the Chinese retreat from Chapei yesterday, the lone Chinese force held out tonight in warehouses along Soochow Creek adjoining the International Settlement's northern border.

That the final hour of the doomed battalion was at hand seemed certain when a Japanese navy spokesman said Nippon's bluejackets would mop up all scattered Chinese units in Chapei.

Japanese naval headquarters advised United States marines to take precautionary measures against possible severe action to wipe out the Chinese battalion, opposite one section of marine defence lines.

Designating the Chinese detachment as stragglers, the navy spokesman predicted they soon would be killed.

Spirals of smoke rose from burned ruins of Chapei, but major fires were quenched by Japanese bluejackets and settlement firemen. Fires still raged west of Shanghai, with dense, billowing clouds hanging like a curtain between Chapei and the new battlefield.

Hope of ending the conflict by diplomatic means was measureably reduced, Dr. Wang Chung-Hui Chinese foreign minister said at Nanking, by Japanese refusal to attend the Brussels nine-power conference called for November 3.

"The refusal confirms our belief that Japan is not going to abandon her policy of aggression unless compelled to do so by measures more effective than mora persuasion on the part of interested powers," he said.

Chinese Give Up Pass.

Japan's Shanghai victories were matched by her North China army, which broke through Niagtzekwan Pass and captured Pingting, important city in Shansi Province.

Chinese detachments in Chapei, which man Chinese forces evacuated yesterday in a retreat to defence lines farther west, peppered Japanese with machine gun bullets.

British officers disclosed that Major-General A. P. D. Telfer-Smollett, commander of British forces at Shanghai, and a group of officers were endangered when a Japanese tank fired in their direction as they watched refugees evacuating across Soochow Creek.

The Chinese had dynamited Chungshan Bridge, making centre span impassable except for one or two persons at a time. Suddenly a Japanese whippet tank sprayed the bridge with machine gun bullets, killing a Chinese woman. Bullets came close to the group of British officers.

Chinese, resting on the southern bank of Soochow Creek adjoining the Settlement western boundary, exploded four charges in an unsuccessful attempt to blow up the railroad bridge near St. John's University.

At dawn British troops guarding that sector opened barbed wire gates and permitted several thousand refugees who had camped in open fields all night to stream into the Settlement. Among them were a number of peasants suffering bullet wounds.

Yesterday and to-day more than 40,000 refugees were added to the 1,630,000 already in the foreign areas. Some carried wounded relatives on their backs. British soldiers said that during the morning three Chinese passed through the barbed wire gates with dead children in their arms. A few Chinese soldiers brought wounded comrades to the barricades, then went back to their lines.

ROSS CONVICTED OF NEGLIGENCE IN TWEED DEATH

BELLEVILLE, Oct. 28 (CP).—Winfield H. Ross of Belleville was convicted in Supreme Court yesterday of criminal negligence following the death of Mrs. Emma Root from injuries suffered when she was struck by an automobile driven by Ross last May 2.

He was acquitted of a charge of manslaughter. Sentence will be passed later.

The Crown completed its evidence with the statement from Thomas Gillman he heard a motor being "raced" shortly before he heard a crash the night the accident occurred.

Gillman said he noticed Ross's automobile driven in a zig-zag manner on the highway between here and Tweed. He said he saw the accused in the home of Roy Marsh and testified his breath smelt of liquor and he walked unsteadily.

Ross, called to give his own version of the accident, said there was considerable dust on the road and he was forced over a shoulder to avoid an oncoming automobile. In trying to force his car back on the road he did not see Mrs. Root walking on the highway.

He said he was sober at the time of the accident although he had had something to drink earlier in the day.

500 AID EVICTION OF NEGRO FAMILY

TRENTON, N.S., Oct. 28 (CP)—A three-day dispute between a white and a negro family over occupancy of a house in this Pictou County town was climaxed last night when a crowd estimated at approximately 500 raided the residence, damaged it considerably and forced the negro family to withdraw.

The crowd had dispersed by the time town officers, reinforced by New Glasgow and Royal Canadian Mounted Police, arrived. No one was known to have been injured.

The house had been occupied for several years by Mike Sinclair and his family, whites. Last week it was purchased by Fred Reddick, a negro, and his daughter and her husband, Gordon Borden, moved in. The Sinclairs refused to vacate.

The newcomers likewise refused to leave and withstood three days of stone throwing and minor gatherings, culminating in the attack.

Practically all the furniture owned by the Bordens was wrecked. Windows in two nearby houses were broken during the melee. Both were owned by Reddick.

WATERLOO SWINE SALE GOES WELL

GALT, Ont., Oct. 28 (CP).—At the third annual swine sale of the Waterloo County Advanced Registry Yorkshire Breeders' Club in Dickson Park here yesterday, 55 animals were put on sale and all but two were sold. Top price was $42.50 for a sow, while the low was $15 for a boar. The sows brought exceptionally good prices. Buyers were from Ontario and Quebec centres.

H. J. Maybee, director of the Federal swine grasers for Ontario; W. P. Watson, assistant director of the Ontario livestock branch, and Prof. R. G. Knox of the animal husbandry department of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, addressed the gathering and praised the Waterloo County Club, pioneer in the movement of advanced registry breeding.

CAR AT NORWOOD MORE THAN FILLED

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Oct. 28.—The number of bags of vegetables, which this district are sending to the west, was quite in excess of what had been expected when the car was completely filled at the Norwood siding on Wednesday afternoon. The refrigerator car being filled, they had to put the balance in a box car from which it will probably be transferred to another refrigerator car before leaving for the west. The following are figures for the churches in Hastings given by the clergy.

Catholic church, 125 bags of turnips, 110 bags of potatoes, eight boxes of canner goods; Presbyterian church, 25 bags, assorted fruit and vegetables; Church of England and United Church, 40 bags and several tins of syrup. Many donations were received of pumpkins, citrons, fruit and canned goods by all churches.

LEICESTER, England, Oct. 28—(CP Cable).—Warwickshire defeated Leicestershire, 27-0 in a Rugby Union, County Championship match played here to-day.

ONUS ON YOUTH OF PRESERVING GREAT EMPIRE

Bennett Is Satisfied With Picture He Sees

SASKATOON, Oct. 28 (CP)—Responsibility for the maintenance and advancement of the British Empire was placed upon the youth of British nations by the Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Canada's Conservative leader, in an address here last night to the largest Canadian club gathering in Saskatoon's history.

He painted a picture of the empire as he saw it. It was a satisfying picture, he said. Institutions and traditions stood solidly against their background of loyalties and it was a picture worth preserving and improving. The youth of Canada had a stern duty to maintain that picture.

Mr. Bennett's address covered visits to New Zealand, Australia and South Africa. New Zealand he found a "happy, contented and peaceful country" that needed more people. Loyalty to the empire, he said, was strong there.

Australia, a country of too thickly populated cities and peopled with persons having "a great capacity to enjoy themselves," was overshadowed with the constant fear of invasion, he declared.

South Africa, Mr. Bennett described as a country in which history was a tangible thing to be seen and felt and where the British genius for government was more evident than anywhere else in the world.

HOUCK RUMORED TO REPLACE LYON

TORONTO, Oct. 28 (C.P.). — The Globe and Mail says to-day that before the end of the week Stewart Lyon, chairman of the Ontario Hydro Commission, will probably be replaced by W. L. Houck, Niagara Falls.

(Mr. Houck and J. A. Smith, Waterloo North, recently were appointed members of the Commission. Premier Hepburn yesterday said Cabinet Council would meet some time this week to consider reorganization of Hydro personnel. He declined to comment on a report that Mr. Lyon's resignation had been obtained.)

Third place on the Commission, says The Globe and Mail, may go to Dr. T. H. Hogg, chief hydraulic engineer, and changes in subordinate positions may be made also.

The newspaper adds that affairs of the Liquor Control Board are due for a survey by Cabinet, and that retirement of E. G. Odette, chief Commissioner, is certain because of continued ill-health.

great talents to writing advertisements and soon would be employed in writing them for an expensive kind of motor car.

"In 10 years the receipts of the firm would have risen by £3,000,000, the first million of which would go to charity, the second to taxation and the third for establishment of an airplane plant to meet a foreign disturbance," Mr. Masefield told his amused listeners.

At that point Shakespeare would be sacked, as the management would feel he was falling off.

"But having mad a good deal of money, he would take to writing a little theatrical gossip for the Sunday newspapers," Mr. Masefield suggested. "Towards the end of his life he would write 'thrillers' with happy endings, which would be filmed and sent all over the world and he would die enormously rich and very happy."

OBITUARY

ROBERT WILBERT NURSE.

Following poor health during the past several months, the death occurred Tuesday morning, October 27, of Robert Wilbert Nurse, age 44, dearly beloved husband of Elva McBride Nurse, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nurse, Fowler's Corners, at his residence in Bridgenorth.

The late Mr. Nurse was associated with the Canadian General Electric Company all his life, having entered the local plant about 25 years ago. He served in the local Engineers' Corps which was maintained by the General Electric Company during the World War. During the last fourteen years he has been connected with the contract service department of the Toronto office of this firm.

Mr. Nurse was a member of Lorne Lodge No. 375, A.F. and A.M., Omemee, also L.O.L. No. 41. The funeral will be held under Masonic auspices from his late residence at Bridgenorth at 2 p.m., Friday, October 29, to Emily Cemetery.

Besides his wife and parents, Mr. Nurse leaves to mourn his loss two brothers and two sisters, Kenneth of Fowler's Corners; Smithson of Omemee; Mrs. Karl Sisson, Peterborough, and Mrs. Frank Sherwood, of Brantford.

Children Burn to Death

Two small sons of Mr. and Mrs. John Mason, living two miles from Bracebridge were burned to death when their home took fire during the absence of their parents. The elder of the victims was only four, the other being in his second year.

The jury at the Belleville Assizes inquiring into the death of Mrs. Eamma Roote in a motor accident found W. H. Ross guilty of criminal negligence. Sentence was withheld until the end of the assizes.

The Dartmouth, N.S. ferry was badly damaged Wednesday when she collided with a wharf during a dense fog.

At Montreal, John Di Carlo was fined $200 and sentenced to the penitentiary for two years on charges of possession and conspiracy to distribute narcotic drugs.

Remembrance Day

Representatives of Toronto's war veterans' organizations waited upon the Board of Control Wednesday to urge that Remembrance Day be observed as a complete holiday.

At least two persons were killed and ten or more injured at Minneapolis, Minn., when two floors of a building collapsed.

Premier Hepburn announced Wednesday that a blank cheque would be given the provincial department of health to offer every possible assistance to victims suffering from the effects of infantile paralysis.

In recognition of his services to the city, Dr. H. A. Fricker, Toronto's celebrated organist and choir director, will be presented with a testimonial address by Toronto's City Council.

GETS CANCER AWARD

NEW YORK, Oct. 28 — (CP) — Henry R. Luce, president of Time, Inc., last night received the Clement Cleveland medal of the New York City cancer committee of the American Society for the control of cancer.

Mrs. Robert G. Mead, donor of the medal, which was given this year for the first time, explained that a March of Time program on "conquering cancer" and magazine articles qualified Mr. Luce for the award for "outstanding work during the year in the campaign to control cancer."

WINNIPEG GRAIN

Influenced largely by action at Chicago, wheat futures on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange lost early one-cent advances to close ¾ cent lower to ¼ cent higher, October at $1.24½; November, $1.22¾ to ¼, December $1.18¾ and May $1.16¾ to ½.

The two-cent decline at Chicago increased Western Canada wheat deliveries and the largest Russian shipments in sixty years, all had a depressing influence on the market.

Lack of support to counteract offerings forced October wheat down. Expected firmness at Liverpool sent the market off with gain.

MOTHER WATCHES 2 CHILDREN BURN POWERLESS TO AID

BRACEBRIDGE, Ont., Oct. 28—(CP)—Callse of a house fire that claimed the lives of the two young children of Mr. and Mrs. John Mason, was under investigation to-day. Mrs. Mason stood by helplessly while flames gutted the frame farmhouse, and Gordon, five, and Ivan, two, perished.

The children were left alone yesterday for a few minutes while Mrs. Mason went to a neighboring farm for milk. They are believed to have knocked over a small wood-stove left burning in the house.

Finding the house ablaze on her return, Mrs. Mason smashed windows with her hands, but the fire compelled her to stand back and watch her home destroyed. Mrs. Doran, the neighbor, heard her screams, but was unable to help.

John Mason, grandfather of the children, drove the mile and a half from Bracebridge when he noted smoke from the burning house. In the wreckage he and another searcher found the burned bodies, unidentifiable. An inquest was ordered.

the Public schools. A circular to Inspectors says:

"The Minister urges the inspectors to discourage, even more than they have done in the past, unreasonable requirements in the matter of homework for pupils in the elementary school. These children are at a period when vital energies are largely consumed in physical development and they must have time for rest and recreation.

"The school has no excuse for infringing upon the right of children to sufficient time to sleep and play and the right of the home to direct activities outside school hours. There can be no doubt that both these rights are seriously encroached upon by the prescription of homework. Ill-chosen in character and excessive in quantity.

"For pupils in grades one to six there is ample time during the school day to cover the course satisfactorily without burdening them with additional school work to be done at home.

Touches Light In Bath Woman Shocked

Niagara Falls, Ont., Oct. 28 (CP)

MRS. William F. Compton, Niagara Falls, was burned by electricity when she reached up from her bath and sought to put on the electric light above her head. She collapsed, and her children notified neighbors, and she was removed to hospital. She was unconscious for an hour, but later was able to return home.

NO TASTERS ON HAND

OFFICERS CHOSEN BY R. E. COUNCIL AT ANNUAL RALLY

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BONARLAW, Oct. 27.—The annual convention of the Stirling, Rawdon and Marmora Township Religious Education Council was held at Mount Pleasant United church on Friday, October 22, afternoon and evening sessions commencing at 2 p.m. and 8:00 p.m. with splendid attendance at both sessions.

The afternoon worship was conducted by Rev. J. E. Beckel and an address of welcome was given by James Sharpe. W. J. Johnston, president of the Association, outlined the work in a brief address and called upon the various department superintendents for a review of their work.

The report of the secretary treasurer, Mrs. H. Mumby, was very encouraging, showing progress has been made in a number of schools during the past year.

A discussion of Sunday School problems led by the provincial representattive, Rev. Stanley Osborne, B.A., B.D., proved to be very helpful.

The evening session was opened by a song service and worship period conducted by Rev. A. W. Harding.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows: Hon. president, J. F. Baker; president, Wm. Johnston; vice president, Carl Clancy; secretary treasurer, Mrs. Hiram Mumby; department superintendents — Children's work: Mrs. S. J. Elliott, Boys' work, Fred Elgie; girls' work, Mrs. Keith Armstrong; young people's, Mrs. George Bailey; adult division, Mrs. Burton Bateman; department of home religion, Mrs. W. G. Swayne; leadership training, Mrs. Harper Rollins; missionary, Mrs. Sandford Meikle-John; temperance, W. J. Sharpe.

Springbrook's Banner

The banner was awarded to Springbrook United Sunday School which was found to be a 105 per cent school according to the International Standard. Rev. J. E. Beckel made the award on behalf of the Association. A close second was St. Mark's S. S., of Bonarlaw.

An invitation was received from Salem Sunday School to hold the next convention there which was gratefully accepted. Rev. S. Osborne provincial representative, delivered a splendid address stressing particularly the importance of work among young people and boys.

A solo at the afternoon session by Mr. John Coggins and a duet in the evening by Miss Tucker and Mr. Cappell were very much enjoyed.

Three Of Crew Die In Train Wreck

DANVILLE, Ill., Oct. 28.—(AP).—A Wabash railroad passenger train en route from St. Louis to Detroit ploughed into a stalled freight train eight miles west of here last night.

Fire, which broke out immediately after the collision, destroyed five cars and the caboose of the freight train and damaged a combination mail and smoker on the passenger.

The dead were Engineer Harry Draper, of Decatur, Fireman Harry Poe of Decatur, and B. F. Maggert, 58, Butler, Ind., all of the passenger train crew.

LAKEVALE LADIES WILL HOLD SALE

POWLERS CORNERS, Oct. 28.—The regular meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of Lakevale Presbyterian church, was held on Thursday afternoon, with a fair attendance, when during the business period it was decided to hold a sale of home cooking on the market on Saturday, October 30, to be in charge of Mesdames B. McAdam, G. Tully and M. Deyell.

Mrs. G. Tully, president, conducted a short devotional period when the Scripture reading was read by Mrs. Sid Tully and a short item, "To Him that hath shall be given" contributed by the president.

Mrs. M. Deyell was elected to the position of treasurer, replacing Mrs. E. Deyell. The ladies decided to hold a quilting on November 10, being invited to the home of Mrs. J. Tully.

'TEEN AGE GIRLS ELECT OFFICERS

MADOC, Oct. 28.—At a meeting of the teen-age girls in the Guild Hall of the Anglican church, held on Tuesday evening, October 26, it was decided to form a girls' branch of the Women's Auxiliary of the Missionary Society of the church in Canada.

Rev. W. G. Hope Swayne presided for election of officers, and the following were appointed for 1938:

President, Miss Jean Phillips; vice president, Betty Ferguson; secretary, Miss Jean Nickle, treasurer, Miss Mary Smith; organist, Miss Eleanor Aylsworth; directress, Mrs. W. G. Hope Swayne; assistant directress, Mrs. T. L. Nickle.

It was decided to meet on the second and fourth Tuesdays at the members homes. The next meeting to be on November 9, at the home of Jean Phillips. Plans for the season's work will be discussed at this meeting and arrangements made for further work and the year's pledges.

Mrs. Jesse M. Reid was hastily summoned to her home in Lansdowne last Thursday owing to the illness of her sister, Miss Lena McNeil, who was about to enter Kingston General Hospital for the third operation of the year.

Mrs. Reid returned to Madoc on Sunday and reports her sister resting comfortably following an operation. Friends and neighbors desire to extend sympathy.

LOSS OF SECRETS GETS MAYOR FINED

FARNHAM, Surrey, Oct. 27 (A.P.) Strange story of how Royal Air Force secret information disappeared from an officer's bungalow and found its way back into the hands of police to-day was told at the trial of Technical Major W. F. Vernon.

He was fined £50 ($247) under the Official Secrets Acts and assessed costs of £10.

Vernon pleaded guilty to two charges of retaining secret information in a prohibited place when he had no right to retain it; he pleaded not guilty to a third charge and it was dropped.

The information was described by the prosecutor as relating to hidden bombing methods and to airplanes "the very existence of which still is a matter of utmost secrecy."

Defence counsel said Vernon "obviously" also had lost his employment.

The prosecutor stressed that Vernon was unauthorized to have such secret data and said an examination of the recovered documents showed they had been "culled at different times from different sources."

The documents gave the details of performances of the bomb loads of new planes, analysis of the 1934 air manoeuvres, and "most secret of all, the matter relating to bombing sights whereof there was only one official copy."

Vernon's isolated bungalow was entered while he was on a holiday last July. Police later arrested three burglars and found the secret documents among loot taken from the bungalow.

Defence counsel emphasized there was no suggestion that Vernon had planned to make improper use of the information.

PORTRAIT ENGRAVER DIES

"Skippy" Seeks Higher Education Pays Daily Visits To School

IT is some time now, probably a matter of 18 months or so, that The Examiner carried a story about "Sk'ppy", the talking pet crow of the Curtis family at 584 Downie street.

At that time the crow was paying daily visits to public schools in the north and west-end sections of the city. Now he is in search of a higher educat'on and is in the habit of making frequent flights to the Collegiate Institute and St. Peter's High School.

His vocabulary, according to Mr. Curtis who has had the crow for over three years since it was a fledgling, includes such words as "hello" and "come on", and sad to relate other sayings that are unparliamentary to say the least.

He can't get into either place of learning, but has to content himself with perching on the sill and tap, tapping with his beak on the window panes to the amusement of the scholars and the consternation of the teachers.

"Sk'ppy" is barred not only because of his language, which would not meet approval of the heads of either school, but also because he lacks his entrance examinations.

Then too, he is black as the ace of spades and the color line might be drawn.

BREAKS BACK, COW WALKS

70 VARIETIES ON TREE

ORLEANS, Ind., Oct. 28—(AP)—Harvesting one tree in R. A. Troth's orchard turned out to be quite a job.

He started the tree as a seedling because he "wanted to see how far a grower could go in grafting."

Now, he says, he has almost finished getting from the tree 70 varieties of apples, five of pears, and three of crabapples.

QUEBEC, Oct. 28—(CP). — The Magdalene Islands wireless station at Grindstone reported to Quebec Signal Service to-day the British freighter Blairesk ran aground near Pointe Lalime.

The 2,100-ton vessel, bound from Montreal to England, was reported to have stuck in a heavy fog.

LITERARY SOCIETY ELECTS OFFICERS

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Oct. 28.—A reorganization of the Literary Society of the local Continuation School was effected at a gathering held in the assembly hall on Tuesday, after the regular school session, the past president, Orval Wainman, being in the chair.

Voting was by ballot, the list of officers for the current year including: President, O. Wainman; vice-president, Jack Whittington; secretary-treasurer, Jack Arundel; pianist, Robina Tate. The representatives from the separate forms will be chosen during the week.

Following the custom inaugurated last season, the entire school will be divided into four groups, each to be responsible for one program during the year; leaders for the four groups are: Dorothy Anderson, Marjorie McDowell, Mirian Belch, and Ken Kidd.

Five dollars was voted toward the shield competed for at the annual field day, and it was announced that Millbrook and Orono schools will buy a shield for annual competition, each contributing half the cost.

Why Not Lock Him Up?

A despatch telling about a man being taken into custody at Ingersoll after having caused grievous bodily injury to an officer, concludes with this amazing statement: "It was shown there were some twenty-nine convictions against him during the past twenty years."

And in the course of events there will likely be another added shortly, which will make thirty convictions in twenty years. So that means that on an average this man has been in trouble each time eight months rolls around, and he has been keeping that up for twenty years.

It would take a confirmed optimist to believe there will be any change in the man's habits. If he had a complete change of heart and started building his life on a different level it would be different, but as things stand at the moment he will keep on getting into trouble. And each time he breaks the law the police and the courts will again be touched into action to attend to him. So in all it seems like a useless and meaningless succession of poor events. It is doing the man no injustice whatever to refer to him as a perpetual or permanent offender, and when one reaches that stage it is difficult to see any purpose in allowing him to have his liberty at all because he uses it only to offend yet once more. It would save a good deal of time and effort if he were kept under lock and key permanently.

Our Changing Dollar

Stratford announces that beginning November 16 the allowance for relief recipients will be increased 10 per cent. for groceries and meats, the reason given being that the cost of living had increased and therefore the relief dollar was not doing as much as it had previously done.

Of course that is a condition which does not apply particularly in Stratford; it is common the country over and it has been in operation for some time. It applies not only to those who are on relief, but with equal force to those who are able to pay their own way.

At times there is a deal of discussion about stability in currency and so on, but the truth is no such thing exists nor do we see how it can. If one cared to put the Stratford fact in another form it could be stated that people in general were in receipt of ten per cent. less money by reason of the increased prices. The dollar they have now—assuming the 10 per cent. figure to be correct—is doing only ninety cents' worth of work when spent for certain classes of provisions. Our dollar keeps moving up and down that way and we still regard it as a fixed unit—one dollar. Truth is the dollar is good only to use for buying what we need and its actual value changes just as rapidly as the prices of the things we purchase.

Too Much Government

There appears to be too much government in a good many places. We read that in Westminster township in the county of Middlesex there is a protected game area, and there is some sort of local organization under the name of a "Game Advisory Board" which has to do with the management of the protected area.

At the September meeting of this Advisory Board it was decided that there should be no opening of the area for hunters this fall. On the other hand the Fish and Game Department at Toronto ordered that there should be a two-day open season for shooting pheasants. The officers of the local advisory board are the authorized persons to issue hunting permits and they refuse to do so.

So the Westminster people who apparently have authority in their own area have decided on one course, and the department at Toronto has decided on another which is the direct opposite.

It was advocated during the recent election campaign that a system of local advisory boards should be adopted in connection with the sale of beer and wine in the province, and we take it their duty would be to make recommendations and come to conclusions based on their knowledge of local conditions. But there would be nothing to keep the centralized authority in Toronto from refusing to accept the locally-made recommendations. It might well be found, as in Westminister with its restricted area for game, that the Toronto people had their own ideas and they would prevail. Two organizations looking after the same thing often enough produce nothing except confusion.

Canadian Nurses In U.S.

It is a drab sort of day when one reads nothing of a demand for a probe into something or other. As a rule we do not believe in probes because they never seem to produce results, nor do they reveal much which is not already known.

The latest request for a probe comes from the National Nurses' Association in New York, the president of which has written to the Department of Labor at Washington charging that Canadian nurses are being brought into United States. She said in her letter that:

"Positions are offered by hospitals to said subjects of a foreign nation through direct advertising in Canadian newspapers and by means of personal contacts with various hospitals in the Dominion of Canada."

So there is a new name which we can attach to our Canadian nurses: "Said subjects of a foreign nation." The truth seems to be that a number of Canadian nurses have gone to United States, and according to information which we have it was not a difficult matter to enter the country and start working. There were occasions when they were invited to go as there was a shortage of the home-brew variety and it became necessary to depend on these "said subjects of a foreign nation."

Records too show that within recent times the general health of the folk in United States seems to be on the way up. If some of the Yankees are ailing then the duration of their affliction is not of long duration. Whether the white-clad ladies from the North have been able to bring about that change we do not know.

We were wondering too what could be done about it? There is no armed force on either side of the international border, so if there has been an invasion of United States by Canadian nurses we are not certain at the moment how it can be attended to. It might complicate matters if they were taken to the Detroit or Buffalo border and pitched into the river and told to swim home. Perhaps all these matters can be fixed and arranged and explained when they have their probe. And that leaves only one old question to be answered: "Who is going to pay for the probe? The Nurses' Association or the general public?

Binders And Wheat

In 1919 when wheat was approximately $2.80 per bushel an eight-foot binder was selling in the West for $271. In 1932 when wheat was around 50 cents per bushel the same sort of a binder was selling for $280. That means that in 1919 a farmer in the West could have secured a new binder by handing over less than 100 bushels of wheat, while in 1932 he would have had to contribute 560 bushels in order to own a binder. That was contained in the address of J. S. Woods when he spoke to members of the United Farmers of Manitoba in their session in Brandon.

That argument has been in use for a good many years, and it has in it such possibilities for showing what seems to be a business injustice that it will probably be used just as much in the future.

The weakness of that claim can all be stated in the few words: "What are they going to do about it?" It could hardly be successfully argued that because the price of wheat was down therefore the price of the binder which was to cut the wheat would also have to be down to the same level. Potatoes were a much better price last year than in the present market, but that does not mean there has been a corresponding reduction in the price of a hoe or a fork or a machine for digging potatoes.

Nor do we see how there could be equality established between the price of any machine and the commercial value of the work it does. Such a plan would mean that during some of the recent lean years in the publishing business a newspaper should have been able to purchase a rotary press for $15,000 instead of $35,000 because the commercial value (or earning power) of the paper being printed had been much reduced. But it never has worked out that way.

If the farmer wants a strong argument then his best one is that he is producing wheat and selling it in a world market without any protection, and therefore he should be able to buy his machinery on the same basis. And when a farmer gets on that argument it is not particularly easy to show him he is wrong.

Study The Tourist Camp

Plans are complete for the establishment of a training centre for people whose business it is to cater to tourists, and it is being arranged by the Women's Institutes Department in connection with the National Employment Commission. Young people will be enrolled and taught how to conduct booths and attend to cabin accommodation and advised on the best methods of advertising their business. The course will have special appeal to those in districts where it is not good farming country but patronized by tourists.

There are some people who are making a good living out of the booth and cabin business. They seem to know exactly how to go about it, while there are others whose cabins and meals or service generally one would hesitate to recommend to a friend. This sort of business is one about which those entering it for the first time can learn a great deal from those who have made a long study of it. We believe it is going to be an increasing business because cars are staying on the roads longer now. There are more demands made today than formerly. People are no longer content to just put up for the night and be glad of some spot to stay. Most of those who travel about have experienced the service extended to them in some of the best stopping places and they have accepted that as the standard of what they expect elsewhere.

So the idea of arranging a special course in this kind of work is not without point. The high class tourist camp is a good thing for the entire district as well as for the person who operates it, and no person yet has ever known too much about the business in which he is engaged.

Is Parole Abused?

Police chiefs from a dozen nations in Europe and North America were present at a convention in Montreal, and from that city the convention moved on to visit the Bureau of Investigation at Washington and also headquarters of the G-Men in New York.

At the Montreal session Chief Draper of Toronto said plainly that our method of parole was due to be changed, and he was apparently certain the method was not producing the results for which people had hoped. Unfortunately it is possible for him to produce evidence bearing on his argument.

Living as we do in a community where crime is not an ever-present quantity, it is difficult for us to understand the problems which confront police officers in the larger area. Difficult for us to understand that there are thousands of people who go in for crime just as definitely as a man might go into the business of running a store. The public does not know what the chiefs are talking about when they speak of such conditions, but the police do know.

It is much the same when a Canadian delegate, Chief Draper, speaks of parole. There are few people who know how the parole system works, and there are few familiar with the results it has produced or failed to produce. But the police know for certain they will be called upon to deal with those on parole who are not prepared to live fairly by the rules and conditions of their release. One cannot quarrel with the fine principle of parole, which is returning men to civil life as quickly as possible, and at the same time one cannot but question the wisdom of shortening a sentence which at the time of trial and conviction has been supposed to fit the crime. It is known that the individual going to serve time can earn a reduction in its length by good behavior. So when a responsible police official gives it as his opinion that parole in this country is being abused we cannot turn aside his testimony with a mere shrug of the shoulders. The chances are he knows what he is talking about.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Japanese officers complain that the Chinese are using gas. The Japs could escape it by staying home.

Mr. Rowe has probably discovered by this time that it is quite true that the Old Guard may die but it never surrenders.

Great Britain is turning out more airplanes than any other country in the world. When the British folk make up their mind the time for action has arrived they allow nothing to stop them.

Premier Duplessis has expressed approval of Mr. Hepburn's C.I.O. stand and that is about the first mention of the Committee for Industrial Organization since the Ontario election.

In a football game in Toronto the other day one player had his jaw broken and another fractured a leg. That may be what the sports writers mean by getting the breaks.

A series of thirty games is being played for the world's chess championship, so we know there are at least two men in the world who are not worrying over the international situation or the state of the stock market.

Car-owners should always be careful about keeping their machines in good condition. In Montreal a couple of trusting burglars stole a car, loaded it with loot and then had to abandon the whole layout when a wheel dropped off.

DIET

(By A. R. K.)

¶ Alfalfa is a healthy dame, she's big of feet and large of frame, it bothers her a lot; and she eats things just as they come, of fattened things she'll miss not one, takes things she shouldn't ought.

¶ Alfalfa's really far too weighty, and tips the scales around one eighty, and that without her hat; she read stuff in a book one day, that pointed out an easy way, for her to shed her fat.

¶ She had a diet list prepared, where things were cut and finely pared, she nailed it on the wall; 'twould take a little time she knew, of pounds each day she'd shed a few, till she was trim and tall.

¶ Alfalfa laid off cuts of beef, and ate instead a lettuce leaf, nor would she take her stew; she banned potatoes from her plate, she weighed the butter that she ate, and cut that half in two.

¶ Alfalfa gave a little sigh, when she turned stop sign on her pie, and jam she shoved aside; she was determined that she'd show, just how the lard from her would go, nor cling beneath her hide.

¶ Four weeks Alfalfa went that way, then it occurred to her one day, to weigh herself once more; you know that she was rather weighty, and flipped the scale about one eighty—she went one eighty-four.

SIR JAMES JEANS, Famous British mathematician, has been stirring things up by coming out with a treatise in which he declared that music, far from being an art, is merely a sub-division of the science of sound an application to entertainment of natural mathematical laws. Sir James lashed out at piano virtuosos for claiming the ability to put a vast amount of expression into the striking of a single note. His argument was that the pianist has only one variable which he can influence—the force with which the key is hit. In striking single notes, he says the pianist has no larger range at his disposal than a child pounding out five-finger exercises.

✧ ✧ ✧

The scientist says there is no perceptible difference in the sound curve produced by a great virtuoso striking a note and the striking of the same note by dropping a weight on the piano key.

✧ ✧ ✧

The pitch of a sound, Sir James claims depends neither on the material or nature of the vibrations set up but solely on their frequency. The middle C of the piano he points out that its frequency or vibration speed is 261 to the second and he lists among instances of ordinary noise-makers which invariably sound a perfect middle C the following:

✧ ✧ ✧

A siren where the blasts of air escape at the rate of 261 per second, a revolving steam saw in which 261 teeth bite into the wood each second, an automobile engine when the piston makes 261 strokes per second and the hum of a dynamo when the current alternates at the rate of 261 cycles per second.

✧ ✧ ✧

According to recent government statistics four per cent. of the wood cut in the United States is used in the manufacture of paper. The lumber industry accounts for 33 per cent and another 40 per cent is consumed as fuel.

Copying Nature.

A WRITER has said recently that man is very fortunate that Mother Nature has not considered it necessary to have her inventions patented so that man may continue to copy and take the credit. In this connection it is interesting to see how slowly we are learning to copy nature's stream-lining. The body of almost any fish or swift moving bird is the pattern from which our designers are drawing the plans for future models.

✧ ✧ ✧

A little over a hundred years ago the camera was developed by man. How many years ago the human eye, on which pattern the camera is built, was formed, not even scientists can agree. It is however interesting to notice that the camera is copied almost point for point after the human eye. The shutter of the camera is of course its eyelid. The diaphram that regulates the size of the hole through which the light will pass is the camera's iris. Of course the lens is exactly duplicated. The box or bellows of the camera finds its counterpart in the vitreous chamber that fills the cavity of the eyeball. Man has yet to develop a film as wonderful as the film in the back of the eye which we call the retina.

✧ ✧ ✧

Then there's the hypodermic needle, so important to modern medicine. Its predecessor is found in the fang of the rattlesnake. Here there is an almost exact similiarity. A long sharp hollow fang is comparable to the steel needle. The poison duct that leads from the poison sac through the hollow fangs is comparable to the hollow core of the needle. The poison sac surrounded by muscles that can squeeze it when contracted are similar to the barrel and plunger of the modern device.

Cuba's Unique Firefly.

WITH THE first day of the rainy season on the island of Cuba comes to the great delight of small Cuban boys and girls, the Cuban firefly or cucujo. It is one of the strangest and most fascinating of all the thousands of interesting birds and insects in the world. Very similar to our own firefly, it is however nearly four times as large and the surprising thing about it is its strong phosphorescence which is so bright that when great numbers of cucujos appear at one time they are like a shower of stars hovering over the fields.

✧ ✧ ✧

The native children are particularly delighted with them for it is not only great sport capturing the cucujos but they are also the means of providing small Juan and Maria with extra pennies. When the season is at hand the children equip themselves with small wicker cages in which they catch the fireflies and bring them to Havana and other cities to sell to the tourists as curiosities. The cucujos adapt themselves readily to life in a cage. They must be given very good care and treatment, however if they are to live.

✧ ✧ ✧

In the antique and jewelry shops in Havana small silver cages of very fine workmanship may be purchased in which it was the custom to keep the firefly pets. These cages were attached to bracelets, watch chains or necklaces and carried about by the wearer. They were so small however that humanitarian ideals gradually discouraged their use.

✧ ✧ ✧

It was also the custom, a generation or so ago, for the Cuban ladies to use cucujos as articles of adornment. There is a natural hook near the head of the insect by which it can be attached to anything without injury to the insect itself.

✧ ✧ ✧

Nowadays the insects are considered only as extremely interesting phenomena except by the poorer natives who still frequently confine three or four of them in a wicker cage and use it for all practical purposes as a lantern.

✧ ✧ ✧

Vitamin D has been produced in such highly concentrated form that a teaspoonful of it would cure the rickets of 8,000 children.

IS POVERTY A CRIME

Editor Examiner:

Sir: If poverty is a crime, it is the duty of everyone to call attention to it, to help relieve it, and to do away with it if possible, because each one of us is responsible, let us be workingmen, manufacturer, or minister of the Church. The Dominion, and Provincial governments are preparing for the coming winter, there will be an amount of unemployment thus distress. Are we as individuals and organizations doing our duty to our brothers in this matter? I agree with Henry George when he says Poverty is a crime. A man who is in poverty I look upon not as a criminal in himself so much as the victim of a crime for which others as well as himself perhaps are responsible. Poverty is the bitterest of curses, we all know. It is to escape this Hell that we strain and struggle. The curse born of poverty is not confined to the poor alone, there cannot be suffering in a community from which any class can totally escape. The vice, the crime, the ignorance, the meanness born of poverty, poison so to speak, the very air we breathe of rich and poor alike and this condition is chiefly imposed by society at large. It is a social crime. Therefore all are responsible. Surely people cannot say poverty is decreed by the Almighty. No, but it is because of our own injustice, our own selfishness, our own ignorance, that this scourge, worse than pestilence, ravages our civilization, bringing want, suffering and degradation, destroying souls as well as bodies. Two thousand years ago the word went forth to a small body of men, upon whom the Christian Church today bases its whole fabric, "Behold I will make you fishers of men; Upon this rock I will build my church." These men of two thousand years ago, were instructed to fight this great social evil, which is worse, and getting worse than at that time. The real dangerous man to society is the man that says, that all is as it ought to be. In a really Christian community in a society that honored not only with their lips, but with acts the teachings of Jesus, no one would have occasion to worry about physical needs any more than do the lilies of the field. There is enough and to spare, but in our mad struggle we trample it into the mire, while we tear and rend each other. Look the world over today; poverty every where. The cause must be a common one: You cannot attribute it to tariffs and governments altogether. Did you ever think of the utter absurdity and strangeness of the fact that all over the civilized world, the working classes are the poor classes. We talk of overproduction, how can there be such a thing as overproduction while people want? All things that are said to be over produced are desired by many people, why do they not get them? Because they have not the means wherewith to buy them, not that they do not want them. Why have they not the means to buy them? They earn so little. When great masses of the people have to work for less than it costs to live it is no wonder that great quantities of goods cannot be sold. The mass of unemployed drive wages down to a point of bare subsistence. Is it not a strange thing that men cannot find employment? Adam or Robinson Crusoe, neither had difficulty in finding employment. Men cannot find employment because they have been robbed of the natural opportunities of employing themselves.

We must adhere to the laws of God and nature for peace and justice. Therefore, to my mind, it is to the advocates of God's law the Christian church, that great Christian organization which during the war, got busy preached thrift, patriotism and economy, helped raise the great Canadian army through their enthusiasm, and again the great social organizations who started temperance and prohibition to a point of fanaticism, and made the country dry; is but an example of what they can do, if they so will. Yet here we are faced with a problem that takes a greater toll of human life than the great European war, than all the drink and spirituous liquors every year; in fact every day it is breeding more vice, crime, ignorance, which contaminates and creates environment. Surely this question is of paramount importance to there organizations to get busy as they did on the prevously mentioned occasion. Set the example, others will follow. The crisis has to be faced this winter. Everyone is called upon to make some sacrifice in order to alleviate unemployment. Government, Municipal Councils, manufacturers, working men, but let us see that the brunt of the whole situation is not borne by one class of the community and hope that out of it all the church may take this opportunity of bringing our social life to that higher standard of brotherhood ahead of commercialism.

Great Britain Has Kept Her Head

Has Gone Whole Distance to Preserve Peace; Has Even Sacrificed Prestige in the Effort

From the Argonaut, San Francisco

IT HAS BEEN impressed upon us several times by authorities that Great Britain today is a morally different empire than the one which entered the World War. Britain, today, is determined to keep peace at practically any cost, even at the cost of losing face among the family of nations, which she did during the Italian invasion of Ethiopia.

The British hate the very word of "war," and mean to use every diplomatic trick to avert a conflict. Britain always did like peace, but she never allowed another power to bluff its way into a position threatening the supremacy of England on the seas. But the Great War changed things. London is now quite sure that the rest of the empire will not follow the home country into any war which might come along, and the people have given notice that it would have to be a pretty serious affair before they condescend to fight on foreign soil.

A greater navy is being built, yes, but Britain must remain supreme on the seas if the empire is to be kept intact. The navy is England's life line. The main fact is Britain's fighting courage and determination for peaceful solutions to world problems, rather than turning to war-like measures at any provocation. Today, Great Britain is faced with double trouble—in the Mediterranean and in the Far East. In the inland sea, she is making a stolid stand for safe neutral shipping, and has succeeded in making rather peaceful negotiations with Italy, the power threatening British supremacy. In the Orient, she has recently been forced to take a veritable slap in the face from Japan, whose aviators shot the British Ambassador. Tokyo merely said, "So sorry," and the British Parliament accepted it.

Great Britain has been tried almost to the limit of endurance, but has kept her head well. It is said by some that her empire is decaying, and it perhaps is true that the imperial line is not as strong as once it was. Yet British statesmen deserve praise for continually seeking the peaceful path in a forest of armaments and bayonets. Eternal peace may be an impossible Utopia, but the efforts of Great Britain, leading with the United States, may yet produce order out of the chaotic mess in which the world finds itself today.

Desperate Men Left Trail of Death

Records Show Cases In Short Crime Life; Shot When Trying to Secure New Weapons

A FAIR IDEA of the nature of the criminals with whom officers in United States have to deal is furnished in the record below of the Brady gang, members of which were shot to death by G-men and local police at Bangor, Maine, when they were attempting to purchase new weapons at a local store:

April 27, 1936.—Gang swoops down on jewelry store in Lima, O., obtaining between $35,000 and $50,000 loot. Patrolman Sweeney shot and critically wounded, but in return, shot Geisking as he fled. That night, in Indianapolis, while seeking medical aid for Geisking, gang shot and killed Sergt. Richard Rivers, Indianapolis police force, who ambushed the members at the doctor's house.

ARRESTED IN CHICAGO.

April 30, 1936.—Brady arrested in Chicago, in the company of a woman.

May 15, 1936.—Dalhover, traced through flowers sent to a girl friend, arrested in Chicago. Shaffer taken into custody at Indianapolis while reading detective magazines.

September 11, 1936.—Geisking arrested still suffering from old wound, by police in Henderson Kentucky.

October 11, 1936.—While awaiting trial for Sergt. Rivers' death, Brady, Dalhover and Shaffer escape from Hancock County jail at Greenfield, Ind., where they were taken on change of venue. Slug sheriff and escape.

November 26, 1936.—Came out of hiding, first time after escape, and robbed Madison State Bank at Madison, Ind.

December 17, 1936.—Stage foray on Carthage State Bank, at Carthage, Ind., getting $1,250.

May 6, 1937.—Raid Farmland, Ind., State Bank, getting about $1,500.

SENTENCED TO LIFE.

May 13, 1937.—Geisking sentenced to life in Ohio state prison after trial at Lima, O., for jewelry robbery.

May 25, 1937.—Robbed Goodland, Ind., State Bank of $1,427, shooting to death State Patrolman Paul Minneman, near Royal Center, after officer had trailed them.

August 7, 1937.—Engaged in a gun battle with police in Baltimore, Md., while waiting to hold-up armored car carrying receipts from Havre De Grace, Md., race track. Subsequent investigation revealed that Shaffer and Dalhover, under fictitious names, had married two Baltimore girls and that Brady had operated a tavern and had won renown as a roller skater.

October 12, 1937.—Brady and Shaffer killed and Dalhover wounded by G-men at Bangor, Me., while gangsters were buying guns for new criminal raids.

LUNCHTIME SOLILOQUY.

Oh tempora! Oh Mores!
Also Excelsior!
The radio inspector comes
Knocking at my door.
Ah, yes! I have a license
It cost me dollars two
But thinking of that paper
Turns me a fiery hue.

The programs once were pretty good,
And entertaining, too —
Ere government monopoly
Made industry taboo.
They used to give us what we want
But they do that no more — -
The crime of pleasing listeners
The men of law abhor.
Legislative solons said
It surely was their mission
To educate dear public, —
Via Radio Commission.

And so we hear of cows and bugs,
Hygiene, and other things
And for this privilege
We're taxed—as in all other things.

Instead of programs funny
With knowledge we are weighted
But, alas, we should not kick —
We're being educated!

At lunch time, Monday, cowsie
Has stomachs four—its true!
And if she has a beller ache
No wonder she says "Moo!"
To cure her of the megrims
A physic she must take —
None but "Doc Whoosis" remedy
Will cure her stomach ache.
But hist! A physic follows —
Be sure to make it strong;
In stomachs four, the medicine
To clear them must take long!

At Tuesday's lunch, of flies we hear
That live in stables crude —
(Don't turn it off—just listen —
You must not be so rude.)
So keep the stables tidy
And always clean and neat
So never a pilandering fly
May tickle bossie's teat.

Oh tempora! Oh Mores!
The license I must pay
Or go to court and be disgraced —
There is no other way.

Try Reform, Not Create New Is King's Party Prescription

Premier Believes Trade The One Great Peace Instrument Among Nations

OTTAWA, Oct. 28—(CP). — Reform of Canadian political parties from within, rather than their destruction and the creation of new ones, is the prescription of Prime Minister Mackenzie King, who believes that citizens should get into either of the two old parties and work for their betterment.

The Prime Minister expressed this and other views last night when he was guest at a banquet tendered by e tors to Albert Pinard, Liberal member of the House of Commons for Ottawa East.

Subversive forces were threatening unit in Canada as well as in other countries of the world, he warned. He urged acceptance of world citizenship as a means of preserving world accord and declared that unless the principles of liberty were maintained at home, the issue between democracy and dictatorship "might be fought out on this continent as it is being fought on the continents of Asia and Europe today."

Without going into detail the Prime Minister said "there are some parts of Canada where some people think their only citizenship is to the Province." They had forgotten their citizenship in the Dominion and he believed there should be no difficulty in deciding where the border line lay between their service to both fields.

Trade For Peace

Trade was the one great instrument working for peace among nations, the Prime Minister said. He believed the reciprocal agreement between Canada and United States, worked out two years ago, stood as "an example and inspiration to the world" as had no other international accords in recent years.

Political parties in Canada had created the greatest democratic institution in the world, the Prime Minister declared. He believed there would always be the Liberal and Conservative party and he was confident they could be reformed from within to meet the needs of changing conditions.

"Whether we like it or not," he said, "we are concerned with what happens in Europe and Asia, and we know that there are wars on both those continents. A mistake might lead to irretrievable consequences.

"There are those who say they want peace, and are going to vote for this or that organization because it demands peace. Peace is not a policy but a state or condition which exists because of the application of the right policies. I think the Liberal party has always seen the significance of that truth."

Referring to the "contagion" if dictatorship rule, the Prime Minister said it was amazing how movements toward dictatorships spread throughout the world. "I have seen right in our own country and our own parliament a tendency toward dictatorship that made me shudder," he added, "but we settled that in the last general election."

Punch On Nose Improved Looks

LONDON, Oct. 28 (CP). — Joseph Greenhouse, Leigh rugby player, won't forget this season's opening rugby match in a hurry. During a scrimmage Joseph was on the wrong end of an accidental punch which fractured his nose. He consulted a specialist, who told him the blow had straightened his nose, made breathing easier and greatly increased the player's powers of endurance.

"In fact because of the punch, I believe you are better looking than before," the doctor said.

CENTRAL EUROPE SLOWLY CLOSING DOWN UPON JEWS

VIENNA, Oct. 28 — (AP). — The lot of the Jew is becoming progressively complex in three of Central Europe's smaller countries—Austria, Hungary and Rumania.

Mounting social and economic pressure have reduced their means of livelihood in Austria and Hungary, and in Rumania anti-Semitism threatens to become an inter-party, if not parliamentary, issue.

In Austria, with a Jewish population of 196,000—of whom 171,000 live in Vienna—the higher the mountain village, the keener the feeling against Jews because Alpine villages are the country's strongholds of Nazism.

Austrian Jews say municipal hospitals accept no more Jews as assistant doctors and that the University of Vienna appoints no more Jews to professorships. This, they assert, is representative of anti-Semitism penetrating almost every branch of endeavor.

No Municipal Jobs Open.

Young Austrian Jews have no hope of getting jobs in federal or municipal offices, although under the old pension and seniority system those already in such jobs are permitted to stay.

Even some Jewish commercial firms are hiring only non-Jews for work that entails contact with the general public.

Jews may belong to one legal Austrian political organization, the Fatherland Front, but few hold offices in it, or are members of directorates of professional, cultural or government groups. Jews are fleeing Hungary at an average of 1,000 a year. Between 500 and 1,000 more annually withdraw from Jewry. Next year losses through emigration, deaths and renunciation of religion are expected to reach 4,000.

The numbers in each category are rising steadily and pessimists, says the Jewish newspaper "Die Stimme," predict the extinction of the race in Hungary.

In Hungary there are no laws directed specifically against Jews, and anti-Semitic demonstrations are comparatively few.

All Gates Closing.

But Jewish leaders protest there is no sphere of professional or commercial activity in which Jews are not being systematically pushed out.

In Rumania some political writers go so far as to say that the issue of anti-semitism may be a factor in the fate of Premier George Tatarescu's National Liberal cabinet.

One point is that the late summer provincial elections, in which campaign speakers tried to foment hatred for Jews among the peasants, favored the Peasants' Party, which is against anti-semitic measures.

Another point is an anti-Jewish manifesto of the Patriarch Miron Christea, head of the Greek Orthodox church in Rumania, about which parliamentary action was demanded in a memorandum by Carol Peter Petrescu, leader of the Radical Peasants' Party.

Rumania has between 800,000 and 900,000 Jews. One Jewish newspaper contends, without offering any substantiation, that three-fourths of them have been reduced almost to beggary.

Smiles From British Left To British Right

With The Canadians At War Twenty Years Ago Today

By Captain W. W. Murray
(Canadian Press Writer.)

To Canadian soldiers who participated in the battles for Passchendaele 20 years ago, memories of those remote days are nightmarish. Many returned to those scenes last year during the great pilgrimage of Canadian war veterans. They beheld then a panorama of green fields criss-crossed with roads, of clustering woods, of picturesque red-roofed farmhouses and peaceful villages.

At Passchendaele they saw a beautiful park surrounding the simple memorial stone erected to commemorate their sacrifice and their achievements of two decades ago. They saw Tyne Cot Cemetery, with its hundreds of crosses, close by the railway which runs from Passchendaele Village to Ypres; and they stood reverently at he Menin Gate, whereon are engraved the names of more than 7,000 Canadians who, dying in the Ypres Salient, had no known grave.

But Bellevue Spur, Meetchelle, Decline Copse, Korek Farm, Capricorn, Crest House, and the numerous other places which crowded in on their memory had vanished from the landscape.

Here and there some relics of 1917 remained — not many. And they were oddly out of place amid such tranquil surroundings. The Passchendaele they had known 20 years before had been a man-made waste. It was a wilderness of ruins, of revolting stenches, of water-logged shell craters and trenches, of grey, glutinous mud that bogged them down, of murderous shelling, machine gunning and aerial bombing. Ceaseless, sustained, exacting, these joined in a chorus of death from which there was no escape.

And to them, 20 years ago, had been assigned the vital task of snatching a "victory" from what had looked like certain and irreparable defeat.

Throughout 1917, following the disaster which overtook the French armies under Nievelle in the Champagne, and the consequent spirit of defeatism gnawing into the French —and, to no small extent, into the British peoples also, the burden of the actual fighting in France and the middle east had been borne entirely by the British. Sir Douglas Haig's offensive at Messines and Ypres had been launched to counteract this, to reveal that the British armies were still invincible in the attack.

Call for Canadians.

Unfortunately, so prodigal and so appalling had been the waste of human life in the northern offensive that the prospect of a successful issue to the battles receded into the background with the approach of the rainy autumn and the winter. In a final effort to wrest Passchendaele Ridge and Village from German hands, Haig had called upon the Canadian Corps; and on October 26 the initial assault of the Canadians was launched.

Successful so far as the attainment of objectives was concerned, the attack had nevertheless exacted a heavy toll of life. The 3rd and 4th Canadian Divisions had toiled over Gravenstafel Ridge, Abraham Heights, and to Bellevue Spur in the teeth of a fiery tempest. Their losses were enormous; but they had gained their objectives.

For the next two days their new line was subjected to the most determined counter-attacks. Decline Copse, an area of blackened tree stumps, but possessing considerable tactical value, was lost. On the night of October 27, the 47th (Western Ontario) and the 44th (Manitoba and New Brunswick) Battalions recaptured the position.

On the night of October 28 Decline Copse was again in German hands, but once again the 44th, reinforced by the 85th (Nova Scotia) Battalion drove the enemy out. By midnight the whole place remained in the hands of the Canadians. And, with their gains consolidated, they made preparations for the second phase of their operations against Passchendaele—the capture of Meetcheele, with the ultimate objective the storming of Passchendaele Ridge itself.

This was the attack delivered on October 30.

IMPLEMENT MARKETS

OTTAWA, Oct. 28—(CP). — Chief buyers of $780,091 worth of Canadian farm implements exported in September were the United States, Argentina and British South Africa, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today. August exports were worth $885,694, those of the previous September $337,214.

FARM IMPLEMENT COMPANY METHODS BRANDED OBSOLETE

BRANDON, Man., Oct. 28 (CP).—Distribution methods of farm implement companies are obsolete and their finance charges indefensible, J. S. Woods told the opening session of the United Farmers of Manitoba 36th annual convention in his presidential address yesterday.

Despite variations in grain prices since 1919 implement prices were at higher levels now than at that time, he said. In 1919 when wheat was approximately $2.20 a bushel list price of an eight-foot binder was $271; in 1932, when wheat was around 50 cents a bushel the same binder cost $280; and in 1936 it was $289.

"One it inevitably led to the conclusion machine companies have not suffered the competition they should have and have failed to bring their technique up to present day needs and requirements as other industries have done," he said.

The president urged co-ordination or unification of the Manitoba Wheat Pool and the United Growers Limited. These two organizations have competed for handling of farmers' wheat since formation of the Pool in 1924.

Referring to the international situation Mr. Wood endorsed President Roosevelt's Chicago speech. "The president's proposal to apply quarantine to nations that run amok, if carried through, may go a long way to end wars," said.

Britain's rearmament program was a safeguard to peace, "but there is a limit to the effectiveness of arms as a guarantor against war."

Elmira Man Dies After Car Crash

KITCHENER, Ont., Oct. 28 (CP). Victim of an auto accident in which his wife was killed, H. G. Gibson, 78, retired Elmira assessor and tax collector, died at Gallop, New Mexico, yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Gibson, residents of Elmira for nearly 50 years, were motoring to California with their daughter, Mrs. C. E. Woodhull, Los Angeles, to spend the winter as their daughter's guests, when the mishap occurred. Mrs. Gibson died last Sunday shortly after the accident.

MOSQUITO BITES.

WEYMOUTH, Eng., Oct. 28 (CP). —A coroner here found that Mrs. Kate Harriet Nowiem of Wyke Regis, Weymouth, died from mosquito bites received two months previously. A verdict of "death by misadventure" was recorded.

Community Bridge Major Bennett Chapter, I.O.D.E.

Members of the Major Bennett Chapter, I.O.D.E. were hostesses at a most delightfully arranged Community bridge party on Wednesday evening.

Twenty tables of bridge were played altogether, the guests later assembling at the home of Miss Marguerite Lillico for refreshments. A pumpkin holding a lighted candle formed the centrepiece on the lace-covered table, with orange candles in silver holders at either end. Tea was poured by Mrs. Sheldon Huffman and Mrs. Roy Hutchison, and assistants were members of the Chapter.

The Regent, Miss Anna Mackenzie made the draw for a picture on which tickets had been sold, and which was won by Miss Margaret Skitch. The bridge prizes went to the Misses Louise Jones and Flora Metcalfe.

An interesting feature of the evening was a fashion show staged by the Smart Set Shop, when lovely and luxurious lingerie, lounging pyjamas and house coats were modelled in satins, silk crepes and some smart house coats in flannel. The girls acting as mannequins were the Misses Bertha Inch, Vi Davidson, Margaret Stanton and Jean Bellegham, with music supplied by Miss Lenore Skitch at the piano.

Hostesses for bridge were Mrs. Ken Young and the Misses Edith Willis, June Best, Margaret Skitch, Dorothy Lipsett, Margaret Emerson, Margaret MacDonald, Ariel Wildman, Betsy Scott and Phyllis Dawson.

George St. Y.P.U. Discusses New Study Book.

The new study book, "A New Church Faces a New World," was introduced to the Young People's Union of George Street United Church at their regular weekly meeting. The speaker for the evening was Miss Frances Clarke, who discussed the first chapter of the book under the heading, "From Sea to Sea."

The meeting, which opened with a sing-song, was in charge of the Christian Missionary Group of which Miss Loretta McDougall was the convenor. The Misses Edith Burnham, Gladys Mills and Margaret Taylor assisted in the worship service. Miss McDougall gave an interesting report on the recent conference of branches of the Y.P.U. held in Belleville.

A short enjoyable recreation period closed the meeting. Sixty young people were in attendance.

Successful Turkey Supper Served by All Saints' Ladies.

A wonderful attendance of over three hundred enjoyed the turkey supper served by the Ladies' Guild of All Saints' Church on Wednesday evening in the basement of the Parish Hall. By six o'clock every place at the fourteen tables was filled, and a large number of guests were waiting for their turn.

Hallowe'en decorations on the walls, and pumpkins filled with apples and grapes on the tables were in keeping with the season. The splendid menu supplied by the ladies consisted of turkey, vegetables, salads, pies and jellies with many other delicious extras. Members of the Ladies' Bible Class looked after the decorations, and assisted the Guild in serving, all the members of which were busy workers for the affair.

Mrs. L. G. Dobbin, president of the Guild, received the guests. Tickets for the supper were sold in the Parish Hall by A. Webber and J. Price.

Y.W.C.A. Medau Group Demonstrate In Capitol.

Patrons at the Capital Theatre last evening were afforded an added treat when Senior Gym girl of the Y.W.C.A., members of the Medau group, gave a demonstration on the stage of the new method of health exercises. Brought over from Germany two years ago by one of the forty teachers at the School of Medau Eurhythmics just outside Berlin, the exercises show strength and grace—a combination of swing and stretch work with dance movements.

The girls were dressed in white velvet shorts and polo shirts ornamented with a large blue "Y" and used a silver ball in the demonstrations. Members taking part were Mrs. V. Gray, Mrs. G. Vinette, Mrs. H. Young, Mrs. P. Forbes; and the Misses Hazel Bradley, Marion Dundas, Rose Puddick and Esther Hogow. Mrs. E. Foster was pianist.

Miss Caroline Littlefield, Physical Director at the Y.W.C.A. made an appeal from the stage for a generous response to the "Y" Campaign, speaking of the handicaps owing to the very limited space in the present gymnasium.

King Edward H. and S. Association.

The regular monthly meeting of King Edward Home and School Association was held in the kindergarten room, with the president, Mrs. Hubel, in the chair.

J. Nichols, as special speaker of the evening, gave an interesting and instructive talk on Mental Health. F. H. Dearborn presented the medals won on Field Day to a number of students, with Cadet medals presented by Mr. Crawford. A short musical program was enjoyed. It included a piano solo by George Nicholas, a former King Edward boy; a piano solo by Jean Leach; a violin solo by Jack Harris, accompanied at the piano by Elsie Chambers. Refreshments were served at the close.

Medals were presented by Mr. Dearborn to Marjorie Hodson, senior girls' championship; Leah Davis, intermediate girls' championship; Dorothy Nokes, junior girls' championship; Gordon Blackwell, senior boys' championship; C. Palmer, intermediate boys' championship; Wesley Ellis, junior boys' championship. Mr. Crawford presented Cadet medals to Ernie Gregson for best shot last season, and Edgar Roberts, captain of the Cadet Company.

Kennedy-McMurray.

The marriage was solemnized at the Church of the Immaculate Conception at half past seven on Tuesday morning by the Very Rev. Dean O'Sullivan of Bertha McMurray, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Garrett McMurray, to Edward Kennedy, son of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Kennedy of Douro.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, was charmingly gowned in brown sheer, with shoulder bouquet of bronze 'mums.

Her sister, Mrs. Gordon Grisdale, attended as bridesmaid wearing wine tricotine, with bouquet of yellow 'mums. Gordon Grisdale attended the groom.

The wedding music was played by Miss Leone Hummell, and during the ceremony and the progress of the Mass, Miss Adele McMurray sang several hymns very beautifully.

Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served to members of the bridal party and immediate relatives at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Grisdale. The happy couple left later by motor to spend their honeymoon in Toronto.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, October 29

A day of surprising activity, with developments of a sudden and far-reaching effect on the future fortunes, is read from a long chain of planetary configurations. These may affect the private as well as business lives, with many quite unpredictable influences. New matters may come to a head with sudden force, and the romantic, social or domestic life may encounter adventures of a surprising or mysterious nature. With a modicum of precaution all should flourish, bringing excellent opportunities for success and happiness.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of sudden and surprising events that may have a rather revolutionary effect on the private as well as business lives. Changes, journeys, removals, strangers and new opportunities may come in swift succession, bringing progress, romance, adventure and prosperity of a surprising character.

A child born on this day may be original, inventive, romantic and adventurous, making contacts and friendships in life that may lift it to the heights of popularity and prestige. Romantic love may have a large part in this.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Larger Attendances Are Planned At W.C.T.U. Monthly Meetings

A good attendance of interested members and friends of the local W.C.T.U. assembled on Wednesday in the Y.W.C.A. green room, for their October meeting.

The newly elected president, Mrs. Harold Rehill presided over the meeting and presented an entertaining and instructive program, while Mrs. Wilfrid Boorman was elected as the first vice-president.

A devotional service opened the meeting, with the scripture lesson taken by Mrs. E. E. Lord, and prayer was offered by Mrs. J. H. Rowe. In the brief business session a request for a W.C.T.U. member to speak at the Cold Springs Sunday School next Sunday was read and Mrs. E. Wand was appointed as speaker.

After some discussion it was decided to change the place of monthly meetings of Peterborough Union to the various Protestant churches of the city, with the object of reaching a greater number of women in the church districts. While the Y.W.C.A. has been ideal as a meeting place in every other way, it is hoped that the members of the individual church will rally in larger numbers in the local churches and that the message of temperance will have a wider scope of influence.

A very fine report of the Provincial W.C.T.U. convention held in Oshawa early in October, was given by one of the delegates, Mrs. George Rowe, who covered in very condensed form, the activities of the five-day meeting.

Mrs. Rowe cleverly chose the parts which were of greatest interest and help to members of a local union and gave her colleagues a vision of the work of this vast organization of women, their aim and their progress during the past year. Mrs. Rowe ably fulfilled her duties as delegate in the challenge she brought to the members at home. Regrets were expressed that Mrs. Al J. Throop, the county president, who through serious illness could not attend the convention, was also too ill to be present to hear the report. The members expressed sincere wishes for her early recovery.

A beautiful sacred solo "Ashamed of Jesus," was contributed by Mrs. W. Boorman, with Mrs. E. W. Glover accompanying and the Mizpah benediction brought the meeting to a conclusion.

The place of meeting for November will be announced in the Examiner later.

Shoulders Should Express Emotions

By GLADYS GLAD
"America's Most Famous Beauty"

That famous beauty of history, Ninon de l'Enclos, it is said, always used thick cream on her lovely skin. Not only did Ninon use the cream on her face, but on her back and shoulders as well, and the skin of her back and shoulders was of alabaster smoothness.

The creams that we use today, of course, are scientifically concocted preparations. We use them on our faces with just as much regularity as Ninon used her sweet cream. But oddly enough, we seldom think of using them on our shoulders and back.

According to Bette Davis, talented screen star, the back benefits by creaming just as much as does the face. Bette, herself, often creams her back. The skin of her back is flawlessly clear and smooth. And it's not at all difficult for me to believe the reason for this loveliness is the cleansing treatment that she habitually gives it.

Cleanliness is really most important for keeping the skin of the back smooth and blemish-free. Ordinarily, of course, it's rather difficult to do anything but scrub the back with a long-handled bath brush. But there really is a way to cream the back, too, and it's a neat trick.

Use Cotton on Brush

If you really wish to have a flawless back, give it a good creaming before you take your nightly bath. Take some absorbent cotton, pat it on the bristles of your long-handled, brush and then smear a quantity of cold or cleansing cream on the cotton. Then do your cream massaging.

After the creaming, relax in the warmth of your bath. The warm water will open the pores and enhance the cleansing properties of the cream. Then scrub your back with the brush and a pure, bland soap after you have removed the cotton from the bristles.

Cleanliness is not the only thing essential for keeping the back smooth and free from blemishes, however. Improper diet can also cause pimples and eruptions on the back. When large amounts of rich, heavy food, sweets, starches and fried foods are consumed, the blood stream becomes polluted with poisons and blemishes result.

If the back is marked with such blemishes, the diet should be simplified. It should consist chiefly of fresh fruits and vegetables. Bran, agar, onion, spinach, oranges, figs, dates and like foods should be eaten liberally to sweep the intestines clear of poisonous wastes. And large quantities of water should be consumed each day. This procedure, supplemented by proper cleansing treatments, will help to keep the back clear, smooth and flawless.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

DISTRIBUTION COUNTS

FREAKISH distribution, with a splendid fit in your partner's suit, furnishes much better support sometimes than a flock of aces and kings. It is amazing to see how many otherwise bright players fail to realize this and so allow many nice games to go by default. Others neglect the important factor of the location of their few high cards, in relation to suits bid at the right or left, which could have the effect of increasing or decreasing their value.

(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

South passed East's opening bid of 1-Club on this deal. West then bid 1-Spade, North 2-Hearts and East 3-Diamonds.

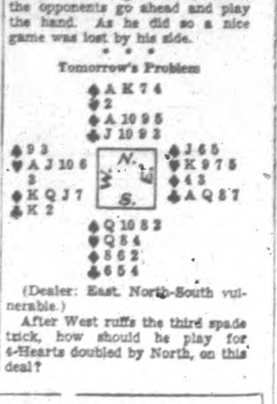
Despite the fact that East had not made even an overcall on his first turn, he really had quite a hand to aid and abet his partner's hearts. Actually he had plenty to take the contract to 4-Hearts, especially since he possessed a partner who was strong enough to overcall when both opponents were bidding despite the fact that his own partner could do nothing on the first round.

The location of the club bid by East made the honors in that suit more valuable than otherwise. His singleton in diamonds was immensely valuable in view of the fact that he had enough trumps for ruffing purposes. His heart holding was enough to make the suit more than safe for trumps, and he even had cards of genuine value in the spade suit.

South's correct bid over East's 3-Diamonds was 4-Hearts, but all he did was sneak in 3-Hearts. Then when West called 4-Clubs, which passed around to South, the latter did nothing about it, but let the opponents go ahead and play the hand. As he did so a nice game was lost by his side.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

After West ruffs the third spade trick, how should he play for 4-Hearts doubled by North, on this deal?

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"The day is coming when the great ship of the world, guided by the hand of the Son of God, shall float out of the clouds and storms, out of the shadows and conflicts, into the perfect light of love and God shall be all in all. The tide that bears the world to that glorious end, is the sovereignty of God."
—Van Dyke.

Dear Friends:

Do you know, I often feel sorry for the younger generation? They have so little to tie to, and so much to bewilder them. So many have no slightest idea of religion in any form. They have kicked the religion of their forefathers and parents into the discard, and whot do they have to take its place?

For—you have to have something. When friends let you down, as they will to the best of us, when things go haywire, when you feel as if you faced the world all by yourself with few to care or understand, and the knowledge frightens you past speaking, you must have Someone to turn to else reason will topple.

We are all built, as it were, self-contained, each of us with our heart as motor for our bodies, so that we can move and live without having all our inside mechanics attended to every day, unless for food and drink.

But there is more to our lives than just eating and breathing. There is a craving inside of us to be loved, to liked, to be understood. We think that if we play the game with those around us, all these things will be taken care of. But it doesn't always follow.

Many have tried placing their affections on those around them, such as parents and family. But the years bring changes, some die, some move away, some get other interests like marriage or career, some tire of us and seek others, so that there is no permanence anywhere.

And it is a grand thing to know, that the All-Highest, the One who knows us as no one else ever can or will, the One who who knew our beginnings and surely knows our ending, to realize that the One cares what happens to us, is kind and understanding, and ready, day or night to hear and help us.

After all, you know how frequently young people say, when things are not going as you would like them, or if you don't want to do something you obviously should do, that you did not ask to be brought into the world. Yet now you ARE in you require just as much comfort as the rest of us. (Who were not asked either if we wanted to be born or not.)

It is really a privilege to live, to be happy, to fight our way as best we can. But we all need something better than ourselves to look up to, something that satisfies as no other thing can do.

Do you think that all who truly worship God, who depend on Him for guidance, who find Him there at all times, unchanging in a changing world, turn to Him for the fun of it, or to show the world how good they are?

No. They turn to Him to satisfy the great need and yearning that is within each of us, stifle it as we may. It would be so easy to say, "let us eat, drink, and be merry, for tomorrow we die." But the eating and drinking sometimes only sickens us, and tomorrow we do not die, but pay the piper.

After all, how can you know anything about Him if you never listen or read of Him? You judge Him by your own standards, you never take Him at His word, and you also judge Him by the actions of others, who, after all, are the same as you and I with all our failings. It's like comparing a blade of grass with a mighty oak tree. You'll never get the fullness in life until you know God. Your Friend, ROBERTA.

Facts and Fancies

Clothes Must Wash

Psychologists, educators and healthofficials, as well as designers, have come to the assistance of mothers who have school wardrobes to plan and to make. As a result today's children not only have sturdy garments to withstand rough treatment, but outer and underwear that takes into consideration physical growth, mental development, personality and comfort. The mother's comfort is also taken into account, for the emphasis in styling and in textiles is on simplicity and washability.

The bureau of home economics at Washington suggests the following questions as a guide in the selection of clothes for the young child: "Can he play freely in them? Are they warm enough, but not too warm? Do they allow freedom for his body, for growth, circulation of the blood and muscle activity? Do they allow him to stand well? Sit comfortably? Stoop, bend, reach, easily? Are they put on and taken off easily and managed without difficulty at the toilet? Will they wash and wear well? Does the child like them?" These are reasonable enough requirements, even for the family of modest means.

Upholstered Chairs in Dinette

The latest offerings in breakfast and dinette sets include upholstered chairs designed to give greater comfort than was afforded by the traditional kitchen chair. Chromium furniture has also invaded the kitchen with bright colored leather upholstery.

Keeping Apples.

To be sure your basket of apples will keep, rub them over with a little glycerine. The glycerine will wash off readily when you want to use the apples, and that isn't really necessary, because the glycerine, besides being tasteless and odorless, is entirely pure and wholesome.

The return of the evening head dress is interesting. Some are made of feathers and net, gold ornamented.

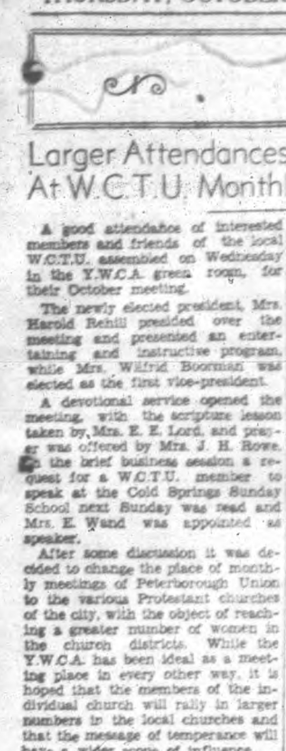
Wife Preservers

Stubborn particles of dirt that settle in moldings, cracks and other hard-to-get-at corners, can be easily whisked away with a paint brush which has been dipped into thick suds or rubbed over a cake of wet soap.



"Crown Brand" Corn Syrup makes happy, healthy children. No doubt about that, for doctors say it creates Energy and helps to build strong, sturdy bodies. Children love it and never tire of its delicious flavor.

Port Perry Man Is Proclaimed Champion At Plowing Match

Durham County's Plowing Match Is Held On Farm North Of Bailieboro

John Medd of Port Perry, tucked away another title and $15 at the Durham county plowing match Tuesday on the farm of Alex Wattie, north of Bailieboro. Only one of the eight classes in the competition was open to all comers, and, taking the day off from his own chores, Mr. Medd came and conquered in sod. Walter Orde of Otonabee, was a creditable second for $10. Some of those who know the quality of the Port Perry ace's best work, remarked that although his crown was just about perfect and his furrows straight as yard sticks and neatly spaced, altogether a compact and trim sample of plowing, he was actually under par, showing a few signs of carelessness in his finish.

The judge, F. S. Tyndall, of Richmond Hill, said the Medd ground was the best turned up in the match, and he paid a fine compliment to William Allen, of Ida, Cavan township, who was the only contestant in the class for boys under 21.

Suspended Four Years.

Durham county plowmen's association is a revival of the old Cavan and South Monaghan association, which suspended its activities four years ago, and also an expansion to include all sections of both Durham and Northumberland counties. I. W. Larmer of Cavan, is president, Clarence Allen of Newcastle, is vice-president, and Vernor R. Hunter, of Cavan, is secretary-treasurer. Twenty-three entries were listed for the competition when the lots were drawn at 9 o'clock, and the last of the plowing was finished within the required limit at 4 p.m. Prizes were satisfactorily distributed, although most of them went to Cavan men. One of the Northumberland men in the money was Thomas Fry of Bonarlaw, who had driven from the eastern border of the county with W. J. Duncan, also of Seymour township, and a former reeve.

Among those who were present, and the attendance was encouragingly large, were F. W. Rickard, M.P., and Cecil G. Mercer, recently elected M.P.P., both Durham representatives, and J. J. Duffus, M.P., Peterborough, G. A. Gillespie, John Gillespie and Albert Juby were among those noticed from the city. Mild weather and soil dampened by recent rain provided ideal conditions for the spectators and the plowmen.

Three tractors competed in a section of the field, but only two of them were eligible under the residence rule. Harry Grant of Smith township, was excluded from the prize money, but he gave a demonstration with his machine and would probably have been awarded first prize if he had been allowed to compete. W. C. Dawson of Bailieboro, had charge of arrangements for supplying teams for the plowmen who came more than ten miles to the match, and all the day's details were efficiently supervised.

The Prize Winners.

The classes and winners were as follows:

Class 1 in sod (open)— 1 John Medd, Port Perry; 2, Walter Orde, Otonabee; 3, Kenneth Curtis, Cobourg.

Class 2, jointer plows in sod—1, Mervin Smith, Cavan; 2 Harry McCamus, Cavan; 3 Stanley Allen, Ida.

Class 3, narrow plows in sod— 1 David Sharpe, Cavan; 2 Stanley Sharpe, Cavan; 3 Thomas Fry, Bonarlaw.

Class 4, sod or stubble, limited to previous non-winners—1 Gus Anstey, South Monaghan; 2 Harry McBain, Cavan; 3 Garnet Rickard, Bowmanville.

Class 5, in sod, boys under 21—Won by William Allen of Cavan township, whose work was highly commended.

Class 6, in stubble, boys 17 and under.—1, Allen Dawson, aBilleboro; 2 Raymond Driscoll, Peterborough.

Class 7, two furrow plows—1 Clifford Patton, Bailieboro; 2 Hilton E. Menifee, and 3 M. H. Menifee, of Hamilton township.

Tractors—1 Harold Patton, Bailieboro; 2 Melville Wood, Fraserville.

Best outfit—1 Jack Gordon, Coldsprings; 2, James Johnson and E. White of Bailieboro.

Youngest Plowman — Raymond Driscoll.

CRITICS APPLAUD RYAN SCULPTURE

NEW YORK, Oct. 28 — (CP). — Metropolitan art critics yesterday applauded the sculpture of Sally Ryan, school-girl in Montreal, five years ago, whose talent was brought to light by only three months' formal training.

Now a self-assured young woman of 21, the tall and blond Miss Ryan has a "one-man" exhibition installed in one of Manhattan's first-rank galleries. Because the expressive quality of her portraitures in the round "leaps towards you," in the words of the New York Sun critic, she scored an instant impression.

The New York Post said Miss Ryan has a "marked capacity for kneading the individuality of her sitters into the clay. And that doesn't mean holding to the general structural idea, too."

The Herald Tribune found there was "directness and a broad conception of the essential details," in the exhibits.

A granddaughter of Thomas Fortune Ryan, whose name represented $200,000,000 in industry and finance, she was raised in Montreal, although born in New York.

HEAVY DRINKING PRECEDED DEATH

the house. I twas the man from the wine store with another bottle. Mr. Taylor didn't have quite enough money to pay for it, and he handed in the two empties to make up the amount. I put the two small children to bed, and when I went to bed I left Mr. Taylor down stairs reading."

Mrs. Downer said the next thing she heard was when she was awakened by her oldest son calling from the stairs, asking whether everybody was in. "I said I didn't think Bob was in. I couldn't remember hearing him go by. My husband then went down, and when I got there I could smell Lysol. I bought a bottle about six months ago for personal use. It was on the kitchen sideboard."

Mrs. Downer said she knew Taylor was getting wine nearly every day. "He asked if he could have it at the house, because if he went up town and got in with some of the boys he would take too much. When he was drinking he would do a lot of crying, especially since he was out of work. His nerves were bad, probably caused by drinking."

Frank Barrett, juryman, asked whether Taylor had drunk all the wine bought on October 21.

"Yes, every drop of it," Mrs. Downer replied.

Unemployed 18 months

Taylor was employed at Canada Packers Limited four years ago, William Downer testified. "That is how he came to board with us," witness said. He works at the same plant.

"He was laid off about two years ago, and since then had worked about six months at Scott's mill. He had been unemployed about a year and a half, but hadn't worked for two months before his death. I knew he was getting wine nearly every day. He used to do quite a bit of work around the house for us."

Mr. Downer said he knew his wife always had Lysol in the house, but he didn't know where it was kept. Witness said he went to work about 6.30 that morning. Returning at noon he noticed that Taylor was nervous. "He'd jump at the least little thing, but I couldn't say he was intoxicated when I got home. I went back to work and came home about 4.30. Taylor was helping around the kitchen. I noticed he had been drinking. He staggered a little. We had supper after five o'clock, and I went bowling. When I got home again I made a sandwich, but Taylor refused one. I went to bed about 10 or a little later. The next thing I remember my lad called me and I got dressed. We went into the yard and found Taylor lying outside the shed. We carried him in and put him on a couch. He wasn't dead, but the next thing to it; gasping. We mixed up mustard and water to try to make him swallow it, but he couldn't."

Died in Few Minutes

Mr. McElderry—How long did he live after he was carried in?

Mr. Downer—He died within five minutes. He was dead when the doctor came. He didn't speak before he died. Sergeant Thompson found the Lysol bottle in the yard.

"Did you ever take any of this wine?"

"I have drunk it a few times."

"Is it a very strong wine?"

"I never drank in any quantity to be able to say whether it is or not. I may have bought three or four bottles altogether since the wine store opened."

"Who for?"

"For myself."

Mr. McElderry—I see ten bottles were ordered in your name during October up to the day of Taylor's death. Were they yours?"

"No, sir."

"You knew he was bringing wine into your home?"

"Yes; I knew he was receiving it."

Was Often Depressed

Mr. Downer stated that Taylor often appeared depressed, mainly because he couldn't get work. "He said he was fed up living with me and not working. The last time he said that was about two or three months ago. I told him to forget it; he was doing the kicking, not me."

"Did you hear Taylor in the yard after you went to bed?"

"Yes; I heard him talking."

"To whom?"

"The dog, but I couldn't hear what he said."

"Where was he then?"

"I didn't look out. He used to wander around at times, and we didn't pay any attention to him."

Mrs. Downer, recalled, said the bottle of Lysol was on the top of a sideboard in the kitchen. "A lot of things get on there. Some of them were books Mr. Taylor had read. He felt he was a burden to us because we have so many children."

Found Body In Yard

Hector Palmer, son of Mrs. Downer, recounted his finding of Taylor in the yard. "I saw him at supper. He was staggering some. That night I got home at five minutes after eleven. I drove the car into the yard, and saw a man lying there. I went in the house and called up if all were in. My mother was the first to waken. She said she didn't think Taylor was in. I went back to the yard and saw the man was Taylor. I then got my father and we carried him in."

Witness said Taylor looked as if he were asleep. "I could smell a strong odor of carbolic when we lifted him up."

"Did you ever smell Lysol?"

"No; I never did."

Mr. Palmer said Taylor might have been dead when the mustard emetic was mixed for him.

Was "Steady Customer"

Stanley Brown, proprietor of the Hillrust wine store on Charlotte street, said he did not know Taylor personally but had seen him several times in the store during the last three months.

"I knew he was a steady customer, but I didn't know how much he bought."

Mr. McElderry—From your records how much wine did he buy in the last three months?

"There were 25 bottles in Taylor's name at 172 Lake street, and 15 bottles in Downer's name."

"Did you know the wine in William Downer's name was for Taylor?"

"I did not."

"Where they all 26 ounce bottles?"

"All but two. They were 40 ounce imperial quarts."

"What kind?"

"Some were Marquis red, and some San Juan sherry."

"What is the strength of the San Juan?"

"13 to 15 per cent alcohol."

"Isn't that pretty strong?"

"Just a medium wine. In the same class with imported sherry."

"I understand Ontario wine is stronger," Mr. McElderry remarked.

"We have fortified wines that are stronger, but the wine Taylor got was not in that class."

This wine was of 1935 vintage, Mr. Brown said.

"About two years old. Just off the vine," Mr. McElderry said.

Mr. Brown replied that proper curing and processing gave the wine maturity. "We leave it in wooden tanks for two years. The tanks are from 1,000 to 6,000 gallons. The wine is made four miles east of St. Catharines from grapes grown in that district. The brands bought by Taylor sold at 25 cents a 16 ounce bottle, and 50 cents for 40 ounce."

"What do you allow for empty bottles?"

"Two cents each."

"This wine is intoxicating, of course?"

"Oh, yes."

"If Robert Taylor drank three 26-ounce bottles in one day what would you expect his condition to be?"

"If he drank it all himself he would likely be intoxicated."

"What is the effect of one bottle on a normal person?"

"In street language I'd say 'a nice glow'."

"Would he be intoxicated from one bottle?"

"I don't think so."

"What about two bottles?"

"It all depends on the person himself, and the effect it would have on him."

"Do you know anyone who could drink three bottles and not be intoxicated?"

"No one off hand."

Mr. Brown said a complete record was kept of every retail purchase at the store.

Two Gallons a Day

"Is there any limit by law to the amount of wine one person may buy in a day?"

"Yes. Two gallons. We use our own judgment in selling it, that is in regard to the shape a man is in, as to the amount we sell within that limit."

Mr. McElderry—If you take orders by telephone how do you know whether the buyer is intoxicated or not?

"The driver has instructions not to deliver if the person shows signs of intoxication.

"On October 21 Taylor telephoned for two bottles, and you say your delivery man saw Taylor at the house?"

"Yes."

"How do you know he saw Taylor?"

"I asked him about it."

"When?"

"When Detective Meagher was enquiring about it."

Found Two Bottles

Police Constable Archie Menzies said Taylor was dead when he arrived at the house at 11.25 p.m. "There was strong odor of Lysol off the body. We found the empty bottle at the northeast corner of the shed, outside. The Lysol bottle was empty, and the wine bottle was about three parts full."

Mr. McElderry—What would the effect of that quantity of wine be on a man?"

"I'd say it would set him crazy."

Police Constable John Rogers gave corroborative evidence, and Dr. T. W. H. Young declared that Taylor's death was due to Lysol "which he had taken some way or other."

Swift Mortal Effect

Professor Jocelyn Rogers of the chemistry department of the University of Toronto testified that he had analyzed the San Juan wine found by the police.

"I found it was normal wine, although there was a smell of Lysol about the neck of the bottle; but there was nothing of that nature in the contents of the bottle. The smaller bottle had still a few drops of Lysol in it. Lysol is coal tar product, and is very poisonous. It is almost identical with carbolic acid. One-quarter of an ounce would kill a man in certain conditions. Death would result in only a few minutes. From the odor of Lysol on the wine bottle it seemed to me someone had drunk wine from that bottle after Lysol."

Course In Catering To Tourists Is Offered To Ontario Young People

TORONTO, Oct. 28—Catering to tourists is one of the newest vocations opening up to the young people of Ontario. A course in training for this vocation is being arranged by the Women's Institutes Department in connection with the National Employment Commission, stated Miss Ruth Lowe, Secretary of the Women's Advisory Committee at a luncheon meeting of the Neighborhood Workers' Association Council yesterday.

Young people who enrol in this course, which will probably begin next month, will be trained in wayside booth selling and advertising proper cabin accommodation and the care of overnight tourists. Miss Lowe pointed out that such training would be valuable to young people wishing to make a living in country which is poor farming country, but is travelled by tourists.

Dr. Frankish Being Consulted In Death Of Cornwall Boy

Hairs Found On Stone Near Where Boy Found Will Be Examined

CORNWALL, Oct. 28.—Sergeant R. P. Labelle, of the Provincial Police, left for Toronto to-day to consult Dr. E. R. Frankish, medico-legal expert of the Ontario Attorney-General's Department in connection with the investigation into the alleged murder of Alex Lariviere, 16-year-old Bonville boy, who was found dying beside the railway tracks at Lancaster last Wednesday morning.

Dr. Frankish will be asked to determine whether human hairs adhering to a large stone found near the spot where the boy lay, and thought to have been the weapon used to batter in the boy's skull, correspond with hairs taken from Lariviere's body. Tests will also be made of suspected blood stains on the stone. In addition, the clothing worn by Lariviere, as well as freshly washed garments found in the home of Daniel Thauvette, 21, of Lancaster, who is being held on a charge of murdering the boy, will also be submitted to tests.

Dr. Frankish will examine Lariviere's leather cap, sparkling with minute particles of glass and bearing several dark brown stains that are thought to be blood.

It is almost certain Thauvette will be further remanded when he makes a scheduled appearance in Magistrate's Court Friday. A. E. Hall, Cornwall, has been retained to defend him. Coroner C. A. Stewart has not yet announced the date of the inquest, which is being delayed until police complete their investigation.

Provincial Police are concentrating their efforts upon tracing Lariviere's movements from the time he left the home of his employer, N. Rudolphe, at Lancaster, a week ago last evening, as well as upon establishing a motive for the alleged crime.

"It's great to have a steady job"

says TOM LANG

"THREE years ago I was getting only two months' work a year. Kept my missus scratching to get us enough to eat and a few clothes for the kiddies. But now that I'm working steady our troubles are over. And the way I figure it we're helping a lot of you other boys around here, too. Jack Mills works in a shoe factory and we've bought new shoes for the whole family in the last two months. Bill Thomas is a cutter; Henry Jameson works in a textile plant — and we've been able to buy some badly-needed new clothes. We've done a bit of painting — Dick Morris works in a paint factory. We've bought some new furniture for the boys' room and it was made by the people Sid McRae works for.

"No wonder you fellows have steady jobs, too, because there are 33,000 others at work in the same industry as myself and we are all spending money on the things you other men make.

"Or look at it the other way. I work in an automobile plant and nine men on this street have bought new cars this year. That's why I'm making steady money and it has a whole lot to do with why you are, too!"

* * *

Tom Lang is right, but he might have carried his conversation a step further. Canada's busy factories are buying millions of dollars worth of raw materials and machinery each year and that means a steady demand for the products of Canada's farms, forests, factories and mines.

Healthy, growing industries are vital to the welfare of Canada; a personal benefit to every Canadian.

There are 18,000 workers in Canada's automobile plants, and 15,000 employed in the 282 parts manufacturers' plants. An average of four to a family means over 130,000 people whose prosperity depends in whole or in part on the activities of the motor car builders. Add as well, the employees of railways who live by traffic and you have a huge cross-section of Eastern Canada — a group of people who contributed much of the $60,000,000 spent last year for Western farm products. Therefore, all Canada, West as well as East, is vitally interested in a sound and well-supported Canadian Automobile Industry.

For statistical and further information about this industry, write to Automotive Industries, 1095 Lansdowne Building, Toronto.

The Peterborough Examiner

Pages 9-16

VOL. LXXIX, No. 99 — PETERBOROUGH, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1937 — PRICE THREE CENTS

THREE CARS ARE FILLED FOR WEST FOURTH COMPLETED

Three freight cars rumbled out of the C.P.R. yards here to-day on their way to Saskatchewan, laden to capacity with produce donated by every section of the community for the relief of people in drought-stricken areas. The cars carried a combined load of 100 tons of produce, under consignment to Wishart, Moosomin and Orley.

As chairman and treasurer of The Western Relief Committee, Alderman James Dutton extends heartfelt thanks to everyone who contributed in any way to the magnificent result.

"I desire," he said, "to express very sincere appreciation of the splendid support given by all sections of the community. Everybody concerned worked willingly and well to bring about the gratifying result. It is further evidence of the willingness of the people of Peterborough and district to co-operate to the fullest measure in any worthwhile effort such as this, and it is another example of what can be attained by co-operative efforts." The chairman added his committee was of the firm opinion that the recent story in The Examiner by Beverley Sutton of Sceptre, Saskatchewan, which told in a most graphic way of the conditions pertaining in the drought areas of the West, had contributed in no small measure to the success of the appeal.

Fourth Completed

So generous was the public response that not only was the 3-car quota asked for here attained, but loading of a fourth car was completed. This other car came through from Millbrook with the generous donation of the people of that community.

Included in the contents of the three cars from Peterborough, were the following items. The list is by no means exhaustive, but conveys some idea of the manner of the response: 1,300 bags of potatoes; 175 bags of turnips; 50 bags of carrots; 78 bags of mixed vegetables; a miscellaneous quantity of pumpkins, squash, apples, onions, etc. Also 19 cases of corned beef; 19 cases of condensed milk; 39 cases of Quaker oats, macaroni, and muffets; and 75 cases of canned vegetables, fruits and jams.

At three o'clock Wednesday afternoon the large crew of volunteer workers, which included a number of clergymen, had about completed loading of the three cars at the C.P.R. sidings, but notwithstanding the donations from the public and separate schools of the city had not yet been collected, while at frequent intervals motor trucks kept arriving, some of them from unexpected sources, with the offerings of a generous community. Besides the contributions from the city, generous donations came in from Lakefield, Bridgenorth, North Monaghan, Springville, Keene, Westwood, Warsaw and Lakehurst.

To date the treasurer of the fund announces a total of $727.20 has been received in cash donations. Further contributions to the Fund are acknowledged as follows: Mark Street Church, $2; "Old Country Club," Y.W.C.A., $6; Salvation Army, $5; Mr. and Mrs. George Patton, $5; Knox United Church, $10; Dr. Clarke, $5; Peterborough Collegiate Institute and Vocational School, $18.25; Kiwanis Club, $50; contributions left at Examiner office, $17.85; Trinity United Church, $16.50; Colonel W. G. Hall, $5; Mr. Mackness and family, $2.50.

Thieves Ransack Ice Plant Office

Thieves who broke into the Sanitary Ice Company offices on Water street north apparently spent a half hour in vain Wednesday night. Clerks arriving this morning for work found the office turned upside down but a check-up failed to reveal anything missing.

Two locks were smashed by the marauders in gaining entrance. Smashing the lock on the cash till, they apparently opened it to find it empty of cash. They ignored a sheet containing four dollars worth of stamps. A thorough search for valuables was apparently made before they left.

MILES IS GIVEN 18-MONTH TERM

When he appeared on remand this morning with pleas of guilty to charges of breaking and entering and theft of an automobile, Rollie Miles, 26-year-old adopted son of a district farmer, was sentenced to 18 months in Ontario Reformatry on each count. He was given an indeterminate period of 6 months.

On a third charge of stealing an automatic pin game the property of Max Rishor, the accused was sentenced to 3 months determinate and 3 months indeterminate. All sentences were ordered to run concurrently.

T. J. Carley, K.C., urged on behalf of the accused that he was a young married man who had not been alone in any of the transactions relating to the charges. Counsel said that prior to coming to the city and getting into bad company, Miles enjoyed the reputation in his community as a good worker and a good lad.

Another charge of breaking and entering the storehouse of W. J. Young and committing theft in the Township of Smith, was dismissed, the Crown offering no evidence.

"Spearing in the Dark."

Mr. Carley, insisting on a dismissal and objecting to a withdrawal of the charge requested by the Crown, declared, "It looks to me, more or less, as if the Crown has been spearing in the dark."

On another charge against Stanley Lee, 22, Centre Dummer, accused of stealing an automatic pin game the property of Max Rishor, the Crown offered no evidence and the case was dismissed. Arrested on Wednesday morning the young man was held on remand 24 hours.

Leslie Pringle (24) alias Prangle alias Stewart was arraigned on three charges. At his own request he was remanded without election or plea until Thursday next on charges of stealing an automobile the property of Donald Wood; theft of an automatic pin game the property of Max Rishor; and breaking and entering and theft at the storehouse of W. J. Young in Smith Township.

Kiwanians Attend Bridgenorth Supper

Kiwanis members and their wives enjoyed a social evening of a novel nature in Kiwanis circles when they sat down to heavily-laden tables at the Bridgenorth United Church last night. A fowl supper was the leading item on the program, country friends of the club participating.

In charge of the agricultural committee of the club, the meeting was handled by Dr. J. J. Craig in the chair. H. R. Scott, W. G. Ovens, J. W. Pierce and H. Matthews had charge of arrangements.

The following made contributions to the musical program which followed supper: Marjorie Stenton, Mrs. H. R. Scott, Mrs. P. Johnston and Pyllis Rome, quartet; Mrs. Scott and Grant Palmer, accompanied by Arthur Collison in a vocal duet; Irene Sellon, elocutionist; Annabelle Herd, violinist; Harold Barton, instrumentalist; and Cliff Hall, vocal. The Old Village Choir, conducted by Cliff Hall, received a big hand.

DR. MURRAY FRASER RE-ELECTED HEAD OF THE BOY SCOUTS

Although he expressed a desire to see the honor go to someone else, Dr. G. Murray Fraser was unanimously re-elected as president for a fourth successive term at the annual meeting of Peterborough Boy Scouts' Association in the Lyceum Hall last night.

Harold LeGrow and William English were elected as vice-presidents, with the office of secretary going to V. C. Currie, and that of treasurer to Barry Ottewell.

The Executive Committee was named to consist of the President, Vice-President, Secretary, Treasurer, and also District Commissioner John T. Hornsby, Assistant District Commissioners E. J. Wolfe and Lew Grant, W. J. Grady, H. C. Southeran, W. Lyburn, the Rev. J. Begley, A. Mosscrop, Albert Hope, Norman Patterson and three Scouters to be appointed by the Scouters' Club.

Messrs. Southeran, Lyburn and LeGrow were also chosen as delegates to the annual meeting of the Provincial Council, while re-appointment of Mr. Hornsby as district commissioner was recommended by the meeting to Provincial headquarters.

A feature of the meeting which was well-attended by officers of the various Scout Troops and Wolf Cub Packs comprising the local association, were the encouraging reports tendered, indicating that the Scout movement in the city is in a healthy condition.

Reports reviewed a successful year, the chief events having been the part taken by Scouts and Cubs in the Coronation Day parade; the Lakefield Jamboree; the district camp; and the more recent "Apple Day" effort which resulted in a net profit of $185.16.

As at the year ending October 27, the financial statement presented by B. Ottewell, treasurer, revealed a credit balance on the current account of $257.58. Total assets of the association were stated to be $384.77.

On the suggestion of the president, it was again decided by motion to purchase a poppy wreath for placing on the civic war memorial, as the Boy Scouts' Association tribute to the city's war dead on Remembrance Day.

AMBULANCE UNIT HAS INSPECTION

Annual inspection of George Debney (Peterborough) branch of St. John Ambulance Brigade, as well as of the Nursing Division of the same unit took place last night at Boy Scouts quarters of the Sacred Heart Church, chief inspection officer being Col. A. E. Snell, C.M.G., D.S.O., M.B., Ottawa.

Colonel Snell, who is Director of Ambulance and Commandery Commissioner for Canada, was accompanied and assisted in the inspection by Dr. C. J. Copp, M.D., of Toronto, Knight of Grace of the St. John Order (1915), and Provincial Commissioner for Ontario.

Oral and practical examinations in treatment of fractures, application of artificial respiration, stretcher drill, bandaging and other first-aid principles were undergone; on completion of tests, Dr. Copp offered constructive criticism as well as praise of work performed.

Presented With Medal

An interesting interlude was presentation of a Coronation medal together with letter from Buckingham Palace, by Colonel Snell to Pte. A. O. Phillips, who was on ambulance duty on Coronation Day. In his remarks the Commandery Commissioner touched on outstanding events at the Coronation and St. John Association Jubilee, emphasing the extent of brigade work at the former event when over 7,000 were on duty, and at a review in Hyde Park by H.M. Queen Elizabeth when over 6,000 brigade men and nursing sisters took one hour to pass saluting base. He also suggested a membership drive to obtain at least ten new member.

Absent at another meeting, Divisional Surgeon Dr. G. Murray Fraser was unable to attend the inspection.

Other officers of the local brigade are: Divisional Superintendent L. E. Tomkins and Ambulance Officer John Barns. Lady Superintendent Ivy Watkins is in command of the Nursing Division.

Votes of thanks were extended to the Rev. J. J. O'Brien for use of the hall, and to The Examiner for publicity given the Brigade during the past year.

Committee In Charge Of Western Relief

Some members of the Western Relief Committee who were on hand late Wednesday afternoon during loading of the freight cars with produce for the West, include: (LEFT to RIGHT) Jacob Low, the Rev. R. T. F. Brain, the Rev. Canon J. D. Paterson, secretary; the Rev. Canon W. P. Robertson; the Rev. Fred Craik; Alderman James Dutton, chairman and treasurer; Mayor George A. Macdonald, the Rev. A. J. Preston, Keene, the Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr, the Rev. E. R. Zufelt, the Rev. E. W. Rowland, and Adjutant Neil Warrander. Among absentees when the picture was taken was the Rev. P. J. Kelly, an active worker on the committee. —(Examiner Staff Photo)

READY FOR WINTER.

Both the great basins of the Lift Locks are now at "half mast" and the lock is in trim for winter. Water has been drained from the basins.

BREAKS A RECORD.

The fowl supper under the auspices of the Bridgenorth United Church last night probably set a record for the present season in the number of folk who were fed. Over 600 meals were served.

GOVERNOR IS COMING.

Thomas J. Patton of North Bay, Governor of the 169th Rotary District, will pay an official visit to the Peterborough Rotary Club on Monday. The meeting will be an evening one, getting under way at 6.30 o'clock and Herbert C. Treneer will furnish the musical features.

LESS 18 HOURS' SUNSHINE.

Scarcely a day has passed in the last two weeks without a fall of rain or snow in this city, yet precipitation total has been negligible, the official weather recorder reports. Fine drizzles which serve to soak pedestrians do not add up to much in inches of rainfall. Less than eighteen hours' sunshine has been recorded here in the past two weeks.

DAMAGE AT FAIR GROUNDS.

Tom Brown, president, and John Gillespie, groundsman of Peterborough Industrial Exhibition Board, were at the Police Office this morning for the purpose of laying informations against a couple of Southend boys who are alleged to have broken twelve panes of glass in the main building at the Exhibition Grounds. While reluctaont to start proceedings, officers of the Board have been obliged to do so, it was stated. Previous warnings in respect to damage at the Fair Grounds has gone unheeded.

MAY SUSPEND ROAD WORK.

Rumors from the northern section of the county that provincial road work was to be discontinued for the season at the end of this month have reached the city about the same time as the press report that Hon. T. B. McQuesten, Minister of Highways, was planning to suspend the road building program with the onset of winter. No announcement has been made locally and the only road news was to the effect that a deputation was coming down from Apsley to see A. L. Elliott, M.L.A.-elect, about the Burleigh-Bancroft road in the Chandos area.

SIX TEAMS ENTERED.

Six teams have been entered in the J. J. Duffus' special judging competition at the Department of Agriculture offices here to-morrow. The winning team and its coach will receive a free trip to the Royal Winter Fair.

BENCHES ARE GONE.

Employees of the City Parks Department were busy on Wednesday taking apart the benches in the local parks and storing them away for the winter. They are kept during the cold weather underneath the Hunter Street Bridge, where the Parks Department equipment is all stored.

PETERBOROUGH ENTRIES.

Archie Moffatt, local horseshoe enthusiast, has received entry forms for the horseshoe pitching contest which has become a regular and popular feature of the Royal Winter Fair. Mr. Moffatt says that there will be a number of entries from the city and district.

BE HEARD ON MONDAY.

Although a further sitting of the Court of Revision had been considered for Wednesday night in order that Ald. G. N. Gordon's appeals for raising the assessments of the De Laval and Raybestos Companies might be heard, the Court stood adjourned until next Monday evening at 7.30 o'clock. Mr. Gordon will at that time be permitted to urge his appeal of he wishes to do so.

ANNOUNCE DINNER.

The anniversary of Armistice is to be observed by an officers' dinner at the Armouries on the evening of November 11, with the Honorable Ian Mackenzie, Minister of National Defence, as guest speaker. Formal invitations are not being issued it is learned, but the committee in charge of arrangements, wish it known the function is open to any officer, or ex-officer of any branch of His Majesty's services.

CROW SEEN IN CITY.

Among the shyest of common birds native to this district, crows are rarely seen by city dwellers. If they approach a city at all they usually fly over it at a safe altitude; so it was at matter of surprise the other day when one settled on the Royal Bank building. Possibly resting on its long migration flight, the big bird strutted calmly the length of the building's roof ledge before again taking off.

Royal Arch Masons Are Given Portrait Of First Principal, Walter J. Francis

Members of Corinthian Chapter No. 36 Royal Arch Masons last night received a framed picture of the late Walter J. Francis who held office as first principal of the chapter thirty-two years ago.

The presentation was made by his son, Edward W. Francis, of Montreal, at a largely attended function held at the Masonic Hall at which First Principal Frederic G. Mann was chairman.

In honor of the official visit of the Grand First Principal of the Grand Chapter of Canada, William Y. Mills, of Kingston, invitations had been sent out by Corinthian Chapter to all other chapters in Central Ontario district.

The visiting Grand First Principal presented 25-year jewels to four Past Principals of Corinthian Chapter. The recipients of these honors were: W. J. Henry, Dr. H. R. H. Kenner, Alderman Robert S Cotton and T. H. Gillespie, St. Catharines.

Begging On Streets Becoming Nuisance Mayor Reports To Police Commission

At a meeting of the Police Commission held under chairmanship of Judge Sheldon L. Smoke on Wednesday afternoon, Mayor George A. Macdonald reported he had received complaints of begging on the streets which he said was particularly bad at Aylmer and Charlotte Streets.

Declaring he had taken steps to check begging on the streets, Chief Constable Samuel Newhall maintained that in some instances vagrants had been too leniently dealt with on their appearance in court. He believed also the public themselves were largely to blame for the condition by giving alms to those who solicited them on the streets. In many cases he alleged such contributions were spent on intoxicants.

Among matters of routine business dealt with was the checking of accounts. It was stated that to the end of September 30, $22,218 had been expended out of the department's $30,000 appropriation, leaving around $8,000 on which the Chief said he could complete the year.

Permission was granted by the Commission for the holding of a tag day for St. Vincent's Orphanage, either on December 6 or 13, on the application of Mrs. Gertrude Corkery.

LINDSAY MAN'S SON DETAINED BY JAPS

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, Oct. 28. — Mr. E. H. Hopkins, of town, has received a letter from his son Herbert, who with his wife have been detained by the Japanese authorities at Kobe, Japan, stating that they are both safe and well and are being protected by the Japanese police. Mr. Hopkins has been a British representative at Shanghai as well as a member of the Council of the International Settlement in that city. At the outbreak of the trouble with Japan they decided to set sail for Canada, but were ordered by the Japanese authorities to proceed to Kobe.

Provincial Constable Adair, of Provincial Headquarters, Toronto, has been transferred to Lindsay to succeed Provincial Constable Clubbe, who goes to London.

Roy Little, an employee at the International cooperage plant at Eagle Lake, Haliburton County, was seriously injured on Tuesday. He was driving a team of horses and fell from the wagon, the wheels passing over him, breaking one of his arms. He also sustained head lacerations. The injured man was removed to the Ross Hospital, Lindsay.

A rathes serious accident occurred at Beaverton on the weekend, when a car driven by C. Williams, and having as passengers S. Moore and C. Butcher, of Orillia, crashed into the residence of Dr. Dowsley, of Beaverton. The car was completely wrecked, and the occupants sustained serious cuts and body injuries.

Horn Bros.' Woollen Mills has secured a contract from the Post Office Department, Ottawa, for 17,400 yards of cloth for the manufacture of greatcoats and uniforms for the officers and employees of the Department.

Roy Lytle, of Haliburton, narrowly escaped death on Tuesday when a team of horses which he was driving took fright and bolted. The young man fell between the animals and was held there by a tug bolt, which caught his trouser leg. He was dragged some distance, and was badly cut and torn about the body.

Match Is Blamed For Fire In Home

Believed to have started from a match dropped by 10-year-old Harold Holland, fire threatened the home of Dog Catcher Charles Holland, 85 Hunter street, early Wednesday evening. The blaze was confined by firemen to the vacant upstairs room in which it began and was extinguished before serious damage had been done.

Mrs. Holland reported the child went upstairs to get some magazines in the room and apparently lit a match to see. Shortly after the boy came downstairs, she heard a crackling and spread the alarm.

A full brigade turnout of the Fire Department responded.

FIREMEN AWAIT TOYS TO REPAIR FOR THE NEEDY

All is ready in the toy repair shop of the Fire Department for the wheels of industry to begin turning. New toys for old will be the product and many hearts of the city's needy children will be gladdened when Christmas morning arrives again.

Again the co-operation of the entire community is required by the firemen in their big annual toy repair effort. They must have donations of all toys available. A toy may be second or third hand and may be sadly out of repair but, no matter, it will be welcomed by the firemen. In past years they have demonstrated a magical ability to restore even the most hopeless toy to new.

If 2,000 toys are to be ready by Christmas eve, citizens must start the flow of old toys moving into the repair shop now. Toys left at the Fire Department will be gratefully received or a telephone call will bring a collection truck.

VICTIM OF STRANGE MALADY

TORONTO, Oct. 28—(CP).—Sally Anne, baby daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Alex Stewart, died today, a victim of amyatonia congenita, a disease of gradual and progressive loss of power in the muscles.

Last August medical men gave up hope for her recovery. Dr. Stewart turned to a Palmero, Ont., masseur.

The Stewarts' first child died of the same disease when five months old. Sally Anne was seven months old.

WOMAN SUFFERS BACK INJURIES CARS COLLIDED

Alice Collins, Romaine Street, is in St. Joseph's Hospital with back injuries and a possible fracture of the skull, as the result of a two-car collision at Charlotte Street and Monaghan Road around 8.15 p.m. Wednesday.

Others injured included: Alton Beavis, 44 Frank Street, who sustained scalp lacerations and bruises, and Mrs. E. McKinstry, 41 Orpington Road, who suffered a fractured wrist.

According to police report, Mrs. C. H. Hoteson, Crawford's Grove, allegedly failed to halt at the stop sign while driving south over the intersection on Monaghan Road. Her car, it was stated, collided with another automobile proceeding west on Charlotte Street, and reportedly driven by B. LaPlant, 516 Romaine Street.

Passengers in the LaPlant car were Miss Collins, and Mr. Beavis and L. Nattress, Stewart Street, and George Freelove, Millbrook. Mrs. McKinstry was a passenger in the Hoteson car.

B. Sargent, 28 Orpington Road, reported that while driving his car south on Park Street at 1.20 a.m. today, he was struck on the right rear fender and bumper of his car by another vehicle that was proceeding east on Romaine Street. Mr. Sargent said the fender and bumper were damaged, and that he was unable to make out the number on the license plate of the other car which did not stop, following the accident.

Pleads Not Guilty To Drunk Driving

Alleged to be the driver of a truck that struck and injured William Brown of Young's Point, while he was repairing a tire at the roadside at Lakefield on the night of October 20, Brock Wright, 50, Howden avenue, North Monaghan, appeared on remand before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., this morning.

The accused, who had his right arm in a sling and his hand and wrist heavily bandaged, was further remanded without plea on a criminal negligence charge.

On a charge of driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated, Wright pleaded not guilty. He was also remanded on this charge. In both cases bail was set in the sum of $2,000. T. J. Carley, K.C., is representing the accused.

Wooing With Wine, Won Girl Got Drunk And Was Arrested

Thirteen-Year-Old Threatened To Leave Home If Boy Friend Kept Away

HAVELOCK, Oct. 28.—This is the tale of a backwoods Lothario who did his courting with a bottle of wine. It got him 30 days in jail, and a child-bride for a few weeks.

It is a sordid story—shocking to most people. It's the story of a 14-year-old girl marrying a 29-year-old laborer. It has many ramifications, and it probably never would have been told if the bride, now separated from her husband, hadn't been arrested with another girl, a 17-year-old "widow," she told a Peterborough magistrate.

The youngsters, for they are no more than that, appeared in Peterborough Police Court on Monday, charged with vagrancy. They were arrested with a man named Rollie Miles, who was remanded on a car theft count. That was not too unusual, but when the 14-year-old told the magistrate she was married, and the 17-year-old followed up with the statement that she, too, had been married when she was 13, but was now a widow, the court remanded them for a week until their stories could be investigated.

The younger girl's story is true. She was married, last July 5, to an itinerant lumberman, farm laborer, wood cutter or what have you? The older girl has never been married, much less become a widow. Her parents are authority for that statement. They say their girl, youngest of a family of six, was in school four years ago, and up until this year had never been away from home even overnight.

Tells of "Courtship."

Tuesday, as he worked sawing wood in a Havelock yard, the husband of the 14-year-old bride related his side of the "courtship" which ended in marriage at a Campbellford parsonage last July. He didn't quite remember how he had met the girl, but it was a year or so ago, in Campbellford. Then last Christmas Eve he had taken a bottle of wine to her home, and because she insisted, he had given her a drink.

"Well, her old man came home, and then he called the police, and they gave me thirty days in jail. After I got out, I didn't want anything more to do with them, because I figured her father was pretty sore at me. She wrote me a letter asking me to come and see her, but I didn't go near her. Then I got a letter from her father, telling me it was all right to come, so I went to see her again. She told him if he didn't let her see me, she'd run away.

"I guess he changed his mind about me, all right, because he finally told me he guessed we'd better get married — maybe that would keep her settled down. So we got the license, and then we were married. We had her parents' written consent, and everything was all right."

Short-lived Romance.

That's as far as the 29-year-old husband would go. He didn't explain how the romance had been short-lived. He didn't want to talk about their honeymoon trip, which was from Campbellford to a spot a little north of Havelock, a distance of about 12 miles, where they set up housekeeping in a tent on a swampy bit of land east of the C.P.R. yards. And he wouldn't say anything about leaving his tiny bride to look out for herself in the tent while he set out for a lumber camp.

"If she wants to come back to me, I'll take her," was his offer. Then as he was reminded that perhaps the girl would not want to live in a tent any more now than she had before—"but I'd get a few rooms here for the winter."

Father and mother of the girl-bride seem to bear no rancor toward the twice-as-old husband. They live in a small, tin-covered building on the Grand Road, just outside Campbellford. Yesterday, to add to their worries, Provincial Police came and took away their 13-year-old son. They said they hadn't been informed just what he had done, but said the policeman told them he'd let them know what was going to happen to the boy "in two or three days."

"It's enough to make a mother commit suicide," the woman cried. "They'll be coming and taking away my husband next."

"Shucks, maw, don't take on like that. I ain't done nothing, and I ain't responsible for what my kids do. If they get in trouble, they'll just have to get out of it themselves, that's all I can say. Some youngsters is raised for good, and some for bad, and there's nothing their parents can do about it," the 65-year-old father, a laborer all his life, philosophized.

Father of "Widow" Talks.

"Maybe it'll teach her a d——n good lesson," was the considered opinion of the father of the 17-year-old girl. "She's strong-willed. There wasn't much we could do with her. I don't think she's done anything really bad, but she got in with bad company, and she'll just have to make the best of it."

This father, apparently a fairly prosperous farmer, explained that since his girl, youngest of six children, had left school, he had found it next to impossible to do anything with her. She had gone away to Peterborough before, but always came home when the going got tough.

"I told her, this last time, that if she got in trouble, she could stay in it, or get out herself. I wasn't going after her again. But I guess I'll be there in court next week when she comes up."

"Responsibility for the marrying of girls in their teens must rest with the Government, which issues the licenses," said Rev. H. B. Neal, of Campbellford, who performed the marriage ceremony. "It was an unfortunate affair, but if I had not married them, someone else would. In many cases, not particularly this one, I have seen it happen that on being refused the privilege of marriage the couple live together as man and wife anyway."

DUKE'S U. S. GUIDE JOLLY FRENCHMAN ONCE A "SAND-HOG"

By Scott Hershey
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 28 (AP)—When the Duke and Duchess of Windsor arrive here next month to start their tour of the United States their guide and counsel will be an urbane, amiable gentleman who climbed from under the ground to the top of the world on the ladder of a bright idea.

He is Charles E. Bedaux, a personable Frenchman influential in shaping the Duke's "social appeasement" program. Details of the Windsors' journey are in his hands yet he knew them not at all when Wallis Warfield moved into his chateau in France to await the coming of the former King.

Bedaux, a multi-millionaire, started his American career as a sand-hog on a New York subway construction project.

When he was mucking underground he saw what he conceived to be a waste of energy among the workers. His bright idea was the result, a method whereby human energy and machine energy might be meshed with maximum results and minimum wear and tear.

The Bedaux Unit

If the Duke of Windsor visits certain plants during his inspection of American working conditions and workers he may see Bedaux' formula in practice. It is the "Bedaux unit" or "Bedaux hour," a yard-stick of productive human energy in various technical process.

Workers are timed on each operation to provide a standard of production, or so many "B units" an hour. If a worker meets the standard he gets a moderate bonus above his basic wage. If a worker exceeds the "B unit" standard, he receives 75 per cent of the added money thus earned for his employer. The object of the plan is increased production without added capital cost.

Bedaux had this idea when he climbed out of the subway with a little carefully saved money. He got work with a chemical firm. His employers permitted him to reorganize the plant.

He went from the chemical plant to another manufacturing firm, whose position was shaky. He saved the business, the owners said, and Bedaux moved to other fields. He wrote a novel, too, fictionizing his idea. Industrial moguls bought it at $25 a copy. Commercial solvents helped build his fortune.

He married Fern Lombard, of Grand Rapids, Mich., and Cleveland, and devoted considerable time to de luxe exploring in northern British Columbia, in Africa and other out of the way places.

DOUBLE LIBEL SUIT

PROVIDENCE, R.I., Oct. 26—(A. P.). — A $500,000 libel suit to-day was brought against Governor Robert E. Quinn of Rhode Island by Walter E. O'Hara, race track head, only a few hours after he had been served in a $500,000 libel suit by Quinn.

Sheriff Thomas Barry said to-day counsel for director of the Narragansett track and publisher of the Providence Star-Tribune had given him a writ of arrest in the $500,000 suit.

"SUFFERED SIX YEARS WITH CONSTIPATION"

"For six years I suffered with constipation, and I decided to try ALL-BRAN. I have been eating it once a day for about four years, and it has certainly done the work." —Mrs. Herman Futrell (address on request).

Tests prove that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is safe and effective for correcting common constipation.

Within the body, ALL-BRAN absorbs twice its weight in water, and gently exercises and cleanses the intestines. It also furnishes vitamin B to tone the intestines, and iron for the blood.

Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily, either as a cereal with milk or cream, or in cooked dishes. Three times daily in severe cases. You'll find this food far better than habit-forming pills and drugs. ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in London.

Belgians Honor Late Queen

Loyal Belgian subjects pay homage to the memory of Queen Astrid, killed in an automobile accident in Switzerland, by placing wreaths at the base of her monument.

HOOVER DEMANDS NEW PLATFORM

BOSTON, Oct. 28—(AP). — The Republican party had a fresh demand today from Herbert Hoover for a national convention to draft a new platform of "positive and affirmative principles."

"There is a mighty service to be performed," the former president of the United States told the Republican club of Massachusetts last night.

"This party must make the humanitarian objectives of the nation possible which are otherwise wrecked by wrongful and ineffective methods. It must reform destructive economic policies which undermine the standards of living of the economic middle class, and thus of all the peoples."

"The interest of the nation requires that the Republican party shall provide the country with positive and affirmative principles that will meet these yearnings of the people today for a few out and forward," he said. "It is a gigantic task. But why should we not make a beginning?"

Early in his speech Hoover brought a stir from the audience when he said "I do not want any public office," followed by applause when he added "I shall keep on fighting for those things vital to the American people."

CAMPBELLFORD

Mrs. F. H. Nettleton of Los Angeles, Cal., was a visitor of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Slotts, Seymour, on Tuesday.

Members of the Seymour Holstein Club are holding a banquet in the parlors of St. John's United Church on Wednesday, November 3.

Mrs. Marjorie Shaw, who has been visiting with relatives in Toronto for the past two weeks, returned to town on Sunday.

Mr. Kenneth Pryke, Queen Street, underwent an operation in the Campbellford hospital on Tuesday afternoon and is reported to be progressing favorably.

Mr. Harry Tinney and Mr. H. T. Scott attended a meeting of the Masonic Order in Madoc on Monday evening.

Miss Lois Meyers, nurse-in-training at the Hotel Dieu, Kingston, is spending a few days in town with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Meyers, Frank Street.

PAGE SHERLOCK HOLMES

Hundreds of police in New York State are looking for a forger who turned the tables on his captors as they were taking him to gaol. The man, named Derrick, was on his way to prison, when he suddenly produced a revolver and disarmed his captors. Using them as protective hostages, he forced them to drive him through a succession of police traps. At a barn he tied up the police, and then vanished into the blue in their car.

WORK DELAYED BY HEAVY RAINS

(Examiner Correspondence.)

PONTYPOOL, Oct. 27—Too much rain this last week has delayed fall work in this district. Farmers who did not get their potatoes dug sooner, have been working between showers but there are still some to be dug, as well as a number of pits in the fields. Many people put their potatoes in pits as they were rather tender to be put in cellars. The late potatoes are reported to be a good crop.

A big acreage of fall grain was sown in this district and is growing rapidly. Fall pasture is also good, but the snowfall Saturday afternoon covered up the grass for a while, but was cleared up again Sunday night. This is hard on ranch cattle which will soon have to be brought into the stable.

Turnips which have been growing up to the present, will have to be taken in soon and there is still a large acreage to be ploughed.

BONARLAW

Messrs. Wm. Prest and Roy Neal who have positions at Verona, were home for the weekend.

Canon Swayne, Mr. M. Fitzgerald, Mrs. W. G. Swayne and Mrs. M. Fitzgerald returned from Detroit, Mich., on Friday evening last, after spending several days in that city.

Missionary Sunday was observed in St. Mark's Church on Sunday last, the special preacher being Rev. F. C. Beazer of Roslin, who delivered a stirring missionary sermon. Mr. Beazer sang as a solo, "The Stranger of Galilee," accompanied by Mrs. W. G. Swayne at the organ. Canon Swayne preached at Carrying Place and Ameliasburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Morley Stocker and sons, Douglas and Bud, are spending a few days in Toronto, Ont.

BIRTHDAY DANCE ENJOYABLE EVENT

(Examiner Correspondence.)

APSLEY, Oct. 26. — On Thursday Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tanner held a birthday dance at their home near Loon Lake in honor of their second daughter Jean. Many young people enjoyed the dancing. After midnight a dainty lunch was served. The music was supplied by Mrs. Bob Scott and Master Jimmie Scott, also Harry Reid and Leslie McColl. Miss Jean Tanner received some lovely birthday gifts.

On Friday, October 22, a meeting of the Apsley Branch of the W.I. was held in the Orange Hall. Miss F. Atkinson was the speaker. On account of the very wet evening the attendance was small. She spoke on Infantile Paralysis and a short talk on Institute Branch Problems, which was greatly enjoyed by all present. Miss Atkinson was accompanied by Miss Margaret Sanderson, secretary of the Lakefield W.I. After the meeting Mrs. Wellington Lean, secretary, acted as hostess for lunch at her home.

On Wednesday a bee was held by the members of the Women's Institute to clean up the Orange Hall. The local Orangemen have been kind enough to offer them the use of the hall for the winter months.

Mr. and Mrs. George Moore and Mrs. George Russell, Miss B. Russell and Miss L. Henthorne, were visitors at Mrs. N. Stevens on Thursday.

The local teachers attended the teachers' convention last week in Peterborough.

On Thursday last two trucks belonging to the Johnson Construction Company operating on the Burleigh Highway collided. Both trucks were damaged, and both drivers were slightly injured.

On Friday Rev. Stanley Brenton of Toronto and Miss Carol Thompson and Master Jack Thompson of Mount Julian were supper guests of Mrs. Wellington Lean.

Miss Lillian Smith of Peterborough was the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith this weekend.

Mr. McMullen of Dunsford is the guest of his son, Rev. R. McMullen, for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Freeburn of South Dummer and Miss Margaret McDonald, also of Dummer, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. N. Stephens on Sunday.

Foster Lytle and son Ross of Buckhorn were in the village recently on business.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Watson have moved into the village for the winter months, having closed their farm at Clanricarde.

A number of visitors were in the village on Saturday and Sunday to visit the patients at the Red Cross Hospital. Some of them were: Mr. and Mrs. McIlmoyle of Young's Point, Mr. and Mrs. Russell, Warsaw, and Mr. and Mrs. Creighton of Owenbrook.

Private construction in the Netherlands is 36 per cent. greater than in 1936.

EX-SLAVE PASSES

PREECEVILLE, Sask., Oct. 28 (C P)—Walter G. Prather, 94-year-old negro, twice sold as a slave, and who drove a mule team with the Union forces in the American Civil War, died recently in this town 150 miles east of Saskatoon.

After the Civil War he taught school, was admitted into the Free Methodist Church ministry in South Dakota and homesteaded here in 1910.

CAMPBELL TO RUN IN SAULT RIDING

TORONTO, Oct. 26.—Hon. Colin A. Campbell, Minister of Public Works, will enter the Legislature as representative of Sault Ste. Marie, where the recently-elected Liberal member, R. M. McMorkin, has resigned to allow Mr. Campbell to run. The writ for the by-election was issued at Queen's Park yesterday. Nomination day will be November 23 and voting day, November 30.

It is expected the Minister of Public Works will receive an acclamation, but no definite announcement on this point has been made by the Conservative Association or the riding executive.

Old Men Of Manhattan Machine Get 'Gate' In Patrick's Bid For Big Time Hockey Honors

Philadelphia Recruits Replace Cracked Parts Of One-Time Championship Crew

NEW YORK, Oct. 28 (CP)—The second phase of New York Rangers youth movement will be unveiled when the National Hockey League opens its 20th season next month and, in the opinion of Boss Lester Patrick, a bumper crop of grey hairs among contemporary coaches may be expected.

Patrick started bringing youngsters up from his Philadelphia farm club of the International-American League last season to replace parts of a machine that was starting to crack with age. Bill and Bun Cook, Ching Johnson and the other originals who helped capture two Stanley Cups and missed the play-offs but once in 11 tries, had come to be known as the old men of Manhattan. Now they have given way to youth.

Five rookies were on the Ranger team that reached the championship finals last spring, to be halted there by Detroit's high-flying Red Wings. They were Defencemen Babe Pratt and Joe Cooper, Forwards Neil and Mac Colville and Alex Shibicky.

Now Patrick is bringing another forward unit of 'Colts' up from his farm. Centre Clint Smith of Saskatoon will be flanked by Bobby Kirk and Bryan Hextall, Winnipeg speedsters, on the new attack-line.

Other than replacing his former third line with the youngsters, the Ranger mentor has made only two changes of importance. Murray Murdoch, a Buffalo "original" who earned the title of "Iron Man" by playing in almost 600 consecutive games with the Rangers, has been sent to Philadelphia to captain the Ramblers. Frankie Boucher, the foxy centre who is no longer young, has been named assistant-coach and will not see much duty on the ice.

These moves meant shuffling the second line. It will be pivoted by Phil Watson, with Lynn Patrick and Cecil Dillon on the wings.

The Colvilles and Shibicky will hold down first-line duty. Now that the "kids" have a year's experience, Patrick expects them to go places.

Lester does not believe he has any defence worries. Davie Kerr, tighter than a solitary confinement cell when in form, will be back between the goal-pipes. The veteran bumpers, Art Coulter and Ott Heller, will form the first defence-line, with Cooper and Pratt relieving.

Butch Keeling, who was second highest scorer in the league last season, will be retained as "trouble-shooter" extraordinary. Boucher also will be available for utility duty.

FIRST SERVICE SINCE 1538

For the first time since 1538, when St. Augustine's Monastery in Canterbury, England, was dissolved, a religious ceremony was held recently in the chapel of St. Mary and the Angels in the crypt of the ruined monastery.

Referees Selected For Michigan Loop

DETROIT, Oct. 28—(CP)—With Bert Foote of Windsor named referee-in-chief, nine referees were chosen to participate in Michigan-Ontario Amateur Hockey League games this season at a meeting of the league governors here last night. Foote was also appointed a non-voting member of the board of governors.

Increased rates for officiating will be paid referees according to the distance they travel, the board also decided.

Referees named besides Foote are: Reid Robson, Windsor, a player in the M.-O. league last season; Rabbit McVeight, Detroit, formerly with New York Americans of the National Hockey League, and Mickey Maguire, Gord Hunt, Elwood Lee, Jim Sullivan, Drennan Arthurs and Jack Tompkins, all of Detroit.

OTTAWA PLAYER IS EXONERATED

OTTAWA, Oct. 28 (CP) — Joe Breen and Peun Bennett, two officials in the Argonaut-Rough Rider game in Toronto last Saturday, have exonerated Bunny Wadsworth of the charge of deliberately injuring Harry Sonshine, Argo secondary player, it was announced here today by Dr. Andy Davies, president of the Big Four.

The league president said his present inclination was to turn down Argonaut's demand for Wadsworth's suspension and for a full investigation into the Sonshine injury but he would wait until a further report was received from Bill Faulds, Toronto, referee-in-chief of the Big Four.

Sonshine, a former Queen's University player, had his jaw broken in two places when bodychecked by Wadsworth, 260-pound Ottawa middle, after a Rough Rider forward had intercepted.

Argonauts, through president Tommy Alison, charged Wadsworth with deliberate roughness, with using his elbow to crash Sonshine to the ground.

TRAINING GOSSIP FROM N.H.L. CAMPS

TORONTO, Oct. 29 (CP).—Let it snow, let it rain — those Toronto Maple Leafs intend to get through today with their annual golf tournament. Last Sunday they had to call it off because snow covered the course, but Leafs broke camp last night and start tonight on a five-game exhibition tour, so this is their last chance to get the tournament in.

Word's out to watch Eddie Shore this season. The Boston Bruin bumper didn't go so well last year because of a back injury, but he reported at training camp in perfect shape this year after six months' conditioning on his farm outside Edmonton. Coach Art Ross expects his big defenceman to have one of his best—and he's had some good ones—seasons.

Another veteran whose game suffered from illness last year is reported going well in training. Doc Romnes, a league standout in 1935-36, has caught the attendion of railbirds at Chicago Black Hawk drills. The Doc was missing from 32 games last season.

Looks like Bob Gracie might be a paying customer at the N.H.L. hockey games he attends this year. He's still staunch in his holdout demands, and Montreal Maroons are playing Jerry Shannon at centre between Gus Marker and Herb Cain, the spot Gracie occupied last year.

Manager Red Dutton has reason for that big smile today, for it looks as if he made a "buy" in getting Goalie Earl Robertson from Detroit Red Wings. Robertson was the main cog in a 6-2 exhibition victory for New York Americans last night in a game against their intra-city rivals, Rangers.

From the brief bag: Pete Langelle, flashy centreman for Winnipeg's Memorial Cup winning Monarchs last year, signed a contract with Toronto Leafs and will do his puck-chasing for their Syracuse farm team ...All Boston Bruins could do against the amateur Hershey six was a 3-3 draw in overtime...Murph Chamberlain, who played with Sudbury Tigers, Canadian senior champs last year, is going great guns with Leafs, and might be asked to sign a pro. contract.

That open spot on the Montreal Maroons' rearguard may go to an amateur. Reports say the defence berth has boiled down to a fight between Des Smith, who did his puck-chasing in England last year; Maurice Croghan, who played with Quebec Aces, and Roger Jenkins, a Maroon last season.

MINE HEAD PASSES

ESTEVAN, Sask., Oct. 28.—(CP).—E. W. Garner, 50, manager of the Truax-Treaer coal mines here, died here yesterday.

Mr. Garner was born near Walkerton, Ont., and educated there. With his brother, Hugh, he arrived in Regina in 1900. In 1928 he became interested in the coal industry and organized the company he managed. Mr. Garner was elected to the Saskatchewan Legislative Assembly in 1929, resigning to pursue his coal mining activities.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle on Two

By CEC. PERDUE

LOTS OF activity these nights at the Y.M.C.A. with over 100 daily taking in the gym and pool facilities. Jim McClenaghan is physical instructor and has a bunch of big classes. The wrestling club meets every Monday, Wednesday and Friday eve at eight under direction of H. B. Cowan, Sr., and Cec. Holmes. The latter was coach of the Ottawa amateur matmen, and city champ himself, who came here last Spring to rassle at the "Y"—and he since obtained work in Peterborough. A gymnastic class, including the bars, rings and tumbling, is held every Friday e'en at 7.30 o'clock. Handball gets a big play all the time, the business men play volleyball daily, basketball is much in evidence, to say nothing of all the bowling, table tennis, swimming et al, in this building. Yeah, 'tis a lively spot during the fall and winter months for the athletically inclined. A first-rate organization for men and boys.

* * * * * *

BOB ARMSTRONG, rugby referee wrote a letter to the Toronto Star last night, discussing what is wrong with the senior O.R.F.U. He says, in part, after suggesting two more clubs in that group: "Here is my suggestion. Dundas in the west and Peterborough in the east, along with Sarnia and Balmy Beach; instead of Hamilton seconds, whom the Dundas intermediates defeated decisively in an exhibition game this year. . . . .Now let us look at the eastern end of the province. I have been working in most of these games this season and I think that Peterborough is the logical spot with all the other five towns such as Lindsay, Cobourg, Belleville, R.C.A.F. and Kingston to draw from and to assist them.

* * * * * *

PETERBOROUGH HAS always been able to field a good senior baseball team and when they were in the senior O.H.A. always iced a good club. So it is only reasonable to believe that with the capable men they have in the Liftlock City they could place a real contender in the senior O.R.F.U. Peterborough's entry in the intermediate O.R.F.U. this season have been travelling at a fast clip and to date have a clean slate, although they have had two real tough battles to pull out wins over Cobourg. At Peterborough's first home game this year they had over four thousand—" (come, come, Bob!) —"fans on hand and there is plenty of room for bleachers on the east side of the field. The Fliers at Trenton are leading their group and they tell me they have a number of stars that could make a place on any senior team today. So, Fred, how about feeling the situation out?" And so etc. It's an idea, eh?

* * * * * *

OUR ORFUNS expect a gruelling game here Saturday with the Blue Bombers of Lindsay. The locals won over 'em on the Scugog gridiron on Turkey Day but the Bombers were short-handed. At that they made it a stiff fight with the educated toe of Don Crowe more or less deciding the issue. Since then, Lindsay gave Cobourg a bitter battle, finishing much stronger than the big Galloping Ghosts. And the Bombers have been saving all their ammunition for their deadly enemies, the Orfuns, in this tilt at Riverside. Yeah, we look for a slambang scrap and the victorious players are liable to feel just a trifle slap-happy (or punch-drunk) as they stagger off the field. It ought to pack in the customers. But we expect Orfuns to collar the nod.

* * * * * *

SAYS THE Lindsay Warder writer: "The old Peterborough jinx looms up once again, year after year incessantly, and once again Lindsay is the victim.-Be it rugby, hockey or baseball, these teams from the Liftlock City have always been the stumbling blocks for the locals. Only once in the history of the C.O.S.S.A., in 1934, have Lindsay ever made a clean sweep over the Petes. . . . .The Blue Bombers will be there in full force and if they continue the terrific power attack with which they finished the Cobourg game, it will take more than the Petes to stop them." We sure hope Orfuns' win streak isn't snapped at this time.

* * * * * *

COACHES BAMFORTH and Jackson take their P.C.I. squads to Oshawa day after tomorrow for C.O.S.S.A. games and both hope to pull out a win. The senior Garnet and Grays ought to cop their tilt, and the scrappy juniors may do likewise. Schedules end within two weeks. Quinte writer likes Albert Collitch in senior C.O.S.S.A. playdowns but states they've been having it too easy so far and will have to practise hard to meet future opposition. Says he: "The Marmora High School, winners of the Trent Valley loop, have elected to compete in the provincial interscholastic playdowns this year, the winner probably meeting the sturdy Peterborough C.I. squad. What the Albert College squad needs is practise." Yeah, the team that draws P.C.I. will have a most trying afternoon, we imagine.

* * * * * *

RED JUBENVILLE, classy Oshawa GM-men second sacker, up and hopped into matrimony recently. Must be something to this double-harness business the way the diamondeers down Oshawa way have been going for it. That makes four of the 1937 C.O.B.L. champs who have promised to "love, honor and O baby!" the past few months. Besides the redhead, Jake Biddle, Buzz Bennett and Lefty Wallace, made the plunge. If we remember rightly, the only Petes with a mitt on were Joe Jakaiby, Fred Ash and Len Hollingsworth. The worried look on any of the others was probably caused by low batting averages.

* * * * * *

THINGS LOOK decidedly dark for a decent O.H.A. intermediate "A" grouping up this way the coming puck season. Surely to shucks the Petes and Trenton Fliers aren't going to be the only squads in it again—though last year the Belleville Redmen, as a "B" team, sort of filled in. We hope real efforts are being made to get a bigger and better grouping, if at all possible. The Petes expect a pretty fair "A" squad this year and they always draw good home crowds. The Fliers will have another smart outfit. They lose Lowrey, Laing and Higgerty—the former being the biggest loss—but have the rest of those good puckists available, plus a couple more. The local Colts should have less trouble getting into a respectable junior "B" circuit. We hope.

* * * * * *

HITHER AND yawn: Auburn lacrossers won't play that exhibition game in Huntsville, having disbanded for the season . . . . Wonder if the local Colts will be entered in the S.P.A. series in Toronto this winter . . . . Senior ball meeting here will be held in a couple or three weeks . . . . Lefty Judd, pro pitcher, has been given permission to pitch in a benefit ball game in Ingersoll on Saturday . . . . Orme Gamsby, 74-year-old Orono sportsman, and a buddy brought down 47 ducks a few days ago while shooting at Rice Lake . . . . Bud Kuntz, Westside' gridder who was seriously hurt in Lindsay last fall, is assistant coach of an intermediate rugby team in Toronto this year . . . . Player transfers will be considered at the O.H.A. executive meeting in the Royal York Hotel tomorrow e'en . . . . Dunno if Cobourg and Eastsides will bother with their remaining O.R.F.U. tilt this weekend . . . . JOKE: "I see pork is coming down," said the grid fan as the pigskin descended after the kickoff!—take him away, ossifer, put him in the end cell.

Too Bad Old Oscar Vitt Can't Take Bears To Cleveland

It is too bad that Old Oscar Pepper Vit can't take the Newark Bears to Cleveland with him, but you may rest assured that the Indians' new chief will do quite all right with the material at hand. Selecting Vitt as Steve O'Neill's successor perhaps is the smartest move Alva Bradley has made in the ten years that he has been president of the Cleveland club.

Vitt give the Tribe an outstanding personality for the first time since Tris Speaker stepped down. Like Joe McCarthy, Vitt comes out of the Double A's, but with a brilliant playing background in the American League. Vitt's clubs won two pennants, finished second twice, and third three times in his eleven years of managing in the Pacific Coast League, and in his two campaigns with Newark, the Bears wound up third and bagged the International rag by 25½ games. After dropping three consecutive contests to Columbus in the little world series, the Bears took four straight and the title.

After we had lost the first three games, everybody on the club was down, but Vitt was still certain we could win," explains Outfielder Joe Gleeson. "He literally drove us to the championship."

Bill McKechnie, Rogers Hornsby, Tony Lazzeri, Donie Bush, Rabbit Maranville, Larry Gilbert, Frank O'Doul, and Allan Sothoron were suggested by those attempting to guess the identity of the new Cleveland guide. It is singular that none offered the name of Vitt, who was the most logical kind of a candidate.

Had any untoward condition arisen in connection with Joe McCarthy, it generally was believed that Vitt would have ascended to the management of the New York Yankees. As pilot of the Yanks' principal farm, Ol' Os' was close to the throne. The late Frank Navin considered Vitt as the Detroit manager until he found that he could purchase Mickey Cochrane from the Philadelphia Athletics for $100,000. Vitt was so popular in the Coast League that William Wrigley, Jr., replaced his Los Angeles manager, Marty Krug.

"I want a fellow the fans like, such as Oscar Vitt," explained the chewing gum magnate. Vitt steered the Hollywood club, which shared the west coast Wrigley Field with the Angels.

Vitt saw the Cleveland club only twice last season, when they played the Yankees.

"The Indians have enough material to be contenders," he says.

Vitt has never set eyes on Bob Feller, but naturally is highly pleased at having the services of this brightest of pitching prospects. It is the Cleveland pitching that impresses Vitt most.

"That's 70 per cent. of the game," he asserts.

There is a young infielder Vitt would like to have in Cleveland—Joe Gordon, who shined with Newark.

"He'll make the Yanks forget Lazzeri," declares Vitt. "I've never seen a better young second sacker." O' Os' developed Lazzeri at Salt Lake, by the way. It was there that he turned out Johnny Frederick and polished Lefty O'Doul's hitting.

Vitt come from the fiery Detroit baseball school of Ty Cobb, but is a little gentleman on and off the field. "A light hitter, especially as third baseman go, he had to learn to play baseball close to the vest in order to star. His Cleveland club will reflect its new director—heads up and no loafing.

ILLINOIS COACH AMONG 'GREATS' IN U.S. FOOTBALL

NEW YORK, Oct. 28 (AP)—The original hocus-pocus man of United States football, a little Dutchman with a multitude of tricks and funny stories, will be honored as a celebration at the University of Illinois this week-end. He is Illinois' man of the week and years—Coach Bob Zuppke.

For 25 years he has been an institution in the camp of the "Fighting Illini" as he led them to fame with both great and weak material. If you took a poll of the United States football master minds, "Zup" undoubtedly would rank as coach number one.

He was too small to play football for his alma mater, Wisconsin, and yet he became a great strategist. In 32 years of coaching, seven years of high school and 25 at Illinois, he has never missed a single practice session.

Won 14 Championships

Under him the Illini have won seven Big Ten and four mythical national championships. His teams have won 120 games, lost 57 and tied 11.

It was Zuppke who first pulled a score of plays that later became standard equipment around the football world. The "flea flicker," "razzle dazzle," "gee-haw," "whoa back" and "flying trapeze" were his concoctions and each one proved to be a giant killer.

Zup's biggest upset—and probably the biggest one in United States football history—was at Minnesota's expense. In 1916, Minnesota had a "perfect team," a team of giants who had scored at least 45 points on all their opponents whereas the Illini had been licked plenty. Zup called his boys together before the game and said:

"Boys, you've done pretty good this season at that but I guess this team is too much. I want you to go out there this afternoon and relax. Just have a good time."

Illinois won the game, 14-9.

TORONTO GRIDDERS DEFEAT LAKEFIELD

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 28.—The first team of St. Andrew's College, Toronto, defeated the Lakefield Preparatory School in a decision battle here Wednesday afternoon, when they chalked up thirty-six points to their own credit, and kept their opponents from scoring.

Allespach, Marnac, Rogers and Mitchell were the stars of the visiting team, with Stewart and Simpson showing up well for the Grove.

The line-up:

St. Andrew's College—O'Brien, snap; Allespach and Hollinger, insides; Knight and Kent, middles; Christie and Seaton, outsides; Marnac, quarter; Macdonald, MacIntosh, Rogers and Mitchell, halves.

Lakefield—MacLaren, snap; Pease and Foster, insides; Stewart and Morley, middles; Warren and Crickmore, outsides; MacLean, quarter; Simpson, McKinnon, Pease II., and Rose, halves.

The second team from St. Andrew's College defeated the Lakefield Prep. School's team by a wide margin in a junior game which preceded the major event.

Leo Reise Of Grimsby Gets Chatham Post

DETROIT, Oct. 28—(CP). — Leo Reise of Grimsby, Ont., former National Hockey League player, has been named coach of Chatham Maroons of the Michigan-Ontario Amateur Hockey League, it was learned at a meeting of the league's board of governors here last night.

The position was originally offered Dick Carroll, former coach of Windsor's now-defunct professional Bulldogs, but the position was taken from him at a meeting in Chatham to-day. The action clarified a situation which developed with a claim of Granby, Que., hockey officials that Carroll signed a contract there before going to Chatham.

Chatham hockey officials, in dismissing Carroll, contended he had already signed a contract to coach a Granby, Que., team.

CONFERS WITH CUB HEAD

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—Tony Lazzeri, former New York Yankees' infield star, arrived yesterday to confer with Owner Phil Wrigley of the Chicago Cubs about a job in the Cub organization for 1938.

Wrigley repeatedly has denied he seeks Lazzeri as manager, since he already has signed Charley Grimm to a one-year contract.

The Cubs, however, apparently were anxious to obtain the veteran American Leaguer as an adviser or utility infielder.

TORONTO, Oct. 28 (CP) — Mrs. Irvin E. Robertson of the Canadian Mothercraft Society said last night the society had received a signed photograph of Queen Elizabeth. The Queen is greatly interested in the society's work, said Mrs. Robertson.

Art Kingdon Heads Lakefield Players

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 28.—When the Lakefield Badminton Club held their organization meeting in the Memorial Hall here on Tuesday, the following slate of officers was elected:

President, Art Kingdon; Vice-President, Jack Ryan; Secretary, Mrs. F. S. Brown; Treasurer, W. F. Munro; men's team captain, Douglas Smith; ladies' team captain, Miss Bessie Dunn; social convenor, Miss Nona Lymburner.

Plans were made to open the badminton season on November 1 or thereabout, with the executive responsible for preparing the courts for play. A large number of persons are planning to join the club this season, and all prospects point to a good year.

Baby Terriers Hold Margin Dominion Junior Title Series

Orillia Wins 14-10 For Second Straight In Lacrosse Hunt

ORILLIA, Ont., Oct. 28 (CP). — Orillia Baby Terriers held a two-game advantage over Vancouver Bluebirds today in their best-of-five series for the Canadian junior lacrosse title. Terriers won their second straight game 14-10 here last night after coming from behind Monday to win 11-10.

Third game, scheduled for Friday, and the fourth, if necessary, will be played here. If a fifth game is necessary to decide the holder of the Minto Cup it will be played at Toronto. This is the first year the Minto Cup is at stake for the junior team. It was placed in competition for professional lacrosse players when Lord Minto was Governor-General of Canada at the turn of the century.

Cheered on by 2,000 fans, Terriers and Bluebirds played rough but fast lacrosse. Twenty-one penalties were handed out by Referees Max Peart, Port Colborne, and Jimmy Gunn, Vancouver, 12 to Orillians and nine to the coast players.

Led by Arnold (Onions) Smith, Lewis Caperchio and Morris Cassidy, with three goals each, the Terriers were never behind the Bluebirds. Bob Lee topped Vancouver scorers with three goals, one in each of the first three periods.

Terriers finished the first period, leading Vancouver 5-3. By half-time Terriers led 8-5 and were in the van 9-8 at three-quarter time. They outscored the coast players 2-2 in the last session to end with a safe margin.

Penalties started mounting in the middle periods, and both teams suffered. At one time in the second session two Vancouver men and an Orillian were in the penalty box, while twice during the third period four men, two from each team, were off at the same time.

UNUSUAL ACCIDENT

ODD ITEMS FROM A SPORT SCRAP BOOK

DEMPSEY VS. LOUIS

To one who is a student of the fight game, there is an interesting contrast offered in the styles of the present world's heavyweight champion, Joe Louis, and that of the ring immortal—Jack Dempsey.

Both men struck fear into the hearts of their opponents, but in widely different ways.

Dempsey, the scowling, emotional "tiger man" of the ring, was feared for the power of his dynamite laden fists, and for the reckless abandon with which he fought. Apparently fearless, he would rush his rival, ready to take two or three punches, in order that he could get in one of his paralyzing smashes.

On the other hand, and in almost absolute contrast, note the style of the present champion, Joe Louis. He gets the same results as Dempsey, but is cold, sphinx-like, and outwardly unemotional in his mien. Calmly, but with an undeniable readiness he stalks his foe, until the opportunity presents itself and then unlooses his power laden fists.

FARR AGREES TO PAY COURT

LONDON, Oct. 28.—Tommy Farr, Welsh heavyweight, who lost a 15-round decision to champion Joe Louis in August, Wednesday made a temporary settlement of a dispute with his manager, Ted Broadribb, over disposal of their contract.

Farr agreed to pay the court $2,500 and 25 per cent. of his ring earnings while the case is investigated further.

Broadribb's suit sought to restrain Farr from participating in a boxing exhibition at Birmingham, England, November 1, and from any other "exercise of his talents" unless under Broadribb's direction.

Broadribb's action is based upon two managerial contracts. The first is approved by the British Board of Boxing Control and expires next March. The second is approved by the New York Commission and expires next July.

During the two-day hearings, Farr stated that Broadribb sympathized with Louis in the title fight, neglected Farr in the corner and failed to give proper treatment to Farr's gashed cheek between rounds — dousing the cut with alcohol. Broadribb's affidavit denied all of the fighter's charges.

The court declined to grant Broadribb's restraining request, but ordered Farr to make certain payments pending further investigation. Farr and his attorney agreed.

Injured Bronks Stage Race On Crutches

CALGARY, Oct. 28 (C.P.). — Rivalry of the playing field has invaded the hospital of Jimmy Munro and Ray Olsen, both Calgary Bronks' football casualties. Jimmy, with an injured knee, has challenged Olsen, whose leg was broken, to a race on crutches, the distance to be one hundred yards. Ray has accepted. If they can get out of the hospital, they plan to stage the race at the Western final between Winnipeg Blue Bombers and the Bronks here, probably November 13.

Rhode Island Racing Row Has Two $500,000 Libel Actions

O'Hara And Governor Are Tangling Again In Big Civil Suits

PROVIDENCE, R.I., Oct. 28 (A.P.). — Walter E. O'Hara, turfman-publisher, indicted on criminal libel charges brought by Governor Robert E. Quinn, on Wednesday began a $500,000 civil libel action against the Governor.

Counsel for O'Hara said a writ calling for the arrest of Quinn was in the hands of Kent County Sheriff Thomas Barry.

The Sheriff, on duty with the Grand Jury, when it reported the indictment against O'Hara in superior Court late yesterday, had not served any papers on the Governor.

Quinn declared an arrest warrant could not be served on the Governor of the State in a civil libel suit, and said he would not accept such service. He added, however, O'Hara was free to serve a "writ of summons" in a civil claim, which would rejuire him to answer the charges, but would not allow his arrest.

Can Arrest in Civil Suit.

Under Rhode Island law, a plaintiff may swear out an arrest warrant in a civil as well as a criminal libel suit.

O'Hara, free under $5,000 bail since last month, when he was found "probably guilty" by a District Judge on the criminal charge brought by Quinn, was not immediately arraigned on the Grand Jury indictment.

Under Rhode Island law, O'Hara would be required to plead to the indictment before a trial date could be set.

In another move in the many-sided Quinn-O'Hara race track controversy, O'Hara was released under $7,500 bail by Superior Judge Frederick Frost earlier yesterday on a writ of arrest, served on Tuesday night in connection with a $500,000 civil libel suit brought by Quinn.

Lindsay And Orfuns Play Here Saturday

The Blue Bombers of Lindsay tangle with the local Orfuns here this week-end, playing the Petes an O.R.F.U. intermediate rugby fixture at three o'clock Saturday afternoon in Riverside Park. It is the final scheduled game, unless the postponed Eastsides' contest is staged here later, this season and should draw another big crowd of fans as the Cobourg-Orfuns' tilt did. A number of Lindsay fans will likely make the trip, since the old Lindsay-Peterborough sports' rivalry is at its hottest on the gridiron. In one previous meeting this season, on Scugog terrain, the Orfuns won rather handily, but the Bombers promise to have a stronger team here for this game and to make it a real battle. They even predict a victory.

Orfuns have been practising regularly and hope to make it their fourth straight win in as many starts and to cinch group "A" honors and go into the Ontario playdowns. They have a scrappy, smart squad and deserve plenty of support this autumn. Lindsay won group honors last year, but have not been as strong this season. However, if they bring their best team down to Peterborough and play the usual sort of football which they dish up against Orfuns, they have a chance of breaking the locals' victory string. It ought to be a grand fight all the way.

Sports Spice

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Oct. 28 — (AP). — Mickey Walker, former welterweight champion, is batting 1,000 as master of ceremonies in a West side cafe. . . Casey Stengel must be slipping —he'll get $3,000 less for managing the Bees next year than he got for not managing the Dodgers. . . Down South the boys are trying to raise dough enough to get aboard the Florida Alligators in 1938-39. . . Operatives report Josh Cody has got himself a freshman team from away back yonder. . . . Only trouble is, most of the guys are from up this way, and sport names that give the sports scribes fits, such as Pauzauskie, Kosolosky, Reinschmidt, Batista, Zdanzykas, etc. . . (Time out for air).

Lou Ambers, the lightweight king, is back in town after a month's hunting trip on which he killed—three pheasants. . . . The father of Johnny Dundee, once a great featherweight champion, died yesterday. . . . Big Bill Dwyer plans to spend $75,000 improving his Tropical Park racing plant at Miami this winter. . . . Two famous names—James Fennimore Cooper and Billie Burke—form an effective end combination for the Marquette football team.

This racing business must be expensive at that. . . . Two other millionaires will soon follow C. V. Whitney's lead and get out. . . . Bob Quinn of Boston Bees used the telephone on two occasions 44 months apart to sign the same manager. . . In 1934 he called Casey Stengel at Glendale, Calif., to land Casey for the Dodgers, and the other day he called Casey at Omaha, Tex., to offer him the Boston berth. . . .

AMATEUR HEADS SEEK TO CLEAR HOCKEY TANGLE

NEW YORK, Oct. 28 (CP).—The Amateur Athletic Union of the United States will seek to "unmuddle" the amateur hockey situation at its annual meeting next month.

An A.A.U. official who made this announcement here Wednesday said if this goal could be achieved the way would be cleared for establishment of an international control board that would act for the amateur ice game in Canada, Great Britain and the United States.

Such a board would be in a position to control the international wanderings of players, a source of worry to the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association since the game became established in the Old Country and here.

That Olympic Defeat.

The situation had its repercussions at the last winter Olympic Games when an English team, backboned by players who learned their hockey in Canada, dropped the Maple Leaf to its first Olympiad defeat. Some players on the English side had emigrated from Canada without the sanction of the C.A.H.A.

The problem that will be more directly before next month's convention, opening in Boston November 13, in a sense concerns both the C.A.H.A. and the Canadian Amateur Athletic Union. When the two Canadian organizations broke off relations last season the American A.A.U. lined up with its sister body in the Dominion. It ruled Canadian hockey players could not join United States teams because the C.A.A.U. would not be certifying their amateur status.

Banned Baltimore Club.

Baltimore Orioles of the Eastern United States Hockey League imported Canadian players who did not have C. A. A. U. cards and the club was suspended. The upshot was that the Eastern League finally severed relations with the American A.A.U.

If the situation is straightened out at next month's meeting, it is likely a separate association, working in conjunction with the A.A.U. will be set up to supervise amateur hockey in the country.

The present state of confusion was emphasized by announcement that the Boston Olympic Club would join the Quebec Provincial Senior League. Because the Q.P.S.L. is connected with the C.A.H.A. its action automatically suspended it from the American A.A.U.

Trophies Presented To Lindsay Bowlers

LINDSAY, Oct. 28.—One of the most successful seasons in the history of the Lindsay Community Bowling Club was brought to a conclusion last night, when the annual banquet was held in the Oddfellows' Hall. Over 80 bowlers and their friends attended. W. J. Carlisle, retiring president, occupied the chair.

Presentation of cups and prizes won in the season's competitions were made as follows: The McMarty Cup (ladies' rinks, schedule), won by Mrs. K. Griffin, Mrs. L. Williams, Mrs. W. E. Kelcher, Mrs. W. J. Ferguson, skip. The Denison Cup (ladies' jitney series), won by Mrs. R. English. The Cambridge Cup (mixed rinks schedule), won by Mrs. K. Griffin, W. Hepburn, Mrs. N. Mark, F. Adams, skip. The Carew Cup (mixed doubles schedule), won by Mrs. W. Hungerford, A. H. Everson, skip. The Tooke Cup (men's rinks schedule), won by J. Simnett, Dr. C. Lyons, A. W. Williams, skip. The Felt Cup (men's doubles schedule), won by O. W. Jardine, W. J. Ferguson, skip. The Carnegie Mackenzie Cup (men's jitney series), won by W. Hepburn.

BORN

MARRIED

MITCHELL—STINSON.—The wedding was solemnized quietly on Saturday, October 16, at Mark Street United Church by the Rev. E. W. Rowland, of Gladys, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Stinson, to William Mitchell, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Mitchell of Peterborough. The young couple were attended by Mrs. K. Mein, sister of the bride, and Mr. Maxwell Harrison. They are residing at 294 Burnham street.

ENGAGEMENTS

The engagement is announced of Margaret Ruth, younger daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Dawson, Bailieboro, to Murray Oscar, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCullough, Cobourg. The wedding to take place very quietly November 10th.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Ebdon wish to announce the engagement of their only daughter, Irene Emily, to Arthur Ellis, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Ellis. Marriage to take place early in November.

DIED

IN MEMORIAM

GILBERT.—In loving memory of a dear Wife and Mother, Florence Gilbert, who passed away October 28, 1928.
Your presence is ever near us;
Your love remains with us yet;
For you were the kind of a mother
Your loved ones would never forget.
—Ever remembered by Husband and Family.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. S. V. Young & Son wish to thank their customers of Bethany and vicinity for the liberal patronage during the time of operating their general store, and hope they may extend the same in future to their successor, Mr. Mickle.

LOCAL PASTORS VISIT NORWOOD

NORWOOD, Oct. 28.—The congregation of the United Church held their anniversary services on Sunday in the Presbyterian Church, having special speakers for both the morning and evening services, which were largely attended.

The guest speaker of the morning service, Rev. F. Craik of St. James' Church, Peterborough, gave an excellent address on "Christian Sharing," stressing the fact that every one should share his Christian thoughts with those whom they come in contact with.

The choir rendered special music at both services, which consisted of the following two anthems, "I Am Alpha and Omega," and "Listen to the Lambs"; duets by Misses Brethen and Atkinson, and Mrs. C. McConnell and Miss Ina McConnell; also a solo by Miss Atkinson.

Rev. M. C. Parr of George Street Church, Peterborough, was the guest speaker of the evening, choosing as his subject, "Christian Friendship," and gave a very inspiring address that everyone should consider Jesus as a close friend in all walks of life, thus establishing a Christian friendship for ourselves.

Crokinole Party.

A successful crokinole party was held on Monday evening, under the auspices of the Norwood United Church choir at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Renaud, Queen Street organist and choir leader.

There were about fourteen tables of progressive crokinole played, with the president, Mr. Dewart McNeely, in charge.

At the conclusion of the games a delicious lunch was served by the members of the choir, followed by a vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Renaud for opening their home for the occasion.

MISSION CIRCLE IS ENTERTAINED

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Oct. 28. — The Golden Links Mission Circle was entertained at the Parsonage for its October meeting, Mrs. (Rev.) A. L. Siscoe, and her daughters, Misses Della Mae and Dorothy, being joint hostesses, and the vice-president, Mrs. David Lunn, having charge of the gathering.

The worship theme was "Adoration," illustrated by suitable hymns and passages of Scripture. The second chapter of the new study book, "The New Church" faces a New World," was covered in an instructive manner by Miss Estella Hetherington, the lives studied being those of John Geddie, missionary to the New Hebrides; Rev. William Currie, Africa; and Dr. George Hartwell; and Dr. Kilborn, pioneer workers in China.

Business items included discussion relative to the afternoon tea to aid the circle funds being held at the home of Mrs. J. McKnight, Tupper street, on November 6, to which the general public will be invited. The Scripture text calendars which the society has on hand for sale to also help in attaining its objective of $50, were given out for individual members to endeavor to dispose of in the immediate future.

Following the closing blessing, Mrs. Siscoe and her daughters, served homemade candy and a pleasant social hour was spent.

PLAN AGREEMENT FOR USING POLES

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Oct. 28.—The joint use of Hydro and Bell Telephone poles in this village was the topic discussed at a special meeting of the Hastings Hydro Electric Commission held in the council chambers on Monday night. Three officials of the Bell Telephone Co. were present. A standard form of agreement approved by the Hydro Electric Power commission of Ontario and the Bell Telephone Co. of Canada was explained to the members of the local commission by one of the "Bell" officials. The agreement as explained, is for the joint use of poles, when the joint use is to mutual advantage.

DEAD RECKONING

BRUCE HAMILTON

READ THIS FIRST:

Tim Kennedy graduated into wouldbe homicide from the school of armchair murderers. With a lucrative dental practice and an enviable social position in a small town near London, Tim, at middle age, feels happy and secure. Then Esther is run down by a truck, returning home a week later a physical wreck, with all her former beauty shattered. Tim loses all interest in his wife and is greatly attracted by Alma Shepherd, a widow. He becomes infatuated and finally decides that Esther must die. Trying to work his wife into a state of despondency over her condition, so he can fake a suicide, Tim feels the time for the poisoning is ripe. His plans are spoiled when Dr. Arkwright, Esther's uncle in discussing Esther's condition, tells Tim he is positive she never would take her own life. During a sea cruise Tim ponders over other means of ridding himself of his wife. On shipboard he experiments to see whether he can induce Esther to have nightmares and walk in her sleep.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 22

There was a rustle and stir in the courtroom as Tim Kennedy's name was called, and necks were craned to follow his progress as he rose from the bench at the back and, shepherded by the coroner's officer, threaded his way through the crowd to the witness stand.

A whisper of communal sympathy arose, and indeed he looked a pathetic figure, rather lost in his black suit, which had apparently been bought ready-made. His face had a pallor that suggested sleepless nights, and he kept nervously stroking his mustache, as if the unconscious gesture helped him to master his emotion. He answered the preliminary questions in a subdued, almost inaudible voice, so that presently the coroner had to say to him.

"I know this is very distressing for you, Mr. Kennedy. But I want you to make an effort and speak up a little louder. I can hardly hear your answers."

"Yes, sir. I'll try to."

"That's better. . . . Would you like to sit down?"

"No, thank you. I'd prefer to stand."

"Very good. . . . Now I want you to tell me in your own way your remembrance of what happened on the evening and night of. . . ." the coroner referred to his notes with practiced expedition, ". . . of Sunday, Sept. 29."

Tim began hesitantly.

"It was Esther's—my wife's birthday. . . . I had arranged to finish my work early so that we could go for a run in the car. We had an early lunch, and started about half past 1."

The coroner assumed a patient look. He was accustomed to pulling up these discursive witnesses, so prone to introduce irrelevant matter with the most helpful of intentions; but the occasion called for restraint.

"We went to Brighton, and parked the car along the front. Then we went on the West Pier, to a band concert. Afterwards we had tea at the Metropole hotel."

"Did your wife appear to be in good spirits?"

"In excellent spirits. I was delighted, because ever since her accident she had been nervous about going in the car."

"Dr. Arkwright has told us about her accident. You say that since her recovery she showed a nervous fear of motoring?"

"Yes."

"But this fear was not in evidence on this particular afternoon?"

"I wouldn't say that. She was jumpy whenever we passed another car. But it did not seem to affect her for more than a moment. She was excited and happy. . . ."

"I see. . . . Please go on, Mr. Kennedy."

"We left the Metropole soon after half past 6, and got back to West Shilston at half past 8. I drove very slowly, because of her nervousness. We had dinner a little after 9."

"You dined alone?"

"Yes. Dr. Arkwright was coming, but he phoned to say that he had an emergency case, and could not come."

"What did you have for dinner?"

"It was my wife's birthday—we were celebrating. . . ." Tim tried a smile, and then, as if overcome by emotion, raised his handkerchief to his face. "We started with cocktails—gin and Italian— and later we opened two bottles of champagne. And we had grouse— a friend in Scotland had sent us a brace, specially for Esther's birthday. . . . I tried to prevent her from eating more than a mouthful, but she was hungry, and I didn't want to spoil . . . her treat."

"Why did you try to restrain her?"

"Because I was afraid she might have a nightmare."

"Yes, yes." The coroner looked suddenly cross. It was clear that he had made a slip, a fact that had been evident to half the people in court for some time. But he continued smoothly enough. "I am going to ask you a few questions about that presently. I shall also recall Dr. Arkwright, but I am anxious first to establish the facts as to what happened. . . . Your wife had a good meal, then "

"Yes."

"Now please tell me what happened afterwards."

"We played picquet for a little in the drawing room. But we were both very tired. I don't think we played for more than half an hour. We went to bed at about a quarter to 11."

"To the same room?"

"Yes."

"I believe it was not your usual bedroom?"

"No. Our usual room was on the first floor, at the front of the house. But during the stormy weather a week or so ago a lot of soot came down the chimney. I had the chimney examined, and it was found to be in a very bad condition. We had the men in, and while they were working we moved to the spare room on the second floor, at the back."

"The back wall of the house is much deeper than the front, is it not?"

"Yes. The house is built on a slope, the ground at the front being higher. . . . Perhaps I should explain that the room we moved to was really the third floor, from the point of view of the back of the house. The kitchen is below the level of the ground floor front, though not a basement. It is simply that the ground falls away. Over the kitchen is a living room, on the level of the ground floor at the front, over that a landing and bathroom, and over that the spare room."

"Would you agree with the estimate that the distance from the

UNCLE WIGGILY AN BUNTY'S TUMBLE

"Where is the potato masher, Nurse Jane?" asked Uncle Wiggily as he and Baby Bunty hopped into the hollow stump bungalow.

"Oh, my dear Mr. Longears!" exclaimed the muskrat lady housekeeper, "don't tell me you want the potato masher to jam Bunty."

"Of course, certainly not, I wouldn't tell you that, Janie," laughed Uncle Wiggily. "It wouldn't be safe."

"Do you want my potato masher to jam any Bad Chaps who may be following you?" asked Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "I noticed you and Bunty came hopping home from the woods quite fast."

"We thought we heard a Bad Chap but it was only a thrush bird," said the orphan rabbit. "I'll get the potato masher for you Unkie Wig, if Nurse Jane will let us take it."

"Of course you may have it," said Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy, who had tied a rag to her tail to dust the radio for the concert that night. "But is it a secret?"

She Helps

"Oh, no," said Uncle Wiggily. "I am just going to mash some poke berries to get ink for my fountain pen so I can sign a letter to Mr. Twistytail the fat pig gentleman. I wrote him on my typewriter inviting him to a Hallowe'en party but I want to sign the letter in ink. As we had no ink I am going to make some from the ink berries Bunty and I picked in the woods."

"And I am going to help," said the orphan rabbit proudly. Not too proudly, for that wouldn't be polite, but just proudly enough.

"Here's the potato masher," said Nurse Jane bringing it from the bungalow kitchen.

"Thank you," said the rabbit gentleman. "Now I shall need a large pan. The one you wash dishes in, Janie, will do nicely."

"You won't bang or dent it, will you?"

"Oh, no," promised Mr. Longears.

Nurse Jane brought the pan. Into it Uncle Wiggily put the cluster of ink or poke berries he and Bunty had brought from the woods. Then Mr. Longears began crushing the berries to squeeze out the juice just as cider is squeezed from apples.

"Oh, please, couldn't I help?" asked Bunty as she watched Mr. Longears. "Let me mash 'em."

"Well, if you will be very careful," said the bunny gentleman.

"Oh, yes!" promised Bunty.

"Then I'll get some bottles to put our poke berry ink in," said Mr. Longears.

Surprise!

Bunty jiggled the potato masher up and down as she had seen Uncle Wiggily do. More of the berries were crushed. More of their juice oozed out to make ink.

"I wonder what color ink it is going to be?" said Bunty as she leaned over the big dish pan in which she was crushing the berries. "Maybe it might be a lovely new color and wouldn't Unkie Wig be surprised! I must look so I can tell him."

Farther and farther over the dishpan, half filled with the crushed berries and the juice from them, leaned Baby Bunty. Farther and farther and farther and then—all of a sudden—

BUNTY TUMBLED IN!

Right into Uncle Wiggily's pan of ink tumbled the orphan rabbit and she cried: "Help! Help, Unkie Wig! Help me!"

But Mr. Longears was looking for bottles. However, do not worry, Bunty shall be saved. And if the umbrella doesn't turn inside out when the rain water tickles its ribs, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's purple orphan.

HOME RULE TALK AGAIN LIFTS HEAD ACROSS SCOTLAND

LONDON, Oct. 28—(CP)—Talk about home rule for Scotland—given impetus by the founding of a committee appointed to discuss Scottish administration—is in the air again.

Advocates of home rule have various ideas and just what the phrase should mean for Scotland. But the suggestion that Scottish members of Parliament should meet annually at Edinburgh to consider domestic affairs receives increasing attention.

Support for the idea has come from several quarters. Walter Elliot, secretary for Scotland, has expressed his "interest." Sir Archibald Sinclair, leader of Britain's small Opposition Liberal party, favors it. So does Thomas Johnston, Labor member of Parliament.

J. Henderson Stewart, Liberal National M.P. for East Fife, proposed Scottish parliamentarians should meet annually to deal with Scottish affairs in new government buildings at present under construction on carlton Hill in Edinburgh.

Elliott Interested

Mr. Elliott, in a letter to Mr. Stewart, said he was interested in the idea but added it raised wide constitutional issues.

The minister also answered a further suggestion of Mr. Stewart's, that Scottish estimates should be referred to the Scottish grand committee—comprised of Scottish parliamentarians—instead of the whole House of Commons in committee of supply. Elliot objected that this would "diminish the participation of Scottish members in matters of wider range."

The secretary for Scotland also denied charges that Scottish business was not given sufficient time in the House of Commons.

Writing in the "Fortnightly Review," Mr. Johnston declared there were only two ways in which to re-establish a parliament in Edinburgh. "Either the English and Welsh must be persuaded to it or they must be compelled to it," he wrote.

Sir Archibald Sinclair, in a speech at Dunoon, said "Liberals are convinced that to strengthen the pulse of national life we ought to have a Scottish parliament." He continued: "Separation has no place in our thought. We are resolved to maintain our full representation at Westminster which must remain responsible in all the wider field of economy, imperial and foreign affairs."

Meanwhile recommendations have been made by a committee which investigated the machinery of Scottish government. It proposed that the Secretary for Scotland should have the functions of the following departments vested in him: health, prisons and education. There should be four main departments of equal status, it contended—department of agriculture for Scotland, Scottish education department, department of health for Scotland and Scottish home department.

U.S. NURSES ASK PROBE OF IMPORTS

NEW YORK, Oct. 28—(CP) — The National Nurses' Association announced yesterday it had asked government agencies to investigate complaints that hospitals in New York State and elsewhere were bringing Canadian nurses to the United States in violation of immigration laws.

Miss Virginia Mirabella, association president, made the charge in a letter to Labor Secretary Perkins and to the United States Immigration Service.

"Canadian nurses," she said in a communication, "are known by us to have emigrated to this country under six-month tourist visas, which makes it illegal for holders thereof to seek gainful employment in this country."

Miss Mirabella mentioned hospitals in New York City, Bronxville, Mt. Vernon, Albany and Buffalo for which, she said it had been reported to her, Canadian nurses had been "imported."

"For months," said Miss Mirabella in her letter, "the National Nurses' Association has been receiving from its membership throughout the State of New York complaints that private and public hospitals are importing large numbers of Canadian nurses.

"Positions are offered by these institutions to said subjects of a foreign nation through direct advertising in Canadian newspapers and by means of personal contacts with various hospitals in the Dominion of Canada."

GETTING GUNS OUT

WINDSOR, Ont., Oct. 28—(CP)—Canadian and United States hunters expected in numbers for the two days of bird-shooting in Essex and Kent counties this week. Pelee Island, 14 miles out in Lake Erie will be their chief goal. Pheasants, quail and partridges are plentiful.

High Commissioner Returns

Unable to confirm rumors he had been appointed Canadian delegate to the nine-power conference to be held at Brussels, Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian high commissioner to London, sailed from Quebec in the Empress of Britain. Hon. Mr. Massey, shown here with Mrs. Massey, told reporters any such appointment would be announced from Ottawa. He was returning to London after his annual two-weeks visit to the Dominion.

spare room window to the ground is approximately 45 feet?"

"I would say that would be about right."

"And the window looks onto a paved courtyard, behind the kitchen?"

"Yes. Actually it is concrete."

"I see. . . . I understand you and your wife were occupying separate beds in this room?"

"That is so."

"Please tell me what happened when you reached the room."

"We were both very tired. . . . I wanted to give Esther a bismuth mixture. She had eaten a heavy meal, and I was uneasy about her going to bed so soon after it. But she did not want it. She said she felt like a good sleep, and I was too tired to press her . . . as I should have done. . . ."

"Try to go on, Mr. Kennedy."

"I believe I switched off the light a little after 11 o'clock."

"Did you open the window?"

"Yes. We always slept with the window open, except in foggy weather. It is a deep window, of the casement type, opening outward, with a seat about two feet off the ground."

"Did you go to sleep quickly?"

"At once. . . . It seems I must have slept for two hours. I woke up suddenly. . . . I was still stupid with sleep, and my recollection of the first few seconds is vague. But I think the order of things was like this. . . . I heard a scuffling, bumping sound within the room. . . . Then a scream, which seemed to come from outside. . . . I remember crying aloud, 'My God, that's Esther.' Then there was a crash."

"Immediately?"

"Immediately."

"And then?"

"I was still stupid with sleep. . . . I did not at first understand what had happened. I switched on the light, and then I saw that Esther's bed was empty, and the bedclothes had been dragged off it. They were lying half on the window seat, half on the floor. . . . I rushed to the window and looked out. But I could see nothing. I cried out, 'Esther! Esther, where are you?'—or something like that. . . . I ran downstairs, as quickly as I could, and out of the house to the back. . . . Then I found her . . . in the courtyard. . . . She seemed to be dead."

Hon. Dr. Bruce To Carry On For Present, King Announces

Normal Term Of Office Of Lieutenant-Governor Has Expired

OTTAWA, Oct. 28—(CP)—Alberta's legislation affecting banks and newspapers was studied at Tuesday's Cabient Council, but no decision on the Government's stand wil lbe made known before Thursday, Prime Minister Mackenzie King stated last night. A Cabinet Council is scheduled for Thursday, and at its close, he intimated, some announcement might be made.

Questioned on the appointment of a successor to Lieutenant-Governor Bruce of Ontario, whose normal term of office expired on Monday, Mr. aMckenzie King said there had been no resignation and no new appointment, and that Dr. Bruce would carry on for the present.

The Prime Minister was questioned on the possibility of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor coming to Canada in the course of their forthcoming visit to the United States. He said he had no information of the Duke's plans, other than what he read in the newspapers.

The Alberta legislation was before the Government in the form of three Bills passed at the special session of the Provincial Legislature held early this month, opinions prepared by legal exports of the Department of Justice, and representations for and against the acts submitted by the Alberta Government and by interested parties. Three Bills are involved, one increasing the taxation of banks, one establishing a measure of control over bank operations within the Province and licensing bank managers, and a third giving the Government power to enforce publication of corrective and amplifying statements in the newspapers, and forcing publishers to reveal the source and authors of articles and news stories.

Lieutenant-Governor Bowen reserved assent to these measures when the special session prorogued on October 5, sending them to the Governor-General for advice.

SHOOTING BARRED

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 28—(CP)—Word received today was that refusal of the advisory board of the protected game area in Westminister township to order issue of licenses for pheasant shooting Thursday and Friday will result in the Ontario Game and Fisheries department ending the agreement for a regulated shooting district.

"We will not force them to sell municipal hunting licenses to non-residents, and if they don't then there will be no shoot in Westminster tomorrow and Friday," was the word here today from D. J. Taylor, Game and Fisheries deputy minister.

Terrorism Renews Over Holy Land

JERUSALEM, Oct. 28 (CP-Havas)—Terrorist fusillades and bombings caused new bloodshed in the Holy Land today.

Arabs opened fire from an automobile on a group of young Jews near the Jewish caleny of Yassur, in the Haifa region, gravely wounding one. In the old part of Jerusalem a bomb exploded near the Moroccan Synagogue, wounding a Jewish policeman.

A toll of one Jew slain and an Arab policeman wounded was counted in the wake of an ambush of a potaesium mine truck en route from Jerusalem to the Dead Sea region by 15 Arab terrorists. The four British and two Arab policemen escorting the truck returned the fire and routed their assailants.

How much do you know about your figure?
NEMO Figure-ology* WILL TELL YOU ALL!
"How good is my figure?"
"What figure type am I?"
"Is my figure in correct proportion?"
"What are my figure characteristics?"
Now, for the first time, these questions and others like them are answered scientifically—by FIGURE-OLOGY, NEMO'S revolutionary new method of selecting the right foundation for every figure.
FIGURE-OLOGY will show you that figure beauty is based on proportion—on the correct proportion between bust and waist—and waist and hips.
Let the special NEMO FIGURE-OLOGIST analyze your figure free of charge. Let her record its type, its proportions and its characteristics on your own specially prepared FIGURE-OLOGY chart. Then, let her prove to you, through the Drape Test, how FIGURE-OLOGY works wonders. See her in the CORSET DEPARTMENT, ALL THIS WEEK!
Miss Martyn, Nemo demonstrator, will be in the Corset Department Oct. 29th and 30th. Phone 3000 for appointment.
*Yours for the asking: a FREE booklet with all the facts about "Figure-ology." Get your copy in our Corset Department.

JAP BOMBS KILL 3 BRITISHERS, SHANGHAI SUBURB

LONDON ROADS UNDERGROUND NEXT 30 YEARS

To Be Difficult Task Due to City's Layout

LONDON, Oct. 29 (C.P.-Havas)—Underground highways will be the most notable feature of a 30-year plan to solve London's traffic problem expected to be ready for approval by the end of this year, it was reported to-day.

Sir Charles Bressey, principal technical officer of the Roads Department of the Ministry of Transport, has been working on the plan for three years.

He faced a problem complicated by the fact, London, unlike modern cities, was not built according to plan, and unlike Paris has never benefitted from extensive reform projects.

London has excellent motor, bus, and underground rail service, but her principal streets are so inadequate that in rush hours pedestrians move faster than automobiles in Piccadilly or in the "city," the financial district.

Under the plan new traffic arteries are expected to be created in the outlying parts of Greater London, but underground roads probably will be necessary in the centre of the Capital, where it would be impossible to demolish existing buildings in order to replan the street system.

Sir Charles is believed to be opposed to the use of elevated traffic lanes.

15,000 PHEASANTS DIE IN 2-DAY HUNT

PELEE ISLAND, Ont., Oct. 29. — (CP).—More than 10,000 pheasants are dead on this Lake Erie island as the annual hunt entered its second and final spasm with 1,800 men and women filling the air with birdshot.

Before night falls and silence settles again on the low-lying fields of Pelee Island, it is expected the toll on the pheasant population will have risen to more than 15,000.

Sam Collard of Kitchener, was injured by the hammer of his gun. While placing the safety catch, the hammer caught the flesh between his index finger and thumb. The wound was closed with three stitches.

Hunters report birds are more plentiful than ever. As early as yesterday noon many had reached their two-day quota of 10 birds—eight cocks and two hens—barred from further shooting they sat around and waited for their friends to catch up.

To Mrs. Pearson Wells of Detroit went the honor of catching the first pheasant without a gun. While walking with Mrs. Henry Canteon and Mrs. Harry Mero, Windsor, she bagged one wounded pheasant with her bare hands and waited for another one which had fallen into the lake to be washed ashore.

Inexperienced or over-zealous hunters have been making the usual inroads on the barnyard population of Pelee Island. As early as yesterday morning, hunters began blasting at Barred Rocks., White Leghorns, Wyandottes and Minorcas, though they don't look much like pheasants.

STREAMLINE RAILCARS

The first complete railcars manufactured in Britain have been shipped to South America. The new cars, which will operate in the Mendoza province of the Argentine, are streamlined, and incorporate traction units. Measuring 55 feet long and weighing over 19 tons, with a full complement of 60 passengers, each car is enabled to maintain a scheduled speed of 37-43 m.p.h. with a maximum speed of 55 m.ph.

APRILIA, Italy. — Premier Mussolini reiterated to-day the Italian people are ready to fight, as he inaugurated the new town of Aprilia, constructed on land reclaimed from the Pontine Marshes. "The Italian people wish to be left to their intense work in the mother country and empire," Mussolini told the cheering peasants.

British Block Japs About To Invade Foreign Settlement

Nipponese Seeking Chinese "Lost Battalion" Argue 2 Hours Before Retreating Down River

SHANGHAI, Oct. 29.—(AP)—British military authorities today halted two Japanese naval launches steaming up Soochow Creek to attack the Chinese "lost battalion" beleaguered in a warehouse.

When the launches entered the section of the winding creek which passes through heart of the International Settlement, British officials refused them permission to pass.

Japanese naval officers pulled into shore between Fukien and Chekiang roads and discussed the situation with the British.

The episode caused a panic among Chinese residents along the Settlement side of the creek. They fled from the area.

The Japanese naval launches, both armed, retreated down Soochow Creek after General Telfer-Smollett refused them paisage and Chinese boatmen strunk junks and sampans from shore to shore as a blockade.

British and Japanese officers argued for nearly two hours concerning jurisdiction over the creek—which partially divides the Settlement from Chinese territory and partially flows through the Settlement—before the launches received orders from their headquarters to turn back.

"Something Might Happen."

They got the orders by hastily erecting a wireless mast and communicating with headquarters, presumably aboard a warship on the Whangpoo. They still tarried, however, and finally General Telfer-Smollett was heard to say:

"Come, come. Tell them to get going. We can't wait any longer."

As this was interpreted to the Japanese commanding officer, standing on a step below shore, the British officer added:

"If you are not out before dark, you know something might happen to you with all these Chinese around."

The Japanese returned to one of the launches, five pigeons were released and struck out for headquarters. A few minutes later the incident was ended — with the launches chugging downstream and the squad of British Tommies keeping pace along the bank until they reached the Whangpoo.

The launches were armed with one three-pounder and machine guns, ostensibly escorting a fire brigade float upstream to fight flames within Chapei. The general belief was expressed by foreign military observers and officials, however, that the Japanese intended either to attack the "doomed battalion" within Chapei, or to test jurisdiction of the creek.

Chinese Unworried

Chinese cabinet members apparently were unperturbed by the Chinese evacuation of the Chapei area of Shanghai Wednesday. They declared at Nanking China can hold out against Japan five years if necessary.

JOHN COBB ARRESTED

Mystery Girl

"MISS PETERBOROUGH" (Fern Panning), whose identity was revealed this morning with her capture in Zeller's linen department by a local youth.

ARSENATE OF LIME IS MISTAKEN FOR BAKING POWDER

The danger of keeping poisonous substance around the household in containers that are not labelled, was stressed in an experience that befell a family living in the Brownton district of the city early Thursday evening.

In the absence of their mother, another woman living with the family, prepared the evening meal for herself and five children whose ages range from five to eleven years. She made them some pancakes and inadvertently used a preparation containing a percentage of arsenate of lime, mistaking it for baking powder.

The family has recently moved into the humble little dwelling they occupy, and apparently the arsenate of lime preparation which had been used earlier in the season for destroying potato bugs, got mixed up with cookery supplies. It was kept in an unlabelled can, similar to a baking powder can.

Taken Violently Ill

Fifteen minutes after finishing their meal, the woman and the five children were taken violently ill, being seized with spasms of vomiting.

New Range-Finder For Bones Ends Dread Of Broken Hips

Enables 20-Minute Operation With Patient At Work In 5 To 7 Weeks

By Howard W. Blakeslee
(Associated Press Science Editor.)

CHICAGO, Oct. 29 (AP)—Invention of a surgical range-finder for bones which makes it possible to mend a broken hip with a steel nail in a new, 20-minute operation was announced to the American College of Surgeons here today.

The patient is able to move his hip four hours after the operation. He gets out of bed into a wheel chair inside two days. He walks on crutches in three or four weeks and goes back to work in five to seven weeks.

The new range-finder is the latest improvement in a technique of operating which saves the lives of 20 per cent of the elderly persons who used to die from broken hips. It is part of new surgery which restores hip cases to work in a few weeks in place of six months to a year and avoids leaving some persons crippled for life.

The new instrument was reported by Gilson Colby Engel, M.D., associate in surgery of the University of Pennsylvania and assistant surgeon of Lakenau Hospital, in Philadelphia. The co-inventor, he said, is Hans May, M.D., of Philadelphia.

The range-finder is a fan-shaped plate, marked by lines converging from its outer rim to apex. With aid

131,172 Pay Visit To Casa Loma

Toronto, Oct. 29.

CASA Loma will definitely close its doors for the winter at 9 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 31, it was announced today by W. C. Davidson, K.C., Chairman of the Casa Loma Committee of the Kiwanis Club of West Toronto.

A total of 131,172 people have visited the castle since it was opened by the Kiwanis Club. Mr. Davidson stated. The city's share of the proceeds will be around $7,500, he stated.

Many of the valuable European fireplaces will be lit for the enjoyment of week-end visitors to Casa Loma.

Burlesque Shocks 2 Toronto Women New Clean-Up Is Demanded

Toronto, Oct. 29 (CP)

BRANDING the present system of inspection and supervision of Toronto stage shows "entirely inadequate and unsatisfactory from the point of view of public morality," the law observance committee of the Community Welfare Council of Toronto yesterday demanded a cleanup of burlesque houses here. Two members of the local council of women, the committee was informed, attended a burlesque house in the city and were forced to leave before the show ended because, they said, "it was so disgusting." The manager refused to hear their protests.

Search Natives

Following outbreaks of terrorism among Arabs of Palestine, Great Britain took precautionary methods of protecting Jewish and British citizens by searching natives before they were allowed to enter the city of Jerusalem as shown BELOW. The British Tommies doing the searching are members of the Black Watch Regiment. In reprisal for the acts of terrorism British soldiers burned several homes of alleged Arab terrorists.

Clock Rings Among Loot Saves Tobacco Stock

Set To Waken Owner, It "Wakens" Police Who Grab "Innocent Rag Pickers"

MONTREAL, Oct. 29—(CP). — From the depths of the big bag came the sudden tinkling of an alarm clock.

"Oh yes," ejaculated Sergt. Detective Hamel, "So you're just a couple of rag pickers and you got nothing but rags in that bag, eh?"

Two youths, stopped on Dorchester street by officers at 4.58 a.m. (the time is important, very important, in this case), protected the bag was filled with stuff they had gleaned from scavenger buckets. But the officers wanted to find the source of the bell ringing. So they looked in the bag. . . . Cigars, cigarettes, tobacco. . . . $100 worth. Oh yes, and an alarm clock.

So Maurice Charbonneau, 21, and Maurice Rochon, 17, were taken off to headquarters and booked on charges of burglary. They had been in the cells only a short time when Restaurateur Louis Gratton rushed in. His store had been robbed. All his tobacco and smokes had been taken. Even his alarm clock which he had set to wake him in the rear of the shop at five o'clock. . . Ah, yes, that was the clock. But how. . . Officer?

"We were about to let these fellow go," said Sergt. Hamel. "We had been talking to them for just a couple of minutes and were about to get back in our car when the alarm rang."

Four Are Injured In Trolley Crash

CALGARY, Oct. 29 (AP)—Four workmen of the Canadian Pacific Railway Ogden Shops were injured when two street cars crashed in a Ninth Avenue subway here today. The men were trapped in the rear vestibule of a car.

Out of control, the workmen's car, after reaching the top of the subway, backed down the incline into the tram behind. There was a terrific crash and the vestibule was smashed to matchwood.

The injured were buried in twisted steel and wood from which they were extricated by fellow passengers.

Hollywood, Miami On Duke's Agenda

PARIS, Oct. 29. — (AP) — The Duke and Duchess of Windsor are planning a double swing across the United States from New York to Hollywood and back to Miami, a close associate disclosed today.

The westward trip would take the Duke along a northern route while the eastward journey would be through the south. This member of the Duke's suite emphasized the exact itinerary of the five-week tour was still under discussion. The Duke and Duchess will sail November 6 in the liner Bremen.

After arrival in Florida they plan to visit a Caribbean Island not yet decided upon. A friend of the couple said Washington and Pittsburgh already were on the list of places likely to be visited.

Areas of New England were almost certain to be included.

Peru plans to establish a government printing office.

SIX-MONTH TERM IS HANDED ROSS

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Oct. 29. — (CP).—Winfield H. Ross, charged with manslaughter in the death of Mrs. Emma Root, near Tweed last May, and reduced to one of criminal negligence by the jury to-day, was sentenced to serve six months in Ontario Reformatory at Guelph. Mr. Justice Nicol Jeffrey said the previous high reputation of the accused helped to obtain the light sentence. "If the accused had been more skilful in the operation of his motor car this accident would never have happened," said His Lordship.

5 Years For Madoc Man.

Gordon Coleman, Madoc, convicted of attempted rape was sentenced to serve five years in Kingston penitentiary. Mr. Justice Jeffrey reprimanded the accused for his part of the affair.

"This 16 year old girl trusted you and you abused her," said His Lordship. "You have now become a menace to society. I ought to order you to be whipped and even had you only been found guilty of indecent assault I would have given you the full limit of the law.

GIRL LOSES HER TEETH

MONTREAL, Oct. 29.—Irene Robinson has appealed to the Montreal police to find her false teeth.

Miss Robinson entered 912 Sanguinet street, by mistake, on Saturday evening, she told the police, and when she departed an hour later, she was minus her complete set of false teeth.

The police are investigating.

ITALIANS INSIST UPON SHOWDOWN ON SOVIET STAND

LONDON, Oct. 29.—(CP-Havas)—Antagonistic Italo-German and Soviet positions on the question of withdrawing foreign volunteers from Spain were expected to cause trouble for the non-intervention sub-committee when it meets to-day.

Optimists, however, saw a possibility Moscow, fearing isolation, may modify its refusal to sanction the granting of belligerency rights to the Spanish combatants until practically all foreign fighters have been withdrawn.

The plan approved Tuesday by the eight other members of the sub-committee, including the four great western powers, Great Britain, France, Italy and Germany, provided for recognition of belligerency rights as soon as a "substantial" number of volunteers have been withdrawn.

The Earl of Plymouth, who will again take the chair at the committee meeting after having given place to Foreign Secretary Eden for several sessions, twice yesterday conferred with Italian Ambassador Dino Grandi.

Count Grandi was understood to have emphasized two points, first there most be a "showdown" today on the Soviet stand, and secondly that the Moscow representative should no longer have equal rights with other members of the committee in view of the Soviet government's announcement yesterday that I will discontinue payments towards non-intervention control costs.

One Horse For Every 2 Officers Sets Artillery Mourning

British Mechanization Also Affects Many Famous Cavalry Regiments

LONDON, Oct. 29 (CP).—Artillery officers the length and breadth of England mourn the passing of the horse.

They are confronted with a War Office order stipulating that from January 1, 1938, there shall be only one charger for every two officers.

The new order is a step in the process of mechanization of Britain's fighting forces.

Sentimental pleas of horse lovers will avail little. The War Office is pushing ahead steadily with transformation of artillery regiments to a fully mechanized basis.

The order simply means that after the New Year either Col. Brown or Col. Jones of the artillery can ride horseback—but not both. If Col. Brown is in the saddle, Col. Jones will probably have to take a lorry.

The War Office announcement states that mechanization of divisional artillery will be completed by December 31. From then on, the chargers in the various artillery brigades will be reduced in numbers and regarded as brigade "pools."

Mechanization has affected famous cavalry regiments. The Royal Scots Greys—famous for their grey horses—are no longer to use horses. In camp at Aldershot they galloped over the jumps for the last time. Then they move into barracks at Hounslow, near London—leaving the horses behind.

The Germans are supposed to have "spotted" the presence of the Scots Greys at Leige, Belgium, early in the Great War, because they recognized their horses.

Stolen Overcoat Is Located Here

HASTINGS, Oct. 29.—An overcoat, belonging to Arthur Turner of this village, which was taken from a public place in Hastings last week, was located in a Peterborough dyers yesterday by Provincial Officer Campbell of Campbellford, who was investigating the affair.

A Keene youth is alleged to have taken the overcoat and placed it under the rods of his car. W. Wildman, village constable, searched all cars leaving the place the same night the coat was missing, but was unable to locate the garment.

Missions Damaged, Foreigners Flee Residential Area

Gates to Settlement Are Closed to Refugees After 60,000 Flock Inside in Past Two Days

SHANGHAI, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Three Royal Ulster Riflemen were killed and several wounded tonight during Japanese shelling of Hungjao, suburb to the west of the International Settlement and home of many foreigners, British military headquarters announced.

Artillery shelling and aerial attack in the Chinese-Japanese war spread damage among mission and other foreign property, and during the day British defence lines along the Settlement frequently had been under fire.

Seven Chinese non-combatants also were killed or wounded. The Ulster Riflemen were stationed at the British defence post on the corner of Keswick and Brennan Roads, at the northwest corner of the Settlement and opposite the entrance to Jessfield Park.

From Jap Batteries.

The shells apparently came from Japanese batteries in Chapei and were intended for Chinese positions in Hungjao.

One unidentified foreigner also was reported killed.

Many foreigners abandoned their homes in Hungjao to seek safety within the Settlement, as the battle for possession of Shanghai centred in the suburban area.

Throughout the day shells exploded near posts manned by the Royal Ulster Rifles. Japanese artillery, bombarding Chinese in the Hungjao area, dropped eight shells into Jessfield park alone. One of the shells damaged St. John's University.

Surrounded by Chinese trenches, artillery and dugouts, the American Seventh Day Adventist sanitarium in the Hungjao suburbs, three miles west of the International Settlement boundary, evacuated its patients and equipment.

Many windows in buildings and homes in the western district, especially along Yu Yuenn road, were shattered. Trolley car wires in the Jessfield sector were broken, disrupting all service.

A British policeman's motorcycle was wrecked a few seconds after he stepped from it. Major-General A. P. D. Telfer-Smollett, in command of the British forces, went quickly to the scene. Then he called on Admiral Kiyoshi Hasegawa, Japanese naval commander in the Shanghai sector.

Too Many Refugees

More than 60,000 refugees arriving the last two days taxed the capacity of the international settlement. The gates were ordered closed temporarily until new refugee camps could be established.

Fearing that Japanese might use some western zones of the settlement for attacks on the Chinese, British troops strengthened their barbed wire barricades.

Missionary property was severely damaged at Sunkiang, near Shanghai, when 20 Japanese planes made two raids, dropping more than 100 bombs on the residential section, killing and wounding many Chinese civilians.

The Susan B. Wilson School for Girls, operated by the Southern Methodist Church of the United States, was fired and virtually destroyed.

The Southern Methodist Mission compound was seriously damaged. Sixty occupants of the compound escaped injury by taking to dugouts.

YOUTH DISCOVERS MISS PETERBORO' AFTER LONG HUNT

The hunt for the elusive "Miss Peterborough" is ended.

She was identified this morning while in the linen department at Zeller's Store by 16-year-old Thomas Spencer, 444 Driscoll Terrace.

Furnished with a description of "Miss Peterborough" (Fern Panning) which he obtained by painstakingly piecing together torn scraps of her photograph and that of her two accomplices, the Misses Betty Pilling and Thora Stalter, the youth's detective work earned him the five dollar award offered by The Examiner to the first person to successfully identify the mystery girl.

He shared his prize money on a fifty-fifty basis with a companion, Stafford Sullivan, 90 Hunter Street, who worked with him in the search for a solution to the mystery shopper.

All day Thursday, "Miss Peterborough" eluded identification, notwithstanding she was in and out of the Canadian Department Stores, Limited; Richard Hall, Limited; The Rexall Drug Store, Woolworths, Metropolitan, Kresge's and many other places co-operating with Peterborough Days.

"It was great fun," the mystery girl smiled.

Yesterday afternoon, for instance, she was perched at a lunch counter when she overheard the sales girl and another fair customer discussing the probability of the mystery girl being around.

"Who do you think she is?" the salesgirl asked, looking up from an ice cream soda she was preparing and unaware that "Miss Peterborough" was the very customer she was serving at the moment.

After ringing up the sale on the cash register, the salesgirl asked "Miss Peterborough" if she was engaged in the search for the mystery girl.

"I sure am," she replied.

Later while on George Street "Miss Peterborough" declared she met an acquaintance, who raised his hat to her and greeted her with the salutation, "Hello, Miss Peterborough."

It gave her quite a surprises but she didn't reveal her identity, realizing that her friend was merely joking and did not have a ballot with him necessary to the winner of the contest. Besides, one of the conditions of the contest was that she had to be caught in one of the stores participating in the "Peterborough Days" campaign.

WALL 6-FEET THICK

Workmen had to demolish walls over six feet thick when razing the 250-year-old Strastnoi Monastery, used recently as an anti-religious museum, in Moscow, Russia.

FIRE IN SYDNEY COSTS $200,000

SYDNEY, N.S., Oct. 29 (C.P.). — Loss estimated at close to $200,000 was counted to-day after a spectacular blaze destroyed one building on Sydney's main business street, partially gutted another, and caused damage to a third. Loss was more than $110,000.

Within 30 minutes of its discovery soon after midnight, the fire had enveloped the Mason building, a three-storey brick structure housing the Robert Simpson Eastern, Ltd., agency, operated by Roy Mason, and eaten its way into the adjoining Carroll Block.

Salvage of stock from the Mason basement was hopeless because of the flames' spread. A fire wall between that building and the radio building, home of station CJCB, saved the second structure from more extensive damage, but water loss was heavy.

Cause of the blaze, believed to have started in the Mason building, was unknown.

Town Constable Moves Swarm Of Bees Shortly After The Bees Move Him

Beamsville, Ont., Oct. 29 (CP)

BEES got busy on Town Constable Omar Cosby yesterday after he attempted to eradicate a swarm from a pumphouse on reservoir property here. At first he thought everything was all right.

But that night a stowaway flew out of his shirt while he was changing into his uniform. A moment later it stung him.

Later in the evening while on patrol duty, the constable suddenly made a sprint towards his home. A second bee had found revenge.

DISALLOWANCE RIGHTS TO GO BEFORE COURT

Ottawa Will Comply With Aberhart Plan

OTTAWA, Oct. 29 (CP)—Request of Alberta's Premier William Aberhart that the Dominion government's power to disallow provincial legislation be tested in the courts will be complied with but the fate of three Alberta acts dealing with banks and newspapers will not be known until Tuesday.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced last night a reference would be taken to the Supreme Court of Canada and heard at an early sitting, asking the questions whether the power of disallowance as laid down in the British North America Act remains effective, and if so whether it is subject to any restrictions or limitations, and what such restrictions were.

In taking this action the Dominion government meets the challenge of Mr. Aberhart who took the stand in August that the central authority no longer had power to disallow provincial legislation. He then declared the Alberta measures would be held by that government as valid until power of the federal government was decided by the courts. The acts in question were never made operative.

Used 100 Times Before

This reference to the Supreme Court will test a power which has been exercised by successive Dominion governments on more than 100 occasions but which had been in disuse for more than a decade until revived in August last.

The Aberhart government in pursuit of its Social Credit program, obtained passage at a special legislature session in August, three acts providing for the licensing and local government control of chartered bankers and banks in Alberta closing the courts to bank officials with respect to the legislation, and generally closing the courts to appeals from any rulings of the Alberta government.

This legislation was promptly disallowed when the Alberta government refused to hold it in abeyance until a test of its validity could be made in the courts.

No attempt was made to enforce the three acts although Mr. Aberhart, in a communication to Prime Minister Mackenzie King declared his government did not recognize the federal government's power to disallow provincial legislation.

Three Acts In Dispute

At the second special session which prorogued Oct. 5 three acts were passed, one increasing the tax on chartered banks, one providing for licensing of credit institutions and establishment of local directorates to direct policy of the business of dealing in credit, and another empowering the government to force newspapers to publish corrective or amplifying articles, and to disclose source and authorship of matter appearing in the newspapers.

Lieutenant Governor Bowen reserved his assent to these measures pending advice from the governor general of Canada. That advice will not be forthcoming until next Tuesday when the Dominion cabinet holds its next meeting.

The Alberta government holds that the Westminster statute of 1931 which took away the power of the Imperial government to disallow Dominion legislation, also stripped the Dominion government of power to disallow provincial legislation.

Law officers of the Crown and Justice Minister Lapointe hold the opposite view and will argue when the reference goes to the Supreme Court.

REBELS, LOYALISTS CEASE SHOOTING TO FIGHT FLOODS

ZARAGOZA, Spain, Oct. 29 (AP)—Insurgent and government armies on the broad Aragon front quit fighting each other today to combat a common enemy—a flood that covered wide areas in the valleys of the Ebro River and its tributaries.

The Gallego River, rushing down from the French frontier to join the Ebro at this Insurgent base and old Aragon capital, was at its highest level in 20 years—21 feet above normal. The Ebro was 32 feet above normal. Heavy rains were responsible for the high water.

The Ebro flooded roads and railways in government territory near Huesca to the north, causing great damage. It filled trenches and drove the Valencia troops to higher ground. Zaragoza was threatened and forced to take flood precautions.

Some of the recent principal battlegrounds of this front were under several feet of water. Hostilities were disrupted.

Government forces were driven out of positions near Sabinanigo, in the Jaca sector, in the headwaters area of the Gallego. Almost the entire fighting zone south of Zaragoza, along the Ebro, was one great lake.

(A Valencia defence ministry bulletin reported an Insurgent seaplane fell flaming into the Mediterranean after anti-aircraft batteries at Portbou, the frequently bombed government railhead on the eastern French border, opened fire.

(The announcement said the plane headed for France, then attempted to alight on the water but caught fire before it could "sit down.")

Teacher, Friends Fined After School Party

Sarnia, Oct. 29 (CP)

GEORGE Dill, teacher at the Kettle Point Indian School, and four others were fined $10 plus $5 costs each when they pleaded guilty yesterday to having liquor on the Kettle Point Reserve. The others were Mr. and Mrs. John Shepherd and William Pickle, Forest, and Mrs. Grant Milligan, Kettle Point. The charges were sequel to a Thanksgiving Day party at the school.

ORDER DRUGGIST TO STAND TRIAL IN DOUBLE DEATH

TORONTO, Oct. 29. — Analysis of medicine taken by Mrs. E. C. Cardy before her death on October 8 revealed that one teaspoonful contained twenty-three grains of cyanide of potassium, according to evidence presented at the preliminary hearing yesterday of a manslaughter charge against James G. Armstrong, New Toronto druggist.

Prof. Joslyn Rogers, Professor of Analytical Chemistry at the University of Toronto, testified that two or three grains of cyanide of potassium were enough to cause death. According to testimony of the dead woman's husband at an inquest into her death, she had taken more than one teaspoonful.

James G. Armstrong, the druggist, who faces two manslaughter charges, the second arising from the death of another woman, Mrs. Ellen Herron, who died the same day, was committed by Magistrate W. E. McIlveen, yesterday for trial on a charge of manslaughter in the first case, arising from the death of Mrs. Cardy. It is alleged by the Crown he erred in preparing prescriptions for both women. He was released on $4,000 bail.

Prescription Identified.

Edwin Rush, Crown counsel, said that the second charge might be proceeded with later by indictment before the Grand Jury, without preliminary hearing. R. H. Greer was defence counsel.

E. C. Cardy, husband of the dead woman, identified a prescription produced in court which, he said, had been given to Armstrong the day his wife died. The medicine, he said, had arrived at his home about 1.30 p.m. the day she died, and he produced a partially filled bottle of medicine in court.

His wife, he said, suffered convulsions that afternoon, and he had telephoned the drug store. She had died at 3.20 p.m. The prescription, he said, had been filled before, and his wife had been taking it for two weeks. Previous fillings of the prescription had cost 90 cents, but the day it was filled by Armstrong it had been $1.25, he said.

His wife, he testified, had told him she had taken medicine from the bottle which Armstrong had filled.

Dr. W. H. Holmes of Toronto, who had written the prescription, told the court that Mrs. Cardy was an expectant mother, and had received the prescription for a complicated kidney condition. He had prescribed for her the prescription calling for potassium citrate, water and another substance. None of these ingredients, he said, could cause death.

Except for this condition, he said, the woman had been in excellent health. Called to the Cardy home on Oct. 8, he said, he had found Mrs. Cardy unconscious, frothing at the mouth and in convulsions.

Prescription Read Out

Mr. Armstrong had filled the prescription while he had read out the prescription to him, Leslie Lister, who worked for Mr. Armstrong, told the court.

He had read out, he said "Potassium citrate."

"Do you think you might have read out something else; some other potassium?" asked Mr. Rush.

"No, sir,' the witness replied. He said he had not seen Mr. Armstrong actually dispense the prescription, but later understood he had done so.

He said that he considered the prescription "very badly" written but that the words "potassium citrate" were clear.

It was not unusual for a druggist to ask an assistant to read out a prescription, Lister stated, or to ask the doctor to clarify it. On many occasions, he said, unable to read a prescription, he had consulted the doctor who gave it.

Poison in Stomach.

Professor Rogers, who had examined the stomach of the dead woman, said that it contained one-sixteenth of a grain of potassium cyanide.

"Is that enough to cause death?" he was asked.

"No; two or three grains would be necessary."

"Does finding of one-sixteenth grain idicate how much the person took?" asked the Crown.

"Only relatively ;It indicates that more than that amount was taken. The rest is absorbed. What we find in the stomach is what is left over," said Dr. Rogers.

"From examination of the organ, can you say death was due to cyanide of potassium?"

"One can't say absolutely, but it is almost certain."

Analysis of a teaspoonful of the medicine said to have been taken by the woman showed it contained twenty-three grains of cyanide of potassium, he said.

"If Mrs. Cardy had taken the prescribed dose of the medicine, she would have swallowed about forty-five grains of the poison," he told the court.

He said he had known persons to live from ten minutes to half an hour after having taken cyanide. The cyanide taken from the bottle from Armstrong's drig store was much finer than that usually found on the market, Dr. Rogers said. It "would be difficult," he said, to distinguish between the cyanide and the citrate found in the drug store.

LAMBS, SHEEP GAIN, CALVES AND CATTLE SLUMP WITH HOGS

TORONTO, Oct. 29 (CP)—Lambs and sheep were a little stronger on the Toronto livestock market this week, the Dominion livestock branch reported, but other market classes sold off. Final cattle prices were 50 cents to $1 cwt. lower. Calves dropped 50 cents and hogs 35 to 40 cents.

The cattle run included 3,800 from the West. There were also 3,000 head carried over from the previous week. Trade was draggy. Canadian cattle sold on the Buffalo market this week were reported to have lost money for the shippers. One Buffalo report said some 15 loads of Canadian cattle were unsold.

Weighty steers made a few closing sales at $4 to $6.75 cwt., estimated $1 lower than a week ago. Butcher cattle closed at $3.50 to $5.50 after making early tops of $6. Boning steers and heifers brought $2.50 to $2.75.

Cows were down 25 to 50 cents in spots at $3.50 to $4 for good butchers with plain down to $2.50. Canners and cutters finished at $1.75 to $2.25. Good butcher bulls were priced at $3.50 to $4 and bolognas from $2.50 to $3.25. Fed calves made an early top of $10 with closing bids on choice $9.

1,000 Store Cattle Unsold.

Store cattle prices dipped 25 to 50 cents and about 1,000 were unsold at the close. Good feeders brought $4.50 to $5.60, and ordinary stockers $2.75 to $4.25. Milkers and springers were stronger at $65 to $70 for tops.

Calf receipts included 1,420 Westerns. The 50 cent decline followed a drop in United States markets. Tops were generally $9.50 with a few koshers reaching $10. Common lights sold downward to $5. Most heavy Western calves were down to $3.50 to $4.50, with some lighter grades at $5.50. Grassers ranged from $3 to $4.

Hogs dropped to a range of $8 to $8.15 off trucks for bacons on Monday and held unchanged for the balance of the week. Most of the sows offered sold at discounts at $2.50 to $3.00 cwt. from bacon prices.

Good ewe and wether lambs sold generally at $7.75, with occasional loads at $7.85 and a few tops up to $8.00. Bucks and heavies were discounted $1.00 cwt., while culls sold at $6 to $6.50. A car of Western feeding lambs, averaging 50 pounds, sold at $6.75. Sheep prices were about 25 cents higher, with good light sheep in demand at $4 to $4.75 cwt., and culls bringing $2 to $2.50.

NON-INTERVENTION IS BRANDED FRAUD BY LLOYD GEORGE

LONDON, Oct. 29.—(CP).—In a fighting speech, David Loyd George, war-time Prime Minister of Great Britain, yesterday told the House of Commons that non-intervention in Spain was "a boasted failure" and the "greatest, basest fraud and deception ever perpetrated by great nations on a weak people."

He said non-intervention operated to favor the insurgents and said that the sea routes of France and Great Britain in the Mediterranean "are practically in the hands of Mussolini and Germany."

"They are dangerously located for submarine bases, for airdromes and for heavy guns, and we are going to prolong the life of the committee that makes this possible."

Directs Dart at Chamberlain.

He said: "There is a feeling that with the change in the Premiership there is a change in the policy of the whole attitude of the Government toward the questions of isolation and the League of Nations."

Mr. Lloyd George added that if all the volunteers were withdrawn from Spain to-morrow, non-intervention would be accorded superiority to the insurgents which might make the difference between victory and defeat.

See Europe's Future at Stake.

Predicting a decisive battle was probably approaching in Spain, Mr. Lloyd George said "it may decide the fate of Spain, it may decide the fate of Europe, it may decide the issue whether Europe is going to be controlled by democracy or dictatorships."

"If democracy is beaten in this battle, or if fascism is triumphant in this battle, his Majesty's Government can claim that victory for themselves," he declared.

"If the objects of intervention France at a great disadvantage in any future war that may take place, this committee has been a triumph.

Mr. Lloyd George said of Mussolini's avowals of desire for peace: "He wants peace in Europe—until he and his fellow dictator are ready," and affirmed that Mussolini "makes a great pretense he is fighting the Reds."

Mussolini's ambitions went beyond a desire to assure an insurgent victory in Spain, Mr. Lloyd George said.

Bull Trees 'Youth' 74 Fall Breaks Arm

Glencoe, Oct. 29 (CP)

A BULL and a rotten tree limb combined to cause 74-year-old William Squire a broken shoulder. Spry as a youngster, he scaled a tree when an angry bull rushed him while he was building a dam on his farm near here. A rotten limb crumbled under his weight and he fell to the ground. Alone at the time, the farmer drove a car seven miles to obtain medical treatment for his broken shoulder.

DRIVER IS CLEARED BY CORONER'S JURY IN DEATH OF BOY

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 29—Donald Little was exonerated of all blame in connection with the death of John Newton who died when he was struck by Little's truck on the night of October 19th.

Returning their verdict after an absence from the courtroom of only 20 minutes the jury added in their verdict a rider to the effect that glaring headlights, which had figured as the direct cause for the accident formed "a grave menace to the people of this province."

George Newton, 8 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Newton of Meyersburg and brother of the victim was the only eye-witness to the accident. He told of how he was returning home with his younger brother with whom he had been sent to a farm down the road to get a pail of milk. In the simple language of a mere child he told of how he had been walking a few paces in front of his brother and when he saw a car approaching him from the north and saw the lights of another coming from the south he called to his brother who had been walking along the middle of the road.

"I called him and he came towards the edge of the road" testified the boy in answer to Col. Boggs question.

Didn't See Him Hit.

"I didn't see him struck. He was a couple of feet behind me and when I heard him holler I went back and saw him lying on the side of the road and asked him what was the matter. He didn't answer me."

Little told the jury that he had seen the two boys and with the glaring headlights of an approaching car was not sure whether the boys were on the pavement or not. He stopped his truck and went back just to make sure that the boys were alright and on finding the little fellow injured on the side of the road rushed to Campbellford with him. On examination by Dr. E. A. Stuart the boy was found to have a depressed fracture of the skull.

"An operation was performed that night and he died at 11 o'clock next morning never regaining conciousness," stated Dr. Stuart. "I warned the boys to walk on the left side of the road and to keep well off", Lewis Newton the father told Coroner Dr. H. C. Rundle of Brighton when called to the stand.

"You know what happens with glaring headlights", said Dr. Rundle addressing the jury who retired to return 20 minutes later with the verdict that John Newton had been accidentally killed on Highway No. 30 at 6.15 p.m. on October 19th.

ARSENATE OF LIME

it was learned. It was then she realized the mistake she had made.

Although she suffered the full effects of the poisonous substance, the woman had the commendable presence of mind to administer hot water emetics to the children and herself. Then she rushed to a telephone, notifying both the doctor and police.

The six victims of the poisoned pancakes were taken to the clinic for treatment, and afterwards returned to their home. All of them had recovered from their alarming experience this morning and the children were at school as usual.

Explaining she had prepared supper in the absence of the mother of the children and that she had decided to make pancakes when her young charges expressed the preference for them, the woman told a reporter:

Terribly Sick

"I had my full share of the pancakes and I was terribly sick.. I had a continuous attack of vomiting and did not sleep all through the night. But thank God the children are all right."

Dr. J. H. Eastwood and Dr. Agnes Moffat attended the woman and children. The former declared the preparation had contained arsenate of lime diluted with flour or starch. He believed it had not been of sufficient strength to result fatally, but agreed the victims suffered considerable distress.

"It should be a warning to the general public not to keep poisons around the house without the precaution of having them properly labelled and in proper containers," the doctor stated.

LINES NEST WITH SOCKS

HAMILTON, Ont., Oct. 29—(CP)—For weeks socks have been disappearing from Mrs. O. R. Kellar's house. She was at her wit's end to explain the mystery when she entered a bedroom and caught the thief in the act. He was a grey squirrel who had made himself a comfortable sock-lined nest in the chimney. Inspector Robert Ingle of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals released the captured animal in a distant park.

OBITUARY

MRS. FLOYD McMASTER

The death of Cora Pearl Matthews, wife of Floyd McMaster, occurred at the home, 1 Stewart Street, on Thursday, following an illness of three months. She was in her 49th year.

Born at Bowmanville, she was daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Matthews. She came here from Bowmanville 25 years ago. She was a member of Park Street Baptist Church.

Surviving are her parents, her husband, six sons, Jack, Charles, Edwin, Archie, Arthur and Fred of Peterborough, and two daughters, Hasel and Betty at home. Two brothers, William Matthews of Toronto and Wesley of Bowmanville, and a sister, Mrs. Gamble of Oshawa, also remain.

The funeral will be held on Saturday at 1.30 o'clock from the D. Bellegbem & Sons Funeral Home to Little Lake Cemetery, Rev. C. C. Boyter of Park Street Baptist Church officiating.

APPEAL IS ALLOWED.

Before the Court of Appeal at Osgoode Hall on Thursday the appeal in the case of A. L. Payne vs. H. Dunmuir, was heard. This was an appeal from a judgment by Judge Smoke on April 28 last. The claim of the plaintiff was for damages sustained in a collision between a motor truck driven by him and a motor car driven by the defendant, and the defendant counter-claimed for damages to his car. W. J. A. Fair acted for the plaintiff and T. J. Carley, K.C., for the defendant. The judgment of the Appeal Court was given by Mr. Justice Henderson as follows: "We are all of the opinion that the defendant's negligence was the cause of the plaintiff's damages. The appeal of the plaintiff is allowed with costs and there will be judgment entered in his favor in the lower court for $120 and the costs of the action. The counter-claim is dismissed with costs and the judgment in defendant's favor entered in the lower court is set aside."

MONTREAL PRODUCE

Prices held steady on Montreal open produce markets for butter, cheese, eggs and potatoes.

Butter was quoted at 29¼ to 29½c a pound for carlots or less of No. 1, while lots to retailers were 29½ to 30c for solids and 30 to 30½c for prints. Receipts: 764 boxes.

Graded egg shipments in carlots or less were 41c a dozen for A-large, 38c for A-medium, 31c for A-pullets, 26½ to 27c for B-large and 21½ to 22c for C. Receipts: 2,817 cases.

Cheese was quoted at 18¾c a pound for Ontario October-make, white and colored, and 13¾c for similar Quebec grades. Receipts: 3,814 boxes.

Potatoes.—Quebec whites, No. 1, 80's, 60c; No. 2, 80's, 35 to 45c; No. 1 N.B. Mountains, 80's, 60 to 70c; No. 1 P.E.I. Mountains, 90's, 80c; 80's, 70c; No. 1 Cobblers, 80's, 65c.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

Lack of support to offset southern selling and slightly increased hedging sent wheat futures tumbling two cents on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day. At the end of the erratic session, values were 2½ to 1⅞ cents lower: October, $1.22⅛; November, $1.20⅜ to ⅛; December, $1.91¼ to ⅜ and May $191 ½ to ⅝.

After opening steady in view of firmness of October wheat, prices ampled rapidly in mid-session trading when other world wheat markets showed losses.

Though Chicago was comparatively firm most of the day, both Liverpool and Buenos Aires wheats declined. Lower cash wheat prices also had a depressing influences at Winnipeg.

In a conference with Soviet Ambassador Ivan Maisky preparatory to today's meeting, Mr. Eden was believed to have urged modification of the Soviet position on belligerency right. One report said M. Maisky told Mr. Eden the Soviet government would consider the belligerency rights question when the "bulk," taken to mean more than half, of the volunteers had been withdrawn. Italy and Germany were known to oppose this compromise.

Germany's Joachim von Ribbentrop said the granting of belligerent rights is an essential preliminary condition for the withdrawal of Foreign volunteers from Spain.

Means Deadlock

Von Ribbentrop said Soviet Russia's insistence on withdrawal of the bulk of foreigners before such rights are granted meant the committee could not proceed further.

Ivan Maisky, Russian member of the subcommittee, delivering new Moscow instructions said the Soviet could not accept present Anglo-French proposals for getting fighters out of Spain "in their entirety."

Von Ribbentrop suggested some new plan be devised by the chairman and Russia be persuaded to fall in line.

The Anglo-French plan contemplated sending commissions to Spain to arrange and supervise volunteer troop withdrawals.

Old Scalps For New Available By Modern Surgery

Science Comes To Rescue When Machinery Takes Up Where Indians Leave Off

By Howard W. Blakeslee
(Associated Press Science Editor.)

CHICAGO, Oct. 29—(AP).—The Indians have stopped scalping, but machines have taken over where the red men left off, the American College of Surgeons was informed today.

This fact was brought out by James A. Cahill, M.D., of Georgetown University School of Medicine, in telling how surgeons have devised operations to build new scalps, something which was not done much "in the good old days."

The moderns who lose their scalps to machines are exclusively women and Chinese, according to Dr. Cahill's records, which cover 96 cases. Long hair catching in wheels or belts is the cause, and since the Chinese cut their queues they have been exempt. But bobbed hair styles have not been a complete protection.

The most recent operation for giving a woman a new scalp was described by Dr. Cahill. The patient was a 25-year-old garment worker whose accident came as she stopped to pick up something under her machine.

The machine did about twice as much scalping in area, as a savage's knife, and it took off the right ear, too. Yet today, said Dr. Cahill, the young woman has a new ear, and a scalp.

She wears a transformation, said Dr. Cahill and in good looks "she certainly has no reason for any embarrassment."

Most of her new scalp—and this includes quite a bit of forehead skin—came from the region of her shoulder blades. The skin there was first detoured to the back of her head by a "pedicle flap," and then moved to cover the areas where scalp and other skin was missing.

The tissues of her new ear were supplied by the skin of her neck, below the ear. The cartilege to stiffen the ear and give it shapeliness was taken from her seventh rib.

NEW MUNITION PLANT

LONDON, Oct. 29 (CP-Havas).—The War Office today commissioned Imperial Chemical Industries, Ltd., to construct a munitions factory at Swansea, South Wales. Statistics issued by the War Office indicated the number of recruits for the regular army during the past week totalled 620 compared with 332 during the corresponding week of last year.

Britain In Favor U.S. Trade Views

LONDON, Oct. 29—(AP). — Sir John Simon, Chancellor of the Exchequer, to-day told the House of Commons that "His Majesty's Government are in full sympathy with the aims of the United States' government in regard to trade barriers."

Answering the question of Rupert De La Bere, Conservative, as to whether Great Britain would move to establish an "economic comradeship" between the two countries, the Chancellor merely reiterated that informal discussions" were continuing between Britain and the United States to find a basis for trade negotiations.

He refused to say what were Britain's connections with the efforts of Paul Van Zeeland, former Premier of Belgium, to find the key to world trade problems.

AIRPLANE FACTORY FOR DESERONTO

NAPANEE, Oct. 29—With plans announced including 3,500 feet of interesecting concrete runways, the Verdier Aircraft Company of Canada, Inc., of Montreal, it has been definitely stated, will locate an airplane factory in Deseronto at the former Camp Rathbun site, which was used as a flying field during the war.

It is expected about 200 men will be employed in the construction of the large plant and up to half that number when operations begin. The project revives memories of two decades back, when, under Royal Flying Corps jurisdiction, scores of young Canadians qualified as aviators at this camp before proceeding overseas to active service.

The property has been purchased by the Montreal interests from the Perry estate through the Toronto Trust Company for a sum reported to be in the neighborhood of $7,000. Plans call for offices, sleeping quarters and a restaurant also to be erected on the site.

OBITUARY

MRS. W. NEUSE.
(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Oct. 29.—On Monday Mrs. W. Neuse passed away at Mountain Grove, after an illness of only a few hours. She was in her 48th year, and was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cephus Fox. Left to mourn her loss are her husband, four daughters and one son. The funeral was conducted in St. John's Anglican Church by Rev. Joseph Cantrill.

JOSEPH GENEVEAUX.
(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Oct. 29. — After a few weeks' illness, Mr. Joseph Geneveaux passed away at his home in the French Settlement, near Actinolite, Sunday. He was in his 82nd year, and had lived in that vicinity all his life.

The funeral took place from St. Henry's Church, Queensboro. Requiem Mass was celebrated by Rev. Father Hyland of Madoc. Interment in St. Henry's Cemetery.

JOHN GAFFENY.
(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Oct. 29.—Word has been received of the untimely death of Mr. John Gaffeny in Cleveland, due to a heart attack. His wife predeceased him a short time ago. He was a brother of Mr. Dan Gaffeny of Read.

EARL COLE.
(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Oct. 29.—The funeral of Earl Cole, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cole, Northbrook, was held on Monday. Earl was one of our first boys to enlist in the Great War, and spent three years in France, where his health was impaired, eventually resulting in his death at the age of 38. A number of fellow workmen of Buffalo came to pay their last tribute to one they held in high respect.

CHARLES F. VARTY.
(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Oct. 29.—News was received here on Wednesday morning of the sudden death in Winnipeg on Tuesday, October 26th, of Charles F. Varty. Although he had been troubled with a heart condition for some time, his death was quite unexpected. Fifty-two years of age, he was born at Bogart, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Peter Varty, and 32 years ago he went to Winnipeg, where he was continuously employed. Eighteen years ago he was married to Miss Beatrice O'Riordan of Madoc, who survives. The late Mr. Varty was a member of the United Church, and was also a prominent official of I.O.O.F. in the West. Surviving, besides his wife, are two brothers, Hiram of Bogart and W. J. Varty, Demorestville, and two sisters, Mrs. C. W. Thompson, Frankford, and Mrs. Edgar Tibble, London, England. The late Mr. Varty visited his mother in Bogart a few weeks ago. The remains are being shipped to Tweed.

The funerall will be held from the home of Charles K. Porrit, Tweed, on Saturday afternoon, October 30. Interment in Victoria Cemetery, Tweed.

CAVAN

Mr. Bell, Toronto, spent a couple of weeks recently with his brother-in-law, Mr. David White and Mrs. White, convalescing after a serious illness.

Mr. and Mrs. David White attended the golden wedding of their cousins Mr. and Mrs. S. Coulson, at Harmony on Tuesday evening. Mr. and Mrs. James Roddy, Bailieboro, accompanied them.

There was a barn raising at Arnold Bidgood's on Wednesday, replacing the barn recently destroyed in an electric storm.

Mr. and Mrs. Cameron, Brantford, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Syer.

Mrs. H. Tinney was a visitor in Lindsay on Tuesday.

Mrs. E. Boyle and son, Ernest, were in Lindsay on Tuesday at her daughter's wedding.

Cavan Women's Institute held a quilting in the Sunday School rooms of the church on Wednesday. Three quilts were quilted. A pot luck dinner was enjoyed.

FLOODS IN B.C.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 29 (CP)—Two days' rain that swelled fast-running streams on the west slope of the coast range today ripped out a Pacific Great Eastern Railway bridge, isolated communities inland from Squamish at the head of Howe Sound, and delayed Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railway trains due to arrive here this morning.

STUDENTS TO EAT TO MUSIC

ANNAPOLIS, Md.—St. John's College students soon may have languid waltzes for breakfast, leisurely foxtrots for lunch and measured military marches for dinner. Miss Georgia Smith, college dietitian, decided that the boys had been eating too fast. She is arranging to have a radio installed in the dining hall to slow the pace.

CAN'T BE ARRESTED GOV. QUINN INSISTS

PROVIDENCE, R.I., Oct. 29 (AP).—A warrant for the arrest of Governor Robert E. Quinn in a $500,000 libel suit by Walter E. O'Hara remained in the pocket of Sheriff Thomas Barry of Kent County as Quinn insisted he could not be arrested.

Meanwhile, on petition of State Public Utilities Commissioner Michael Deciantis, as responsible representative of O'Hara's Star-Tribune was summoned to appear before Superior Judge Charles A. Walsh to show cause why the paper should not be held in contempt of court.

Deciantis' petition was based, he said, on a paragraph in an extra edition of the paper which said Judge Walsh "was interviewed" and Deciantis "was politely urged to cool down in the interests of common decency and the sane administration of justice."

O'Hara remained free in $5,000 bail awaiting arraignment on a grand jury indictment returned yesterday, charging him with libeling the Governor in an extra edition of the Star-Tribune.

HASTINGS

Miss Helena Murphy, of Kingston, is renewing old acquaintances in Hastings.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Rorke and daughter Lauretta of Guelph, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Walsh over the week-end.

Guests at the home of Dr. W. E. and Mrs. Wilson on Monday were, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Young of Warkworth, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wilson of Dartford.

Those from Hastings who attended the funeral of the late Mrs. Catharine Cleary, of Peterborough, were Mrs. T. A. Walsh, Mrs. J. V. Galvin, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Coughlan, P. J. Crowley, Mr. F. Walsh and Mrs. Robert Barry, of Vancouver.

Messrs. Bert Montgomery, O. Phillips, Jack McCarthy, A. L. Hill and Earl Boyle were visitors to Toronto Saturday, where they had their first skate of the season on artificial ice.

The System Is Wrong

A coroner's inquest decided that Robert Taylor, a man of 35 years, came to his death from drinking Lysol, a bottled product which is used in a good many homes. Lysol itself is a coal tar product and poisonous in a high degree.

It was further shown that Taylor had been drinking a great deal of wine. For some months he had been unemployed, and about the only pleasant feature in the evidence was the statement which showed that although Taylor was out of work and without money the folk with whom he had been boarding continued to provide for him.

When he was able to secure any money by doing odd jobs it went for wine, and he had consumed almost three bottles of it on the day of his death, and this wine was stated to have contained from 13 to 15 per cent. alcoholic content. By way of comparison it is well to recall that in the days of the prohibition law in Ontario the first break was made with the introduction of a beer which had but 4.4 alcoholic content.

Sales are recorded of wine, but the business does not come under the same law of permits as the sales of liquor or beer from a warehouse. In this case Mr. Taylor was able to buy all he desired or could pay for. If he were not able to walk to the wine shop and secure it then he could telephone and have it delivered at his address. And that is what he did.

The system looks entirely too loose and we do not believe it should be continued or tolerated.

Did Not Vote For "Mitch"

Some of the politically wise people in Old London believe Premier Hepburn of Ontario had an advantage in going to the polls with a nickname "Mitch." They think there is some sort of magnetism in such an abbreviated name, and it is recalled that Howard Ferguson had a similar advantage beeause in the days of his political peak he was popularly known as "Fergie."

One Old Country writer says the nickname for public men has never "caught on" in that land, and that is true enough. Ramsay MacDonald was never known as "Ram" or yet as "Mac." When Stanley Baldwin was premier he never went by the nickname of "Stan," nor was he ever referred to as "Baldy" or any such thing. It is true that Lord Beaconsfield was referred to as "Dizzy" by his political opponents, that name being twisted from the family name Disraeli.

It cannot be urged that in Canada there has been a nickname for our greatest political figures. No one would have thought of providing one for Sir John A. Macdonald, and it would not have been fitting to have attempted to attach a name to Sir Wilfred Laurier. The truth is the people in Ontario voted just as much for Hepburn as they did for "Mitch."

Not The Whole Truth

Can a ma ngo into the court and tell the truth, but not the whole truth and nothing but the truth? It would seem so.

Harry Lang appeared in court at London, Ont., on a charge of begging on the street. Speaking for himself he said he was asking only for a loaf of bread, and as though to place himself in a favored position he volunteered the information that he had not been "in court here for a year and a-half."

The magistrate was pleased to hear that and the records showed what he said was true. He had not been in the London court in a year and a-half, but he had appeared in courts of other cities in that time and had a record for theft and shoplifting. So that becomes a fairly good example of what is meant by telling the truth—but not the whole truth and nothing but the truth.

After A Man Votes

After considerable questioning and searching it was decided that Lionel Conacher, Liberal, had been elected in Bracondale riding of Toronto by a majority of 37 votes. Notice has since been given that an appeal against that decision will be lodged by Russell Nesbitt, defeated Conservative candidate. Among other reasons it is claimed error was made in not rejecting ballots which had been marked with the voters' poll book numbers and ballots which had not been initialed by election officers.

The real purpose of any post-election survey is to try and make the results come as close as possible to the intention of the voters in the first place. That is a broad general principle which applies to all such hearings.

What election officers did to the ballots after the voters marked them becomes of secondary importance. It would seem if there were many cases where wrong markings had been placed on the ballots by election officers that the inquiry should be directed to find out why it is that election officers do not know their business.

One Problem Not Solved

We noticed reference in an exchange recently to the manner in which a certain traffic case had been handled in court at Chester. There had been an accident, although there was no fatality resulting, but one driver had been what the court called "extremely negligent" and he had been drinking. The decision of the court was that he should drive no more. That caused the comment in our exchange:

"That is the way they do things in England where they handle the offending motorist without fear, and that is the explanation of why the situation is kept so well in hand."

Of course there are figures available which show the situation in Great Britain is not particularly well in hand. It has become so serious that following the Speech from the Throne at the opening of the British parliament, Col. J. T. C. Moore-Brabazon, Conservative, regretted "there had been no reference in the Speech to the staggering road accident figures which at present are 6,000 dead and 250,000 injured in Great Britain annually."

And the existence of such figures makes it plain enough that the traffic situation in Great Britain as elsewhere is very much out of hand. The plain and stubborn truth is that no country has yet found the solution to the business of killing people with motor cars.

Use Our Intelligence

Hon. James G. Gardiner, Federal Minister of Agriculture, believes farmers from the dried-out areas of Western Canada should be encouraged to come to Ontario and make use of the abandoned farms here. He is certain there would be a better chance for them. We have heard it stated that newspapers are in error in painting the Western situation as bad, but Mr. Gardiner claims that in the distance between Calgary and Moose Jaw in the 1937 season there was not a field in which it would have been possible to put a binder.

His plan of making use of abandoned farms in Ontario sounds reasonable, but it is not sufficient. It is realized we made serious enough blunders in settling the West in the first place, and we should seek to avoid blunders in bringing population from the West to the East. In this way: The farms which are classed as abandoned in our province were once under cultivation. The fact that they are abandoned means that the people who were working them failed, and the failure may have been due to poor farms or poor farming. We cannot take it for granted that because a Western farmer comes and starts to work a piece of property which has been abandoned in the East that he is going to make a success of it. The reason for the first failure may still be in the premises.

We have made advances in the business of telling what is wrong with our soil. Only a short time ago we watched a chemist at a plowing match and he was kept busy all day analyzing samples of soil which farmers in the district had brought for inspection. They appeared to be keen to find out if their soil was defective, and also anxious to be told what was needed to restore it to full strength. Preparatory work of this nature should be done on the places we refer to as abandoned farms before we seek to put other people on them.

Apart from the cases of those who were not good farmers we are certain people would not have abandoned them had they been able to make a fair living. We did make serious error in opening up the West, and we should move with caution in moving people from the West to the East.

Special Police On Duty!

In the last issue of the paper from home we notice a little item at the head of the column marked "Local News" and it says there will be special officers sworn in for duty on Hallowe'en and they will patrol the various streets and deal with any offenders who may be working mischief. And to make it look more official the notice carries the names of the chief of police and the village reeve.

The notice is not worded just the same as it used to be years ago. We recall quite vividly having set that little notice in type for the same village paper. Stood in front of an 8-point case and very carefully picked up a letter at a time and put the thing together. It was then written out by the boss of the place himself, and on one anniversary occasion he referred to the fact that at times he wielded a trenchant pen. So when he wrote up the notice for the chief of police he inserted a certain amount of fear and terror and legal phraseology in the thing.

It might so happen that the Chief had been mending the board side-walk along the street where the printing office was located and had dropped his tools to attend to write-up in the paper on enforcing law and order on Hallowe'en. Or he may have come in after weighing a shipment of pigs on the village weigh scales, or perhaps he had just finished sweeping out the village hall. The Chief had many things to do.

On Hallowe'en he used to don the raiment of authority. Most times he wore only the garment of the man who works, but on occasion he would go to "his office" in the basement of the village hall and emerge with a cap upon his head on the front of which the one word "Police" had been done in gold braid. It was always fresh and impressive because the Chief so seldom wore it. And on such occasions he would also add to his impressiveness by wearing a double breasted blue coat on which were two rows of brass buttons down the front, and the buttons were so large and full of lustre that one never thought to look and see that the trousers were those of the baggy knees which the Chief wore when mending sidewalks, spreading gravel, running the weigh scales or bucksawing wood to heat the chamber the night council was to be in session.

But the youth of the village was not much impressed by the notice in the paper, although slightly awed by the uniform. It was well known that the special constables would be the blacksmith and the man who worked in the livery stable and drove the hearse for funerals. Neither was fleet of foot.

So it was that things went along on Hallowe'en just as they had in other years. Certain little outbuildings which for purposes of general utility had to stand in an upright position were reduced to a horizontal attitude, and that of course made it necessary for the elders in the tribe to hold a number of bees on the following day in order to restore these little structures to their original position if not their original glory. Even the trenchant pen of the village editor had failed to stem the wild tendencies of youth once it had sniffed the night air of Hallowe'en.

The notice of warning has been published again this year as has been the custom since men in places of authority sought to administer law and order and guarantee the safety of person and of property in any given community. We have a feeling though that when the day after Hallowe'en dawns there will be members of the community surveying the landscape. They will notice little buildings lying flat, helpless and useless and will be much inclined to mutter "Extra police—Bah!"

NOTE AND COMMENT

A writer to a Toronto paper complains there are not enough silver dollars. Nor paper ones either, we have found.

An Edmonton young man rode 1,000 miles on a bicycle to Winnipeg looking for a job. A youth with that much determination shouldn't need to go so far.

Mr. Rowe says he is going to reshuffle the Conservative party. Before he starts that operation however, it might be well to cut the cards.

Evidently politics is not like a street car. When you give up your seat in one of those things you seldom have another offered you.

Four Russians have been sentenced to death for poisoning dairy cows. The Soviet courts evidently believe in a permanent cure in cases of that kind.

Postmortems are never very pleasant affairs but the Ontario Conservatives must have found this week's inquiry into the cause of the October 6 disaster particularly distressing.

Orders have gone out from Toronto to slow down on road work and probably no one will be surprised. It was not expected the pre-election pace could be kept up permanently.

The ball used in the professional baseball leagues next season is to be made less lively and we believe the New York Giants are thoroughly in favor of the change especially for the world series engagements.

Kingston will ask the Royal Commission on Transportation to consider awarding the city a share of the gasoline tax for the upkeep of the provincial highway passing through the city. We have two such highways so we should get a double share.

TEN PER CENT

(By A. B. K.)

¶ Old Ten Per Cent. when here on earth, spent little time in fun or mirth, for money was his god; the one thing that went hard on him, he could not carry off his tin, when he went 'neath the sod.

¶ For he had money that he lent, and he kept count of every cent, he stood for no delay; if what was due to him was late, he'd chant at once his hymn of hate, he'd close in tight next day.

¶ And there were poor folk in his town, but Ten Per Cent. just turned them down, and sent them off to shift; they were but lazy bums he said, the sort that never got ahead, in them there was no thrift.

¶ But Ten Per Cent. was pious too, he likewise looked it through and through, in him there was no sin; when he passed to the better land the welcome for him would be grand, there'd be a seat for him.

¶ But folks have wondered if he met, with all the neighbors he upset, what Ten Per Cent. would say; and what he'd say to poor folk there, if they discussed some sad affair, like when they couldn't pay.

¶ It would be hard for that old gent, who wrestled with each passing cent, to meet their taunts and stings; that's why I hope that Ten Per Cent. finds in that land of sweet content — they talk of other things.

WAR SCARES are costing millions of dollars in Britain. No longer is it possible to insure property in the United Kingdom against fire and other damage resulting from acts of war. Millions of householders will have no redress if enemy bomb wrecks their home. Fire companies and Lloyd's underwriters will not even include war risks on renewal of existing policies.

✧ ✧ ✧

Underwriters say the Government should be responsible for compensation in wartime. So now a scheme is afoot to launch a non-profit earning Property Owners' Protective Association to give householders the necessary cover. If there is no war in ten years the amount paid by he subscribers will be returnable.

Only on Sundays did he get a spoonful of homemade jam. He ran away and went to Bristol, became a page-boy, tram-conductor, shop assistant and van-man before joining the Dockers' Union which put him on the road to power. Now he wants to go to Parliament, with leadership of the Socialist party as his dream.

Germany's Secret Police.

HEINRICH HIMMLER, head of the Gestapo, Germany's Secret Police, is sometimes known as the German Fouche because his activities resemble those of Napoleon's spy-in-chief. Son of a well-to-do merchant, Himmler was taken up in 1927 by Gregor Strasser, at that time a prominent member of the Nazi organization. Then he proceeded to exhibit his uncanny skill at unearthing plots by exposing Strasser's own intrigue against the Fuehrer. Strasser promptly fled to Czechoslovakia and his former pupil was given his post.

Not a Forgotten Vocation.

FISHING WHICH was a picturesque occupation in the Holy Land in Biblical times is by no means a forgotten vocation there at the present time, Gerald Flynn tells us in the Crusader's Almanac. A government report gives the following interesting figures. There are 377 fishing boats plying in Palestine waters who in one recent year caught 1,130 tons of fish valued at 44,733 pounds or some $230,000. Besides 444 tons were caught in the Lake of Tiberias and small Lake Huleh to the north, having a market value of about $40,000. A species of fish found only in the Lake of Tiberias is known as St. Peter's fish. In addition to all these products of home waters, Palestine imported nearly 3,000 tons of canned and other fish at a cost of half a million dollars.

Letters To The Editor

Correspondents Discuss Various Topics.

IN SPAIN

Editor Examiner:

Sir: It is ridiculous how some people are trying to bargain for others. We know just as much about Spain as John Meehan who wrote in your paper. Certainly Major Lord got one convert this time. Did the Major tell his audience how many clergymen had been massacred in Spain? No. Did the Major tell how much war supplies the loyalist government gets from the bolsheviats? No.

They got in July and August 11,284 men, 2,068 motor cars and chassis, 43 auto ambulances, 450 motorcycles, 51 tanks, 240 freight cars of war material, 950,000 gallons of gasoline. About 600 tons pass daily along the French border. Are those war materials not military assistance for the loyalists. And about the alleged Christian democratic countries. Well they are very intelligent people and know that Mussolini does not bluff and you can tell that to Major Lord and his friends.

REASON FOR SHORTAGE

Editor Examiner:

Sir: We read from your paper that J. F. Marsh Ontario Deputy Minister of Labor told that Ottawa Board of Trade that we are short of skilled workers in every part of the province and issued a warning if something is not done there will come a day when the wheels of industry will be at a standstill because of a shortage of mechanics and skilled operators. While we may feel in accord with his warning it cannot be admitted there is a shortage of skilled mechanics, from the fact that all factory doors are closed to all factory workers from the age of 40 and over.

It might well be reckoned by reason of it not being necessary to exert a great deal of physical energy in the operation of such machinery a mechanic has become more efficient between the age of forty and sixty than at any other period throughout his profession by way of practical experience, good judgment, and common sense.

Buckwheat Still Out; Plowing Not Done

Lack of Fine Days Has Held Farm Work Back; Not Good For Cows to be Out in Cold Winds

(By RUSTICUS)

(In Stratford Beacon-Herald)

WHAT WAS it someone wrote about October giving a party? Well, October 1937 hasn't been very partylike. What with snow and rain and wind, the weather has been most unpleasant and farm work on many farms lags far behind.

A considerable portion of the potato crop is still in the ground, and Oct. 23rd is rather late to be harvesting potatoes and mangolds. The buckwheat is still mostly out in the stook and there are still many acres to plow.

Fortunately, there have been a few days of comparatively warm, even if wet, weather recently and the wheat is getting some chance to make necessary growth. Even a week ago it seemed probable that the wheat was going to be rather setiat when winter came, and the soil should be well cultivated so that no dry, cold frost can injure this coming winter.

Out of all the problems right now is what to do with the live stock. It does seem a bit early to shut the gates and keep them in for the long winter months, and it doesn't seem quite fair to turn them out and expect cows to face those chilly winds and come up at night with the normal amount of milk.

So far we have been compromising. The cattle spend the night in the barn and on the better days they are left out. (We almost said the fine days, but that kind hasn't been handed out very much lately.) Even that plan doesn't work so well. The cows are not getting the same feed every day and production fluctuates wildly. Moreover, the continued rains have made the laneway rather muddy, and that means the necessity of greater care to keep the cows, and consequently the milk, clean. They would be much better shut right in, but then it's a long long time from Oct. 25 to about the same date next May. There will be plenty of chores to do in these seven months.

✧ ✧ ✧

IN BULK the 1937 harvest has been a great one, and there are bound to be long hours of labor required to convert that feed into growth on young stock, pork, beef, dairy and poultry produce. For some reason or other, some farmers are going to be able to turn that feed into live stock produce a great deal more economically than others. What enables one man to feed hogs and procure a pound of gain on four or five pounds of grain, while another requires six or seven? Why do one man's steers fatten so much more readily than his neighbors?

We might go on and on asking these questions. For instance, why do some farmers lose so much live stock through death attributed to one cause or another? We know that the general answer is luck. How often do we hear a group of farmers discussing a neighbor's loss of a horse or cow remarking that Bill or Harry or Tim, as the case may be, certainly has hard luck?

The other day a live stock breeder from another county was visiting here on the farm, and he was discussing a certain disease that was taking quite a toll in his herd. Rather than go to some trouble and a small expense to clean that disease out, he was planning to carry on and continue to take his losses. We wonder if that is not a general practice. We know that it is in certain branches of our farm live stock. Just how much of the harvest stored away in our barns at this, the beginning of a stable-feeding period, is going to be wasted in maintaining disease and parasites is something we do not know.

We are certain that a good deal of what we generally call "bad luck" can be attributed to these two thieves which many of us so willingly entertain.

Russia Has Largest Submarine Fleet

Has Concentrated on Producing This Craft; Reported Now to Have 151 of Them on Hand

(From "The Scotsman")

IF SOVIET RUSSIA is as yet comparatively weak in cruisers and modern destroyers with which to support her three battleships, her submarine program has been almost without parallel in the annals of naval construction.

The Soviet Government has shown a capacity for concentrating its resources on something that could bring comparatively quick and tangible results.

The most recent figures available put this submarine fleet at 151 vessels and a number of new submarines have, no doubt, been finished during the last few months. Russia thus has by far the largest submarine fleet in the world. At the end of last year Great Britain possessed 52 submarines, Italy 67, U.S.A. 87, Japan 64, and Germany 32.

Of the enormous number of Russian submarines many appear to be coastal vessels of about 500 tons, and there are at least 25 boats of the M class which are as small as 200 tons. But there are in the Black Sea a number of ocean-going submarines of over 1,000 tons.

Russia has three, or if the White Sea be included, four coasts to defend and four potential spheres of naval operation. A number of canals have, it is true, been built, which may allow small craft to pass between the White Sea, the Baltic, and the Black Sea, and this may be the reason why such a large number of exceptionally small submarines have been built.

About 50 submarines are at Vladivostok and neighboring ports, besides a number of mine-layers and minesweepers, and there are about a dozen small gunboats on the Amur River. The Soviet plan of defence in the Far East would appear to derive from a number of interesting calculations.

In the first place, of course, it is clear that the Soviet fleet could not under any circumstances engage the Japanese, with their nine battleships and 40 cruisers, in open action. But it is evidently thought aeroplanes and coastal submarines could, with the assistance of heavy coastal batteries, prevent any Power from making a landing in Siberia, and that they could inflict great losses on the Japanese fleet and merchant shipping.

The Soviet Union has itself hardly any maritime trading interests in the Far East, and therefore no shipping to protect.

ANNOYED.

(Kingston Whig-Standard)

WE DO NOT much like the Alberta Press Act, although we feel it is so fantastic that it could never be enforced. Neither do we agree with Judge Tudhope that the press has too much freedom. There are times, however, when we have a very strong feeling that some restrictions should be put on editors.

Sitting quietly by the fireside last evening, glancing over the editorial pages of our contemporaries, we came across the following in the Chatham News:

Kitchener Record says: "There's an 'itch' in Mitch." We might also point out there's a terrific punch in the last four letters of Mitchell.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Well, why not? Isn't there a Mit in the front of it?—Peterborough Examiner.

Also he's got "It" right after the "M."

This may not arouse the ire of Mr. Aberhart, nor will it perhaps attract the attention of Judge Tudhope, but is should be brought to the attention of the minister of justice and something should be done about it.

How are we going to keep down the growing expense of our mental hospitals if irresponsible editors are allowed to rock the reason of sane men with such outbreaks?

It is a lucky thing for some editors that old habits and old customs have passed away. Were we living in what are sometimes called "the good old days" we hesitate to contemplate what might happen to three men whom we used to hold in quite high regard.

GHOST CHURCH.

(New Outlook)

WE HAVE been reading a strange story about a ghost church in the State of New York that is said to have its future all behind it. Founded more than a century ago, it has a board of trustees, cushioned pews, an altar and an organ, and technically employ a visiting pastor. It has now only eight members, who keep it organized and ready for the services which are never conducted.

Once in three or four years a funeral cortege rolls up to its doors, as another of its fading group passes on. That is the only formal service for which the building is used. It is a parable and a picture of many another institution which is a "ghost" and does not know it.

FORGET THE CASH.

(Winnipeg Free Press)

THE FACT is, as General Griesbach, of Edmonton, said in a speech the other day, that the Social Credit plan of dividends for all is practically a dead issue in Alberta. If it is not quite dead, it is dying fast, and Mr. Aberhart is doing nothing to bring it back to life. There has been no word about $25 a month, or even 25 cents, in any recent speech by the head, miracle man or the assistant conjurers.

About 50 submarines are at Vladivostok and neighboring ports, besides a number of mine-layers and minesweepers, and there are about a dozen small gunboats on the Amur River. The Soviet plan of defence in the Far East would appear to derive from a number of interesting calculations.

Supposing all the laws passed at Edmonton this year were in effect, there is not a clause in any of them which promises dividends. The bank taxation bill would raise enough money in a year to make just one payment of $5 to every adult Albertan—less than 2 per cent. of the amount needed to pay them all $25 a month.

FALL FAIR STORY.

(Fergus News-Record)

THERE was a certain Fall fair where the poultry prizes mostly went to one individual. He did not live in the place, but he would bring in about 15 kinds of fowl and made a clean-up. The directors decided to do something about it. They passed a new rule that no person could show more than four breeds of poultry.

The next year, the same man arrived with his trailer full of his 15 varieties, and went into the office to make his entries. He was told he could only enter four breeds. "That's all right," he said. "Four of them belong to me. The others are for my son, my son-in-law, and my uncle—four breeds for two of them and three for the others."

Nothing could be done about it, but the society did collect four membership from him.

WILSON COUPLE MARRIED 40 YEARS CELEBRATE EVENT

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Oct. 29.—Mr. and Mrs. David Fairman of the Wilson Settlement celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary at their home on Wednesday, when friends and relatives met with them and offered congratulations and best wishes at this time which marks forty years of happy married life.

Afternoon tea was served to over sixty guests. Miss Grace Orr, of Hastings, niece of the groom, capably waited on all who had the privilege to attend. Supper was then served to the immediate families, including Mr. and Mrs. Peter Fairman, Ruth and Kenneth, of Godolphin, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fairman, of Campbellford, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Orr, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Orr, and Miss Grace Orr of Hastings; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fairman and Irwin, of Campbellford; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Dalnard, Violet and Donald of Norwood; Mrs. William MacMillan, Joan and Jack, of Oshawa; Mr. and Mrs. Allan Simpson and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Seeney of Stirling, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred McGee of Hastings.

The table was beautiful centred with a three-tier cake with tall candles of the ruby shade in silver holders on either side. During the lunch hour, Mr. Peter Fairman proposed the toast to the bride and groom of forty years ago, to which the honored couple, ably responded, and as Mr. and Mrs. William Hedger played all sang heartily "For they are jolly good fellows."

A real neighborhood touch was given to this happy occasion, when around 9.30 p.m. a large number of friends and neighbors arrived at the home for a real old-time dance with the bride and groom, who were the first couple to lead in the dancing to the music furnished by Mr. and Mrs. William Hedger.

Many beautiful and practical gifts, mostly of ruby colors were received by the happy couple, who appreciated the remembrance from their friends and acquaintances.

Unable to be present at the Ruby wedding were the groom's brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. John Fairman of Hastings, and the bride's sister and brother, Mrs. James Seeney of Stirling, and Mr. Joseph Mirriam of Stoughton, Sask.

Miss Grace Orr recieved word that she was the winner of a beautiful electric iron given by the merchants of Trenton during Trenton Week. Miss Orr and her mother visited in Trenton during the past week and while purchasing goods received the lucky ticket.

OVER 600 ATTEND SUPPER AT KEENE

(Examiner Correspondence.)

KEENE, Oct. 29.—The United church held their annual fowl supper in the basement of their church and a concert in the Town Hall on Wednesday evening.

About 635 sat down to a bounteous supper and a full house enjoyed a splendid concert consisting of mostly local talent. The program was as follows:

Instrumental duet, Mr. and Mrs. Alf Fletcher; violin solo, Mr. Northrop; cartons by Mr. Lewis; Mather's Corners School group, tap dance; piano solo, Mr. Northrop; Misses Dorothy Ferguson, Mary Belle Humphries, and Agnes Weir, sang "Little Old Lady"; Miss M. Bryce sang "The Floral Dance"; Mather's Corners School group, tap dance; Northrop Brothers, piano duet; Mr. Lewis, ventriloquist; violin solo, Mr. Northrop; Rev. Mr. Preston of Knox Presbyterian church conveyed greetings from his church; Mr. and Mrs. Alf Fletcher, guitar selection; Mrs. Ross McIntyre, reading.

Rev. Mr. F. S. Ferguson, minister of the United church, acted as chairman for this occasion.

Ladies' Club Meets

On Thursday evening Mrs. Gus Bolin and Mrs. George Howle were hostess to the Ladies' Club of Keene.

Miss Jennie Plunkett read a very interesting paper on Rudyard Kipling; other things on the same subject were given by Miss Lila Drummond, Miss Jean Armstrong and Mrs. P. C. Gillespie.

Dainty refreshments were served and the evening was brought to a close.

Personals

Miss Mary Belle Humphries has gone to Oakville, Ont., to visit friends.

Miss Maeine Renwick, nurse-in-training, at Nicholls Hospital, visited her parents recently.

Miss Doris Howle of Peterborough spent Sunday at her home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Bolin accompanied by Jack and Catherine Bolin, Miss Annie Bolin and Mrs. Lou Bolin, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Jones, of Warkworth, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie McFarlane, of Hamilton, spent a week's holidays with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James McFarlane.

Mrs. James Gray has returned from Renfrew where she was visiting her brother, Mr. A. B. C. Throop.

Miss Mary O'Keefe is visiting her brother, Mr. Michael O'Keefe.

Mrs. Jack Gall was hostess to the junior bridge club at her home. Mrs. Hugh McFee won high score and Mrs. Ambrose Doris low score. After playing bridge dainty refreshments were served by the hostess.

A large crowd attended a card party and dance held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Doris on Thursday evening. Mrs. Peter Mather won ladie's prize and Miss Nellie Kylie won second prize. Mr. Michael O'Keefe won men's prize and Mr. Joseph Hefferman was runner up. The door prize was won by Miss A. Powers. After playing cards lunch was served, and dancing concluded the evening. Music was furnished by Red Moncrief's orchestra.

NEW TRIAL STARTS IN LINDSAY COURT

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, Oct. 29.—Adam Brock, a 73-year-old resident of Bobcaygeon, was admitted to Ross Hospital Lindsay, on Wednesday. The aged man fell at his home and broke his leg.

At County court yesterday the new trial ordered in the case of Gislon vs. S. S. No. 2, Ops, got under way before Mr. Justice McEvoy. The plaintiff, Harold Gilson, is suing the trustees of the school for damages following an accident at the above school, when his daughter, Shirley, was injured, resulting in the loss of one of her eyes.

An inquest will be held at Orillia on Friday evening to investigate the highway tragedy near that town last Saturday night, which took the life of James Mitchell, of Dunsford, and injured his brother Laverne. The latter was able to leave the Orillia Hospital today and is at present at his home in Dunsford.

MAYORALITY CANDIDATE

BUFFALO, N.Y., Oct. 29—(CP).—Thamos L. Holling, an energetic former Canadian from Wyoming, Ont., promised to-day that if the voters make him mayor of Buffalo November 2, "municipal workers will be put on their toes," and taxpayers will get a "break."

Now the owner of a printing business here, Holling is the Independent Democrat and self-styled "Business-Man Candidate" to succeed retiring Mayor George J. Zimmermann.

QUAINT COSTUMES FEATURE PARTY

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Oct. 29.—A jolly Hallowe'en party, sponsored by the Young People of Trinity United church and in charge of the convenors, Mrs. J. B. Scriver and Mrs. C. Baker, was held in the basement of the church on Monday evening when over one hundred were present. More of the guests came in costume than on any previous occasion.

Decorations were in keeping with Hallowe'en, including the traditional lighted pumpkin heads, witches, black cats, etc., the color scheme of orange and black predominating. The "spookiness" incident to the season was accentuated by insistence on entrance through the narrow stairway, a dimly lighted passage way, where they were thrilled as they passed over knolls, came in contact with a snake and finally admitted to the basement by a 'ghost' impersonated by Frances Hoard.

The grand march to display the costumes and to enable judges, Mrs. F. W. Newell, Mr. Hayden Kelley, Mr. H. Oliver and Mr. Robert Collins, pick out the winners, created lots of fun. Their decisions evidently gave general satisfaction and resulted as follows:

Girl's under twelve went to little Clarine Scriver, dressed as a gypsy; boy's under twelve, Lyle Gilbert, as a hunted; best dressed girl, Mrs. C. Baker, as a bat; best dressed boy, Miss Grace Orr, dressed as a boy (Hezekiah Tompkins); comic for women, Miss Porence German; comic for men by Miss Rhea Preston, hobo; the best dressed couple, represented Mr. and Mrs. Deuberry, with Mr. Victor German dressed as Mr. Deuberry and Mrs. J. Cruikshanks, dressed as Mrs. Deuberry.

The program, too, was in keeping with Hallowe'en. Mrs. Wallace Orr and Miss Grace Orr, as Samantha and Hezekiah Tompkins from Pumpkin Centre, gave a delightful duet; Mr. Laverne and Miss Meryl Seabrook, gave a humorous dialogue "High Society in Hastings"; Miss Rhea Preston contributed a reading "The King of Hoboes."

Games and contests under the direction of the conveners gave everybody opportunity for participation. A contest for boys (shooting beans through a pumpkin) was won by Walter Edwards; and a dry cereal eating contest was won by Pauline Scriver and Rubena Phillips.

The happy evening closed with the service of pumpkin pie, sandwiches and coffee.

Champion School Orators In Hastings

Here are the three winners of Wednesday night's oratory contest for the public and separate schools of Hastings. On the RIGHT is Mayme Herrington, winner of first prize, the Fraser Cup, in the CENTRE, Doreen Hazelwood, who won the third prize, the village of Hastings Cup, and on the LEFT Bertha Beavis, who finished in second place and was awarded the School cup. This was the eighth consecutive school public speaking contest held in Hastings. By virtue of winning first place, Mayme Herrington will be entitled to enter the county finals in Hastings, on November 12.

TRENT RIVER

Sunday visitors with Mr. and Mrs. James Cook at Maple Inn were: Mr. and Mrs. Matt Greenley of Smithfield, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Greenly and family of Brighton.

Mrs. Thomas Sedgwick is a visitor with her niece, Mrs. A. Alward, formerly Elgan Ruttan, Mr. Alward and family at Toronto.

Mrs. George Ellis is visiting her daughter, Mrs. John A. Fisher, formerly Mildred Ellis, and Mr. Fisher at their home at Bancroft.

The many friends of Mrs. Joseph Tedford, who has been confined in Peterborough hospital, will be pleased to know she is making a good recovery and convalescing at the home of her son, Clarence Tedford and Mrs. Tedford, at Warsaw.

Sunday visitors with Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Inkster, were Dr. Thompson and son Jim, of Marmora, and daughter Hilda, of New York.

Mrs. Joseph Doupe and grandson, George Wannamaker, are moving to the cottage on Cedar Isle, premises formerly occupied by Mrs. Ira Cook.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Doupe and daughter are moving from Campbellford to the house being vacated by Mrs. Joseph Doupe, on the Fairbrother estate.

A miscellaneous shower is being tendered Mr. and Mrs. Frank Garneau at their home, Seymour West, Friday night.

DOBBIN FORGOT TO DUCK

Proverbial nine lives are attributed to an Elkhorn, Wis., horse owned by Roy Lauderdale who proved that the "flying mare" is not confined entirely to the wrestling ring. Struck by a car driven by K. H. Davis, the horse was hurled over the car, one hoof punching a hole in the top, and landed on the pavement behind. A moment later it was struck by another car driven by E. A. Muranko of Chicago. The horse still lives.

Rome will open its new television station within a few months.

BAN HEMINGWAY FILM

LONDON, Oct. 29. — The British Board of Film Censors has banned Ernest Hemingway's film "Spanish Earth," based on the Spanish Civil War.

The board's order was issued on Saturday just as delegates to the British Congress of the International Peace Campaign arrived at Central Hall, Westminster, for the picture's first showing in Great Britain.

No reason was given for the ban

IMPROMPTU PLAY SCORES SUCCESS

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Oct. 29.—A social evening under the auspices of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Young People's Society was arranged for Monday evening by the executive, under the supervision of the president, Mrs. S. Whitred.

Games and contests were enjoyed by all present. A telegram contest was won by Mrs. D. K. Perrie's group. An interesting number during the program was the impromptu play "Penelope's Elopement", with a cast of four characters, being given by two sides so as to adjudge the best actors. The first play characters were: Penelope (Jessie Whitred); Horace, a young man (James Moore); Pa, (Francis Kennedy); Ma (Violet Dalnard. The second play was given as follows: Penelope (Daisy Graham); Horace, (Philip Ford); Pa (Fred Hand); and Ma, (Alice Whitred).

Business for the evening centred around planning for the members to attend the Young People's Rally to be held in Port Hope on Friday night.

Personals.

Mrs. Carp Davidson, of Toronto, is a guest at the home of Dr. J. H. and Mrs. Hess.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Rusaw, were among the guests who attended the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brown of Roseneath; which was held at their home on Monday evening, October 25.

Miss Mary Pickens, Reg. N., of Brampton, spent Saturday evening with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Pickens.

Mrs. Christina Beatty of North Bay, Mr. and Mrs. Ross McCracken Ila, Audrey and Theodore, also Mrs. Thomas McCracken of Roseneath, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. King.

CORONATION FILM DRAWS BIG CROWD

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Oct. 29.—Something of the thrill with which thousands viewed the actual crowning of their gracious Majesties, King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, threw its glamour over local residents at the twenty-second showing of F. L. Roy's coronation pageant of Empire before a capacity audience in the Town Hall on Wednesday at 8 p.m. many having to stand throughout the entire evening. The choir of St. Thomas' church had the event under its auspices.

Over sixty dollars was taken in at the door, and there is every likelihood that the pictures will be repeated either in the village or its vicinity, in the near future. During the intermission, immediately preceding the Abbey views, the younger girls of the choir membership carried baskets, decorated in the coronation colors of red, white and blue, and filled with packages of homemade candy, through the audience selling over one hundred and fifty of these, netting the choir funds something over nine dollars by this activity which was in charge of Mrs. R. A. Ford.

The large audience was welcomed on behalf of the choir by Venerable Archdeacon William Simpson, and Mr. Roy also spoke briefly.

GROWING DEAF WITH HEAD NOISES? TRY THIS

If you are growing hard of hearing and fear Catarrhal Deafness or if you have roaring, rumbling, hissing noises in your ears, go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little, and is pleasant to take. Anyone who is threatened with Catarrhal Deafness or who has head noises should give this prescription a trial.

St. Paul's Ladies Hold Successful Tea.

Mrs. Marsh of Homewood Avenue lent her home on Thursday afternoon for a most delightfully arranged tea held by the Ladies' Aid of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church.

The guests were received by Mrs. Marsh, Mrs. A. T. Barr, Mrs. C. Bleweth, and Mrs. J. Dutton. The artistically arranged tea table was covered with a lace-edged cutwork cloth, and centered with a pumpkin cut in basket shape and filled with fruit. Green tapers in silver holders were placed diagonally with unique heirloom vases of yellow baby 'mum. Mrs. George Macdonald, wearing navy velvet, and Mrs. Robert Stuart, in black velvet, presided at the table, and were assisted by Mrs. W. Burrell, Mrs. B. D. MacLean, Mrs. Sherwood, Mrs. Archibald, and Mrs. Forbes.

In the hall a Hallowe'en booth was in charge of Mrs. Charles Lacheur and Mrs. W. Hill. A most attractive looking assortment of jellies and relishes, with gay Hallowe'en wrappings, was on display on an orange and black cloth.

General convenors for the tea were Mrs. W. McKee and Mrs. Prophet. Treasurer for the afternoon was Mrs. O. Moore.

Albert Stephen To Leave for Carleton Place.

Albert Stephen, who has been a member of St. John's Church choir for the past ten years, and a pupil of the organist and choirmaster, Frederic G. Mann, L.Mus., is leaving the city early next week to assume the duties of Organist and Choirmaster to St. James' Church, Carleton Place, Ontario, to which post he has recently been appointed by the rector and church wardens of that parish.

At the regular rehearsal of St. John's choir held last evening the good wishes of his associates in choir work were extended to Mr. Stephen, together with a presentation from them to him of a copy of the choir picture taken recently. It is interesting to note that Mr. Mann, who has been responsible for Mr. Stephen's musical training, served for six years in the same position, to which Mr. Stephen is now going, and an obvious compliment to their former organist and choirmaster that the parish should have sought a pupil of his to fill the position.

Miss Mary Webster Presented With Gift.

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 29.—Miss Mary Webster of Lakefield, who is moving to Peterborough this week, was honored at a recent Young People's meeting, when she was presented with a handsome chrome comb and brush set, as a token of the esteem in which she is held by the society. Mr. Alfred Higgins delivered an address expressing on behalf of the Y.P.S. members, the regret felt at losing such a faithful and loyal member as Miss Webster has always proven herself to be. Mr. Higgins hoped, he said, that Miss Webster would continue to keep her interest in church work in her new home and felt sure that such connections would bring continued happiness and pleasure in days to come.

Miss Webster replied, thanking the society and expressing appreciation of the fellowship she enjoyed in its midst.

The program for the evening was taken by Mrs. A. Calberry, assistant convenor of the citizenship group. She was assisted by Mrs. G. F. Kelly. Recreation was arranged by Rev. G. F. Kelly.

Regular Meeting 57th Chapter I.O.D.E.

The 57th Regiment Chapter I.O.D.E. held its regular monthly meeting in the Armouries, in the officers' quarters of the Prince of Wales Rangers, on Thursday afternoon.

Following the opening exercises, a splendid report was read by the secretary, Mrs. R. Cutmore. Mrs. Cutmore was appointed in place of Mrs. Henry, absent through very serious illness. The correspondence included a letter from the National President of the Daughters of the Empire, urging all members to take, wherever possible, some part in Peace Action Week, which is being inaugurated November 8th to the 14th.

Reports were heard from the different committees. Mrs. Cottrell reported for the Flower Committee; Mrs. Frappe for the Current Events; Miss M. Rogers gave the treasurer's port; Mrs. W. L. Sharpe reported 47 calls made to the hospital.

It was decided to make donations to the Children's Shelter and to the Y.W.C.A. Final arrangements were made for the Armistice tea to be held in the Armouries, November 11, with Mrs. C. H. Stuart as general convenor.

Short interesting papers were given by Mrs. Cottrell and Mrs. T. W. H. Young on New Zealand, the country chosen for the study this season. During the meeting, a much appreciated solo was given by Mrs. Leslie Groombridge, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. W. Greenslade. The Chapter welcomed a new member, Mrs. J. Hull, who has come from the Carleton Soldiers' Memorial Chapter, Woodstock, New Brunswick.

Boyle-Thibadeau.

CAVAN, Oct. 29.—The wedding of Edna Boyle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Boyle, Cavan, and Grattan Douglas Thibadeau, only son of Joseph Thibadeau and the late Mrs. Thibadeau of Bobcaygeon, took place at the home of the groom's uncle, Lindsay, on Tuesday evening in the presence of a number of close relatives.

The Rev. Mr. Greer, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, Lindsay, officiated.

A delicious wedding supper was served. The young couple will reside in Bobcaygeon.

Coughlin-McKiever.

DOURO, Oct. 29—A lovely autumn wedding took place on Monday morning at 8.30 o'clock at St. Joseph's Church, when Christina, younger daughter of Michael and the late Mrs. McKiever was united in marriage to Martin Coughlin, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Coughlin. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Fr. E. Walsh who also said the nuptial mass.

The bride wore an ankle-length gown of silver brocaded net over blue satin with blue hat (with veil) and accessories. She carried pink roses and wore the groom's gift, a necklace with diamond setting. The bridesmaid, Miss Mary McMurray wore a cocoa brown crepe with brown hat and accessories and also carried pink roses.

The groom was supported by Max McKiever, brother of the bride.

After the ceremony the bridal party drove to the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Thomas Heffernan where the wedding dinner was served, only immediate friends being present.

A reception was held later in the day when quite a number of guests were present. Many useful and lovely gifts were received. The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a pair of gloves and to the best man a ring. Later Mr. and Mrs. Coughlin left for a honeymoon trip to points north. For travelling the bride wore a dress of brown crepe with brown coat, hat and accessories. On their return they will reside on their farm in Douro.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLLE

For Saturday, October 30

Reading from the lunar as well as mutual aspects of major planets, this may prove to be a day of extremely important operations, with matters moving at high pressure and with much initiative, progress and prosperity. The friendship of those in place and power holds important influence, and these should be sought and cultivated as a means of attaining high goals. Sentiment, religious or emotional stirrings, with very peculiar or mysterious situations, mark this advancement. It would seem as though there might be a happy breaking away from old ties and foundations.

Those whose birthday it is are at the brink of a revolutionary change in their lives, with a breaking away from old crystallizations and frustrations to make a definite advancement upon high goals and levels of progress and prosperity. Friendship of the mighty figures in this and should be cultivated, as emotional, spiritual or intellectual forces have high potency at this time.

A child born on this day may be excellently equipped for a high place in life, with elements of a worldly prosperity as well as intellectual and spiritual progress and attainment.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

MORE THAN ONE WAY

There ARE more ways than one to skin a cat. And there are also more ways than one to avoid a losing finesse. One of the nicest is to make the opponents do the job for you by luring them into a lead which could end all guesswork.

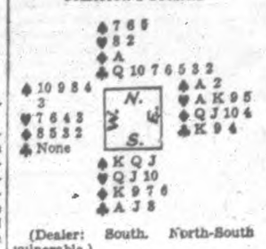
(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

West was the starter of the bidding here with 1-Heart, North overcalling at 1-Spade, East showing his fit at 2-Hearts, West lifting it to 4-Hearts and North doubling. When West trumped the third round of spades, he realized that he was certain to lose one trick in diamonds and therefore could not afford a trump loser.

The Q of trumps was likely to be in the North in view of the double, but of course might be held by South. Instead of guessing, West decided to attempt to deceive the opponents. He led the diamond J to the fourth trick. This made it look to North as if West was getting ready to ruff out some losing diamonds. In order to prevent that he came in with the A and led trumps at once, to cut down ruffs. As the most cursory examination of the hands will disclose, this solved West's problem, with no necessity of guessing.

• • •

Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

What is the correct defense against 3-No Trumps by South, North having bid clubs twice?

Fashion Service

You'll delight in wearing this wonderfully flattering blouse. It makes such a smart costume worn with a pencil slim skirt. The long fitted line will give you a slinkly sophisticated appearance and a new low waistline. Another important feature is the demure shirring that moulds the bosom; also very attractive with a zipper closing. The model gives you two ways to finish the neck. Vee or shirred high at the throat. The graceful short shirred sleeves have slimming bands. Another version with slightly full shoulder sleeves in short and wrist length is also included. It's conservatively smart in rayon crepe. For cocktail parties and evenings, white satin or silver metal fabrics, give it a youthful formal character.

Style No. 3153 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 33, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42-inches bust. Size 36 requires 1¼ yards of 39-inch material.

Best Care Given To Russian Baby

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH.D.

My wife and I spent 20 days in Russia during the summer of 1936. We were impressed with the public provisions for the care of mothers and young children. All expectant mothers, as also do all other persons in Russia, have free medical care. Those mothers who work, and most mothers in Russia work, have 56 days' leave of absence with pay before, and 56 days immediately after, the child's birth. There is a nursery to care for the infant at the factory and the mother has time off with pay for nursing the child. On the subway there is a special for expectant mothers and motners with young children. My wife and I entered one by mistake—we could not qualify. Near where the trolley car conductor stands, there is a section reserved for like purpose.

In Moscow, we attended the central institute for care of mother and child, unequaled by anything of its kind we have seen anywhere, showing the expectant mother how to dress comfortably, ent proper food, as well as the proper food and clothes and toys for the infant and runabout. The highly educated, charming woman in charge, after explaining the exhibits and their functions, added, frankly: "Of course our program for mothers and children also has a defense angle. The government wishes to make the bearing and rearing of children attractive" (for more soldiers).

Whereas birth control, and even abortion, were publicly encouraged in Russia up to recent years, both now are discouraged.

Potion for Mother

While we were in Russia there appeared in the Moscow Daily News, the only English newspaper in Russia, several articles prepared by the medical experts of the government, announcing a potion for the mother when the child is to be born, in order to render child bearing "painless and safe," with an especial appeal to the peasant mother of Russia who might not have a doctor on hand.

Some people may say that the Soviet Union does all this because it lives in dread of Germany and Japan—but the consideration given to motherhood lends itself to study in our own country.

PLAN DAY'S WORK.

The wise housekeeper plans her day's work in advance. One help is to straighten up the living-room before retiring. If the chairs are in place, papers picked up, ash trays emptied, and window shades adjusted, the room may be quickly dusted in the morning.

Sally's Sallies

A girl with several fellows on the string soon finds she has a knotty problem to solve.

✓WEDDINGS✓

Stoneburg-Jackson.

The marriage was quietly solemnized in St. John's Church of Emily Jackson, daughter of Mrs. Pearl Jackson, and the late Joseph Jackson, to Alvin Stonsburg, son of Mrs. Stoneburg, and the late Ernest Stoneburg. The Rev. Canon W. P. Robertson performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a charming afternoon frock of blue sheer crepe, with matching velvet off-the-face hat, with nose-veil, matching accessories, and carried a bouquet of white roses.

Miss Myrtle Hogg, who attended as bridesmaid, wore a dress of wine crepe, a matching velvet hat with short veil, matching accessories, and carried a bouquet of red roses. The groom was attended by Robert Hayes of Omemee.

Following the ceremony, refreshments were served to the wedding party in the DeLuxe Cafe, the bride and groom leaving later for Toronto, with the former donning a rust swagger coat for travelling.

The young couple will reside at 126 Park street.

Fingertips Are Included In The Perfect Ensemble

Spice-brown woolen suit, brown felt hat, gloves and belt in matching shade, sable fur scarf; blouse and nail polish in thistle, a rosy faun shade to harmonize.

By LISBETH

THE COSTUME ensembled to the wearer's fingertips is the smartest by far this season.

Just to illustrate is this costume, designed by Dorothy Couteaur, to show how it is done.

Scotch thistles are the inspiration for the suit's design, and tones of brown in the costume shades all the way to thistle polish on the nails.

The suit is of spice-brown woollen, smartly detailed, and very spiffy to wear under your chunky fur coat the minute the weather grows chilly.

The jacket is cut in surplice styling, and two pockets are worked in the form of a thistle below each shoulder, the stems carried in a single line from jacket to skirt hem.

Blouse, Polish Same.

The blouse and nail polish are in thistle, which is a rosy faun shade that echoes the deeper browns of the costume.

The grenadier hat is of brown felt, with gloves and belt in matching browns. Sables top the suit—or sable martin, if you're flying not so high as sable. The main thing is to keep in the browns.

Floral polishes are the latest thing, and others besides the thistle are tulip, wistaria and clover, adapted to go with the fashionable flower decorations. The clover polish should be worn with an artificial clover in the same silver-rose, in the hair for evening, in the lapel by day.

Wistaria is worn with the same colored gloves trimmed with tiny matching flowers. Tulip was glimpsed on the hands of a young fashionable in one of New York's swanky hotels, who wore artificial tulips pinned to her black velvet muff.

Posies Bloom.

It is autumn, but posies bloom everywhere—except maybe on the feet—and they may be worn there next.

Among the new flower trimmed hats that are being shown is a green plaid wool pillbox with a mass of violets at the side, set on velvet ribbon.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"I have heard of your paintings too well enough; God hath given you one face, and you make yourselves another. You jig, you amble, and you lisp, and nickname God's creatures, and make your wantonness your ignorance."

—Shakespeare.

Dear Friends:

Since I wrote that article to one who called herself "Lonely" I have been requested by many to write about those girls who WILL get entangled with married men.

Now, Girls, it is not flattering at all for a married man to try and date you up. Neither do you flatter yourselves by trying to attract another woman's husband. You are simply admitting that you lack something which the married woman has, so you can see how you let yourselves down, and give yourselves away.

Personally I never cared much for second-hand goods. Yet I know girls who would scorn to wear someone else's coat or hat or dress, yet go around with someone else's husband, never realizing what a shoddy thing they have acquired.

One woman wrote saying: "What can I do, Roberta when my husband will persist in gbing around with a girl in the same place we live in? I am humiliated and distressed because everyone knows what is going on so that, do as I like, I cannot hide my husband's foolishness from others.

I have remonstrated with him, but the girl persists in phoning, writing, and waiting for him. What she says I do not know, but try to be as broad-minded as I like, I think most of the blame rests with the girl."

It surely does Mrs. . . . Why not try talking with the girl? You may feel yourself lowered by the very thought, but if someone were to try and steal your purse you would not allow it would you? Then why allow someone to steal what is much dearer to you? Why allow this to go on until nothing can be done about it, when grasping the situation firmly will squelch the whole thing?

This is no time to be noble. You are wife and mother. You pledged your vows, and he his, and if he is falling down in that way, put the fear of the Lord into the one who is causing it all.

Remember you have right on your side, the law is with you, the church also. Show both of them that, "Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned." I really believe that if women who are wronged would go after the other woman, instead of crying at home, there would be less cause for divorce.

Most men come to the dangerous age when they think their youth is going and they want to feel they are still as attractive to younger women as they used to be. They are no more themselves than women are at a certain time of life, only it acts differently on men.

So, as a woman expects and should get help from her husband to tide her over this period, he also needs help to tide him over his period of foolishness. If the girl has been foolish enough to take him seriously, then it is up to the woman to clear her mind for her.

If she persists, any wife can make it so darned uncomfortable for them both, that the whole thing will die down. But and if you will not fight for what is yours, then you deserve to lose it. Blame all you like but help him back to sanity. Your Friend, ROBERTA.

Correct Dancing Errors b Easy Home Practice

See yourself as others see you Sue. Bill isn't the only one to blame for the comic picture you two make.

Practise these simple walking steps at home; look tops to the stag line.

To correct that clumsy posture—keep erect, walk slowly backward, swing legs from hips, walk on balls of feet only. To avoid stamped-on toes, tangled steps—straighten those knees, take the longest steps backward you can. Keep your arms well up. If you let them sag, if you lean forward in the London Bridge or cheek-to-cheek pose, you'll be hard to lead, seem heavy on your feet.

Our 32-page booklet by a famous dance instructor makes graceful dancing easy. Step-by-step instructions and diagrams help you master the basic steps. Whirl with ease through waltz, tango, rhumba, foxtrot, know the smart new steps.

TRAPPED CHINESE REFUSE ANY AID

SHANGHAI, Oct. 29—(AP). — British troops and United States marines offered to-night to aid withdrawal of a Chinese battalion, trapped by Japanese, to end the menace of stray bullets falling into Shanghai's International Settlement with its thousands of foreigners. The offer was refused.

The defiant, almost certainly doomed battalion held grimly to a small area within Chinese Chapei which the remainder of their army abandoned yesterday to flames and advancing Japanese.

Crowds of foreigners and Chinese had gathered on rooftops, despite a shower of machine-gun bullets, to watch the fighting along the Settlement's northern border when the British and American offer of aid was made.

There was danger to the International Settlement, too, on the western edges and along the French concession frontier, with fighting in progress around Hungjao, suburb in which are located many of the city's finest homes.

Major-General A. P. D. Telfer-Smollett, the British commander, and Brigadier-General J. C. Beaumont of the United States Marines, communicated with the battalion in Chapei by a still serviceable telephone line connecting with a warehouse in the fighting zone.

The British and American commanders suggested that their forces be used to aid the beleaguered Chinese in obtaining sanctuary south of Soochow Creek.

Reminded of the destruction that Japanese planes might cause to their position, the Chinese commander, Colonel Chin-Yuan, replied:

"We are not much worried by the Japanese planes and we're prepared for their infantry."

IMPLEMENT DUTY REDUCTION URGED

BRANDON, Man., Oct. 29—(CP)—United Farmers of Manitoba today began the final session of the 35th annual convention after protesting the tariff policy of the Federal Liberal government and urging reduction in duties on implements of production.

Twenty-three resolutions remained to be discussed, among them one advocating radical amendment of the British North America Act. It would urge the Dominion government have sole right to levy income taxes, sales taxes and taxes on production.

Direct relief should be in charge of the Dominion as well as all agricultural research and federal authorities should be given the right under the amended act to regulate internal trade and sale and grading of natural products, the prepared resolution states.

Another resolution scheduled for consideration favors a Dominion-Provincial conference to discuss B.N.A. Act amendments with a referendum of the Canadian people on the amendments.

FORM 4 PATROLS AT CAMPBELLFORD

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, October 29. — Charles Collard, Scoutmaster, reported that four patrols had been formed from the nearly thirty boys who attended the Scout re-organization meeting held in the Parish Hall on Monday evening. Although later in the season than usual, it is planned to hold the annual Apple Day, by which funds are raised to buy books and badges for the Scouts in November.

Making a strong plea for parents to send their boys out to the Scout meetings on Monday nights, Scoutmaster Collard urged "everyone should know what scouting will do for this community and for the boys themselves. We still have room for more."

Patrol leaders were chosen as follows: Jack Sutton, the Wolves; James Hamilton, the Beaver; Jack Phillips, the Fox; and Pete Winstanely, the Owl.

THINK 80 FLASHES FROM LOST FLIERS

OTTAWA, Oct. 29—(CP)—Convinced the Russian flyers, lost ten weeks ago, in the Arctic during a Moscow to Fairbanks, Alaska, flight, have been sending out wireless messages in an effort to call assistance, Sir Hubert Wilkins, veteran Arctic explorer, was here to-day rushing preparations for a second search expedition.

Sir Hubert said some 80 fragmentary messages caught by amateur and professional radio operators since the flyers' mishap have been declared by experts to have come from the Soviet plane, identifying them by the secret code used by the flyers.

In Ottawa, Sir Hubert purchased some radio direction finding equipment from the Department of Transport on the understanding the equipment will be re-purchased by the Department at an assessed valuation when the expedition returns. He expressed his appreciation of the co-operation he received from Transport Minister Howe and officers of the Department.

In Winnipeg, Herbert Hollick-Kenyon, Canadian aviator, is preparing the all-metal plane for the search flight which will work out of Aklavik. The Soviet Government is financing the trip.

In the event the flyers are found alive, it would be possible to bring them all back on the rescue plane, Sir Hubert said.

Exploration of the North Pole area by use of a submarine, long a dream of Sir Hubert, who has already made one submarine expedition to that region, was interrupted by the search but he said plans for the new underwater boat were completed, and it would be built in the Thames.

WARSAW

The Institute project class in Warsaw will start on Saturday, Oct. 30 at Mrs. Weller's home. Subject, "The Milky Way" or the "Magic Milk Bottle."

The dance will be on Wednesday, Nov. 3, instead of Tuesday evening.

The W.I. meeting will be held at Mrs. Latta's home on the afternoon of Nov. 11, when Mrs. Birdsall will speak on Peace. With that subject it was thought unadvisable to change from the regular date, as it will follow the morning service at the Cenotaph, which will be on the same line.

There is a splendid crop of roots and farmers are experiencing difficulty in getting them harvested with so many wet days.

There are large crops of potatoes, but many are being dug before quite ripe as the skins still rub off. One man, Vincent Dunford, is reported to have dug five hundred bags and selling them at 55c a bag. He also had a lot of early ones which he sold at the Lake.

With all the rain many wells are still low.

Threshings are carried on unless the rains are heavy. With campwork, threshings, and getting out roots it is almost impossible to get an extra man.

There was Sunday school, but no church in the Presbyterian church last Sunday and the same arrangement will prevail next Sunday.

Mrs. George spent a few days with her sister in Apsley.

Miss Verna Miller attended a wedding in Cobourg last week.

Marie Alone Fails To Gain Height

CALLANDER, Ont., Oct. 29. — (CP)—Most of the Dionne quintuplets, three years and five months old to-day, continued to gain in weight and height during the past month.

With the exception of Marie, smallest of the quintet, all registered increases in height. Marie remained 35¼ inches tall, while Emilie added one inch to her height; Cecile and Yvonne, ½ inches each; and Annette, ¼ inches. The latter four all measured 36½ inches in height.

Annette and Yvonne each weighed 33 pounds, the former registering a loss of ¾ pounds and the latter a gain of ¼ pounds. Marie remained the lightweight at 29½ pounds, while Cecile gained ½ pound to scale 32½ and Emilie weighed ¼ pounds more at 32.

SCHOOL ELECTION CAUSES INTEREST

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 29.—Nominations for the officers of the High School Literary Society were held in the school auditorium on Friday afternoon with Friday, October 29th set as the date for the election. The election by ballot is a new departure for this body, it having been the custom in the past to elect the officers by a standing vote and in view of the fact that there were a large number nominated to fill the various offices it is expected the election will be keenly contested by members of the student body.

Following the nominations over which Principal E. H. Craig presided with the assistance of Mr. Earl Stephens, B.A., the field day prizes were distributed.

MORE LIVESTOCK DAIRYING VISIONED ON PRAIRIE FARMS

BRANDON, Man., Oct. 29 (C.P.).—A radical change in Western Canadian agriculture, with more emphasis being placed on live stock and dairy production than at present, is visioned by D. G. McKenzie, former Manitoba Agriculture Minister.

Addressing the closing session of the 35th annual convention of the United Farmers of Manitoba here last night, Mr. McKenzie, vice-president of United Grain Growers Limited, said this new development might bring in its wake a marketing problem in the future such as wheat provides to-day.

Delegates also heard Prof. J. H. Ellis of University of Manitoba, provincial representative of the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act administration, declare droughts would always occur in the Western Canada plains at various intervals.

In a report on Western rehabilitation adopted by the convention, W. J. Davidson, vice-president, urged continued effort to restore farms to useful production and restore morale of the Western people.

In the new alignment of Western agriculture, said Mr. McKenzie, wheat acreage inevitably would be reduced. He warned, however, against deliberate production control, remarking: "I don't believe the farmers in Western Canada can be made prosperous by adopting birth control in wheat."

Mr. McKenzie said production methods must be modified on the basis of a long-range program reaching over 25 years. Competition in the export market must be met with production of quality both in wheat and live stock.

"There should be set up in Western Canada a national organization to regulate public live stock markets, regulate quality of dressed meats exported and prevent indiscriminate shipping of live stock to the United Kingdom," he said.

SPECIAL SERVICES FOR ANNIVERSARY

FLEETWOOD, Oct. 29. — On Sunday, October 24, at 2.30 o'clock and again at 7.30 o'clock, special anniversary services were enjoyed at Fleetwood United Church often referred to as "The Brick Corners." Rev. C. C. Miller, a former much-loved pastor of the circuit and now in service at Bridgenorth, was in charge of both services, and delivered powerful messages to large congregations at both services. The interior of the church, as is the custom, had been very artistically decorated for this special occasion and looked very attractive in an array of beautiful house plants, late summer flowers, and other decorative products of nature. The guest choir for the occasion was from the sister church at Yelverton. About twenty splendid voices did themselves credit in the rendition of appealing anthems and quartettes. During the afternoon service a male quartette, with Messrs. Earl Gray, Howard Malcolm, Clarke Williams, and Cecil Ferguson, was much enjoyed. At the evening service a mixed quartette was heard in splendid voice. Mr. Vance Wilson, organist at Yelverton church, was the accompanist for the various musical numbers and for the old familiar hymns sung. A special offering was received at each service, the total contributions for the day exceeding $60.

Fowl Dinner Held.

These special Sunday services were followed by an equally successful annual occasion on Monday evening when friends from far and near gathered at the historic Corners, for a most liberal fowl dinner. As is the custom the tables were attractively and bountifully laden in the school room in close proximity to the church. A corps of efficient workers willingly served the many incoming guests until all were satisfied about 8 o'clock. The crowd was then comfortably seated in the church for a very entertaining miscellaneous program. Rev. C. H. Ferguson, pastor of the church, in well-chosen words, welcomed the friends who so loyally supported the local church in this capacity, and thanked all who had assisted in any way in making the occasion the success that it was, particularly the ladies of the Fleetwood church.

Miss Craighead, elocutionist, of Lindsay, was heard in several fine readings which won hearty applause. The "Capstick Twins" of Yelverton, who are old favorites at Fleetwood, excelled themselves in mouth organ and vocal numbers, with Leonard McNeil accompanying them on occasions with guitar music. Little Lorraine Davidson, daughter of Tolbert Davidson of Fleetwood, sang a charming solo, with her teacher, Mr. Morgan, at the organ. Arthur Singleton of Nestleton entertained the audience in his usual fine style and won well-earned applause. Mr. Lindsay of Nestleton was also much appreciated. Other fine numbers were contributed on violins by Messrs. Hutchison and Pogue of Lindsay. This splendid program was concluded by the hearty singing of "God Save the King." The financial receipts for the evening amounted to about $80, the expenses for the occasion being very light; and this with the Sunday contributions, will be a very material assistance in carrying on church work at Fleetwood.

TOSCANINI WALKS OUT

LONDON, Oct. 29—(AP). — Arturo Toscanini, world-famous orchestra conductor, threw down his baton and angrily walked out on a rehearsal of a British Broadcasting Company orchestra last night.

The Italian maestro, declaring he would not go through with a concert scheduled for next week, exploded when he could not obtain desired execution of a passage in the third movement of Beethoven's ninth symphony.

250 Psychologists, Specialists Meet To Study Quints

Propose To Discuss 5 Sisters From Every Angle in Two-Day Session

TORONTO, Oct. 29. —(CP)— If the Dionne quintuplets could look out of their nursery windows today and see a giant microscope bigger than their father's hot dog stand pointed down from the sky at them they might get an idea of what will happen in Toronto this week-end.

For science will probe the lives of the famous youngsters tomorrow as it never has before. Two hundred and fifty psychologists, child specialists and students will discuss everything about the Quints from the reason Emilie's left ear may be 1-32 of an inch longer than Marie's to Annette's reaction to a crack on her cross knee.

From the day of their birth science has stood beside Yvonne, Cecile and the rest. First in the person of country Doctor Allan Roy Dafoe who returned from their birth to write in his diary "Dionne-5F"—meaning five females were born to the Dionnes that morning of May 28, 1934.

Since then they have come under the scrutiny of scores of specialists who travelled to Callander to study the children or watch their development in Dr. Dafoe's medical journal reports.

Leaders of Two Nations

More than a year ago the idea of a symposium on the Quints was born. Leading child specialists in Canada and the United States were enlisted for a study of the famous babies in the belief medical histories of the little girls could teach science much and that science, in turn, contribute to the Quints' future development.

So tomorrow 50 Americans will join with Canadians for a symposium that will make medical history. Never before has there been such a gathering for the study of a group of children.

The first business will be a report on the childrens' welfare prepared by Dr. Dafoe and his brother, Dr. W. A. Dafoe of the University of Toronto.

After the Dafoe brothers have told of the physical development from the time of the Quints' birth, Dr. W. E. Blatz, professor of psychology at the University of Toronto, will read a report he has prepared after 30 months of study.

Dr. Blatz, head of the famous St. George's school for child study which is allied with the University of Toronto, will tell the visiting specialists of the mental growth of the Quints and their development in social activities, speech and self-discipline.

Although hundreds of thousands of words have been written about the babies no psychological study has yet been published and Dr. Blatz' report will disclose for the first time the opinions of a psychologist on many angles of their development.

The symposium will continue all day Saturday in private. A summary of the reports and perhaps discussion will be issued later. Sunday the gathering is to move to Callander for a visit with the babies.

RUBBER WORKERS END THEIR STRIKE

KITCHENER, Ont., Oct. 29—(CP).—Kaufman Rubber Company employees, their five weeks' strike ended when they accepted the company's settlement offer, planned a back-to-work movement to-day and looked forward to a promised province-wide wage investigation of competitive factories in the industry.

The strike was settled last night when the 600 men involved agreed to return to work pending an investigation by the Ontario Department of Labor. The men sought wage increases. Other demands, including "men's work for men" and improved working conditions, were already settled, said J. L. Cohen, counsel for the strikers.

A conference was cheduled to-day between A. R. Kaufman, head of the company, and a committee of employees to determine when the men would return to their jobs. A "staggered" system will be necessary until the mill work reaches the rate prevailing before the walkout.

Settlement of the dispute came through the conciliation efforts of the Provincial Department of Labor and first was announced in Toronto late last night by Hon. M. M. MacBride, the minister. Mr. MacBride and departmental officers conferred at Queen's Park earlier this week with strikers' representatives and company heads.

CLUB ORGANIZED BY YOUNG PEOPLE

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Oct. 29.—The young people of the Church of Our Lady of Mount Carmel parish held a meeting in the Parish Hall on Thursday night for the purpose of organizing a young people's club. Father Costello, their pastor, was present and took charge of the meeting until the election of officers was finished. Marcella Sullivan was elected president, Joseph Mulholland, secretary, Madge McCoy, treasurer, and Frank Carrol, principal of the Separate School, secretary. A committee was also elected to represent three districts surrounding the Hastings parish as follows: Margaret Walsh, Asphodel; James Cavanagh, Cobourg Road; Margaret Gorman, Gravel Road. Each officer gave a short speech at the conclusion of the meeting.

Father Costello, in his address stated that the members must be eighteen years of age or over, and that married couples may be members, but only for a period of two years, after which they should become members of other organizations in the parish. The club is for the purpose of the young people meeting for a social evening and also for education. He also stated that he was not going to tell the club what they were to do and that they should be able to carry on themselves.

The newly-appointed secretary Miss Sullivan, called a meeting of the newly-appointed executive for Wednesday night, November 3, at which time affairs in the interest of the club will be discussed.

Battle Of Shanghai Rare Lesson For Foreign Observers

British, French Prefer Chinese Privates And U. S. Says Defending Fliers Best

By James A. Mills
(Associated Press Foreign Staff.)

SHANGHAI, Oct. 29. — (AP). — Foreign military experts—like physicians watching a rare operation in a surgical ampitheatre—studied the battle of Shanghai to-day from lofty observation posts.

Never in modern history, they said, have military observers had the opportunity to observe operations in such broad clinical fashion.

Armed with telescopes and maps, these experts, perched on skyscrapers, apartment houses and hotels, have viewed the moves of both forces on the panoramic battle front by day and by night.

British officers occupied the tower of the Metropole hotel and the French had an elaborate system of observation posts on the roofs of the highest buildings in the French concession. United States' officers used the roof of the 22-storey Park hotel.

Here are summaries of comment by British, United States, and French observers:

British—Both belligerents showed good fighting qualities. But Japanese aerial manoeuvres were reckless, especially with regard to indiscriminate machine-guhning and faulty bombing marksmanship; the Japanese land forces seemed reluctant to engage in close quarters fighting, relying mainly on big gun and aerial bombardment, while the Chinese staked everything on personal courage, machine guns, hand grenades, rifles and hand-to-hand combat.

Both Brave Under Fire.

United States—Both Chinese and Japanese showed originality in their operations, efficiency and bravery under fire; the Chinese carried out a marvellously organized retreat from Chapei, taking full equipment with them; the Japanese deserved high praise for the strength of their attack; Japanese airmen, with 20 years of experience, did not rate as well as the Chinese fliers with five years' experience; Japanese claims of wholesale destruction of Chinese planes were discounted.

French—These observers said they would prefer to have the Chinese under them because of their alertness, general intelligence, initiative and ability to "take it"; they did not detract from the bravery of the Japanese soldiers nor the readiness of Japanese officers to die with their men; the Japanese air force was much inferior to that of France or that of the other major powers, being a relatively new weapon for the Japanese

MRS. NELSON RIVARD,
(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Oct. 28. — The death occurred in Hastings on Wednesday, October 27, of Adeline Burshaw, wife of the late Nelson Rivard. The funeral will be held Friday morning, October 29, at 9 o'clock, from the residence of her son, Leo, to the Church of Our Lady of Mount Carmel, where a requiem high mass will be sung. Interment will be at the Roman Catholic Cemetery.

EMERY PETERS
(Examiner Correspondence.)

BANCROFT, Oct. 29.—The death took place on Saturday, October 23, of Emery Peters, an aged resident of Bancroft, who passed away at his home near Bancroft.

Mr. Peters, whose wife predeceased him several years ago, was born in Marmora eighty-three years ago, and at the age of twenty-eight years, he moved with his parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. S. Peters, to Highland Grove, Ont. Some years ago he moved to Bancroft, where he resided until his death.

Mr. Peters had been in comparatively good health until he became seriously ill with plural pneumonia two weeks ago.

He is survived by one daughter, Charlotte, of Kingston.

The funeral was held from his late residence, on Monday morning, October 25, at nine o'clock, to Our Lady of Mercy Roman Catholic church, Bancroft. Interment took place in the Roman Catholic cemetery, Bancroft.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father L. J. Kennedy, P.P.

CHARLES H. WATSON
(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 29.—The funeral service for the late Charles H. Watson of Toronto, formerly of Lakefield, whose death occurred in Toronto on Thursday, October 21, was held in St. John's Anglican Church, Lakefield on Sunday afternoon, October 24 at 2.30 p.m.

Mr. Watson who was 52 years of age, died after an illness of several months.

Deceased was born in Lakefield in 1885, a son of Mr. William Watson, Sr. and the late Mrs. Watson. About 30 years ago he moved to Toronto where he was engaged in the undertaking business until his death. About 25 years ago, deceased married Miss Evelyn Carey, who survives him. Two sons, Douglas and Graham, his father and one sister, Mrs. A. Campbell of Peterborough also survive. Interment was in Lakefield cemetery.

WILLIAM GRAHAM

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 29.—The funeral of the late William Graham of Lakefield was held from the family residence on William street, Lakefield at 2 p.m. on Saturday, October 23. Mr. Graham, whose death occurred Thursday morning after an illness which lasted some time, was 78 years old. He was born in the Township of Smith in 1859, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Graham.

About 27 years ago, Mr. Graham moved to Lakefield where he resided until his death. The deceased was a member of the Lakefield Baptist Church and was well known and respected throughout the district.

Mr. Graham is survived by his wife, formerly Hannah Sweeting, one daughter, Mrs. Cephas Heard of Smith; and three brothers, Robert and Albert of Lakefield and Silas of Smith.

Rev. W. B. Walker, pastor of Lakefield, Baptist Church conducted the funeral service. Interment was in Lakefield Cemetery.

OVER 200 ATTEND MARMORA SUPPER

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Oct. 29—The largest attendance to mark the event for some years was seen at the annual fowl supper of St. Paul's Ladies' Guild, which was held in the Town Hall, Marmora, on Wednesday.

At least two hundred and seventy-five persons partook of the delicacies for which ladies of the Anglican Church in common with those of the Sacred Heart Church and St. Andrew's United Church enjoy a county-wide reputation.

The sole regret was that the last twenty or so persons to arrive had to hear that the chicken had run out. Good-naturedly, they accepted the meat substitutes and all was well.

After the meal, many found bingo to be entertaining, while others enjoyed the friendly chat with old acquaintances. The latter part of the evening was spent in dancing.

PLAN TO ATTEND PORT HOPE RALLY

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 29—Members of St. Andrew's Young People's Society will attend the annual rally in Port Hope on Friday, October 29th it was reported from the meeting held on Monday. It was thought that the members should gather at the church at 4.30 in order to assure the arrival at Port Hope in good time.

The president, Mrs. Bruce Grills was in charge of the meeting. It was decided to hold a Hallowe'en Tea on Monday evening next for which a very interesting program is being arranged.

The program was in charge of Miss Jean Hendy and included a piano solo by W. Phillips; vocal solo, Francis Hendy, Rev. R. Simpson Black who was to have addressed the gathering on the Ottawa Rally decided to reserve his speech for a latter date in view of the long business meeting.

MAY ABANDON TAX PREPAYMENT PLAN

Advance Certificates Were For Most Part Taken Up By Large Firms, Companies

Committee Is Appointed To Bring In Report To City Council

Intimations of the approach of winter appeared on the municipal horizon Thursday night in Alderman Stocker's announcement that the skating rinks would be set up next week and also in the letting of contracts for removal of snow and slush from the sidewalks.

The bids accepted by the Board of Works were as follows:

District No. 2—M. Bebee $168; last year $174.

District No. 6.—Charles Collins, $275; last year, $275.

Tax Prepayment.

The city's tax prepayment plan will be considered in its results and retention for 1938 by a special committee composed of Mayor Macdonald, Aldermen Hamilton and McIntyre and Morley E. Shaver, city treasurer. The prepayment certificates issued this year totalled $195,000, and of that amount 85 per cent. was paid by large firms and companies, Alderman Hamilton said in suggesting that the plan might as well be abandoned. He said it had actually cost the city more than the regular method of paying taxes: Discounts and interest had to be charged against it.

Mr. Shaver said these items had exceeded the interest on the loans from the bank which had been obviated by the prepayment of taxes. The additional cost did not amount to much, the city treasurer said.

Alderman Dutton remarked that the plan had been adopted as an experiment, and although it had not been as generally helpful as had been expected, it might be advisable to continue the method another year. Alderman Glover said prepayment had involved extra clerical work in the treasurer's office.

Alderman McIntyre suggested that some kind of premium for prompt payment as employed by the Utilities Commission was probably the only inducement that would appeal to the majority of taxpayers. The average property owner did not have enough funds to buy prepayment certificates from the beginning of the year, and his hopes were to be able to pay his taxes when they fell due.

Alderman McIntyre said the committee might be able to recommend some different method that would have a wider appeal.

THE SPANKING CURE

HAMILTON, Ont., Oct. 29 (CP).—Spankings by parents was the punishment prescribed for two Hamilton boys caught chopping down a European larch tree near Dundurn Park.

To Visit City

HON. IAN MACKENZIE

Minister of National Defence who is announced as guest speaker at an officer's dinner to be held at the Armouries on Armistice Day. On his arrival here in the morning, the Minister will be met by Lieut.-Colonel J. A Dewart, M.C., officer commanding Prince of Wales' Rangers and by Mayor George A. Macdonald and J. J. Duffus, M.P. A guard of honor will be furnished by the Rangers.

Compensation Is Given Teamster

The city will not oppose an allowance by the Workmen's Compensation Board to John Lynch, teamster, who was injured at the gravel pit on the Lakefield Road, September 9, 1936. A piece of stone from a dynamite blast struck him on the hand; infection followed, with permanent disability. For a year he has been receiving about $27 every two weeks from the Compensation Board, City Engineer Parsons informed the Board of Works Thursday night. "It was lucky Lynch wasn't killed," Mr. Parsons said. "He was putting away his team and was the farthest man from the two blasts that were discharged shortly after work ended for the day. Lynch was struck on the hand by a fragment of rock. We have no light work at present that he could do." Suitable employment would have been considered in their award to Mr. Lynch, but the Compensation Board will be informed the city has no suitable work for him.

A BRAINY COW

FOREST, Ont., Oct. 29 (CP). — Ernest Karr, Warwick farmer, has a cow that uses her head. He saw her take a low-hanging branch of an apple tree in her mouth, shake it and then eat the apples that fell. She did this with several trees.

LINDSAY MAN WINS $500.

Although Dame Fortune appears to have passed by in the recent sweepstake draw, Owen Gammon of Lindsay found his luck good for $500. It was his first try at a sweepstake ticket.

COUNTY COUNCIL.

County councillors are to be notified that November 16 to 20 dates have been chosen by Warden Roy Brown for the Fall session of the Council.

SEEKING A SLOGAN

The Port Hope Board of Trade is seeking a slogan which can be used in advertising the town. It must be six words or less in length. Only residents of Durham and Northumberland are eligible for the $10 prize offered.

POPPY DAY AUTHORIZED.

The Peterborough branch of the Canadian Legion has been given permission to hold its annual Poppy Day on Saturday, November 6. On the following Saturday, November 13, there will be a tag day on behalf of St. Joseph's Hospital.

HOME LOAN MEETING.

Roland Denne has called a meeting of the local Home Loan Committee for tonight to discuss the situation generally and give the campaign fresh impetus. It is generally agreed that the drive has produced excellent results in Peterborough so far.

TULIP BULBS PLANTED.

Flower beds in the city parks have been planted with tulips and put in shape for winter. In most cases heavy coverings of branches have been provided for winter protection. Sprinklings of top soil have been laid on a number of areas of grass.

SAW GARTER SNAKE

If cold weather is on the way the garter snake Deputy-Reeve Melville H. Johnston saw in his woods this morning had no advance instinctive awareness of the approach. Possibly it might be a sign of fair weather to offset Dan Whetung's chilly prediction.

APPLICATION FOR SEWER.

R. Brotherstone will be given a sewer connection to his new house in Douro at the corner of Park Hill and Armour Roads if he agrees to a perpetual payment of $6 a year to the city and assumes the estimated cost of $65 of laying the connection, the Board of Works decided on Thursday night. He will also have to obtain Douro Council's permission.

SHIPPED TO WEST.

Cobourg and Port Hope are among other Ontario centres in addition to Peterborough which have joined in the Western Canada relief effort. The Cobourg community this week filled a freight car for despatch to Buffalo, Alberta. Potatoes and canned vegetables made up the bulk of the contribution. A freight car of fruits, vegetables and canned goods was despatched from Port Hope, destined for Medstead, Saskatchewan. It contained 56,000 pounds of goods.

REMEMBRANCE DAY.

Unless an unexpected change in plans is effected at the general meeting of the Peterborough Business Men's Association next Monday evening, Remembrance Day is apparently to be celebrated in the same manner here this year as in the past several years. Merchants will close on November 11, but the factories will remain in operation.

NEW MODELS ARRIVING.

With new 1938 models announced and on public display in almost all car lines, new vehicles are now being shipped into Peterborough for local dealers in daily lots. Great car transportation trailers bearing five cars at a time are again a frequent sight on the streets. Looking back o nthe best year for car sales since the depression, local sales organizations are hoping for another gain in sales in 1938.

BANQUET AT HAVELOCK

Harold Cotton of the Toronto Maple Leafs hockey team was the principal speaker at the Albion Club dinner at Havelock Thursday night. Frank Voyer, president, was the after dinner chairman with the attendance of about one hundred and sixty men from the village and district, including John Hope, Dr. Wright and others from Keene, Rork Ferguson, M.P. of Norwood and Alex L. Elliott, M.L.A.-elect of Peterborough. The toast to the Albion Club was proposed by T. P. Lancaster.

START WORK ON WHARF.

Work on the new Crescent Street wharf, begun on Tuesday morning with W. H. Mellis, foreman, will be carried on as long as weather permits, possibly during the winter. Ten forms for concrete blocks are being made, and when this detail is completed by several carpenters the main project will be advanced. The wharf will jut into the lake in the shape of a "T," and is expected to be incorporated into the complete beautification and utility scheme that is being planned for the south shore of Little Lake.

A GOOD SAMARITAN.

Ald. James Juby, chairman of the Board of Works, was a good Samaritan today when two milk bottles were smashed on the roadway at the intersection of Charlotte and Aylmer Streets and the original owner did not take the trouble to remove the debris. Ald. Juby, both as a member of the City Council and of the Motor League, decided that it was up to him, so he went to work with a broom and cleared the tire-hazard off the roadway.

SKILLED WORKERS WANTED.

The shortage in skilled workers reported from other centers of Ontario applies in some degree to this city, Dan M. Douglas, Employment Bureau Superintendent, said today. Twenty-two demands for skilled men in specialised lines are unfilled at the office at the present time. These jobs for which men are wanted require exceptionally experienced men in special trades and are not likely to be filled from Peterborough, he said.

IT WAS ACCEPTABLE.

A number of otherwise unemployed men were called upon to help with the loading of relief cars being sent from Peterborough to the Canadian West. When the work was done they were thanked and also asked to report to Ald. Dutton the following morning. They appeared, perhaps in the hope that there was something else to do, but instead they were each handed $2 and thanked for their efforts. "And that $2 was mighty acceptable," according to one of the men who reported the incident to the Examiner.

WESTERN RELIEF.

Representing the entire proceeds from a dance they sponsored, the treasurer of the Western Relief Fund acknowledges the contribution of $54.58 from the United Farmers of Ontario Club. The sum of $2 from C. M. Moncur is also acknowledged, while the total now contributed to the fund has amounted to $762.00 Alderman James Dutton, chairman and treasurer of the committee, said that at a meeting this afternoon he and his co-workers would consider the advisability of completing the loading of a fifth car which is scheduled to come through from Norwood and Indian River.

To Wed Director

J. Walter Ruben, motion picture director, and Virginia Bruce, screen actress, have announced that they will wed on Christmas Day, their marriage to take place in the film capital. Their romance started when Ruben was assigned to Virginia's current picture. She liked his directing so well that she decided to let him have the job for life—and Ruben is the happiest man in Hollywood.

Heavy Programme Is Planned For Minister Remembrance Day

Civic And Military Banquets Will Be Given Hon. Ian Mackenzie

The Honorable Captain Ian Mackenzie, Canada's Minister of National Defence is to visit Peterborough on Remembrance Day.

His acceptance of an invitation extended by the officers of the local garrison, will it was stated, mark the first visit of a Defence Minister to this city since pre-War days.

While the Minister is coming here as guest speaker at a Remembrance Day dinner of active and retired officers, he will reach the city early in the forenoon and will participate in other functions of a civic and military nature.

The Honorable Captain Mackenzie will be met on his arrival by His Worship Mayor George A. Macdonald; J. J. Duffus, M.P., and by Lieut.-Colonel J. A. Dewart, M. C., officer commanding Prince of Wales' Rangers together with a representative of the officers' committee having charge of arrangements for the banquet.

He will be furnished with a guard of honor from Prince of Wales' Rangers. The regimental band will be in attendance.

After inspecting the guard of honor, the Minister will take part in the civic remembrance service at the War memorial and will then address a gathering of ex-servicemen at the Capitol Theatre, prior to being tendered a civic luncheon by the Mayor and City Council.

The first part of the afternoon will be taken up with a sightseeing tour of the city, after which the Honorable Captain Mackenzie will attend an informal function in the officers' mess at the Armouries, and in the evening will be guest of honor at the officer's banquet.

In connection with the dinner, it was announced by the committee that it is to be served in the Officer's Mess at 7 p.m. Dress is to be civilian, preferably formal.

As formal invitations to the dinner are not being issued, the committee wish to make it clear that all officers either active or retired are invited. It will be appreciated if those who are planning to be present would contact a member of the committe so that definite plans may be completed as early as possible.

Members of the committee are: C. H. Ackerman; Dr. G. Murray Fraser; C. H. Rogers; Dr. A. G. Howson; J. Walton Stevenson; H. C. Southeran; Dr. A. W. McPherson; M. H. Parr; R. T. E. Hicks-Lyde and W. F. Huycke, K.C.

The distinguished visitor had a noteworthy military career. Joining the Canadian Expeditionary Forces as a lieutenant in July 1916 he served with his regiment the Seaforth Highlanders at Bramshot, England. In August of the year following he went to France with the 72nd. Battalion and saw active service at Ypres, Kemmel, the Somme and other points.

He was transferred in France as Staff Captain to Headquarters Staff of General J. W. Stewart, seeing much service and being mentioned in dispatches.

On his return to Canada he re-entered the legal profession in April 1919, and in December of the year following was elected to the legislative assembly of British Columbia for Vancouver, which was the start of a political career no less brilliant than his army career.

COUNCIL HOPES TO CLOSE YEAR WITH SURPLUS

With an estimated surplus of $13,000 by the relief committee, and an overdraft of $7,500 by the Board of Works, the city council expects to wind up the year with a balance on the credit side of the municipal ledger.

Alderman Dutton summarized the probabilities of the relief committee's financing at Thursday night's meeting of the Finance Committee, with Alderman Hamilton presiding, and it was suggested that $10,000 might be transferred from the relief account to the Board of Works.

Mayor Macdonald explained that the Board's prospective deficit of $7,500 might be indirectly chargeable to relief. The program of work on streets and other municipal services directed by Alderman Juby's department had been undertaken partly as a means of providing work for men who otherwise might have to apply for relief. Some of them were so-called border line cases, men who could avoid recourse to relief if work was made available for them.

The city council had tried to follow a policy during the year of providing work rather than relief, and its results were reflected to a considerable extent in the surplus by the relief committee and the deficit by the Board of Works. Opinion of members regarded the resulting equation as highly satisfactory.

Mayor Macdonald was commissioned to inform the citizens who are promoting winter sports that it was not considered advisible to invite the Governor-General, Lord Tweedsmuir, to open the proposed carnival that is being planned for next winter. His Excellency has expressed on two occasions already a desire to visit Peterborough during the summer, and the council expects that it may be next year.

Y. W. CAMPAIGN TOTALS $27,050

Reports from the canvassers are coming in slowly in the Extension Fund Campaign. Commenting on this fact, Headquarters stated many of the workers had not made returns and preferred to continue their efforts until Monday evening when complete returns are to be made.

Mr. Stalford, campaign director, stated that the citizens did not seem to grasp the idea that the usual annual appeal for 1937-38 for free public services was included in the objective of $50,000, and that many were contributing the same amount as they did annually. However, it is not afticipated there will be any such appeal until 1939. There is also two years to pay the present contributions.

One-half of the contributions received are cash, a very healthy sign as to existing conditions in Peterborough, Mr. Stalford said, but proving that if the citizens contributing would promise to make the same contributions next year to take the place of the annual appeal, the returns to date would be half again as large.

This is the first major appeal ever made by the Y.W.C.A. in 30 years, and Mr. Stalford felt sure that if the citizens contributed the total amount so vitally necessary for the repairs and extension work, many years would elapse before a similar appeal would have to be made.

Peterborough citizens are not called upon to make large contributions annually towards its welfare activities, such as is the case of hundreds of other cities across Canada, it just seems unthinkable this campaign would fail, Mr. Stafford added. Patricularly in view of the fact this is a campaign wherein the citizens are helping themselves while helping the "Y," because every dollar contributed will be spent in Peterborough, and help the labourers, the carpenters, the decorators and Peterborough firms.

BOY LOYAL TO CANINE

KEARNEY, Neb. Oct. 29.—Found sleeping in a freight car with a stray dog he had befriended, 15-year-old Boyd Cabeen of Lincoln, Neb., told police he decided to "bum" his way home from Denver when refused permission to travel with his canine pet in a passenger car. Police gave the boy food, which he shared with the dog. Then both completed the trip by truck.

Landscape Expert Suggests Beautification Of Park

Recommendations Also Made For Beautifying Little Lake Crescent

Recommendations by Harry Moore, landscape expert with the Ontario Department of Highways, for the further beautification of Ashburnham Memorial Park and Little Lake Crescent were read by Alderman Hamilton at last night's meeting of the parks committee of the city council.

Mr. Moore visited Peterborough on October 21 as guest speaker at the convention of county school teachers, and found time to renew his impressions of several sections of the city which have received his attention in the past. He was accompanied by Alderman Hamilton and E. A. Outram, assistant city clerk.

"Dealing with the Crescent first," the report recalled, "Mr. Moore advised that a five foot bitulithic walk be put down along the whole length of the Crescent, being kept out about ten feet from the edge of the rip-rap. Where the ground space narrows, as it does in several places, the walk could be brought in closer to the rip-rap with good effect. He emphasized that the ground should be scarified next April, some top soil put on, and the whole thing seeded.

While many of the trees along the Crescent appear in bad shape Mr. Moore did not favor any whole-sale removal, and opposed any suggestion of removing the outer row of trees. Removal of trees and planting of others should be done with the idea of grouping trees, instead of placing them in rows. New trees planted several years at the northend of the Crescent should be taken out of line and replanted in groups.

Ivy to Cover Wall

He advised that Virginia creeper, and other hardy creepers should be planted along the rip-rap so that they will grow down over it, thus relieving its harsh appearance. Between the walk and the rip-rap the planting of shrubbery and hardy flowers was proposed. Such planting would not be continuous along the whole length, but sections would be taken and planted individually, thus a certain amount of such work could be done annually over a period of years.

Mr. Moore suggested the placing of benches at advantageous points between the walk and the roadway, near tree groupings and in front of the shrubbery.

Ashburnham Memorial Park

At Armour's Hill, a plan of which Mr. Moore made some years ago, he suggested the building of a wall of loose stones along the edge of the parking place as protection against cars going over the edge. He did not favor a fence or guard rail. He remarked that if the council asked A. A. Smith, chief engineer of the Department of Highways, Mr. Moore's services for a further plan of the hill park, particularly for the enlarged area could be secured. He was impressed with the work accomplished in the city and stated that the possibilities at Ashburnham Memorial Park were inspiring.

We noticed that the group of evergreens in the Park, near Armour Hill, originally maintained as a nursery, have grown quite large. These should be planted about the hill."

On Mayor Macdonald's motion, seconded by Alderman Hamilton, a letter will be sent to Mr. Smith requesting him to permit Mr. Moore to come to Peterborough at a suitable time to enlarge the general plan of the Ashburnham Memorial Park.

Mayor Pulls Punch In Aid Of Harmony

MAYOR Macdonald pulled a punch Thursday night probably in the interest of harmony within the aldermanic circle. The Manufacturers Committee of which Alderman Glover is chairman is planning an industrial survey as a preliminary to a new effort to make Peterborough better known among American manufacturers who might be looking toward Canada. He suggested that the managers of the city's factories be invited to a luncheon to assist the committee and the expert who will make the survey.

"Peterborough's manufacturers have always been willing to co-operate with the council in the past when we were trying to get new industries, and we trust they are still cordial although after some of the things that have happened this year—" and that was where Mayor Macdonald began to put on the brakes, may be because the alderman he was thinking of wasn't present, or may be it was just the effect of his characteristic preference for goodwill and peace.

SHE HAD HIM STUMPED

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 29 (AP)—Franklin T. Price, chief librarian of the Free Library, says there's hardly a question he can't find the answer to but he had to admit defeat, he said, when a woman demanded on her rights as a taxpayer that he tell her the name and rank of the unknown soldier buried in Washington.

$102 CLEAN UP

BARRINGTON, N.J., Oct. 29 (AP)—Earl Shappell cleaned up his filling station. He gathered up all the loose paper, empty cartons and boxes and burned them. The place looked fine. Then he remembered $102 in cash had been in one of the boxes consigned to the flames.

SASKATOON LOSES $4,000 IN RADIUM

SASKATOON, Oct. 29—(CP). — Saskatoon hospital authorities pressed search to-day for a tube of radium valued at $4,000, used for cancer treatment at the hospital. The radium was lost Monday.

On the possibility the tube was flushed through hospital plumbing, the ground above sewers between the hospital and the Saskatchewan River is being covered thoroughly with a radium detector from the University of Saskatchewan. The instrument recorded no sign yesterday of proximity of the precious metal.

W. A. Morrison, technician in charge of the University radium emanation plant, conducted the search of the river bank and portions of the bed of the stream. He said the detector was tested frequently and that it operated successfully. Dr. E. L. Harrington, Professor of Physics, was called into conference with hospital authorities with the result Mr. Morrison prepared apparatus of the detector type in the hope of tracing the missing metal. The detector will respond to the presence of radium.

'Dumpy Shall Lead' Goldwyn Declares

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.— Samuel Goldwyn, the ex-pants presser who became a movie magnate, has a "colossal" idea to end all "double feature" film programs.

He proposed to make pictures so long—running two hours or more—that no theatre manager would dare to present another film on the same program.

Goldwyn said he thought Charlie McCarthy (he has signed up the little woodenhead) was the greatest entertainer in Hollywood. "It has come to the time when a dummy shall lead them," was the way the producer put it.

VERULAM LODGE HAS LADIES' NIGHT

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BOBCAYGEON, Oct. 29.—Ladies' night of the Verulam Lodge No. 20 A.F. & A.M., was held in the Parish Hall on Wednesday. A delicious dinner was served by the Whyte House. Dr. Scott acted as chairman for the evening. After the meal a toast was proposed to the King and the Grand Lodge. The toast to the ladies was ably proposed by Mr. E. C. Anderson and responded to by Mrs. R. G. Scott. Community singing was led by Mrs. C. H. Pardy, accompanied by Mrs. W. D. Thomas. A toast to the visitors was proposed by Mr. Harry Stinson and ably responded to by Mr. Thomas Martin, Reeve of Verulam Township, and Mr. R. F. Downey, of Peterborough.

Dr. Scott thanked all those who had assisted, in a few brief remarks.

Alex and Albert Mulligan and Albert Carty entertained while tables were being arranged for cards. The evening was closed with an interesting game of euchre.

The door prize was won by Mr. Ross Bick. The euchre prize was won by Mrs. Thomas Henderson, and the man's prize by Mr. Johnson.

JAPS INVADING SHANSI PROVINCE

PEIPING, Oct. 29—(CP-Havas).—Japanese troops to-day occupied Niangtzekwan, main entrance to Shansi province, Japanese headquarters announced to-day.

The march on the provincial capital of Taiyuan would now proceed, it was said, from the west, while simultaneously a column pushing down from Taung would resume its southward march.

(Chinese reports insisted that defending forces held Yenmen Pass, cutting off the Japanese troops driving towards Taiyuan from that sector).

(Central Chinese News Agency dispatches at Nanking insisted the Japanese were falling back from Niangtzewan toward Shihchiachuang. The agency said it was believed this heralded a new strategic plan by the Japanese to deal with the unexpectedly strong resistance.)

On the Peiping-Hankow and Tientsin-Pukow railway fronts no movements were reported.

Nine Chinese bombers raided Japanese lines near the Chang river in Northern Honan but were driven off by Japanese airmen, headquarters announced here. Two of the raiders were brought down.

THE DEPENDABILITY OF TELEPHONE SERVICE CARRIES AN IMPORTANT MESSAGE TO CAR OWNERS

So unfailingly does the telephone serve us in daily life that we turn to it instinctively in emergencies. We take its dependability for granted . . . but the telephone companies do not. There could be no more critical tests than those to which each article of telephone equipment is subjected.

It is significant that since the earliest days of the telephone, Exide Batteries have been entrusted with an important part in carrying telephone messages over the wires. Guided by such facts, you need never rely on guesswork when buying a new battery for your car. Is there any other battery which so thoroughly merits your confidence?

But do not buy any battery before you are sure a new one is really needed. Remember this—good batteries as well as worn-out batteries run down. There is an Exide Battery designed to suit every car. The newest Exide is the Hycap—a battery of high capacity as its name suggests. It is specially designed to easily take care of the demands of your defroster, radio, heater, etc., and still have ample power for starting your car in any kind of weather. Look for the Exide Dealer Sign—symbol of honest service.

M. Herrington Wins Fraser Cup Captures Hastings Test

Defeats Six Other Contestants Before Packed House To Capture Championship

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Oct. 29. — Mayme Herrington, second eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Herrington was judged winner, over a field of seven entries from the public and separate schools in the eighth consecutive public speaking contest, held in the town hall on Wednesday night, before a packed attendance. Mayme, who attends the separate school was awarded the Fraser cup. Her subject was "money."

Bertha Beavis, attending the public school, was awarded second place cup given by the schools.

F. Turcotte, of the separate school board presented the cup. The town cup was awarded Doreen Hazelwood, who stood third, and was presented by Reeve Fairman.

T. A. Coughlan was chairman for the evening. The judges were; Josephine Anderson, Miss Crossen, Helen McGee, J. Louker, L. S Palmer and Miss C. Convey. The four other contestants were: June Scriver, Jessie Scriver of the Public School; Dorothy MacDonald, Vince Gallivan of the Separate school.

Mr. Dawson, president of the Northumberland and also of the seven counties, trustees and ratepayers association, gave a talk on education while the judges were summing up the points. He requested that the price of admission, for the county finals to be held in Hastings, November 12, be advertised as 5c for children and 10c for adults. Rev. M. Stocks gave an address, directed to the school children, urging them to work hard in order to attain success. A program was rendered by pupils of both schools throughout the evening, between speakers.

The Winning Effort.

"Money should not be our sole interest, but all must have it, in order to live", the winning orator said. "The doctors greatest interest, is to save the patients life, but it is only just, that he should receive his pay. The same is true of all of us, for work should come first, but in order to work, we must eat, and to eat, we must have money.

"In a very large stone building, in the City of Ottawa, called the Royal Canadian mint, our money is made. There, the coppers, nickels, dimes, quarters, half dollars and the paper money are made.

Reach into your pocket. How much money have you? If the money in Canada was evenly divided, every man, woman and child would have exactly $25.21, but, sad to say, such is not the case. Some fortunate people have amassed great fortunes, while others have very little of the $377,000,000.00 which exists in Canada today.

Old Money

Every year, old coins and old bills find their way to the mint to be destroyed—what a story old money could tell, if it could speak. It might tell of its sojourn, in the strong box of a grasping old miser, or the charity it did, in supply bread to the hungry, or the joy it gave in buying candy for children. Most of us have seen the shin plaster — there are no more made now, and according as they come into the banks, they are sent to the mint to be destroyed.

"How many of us have a four dollar bill, or have seen one recently?" queried the speaker. "It may come as a surprise to you that there are still about $20,000 worth of these bills in use, or in somebody's strong box. For years these bills have been withdrawn from circulation, and every year, a few of them are destroyed at the mint, yet you see, a goodly number are still scattered throughout our people's pockets.

There is a first class mystery, concerning the whereabouts of a number of large bills—issues which have been withdrawn from circulation for years. There was a certain issue of $50 bills in 1872, which later were recalled. In 1923, all but 18 of these bills had found their way to the mint, but since then, not one of those missing bills have appeared.

The Story of a $1,000 Bill

A similar story is true of a $1000 bill and of two $5000 bills. In 1923 there were 600 thousands dollar bills in the hands of the banks, but in 1923, they were recalled. Five hundred and ninety-nine of these bills have returned to the mint to be destroyed but there is still one casualty, one missing thousand dollar bill, which no one can or cares to account for.

A similar mystery surrounds two $5000 bills. Some years ago a few $5,000 bills were issued, for the purpose of bank transactions. These bills have been recalled, but two of them—yes!—two of them, are missing. "Where are they?" again asked the speaker. "Nobody knows. Perhaps a burglar was sent to prison after having hidden his loot in a secluded spot to await his release. Perhaps, they have been mislaid in a bank—have fallen down behind some old ledgers. Any self respecting bank would tear its premises down if it could locate the missing bills. Perhaps, some day, some lucky person will find a nest egg.

In summing up, the young lady stated, she had related a few interesting facts regarding money, the source of many crimes—the requisite of all men. "Let us hope we may be blessed with sufficient of it to satisfy our worldly needs."

Killed Consul

Pictured in police headquarters at Beirut, Syria, after his arrest in the fatal shooting of J. Theodore Marriner, United States Consul General in Syria, is Jean Karayan. Karayan, an American-Armenian, committed the crime in belief that the consul general had denied him a visa that would permit his return to the United States. The official notification that Karayan had been granted the visa had merely been delayed in the mails.

28,140 TRAFFIC VICTIMS

CHICAGO, Oct. 29—(AP).—The National Safety Council reported today 28,140 persons died in United States traffic accidents during the first nine months of 1937, a nine per cent. increase over the total for the same period last year.

Despite the increase, the council noted "several favorable aspects" of the traffic situation. September was the second month in which no increase over 1936 was registered. The total for the month, 3,550, represented a 10 per cent. drop from August.

CENTENARY CHURCH HAS ANNIVERSARY

(Examiner Correspondence.)

ROSENEATH, Oct. 29—Anniversary services were held in Centenary United Church on Sunday morning and evening, October 24.

Rev. H. A. Mellow, Gore's Landing, was the speaker at the morning service. In his sermon, Mr. Mellow defined the purpose of the church, as the vehicle by which the saving grace of Christ may be brought into the lives of all. He also outlined God's task for the Christian. If God's Kingdom is to come on earth.

The service of song, under the direction of Miss Hilda Arthur, organist, was much appreciated. Two numbers, "Redeemed," and "Let the Lower Lights be Burning," was sung by the male section of the choir; a mixed quartette, "Will You Not Come to Him Now?" was sung by Misses Jessie Smith and Luella Timlin, and Messrs. Thomas and Alvin Kelly; and a solo, "The Lillies," was sung by Mrs. L. W. Scott.

Evening Service.

Rev. H. F. Newell of Hastings preached at the evening service. The subject of Mr. Newell's address was "A Man's True Life." In his address, Mr. Newell pointed out that true life does not exclude the recognition and appreciation of the physical; that character is measured by what one is, not by what one possesses; that to attain the spiritual character, God must be enthroned in the human soul, allowing His character to possess one's ideals.

The music at the evening service, which was much enjoyed, was furnished by the choir of Roseneath United Church. Two anthems, "I Will Life Up My Eyes Unto the Hills," and "We Will Rejoice," was sung by a full choir, and a number, "Those Chiming Bells," was sung by Messrs. Lewis Roberts, Alvin Kelly, Willis Dowler, Melville Macklin and Renslow Joice.

The chancel, banked with potted plants and foliages, presented an attractive appearance.

Rev. J. N. Blodgett, Wycliffe College, Toronto, will preach in St. James' Anglican Church on Sunday afternoon, October 31, at 2.30 o'clock.

Western Relief.

Two truckloads, approximately 180 bags of fruit and vegetables, were shipped from Roseneath charge, including Fenella and Centenary, for Western relief, during the past week.

Miss Isabell Birdsall of Westwood was a recent guest of her friend, Miss Gwendolyn Varcoe.

Miss Doris Budd, Port Hope, is visiting her cousin, Miss Florence Macklin.

Mrs. Kenny, Baby Derby In Bag Builds Monument To Millar

Tiny Model Home With Gardens, Terraces Shows Lawyer Singing At His Birthplace

TORONTO, October 29—(CP). — A monument to-day honors the memory of Charles Vance Millar, lawyer and sportsman, just 11 years after his death signalled the start of Toronto's maternity steeplechase.

The monument stands before a small brick house in the industrial section on Adelaide street west. Some observers have declared it is almost as fantastic as Mr. Millar's will, which left about $300,000 to the Toronto mother who gave birth to the largest brood in the ten years following his death.

The brick house is the dwelling of plump, dynamic, little Mrs. Martin Kenny, spitfire of the baby race, sometimes known as Mrs. "Haymaker" Kenny, who once floored a New York photographer when he tried to take advantage of her with his camera.

Mrs. Kenny made the monument. It consists of a modern model of a house, surrounded by gardens and terraces and on a hill behind the house a wooden cutout of a man singing. A sign by the model carries the label, "Charlie Millar's Birthplace," and the flat picture of a man, with a golf club under his arm is Charlie Millar himself. The head is rather large for the body.

Mrs. Kenny has artistic aspirations and makes models in her spare time.

Alone in Appreciation.

Once a showgirl, Mrs. Kenny is the only one of the several competing mothers in the Bassinet derby who seems to sense the greatness of Charlie Millar. Claiming 10 children born in the 10 years stipulated, Mrs. Kenny says she will build a mausoleum to Mr. Millar's memory when she wins the money, which she declares is in the bag. Meantime the monument in front of her home will do.

At present the will is being disputed before the Supreme Court of Canada by Arabella West and Alexander Butcher, Millar's next of kin. They claim the baby race clause in the will tends to encourage illegitimacy and therefore is against public policy, hence invalid. They want the money.

The Supreme Court of Ontario and the Court of Appeals both have upheld the validity of the baby race clause. The Supreme Court of Canada is expected to deal with the will in November.

If the nation's top tribunal were to uphold the legality of the disputed clause, the matter probably would be referred back to the Ontario Supreme Court for a ruling as to the winner or winners in the stork marathon.

The baby race ended last Oct. 31, and entrants in the contest are doing their best to bear up under the strain of the long, abtruse legal proceedings.

"I'm living in hopes," said Mrs. Grace Bagnato anxiously. Mrs. Bagnato has nine babies born in the "Millar will decade."

"It's just the dickens waiting," said Art Timleck, city parks department worker, whose wife also had nine offspring in the 10 year race.

Similar sentiments came from the lips of the Nagles, the Harrisons, the Darrigos, the Grazianos, the Smiths—but not Mrs. Kenny.

Mrs. Kenny stood in her doorway and announced deliberately that she was answering no questions and making no statements. In fact, she just wouldn't talk for anyone. But she was slamming doors. Bang!

HUNT TWO HUNTERS

STANLEY, Idaho, Oct. 29—(AP). —Mountain folk beat through the great wilderness area to-day in search of an Idaho newspaper publisher and his 10-year-old son, missing six days on a hunting trip.

Somewhere in Challis National Forest area they hope to locate R. L. Cornwell of Jerome, Idaho, and his son Dean.

A MODERN LOCHINVAR

Youthful wife of a 78-year-old farmer, of Stara-Kanjizha, Jugoslavia, ran away with a younger man. The aged husband took a sickle and stick and went to fetch her back. In spite of his age he broke down the locked door of the lover's house, bound the lover with ropes, and locked him up in the attic. Then he carried off his wife and took her back home!

CANADIAN WOMAN IS TOP PACKER

OTTAWA, Oct. 29.—(CP)— Mrs. Isobel Stillingfleet of Kelowna, B.C., won the apple packing contest at the Imperial Fruit Show which has just ended at Birmingham, England, according to word received today at the Department of Agriculture.

Speed and skill in packing apples were deciding factors in the competition and Mrs. Stillingfleet won by a good margin although the score cards have not been cabled across the Atlantic.

The competition was open to packers from all parts of the Empire and the Canadian woman won over a group of British packers and girls from Australia and New Zealand. Prize for first place was a gold medal and $100.

Competitors were required to pack five boxes of apples twice daily throughout the show and points scored by each were totalled at the finish to decide the winner. Points were allotted as follows: Style and appearance, 15; alignment, 10; bulge, 10; height of front at ends, 10; firmness, 12; wrapping, 10; time, 33.

Mrs. Stillingfleet won the right to represent Canada at the contest in a stiff elimination at Vernon, B.C. Twelve girls from different apple-growing communities in British Columbia were entered and Mrs. Stillingfleet won the trip to Birmingham by a narrow margin.

A.Y.P.A. Sponsors Hallowe'en Party

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BETHANY, Oct. 29.—The A.Y.P.A. of St. Mary's Church held their regular fortnightly meeting on Wednesday, October 27, at the home of Kenneth Henderson. There were 17 members present. The opening exercises were observed by the president, Ben Page.

The meeting was in the nature of Hallowe'en spirit, everyone coming in masquerade costume, which presented a weird appearance, consisting mainly of the following characters, viz.: Witches, ghosts, ragamuffins, clowns. Prizes were given in the following order: For best boy and girl won by Muried and Jack Hannah, as gypsies. Other prizes were won by Gladys Wright, Vera Strachan, and Robert Sisson.

Two delegates were elected to attend the conference at St. Catharines —Harold Page and Robert Reid.

The A.Y.P.A. of St. Mary's decided to attend an amateur contest to be held in Peterborough on November 10.

Gordon Smith and Ben Page were appointed a committee to attend all executive conferences for the A.Y.P.A. of St. Mary's.

A contest prepared by Marjory Page and Jack Hanna, called "An Old-Fashioned Dinner," was won by Robert Sisson and R. Holden.

Later after the closing exercises, the hostess, with assistants, served a bountiful luncheon, which all enjoyed.

A kindly vote of thanks was tendered by Rev. Mr. Holden on behalf of the Young People, and replied to by Kenneth Henderson.

NATIONAL OFFICER VISITS KINSMEN

The Peterborough Kinsmen Club had as its guest speaker on Thursday night Dr. A. R. Richards of Cobourg, who is national vice-president of the association. Dr. Richards made a plea for a greater spirit of fellowship and service in the organization and also forecast that in the very near future it would be the greatest young men's service organization in Canada.

The National officer congratulated Alex. Elliott on his election, and also mentioned another Kinsman, R. D. Arnott of Belleville, who will be the youngest member in the Legislature.

Discussing the National objective for the year the speaker told of the rapid growth of Kinsmen clubs in the past two years until now there are 68 clubs in Canada, with a club in Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, being the last one formed. The slogan for the year is to be "Co-operation Builds Kin," and a determined effort is going to be made to form more clubs in the district between Toronto and Montreal.

The speaker declared that the main purpose of Kinship was fellowship and service and along with these two could be placed co-operation and tolerance. He believed that in towns and cities where there were Kinsmen clubs that a better feeling was created.

As to the service end it is unlimited but here the speaker lasted a warning to not criticize the various "isms" too harshly for democracy can be used to great advantage, but also to cause much ill and trouble as in many instances in the past. He put the service work under three headings: Service to your community and in this he declared that charity balls and such like did not alleviate suffering amongst the needy. But the idea of service to the community was to raise that standard of living to a higher level. Then service to the club and service to yourself. He urged every member contribute something to each meeting for one w... get out of kinship only that which he puts into it.

Over 400 books of tickets were reported sold by club members on the draw at the Carnival on Saturday night. The committee in charge reported all arrangements complete. President Don Loucks was ordered to purchase a wreath to be placed on the war memorial on Remembrance Day.

Warns His Patrons When Pictures Bad

DUNN, N.C., Oct. 29. — Worth Stewart, manager of a theatre here, believes in telling the customers when his pictures aren't "colossal."

The theatre recently advertised on its marquee, "Two lousy features and a comedy."

NORMAL SCHOOLS ENROLMENT DOWN

TORONTO, Oct. 29—(CP)—Enrolment in Ontario Normal schools was reported by the Department of Education to-day to be 1,033, a decrease of 20 or so from 1936. Enrolment was slightly higher at London, slightly lower in Toronto and about stationary in other places.

Figures are: Hamilton, 127; London, 135; North Bay, 63; Ottawa, 116; Peterborough, 83; Stratford, 94; Toronto, 223; University of Ottawa, 182.

Virtually the equivalent of honor matriculation is required now for admission to Normal schools. With the exception of the University of Ottawa, where French speaking teachers are trained, only first class certificates are granted and for these the honor standing is required. By special arrangements students with junior matriculation standing are admitted to the University of Ottawa teacher training classes.

Education Department officials expected a larger decrease in enrolment this year. Invariably as times get better and positions in industry and commerce more easily available, Normal school enrolments drop off.

Four London Cases Adjourned Week

LONDON, October 29—(AP).—Ar-Two doctors and two women arrested a week ago on illegal operation charges, appeared in court today and had their cases adjourned until November 4. The four were: Dr. J. E. McGillicuddy, Dr. C. A. Cline, Jr., Mrs. Rachel Stock and Mrs. Iris Murray, all of London.

The doctors and Mrs. Murray have been out on $10,000 bail each, but when the cases were called in court, C. C. Savage, London lawyer, told Magistrate Menzies that Mrs. Stock had not been able to raise the $10,000 bail for her release. She was still in custody.

"Bail has been set at such a figure it has been hard for us to raise the amount," said the lawyer.

"It had been my intention to ask the court to reduce the bail in her case so she might get out of jail," said Crown Attorney Norman Newton. "I would be pleased to consent to bail of $2,000. I am satisfied that she will attend court if released on bail."

INSTALS OFFICERS AT SPRINGBROOK

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BONARLAW, Oct. 29.—On Tuesday evening of this week District Deputy Grand Master, H. E. Hulin of Stirling and team installed into office the officers of Springbrook Lodge No. 429, Independent Order of Oddfellows. The installing team was as follows: D. D. G. Master H. E. Hulin; D.D.G. Marshall, J. B. Thompson; D. D. G. Warden, Alex Parks; D. D. G. Chaplain, Earnest Carlide; D. D. G. secretary, Earl Fox; D. D. G. financial secretary, J. M. McGee; D. D. G. treasurer, W. H. Patterson; D.D.G. Guardian, W. L. Anderson.

The following officers were installed: Noble Grand, Clayton Burkitt; Past Grand, Lindsay Mumby; Vice Grand, J. M. Barlow; recording secretary, G. E. Thompson; financial secretary, Sidney Mason; treasurer, Charles Lough; Chaplain, Roy Shdrit; conductor, Percy Baleman; warden, Ray Shortt; R.S.N.G., M. R. Neal; L.S.N.G., Roy Brown; R.S.V.G., G. S. Eastwood; L.S.V.G., W. J. Barlow; R.S.S., Charles Burkitt; L.S.S., A. B. McComb; inside Gd., Hiram Mumby; outside Gd., Simon Matthews.

District Deputy Hulin in addressing the Lodge stressed the importance of a strong membership committee and meetings opened on time. He also gave notice of a district rally to be held at Stirling on November 18th to which the Deputy Grand Master has been invited.

Members of the installing team and also the newly elected officers delivered short addresses. Many of the members of Springbrook Lodge were loud in their praise for the efficient and impressive manner in which the installing team did their work.

After the close of the business session the local brethren served a sumptuous repast, games were played and all joined in community singing.

Mr. M. Fitzgerald loaded three carloads and J. Davidson three carloads of livestock on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

YOUNG ORATORS GIVE ADDRESSES

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 29.—Cecil Stephens, newly-elected Citizenship Convenor of St. John's Young People's Union was in charge of the program on Monday evening which was addressed by four of the members who had taken part in the Oratorical Contest held in the High School last Friday evening. During the business portion of the meeting it was reported that Dr. Archer Wallace would address a gathering of the young people at some meeting to be held during the next month.

During the opening exercises Miss Helen Palliser gave the scripture reading which was followed by the reading of a poem entitled "The Beautiful Gift" by Miss Ruth Palliser. Miss Evelyn Todd led the group in prayer.

In view of the fact that Hallowe'en conflicts with a special Christian Fellowship program which has already been arranged it was decided to dispense with a special Hallowe'en program.

Roy Young was the first speaker to address the Young People and his subject dealt with "Pioneers of Western Canada" while Audrey Menzies took the Sino-Japanese war as her topic. Mr. Raymond Wragg favored the group with a vocal solo and was accompanied at the piano by Donald Bennett. Harold Nell, Jr., repeated his address which won for him second place in the contest, entitled "The Romance of Gold." "Superstitions" was Helen Young's subject which she deals with in a very interesting manner.

DEDICATED BY PROVOST

PORT HOPE, Oct. 27.—Rev. F. H. Cosgrove, provost of Trinity College, Toronto in St. Mark's Anglican church yesterday, dedicated a credence table, silver communion flagon and brass tablet to the memory of the late Canon Oswald Rigby, M.A., LL.D., rector from 1916 until his death in 1933.

CHICKEN SUPPER AT SOUTH DUMMER

(Examiner Correspondence.)

COTTESLOE, Oct. 29—The ladies of South Dummer church held a very successful chicken pie supper in the Sunday School room on Thursday evening.

After nearly two hundred people had partaken of a most sumptuous supper they all repaired to the church where Mr. Cleland was chairman for the following program:

Two musical selections by Messrs. John Knox and Harold Fife with piano accompaniment played by Mrs. Walter Girven; Messrs. H. Godin, J. Duffield and G. Puffer rendered several songs, playing their own accompaniment; Miss Lorna Brerkon gave a piano instrumental and a recitation; Miss Lenore McIlvena rendered two solos, Mrs. O. McIlvena playing her accompaniment; Miss Olga Metcalfe gave a recitation; and Rev. Wilkinson, Warsaw, Rev. A. Gardiner, Demorestville, Mr. Brerkon and Mr. Rork Ferguson each spoke a few words.

At the close "God Save the King" was sung.

The following Friday night the ladies gave another supper, when they took in over six dollars at the door, this making a total of $47 for the two evenings.

POOR FISHING

GODERICH, Ont., Oct. 29 (CP).—Not in 20 years has commercial fishing in Lake Huron been at such low ebb as this autumn. One boat brought three trout into this port yesterday, another 40 pounds, the proceeds falling far short of paying for the gasoline burned. Prevailing high winds were blamed for the poor season, for many hundreds of dollars worth of nets were riddled, torn and made useless by heavy seas.

Britain expects to store 30,000,000 civilian gas masks for emergencies.

Better Buy McLAUGHLIN Buick for 1938

WHAT WE PRESENT today is something far more than another new car. It is the most advanced new car in the world!

When you examine the 1938 McLaughlin-Buick, you will recognize the truth of what we say. For you will see a car not only bigger and more beautiful in appearance—but a car set sharply apart from all others by two major engineering advancements.

One is the new Dynaflash Engine . . . an outstanding improvement in McLaughlin-Buick's famous Valve-in-Head Straight Eight design . . . that results in performance literally without parallel in modern motoring.

The other is new "Torque-Free" Springing . . . The old leaf-type rear springs are gone—now each wheel has a soft, shock-smothering, uniformly flexing cushion of stout coiled steel. You're safer—skid risks are reduced a third—rear tires last longer—the car handles easier. And the soft-cushioned, floating ride is unaltered by either wear or weather.

No other car in the world offers you these two great engineering achievements. But McLaughlin-Buick goes further than that, even . . . combining them with Knee-Action—Tiptoe Hydraulic Brakes—Torque Tube Drive—Unisteel Turret Top Bodies by Fisher—and Fisher No-Draft Ventilation.

From the great new Dynaflash engine to the last, perfect touch of its tasteful styling, this great new 1938 Eight is a car you cannot afford to miss seeing and driving today. It adds fresh laurels to McLaughlin-Buick's reputation for achievement—and to the fine old "McLaughlin tradition" of quality.

Lady Bowlers Adopt Proposals For Re-Organization Of Club

Plan To Increase Membership Next Season—Hold Annual Banquet

Adopting completely the recommendations of the board of directors as a stepping stone towards the re-organization of the ladies' section was the main topic for discussion at the ladies' bowling banquet held in the club rooms on Thursday night. Each clause as recommended by Ben Chesler, representing the board, was carefully thrashed out, and argued from every angle possible.

Ken Sloane, president-elect of the club, occupied the chair, and after justice had been done to the supper served, laid stress on the fact, that things in the ladies' section had not been handled as they should have been, there had been mistakes made but hoped for the good of the club that the past season be forgotten and the members look ahead to brighter and bigger prospects for '38.

Mrs. A. Heckman, chairman of the social committee gave a report on the work done and Mrs. T. Doughty read the financial statement. During the discussion on the recommendations, a great number of the ladies took part and the leading points brought out were: (1) All games to be under the supervision of the men's games committee; (2) A membership committee of eight lady members; (3), Each rink to have at least one new member; (4) A drive to increase the membership up to twenty rinks.

ADAMS CONFIDENT OF RETAINING CUP FOR DETROIT CLUB

DETROIT, Oct. 29 (CP).—Blessed with one of hockey's acknowledged great defence units and an abundance of first-class forwards, Detroit Red Wings, in the opinion of Manager Jack Adams and the rest of the league, are "the team to beat" for the National League title and the Stanley Cup, both Detroit properly for the past two years.

There is no reason to suppose Wings are not as good as last season, and three reasons why they might be better. They are wee Larry Aurie, ace of the first-string line, Captain Doug Young and Orville Roulston, all of whom played only a part season because of broken legs.

Kilrea Down The River

Either Roulston or Bobby Bowman, another defenceman, and centre Wally Kilrea will drop back to Pittsburgh Hornets of the Int.-Am. League when the National League opens Nov. 4. Johnny Sherf, native of Calumet, Mich., will replace Kilrea on the third line.

Two other minor changes have been made. Johnny Gallagher and scaler Earl Robertson, who starred in the playoffs, have been sold to New York Americans. Aside from these shifts, the Red Wing management has let well enough alone.

Back of the blue line will be Norm Smith in goal. Bucko McDonald and Young will form one defence pair and Ebbie Goodfellow and Roulston or Bowman the other. Smith is one of the best net-fingers in the business and those defencemen can really hit, and attack in their spare time.

One Of Best Scoring Lines

In the first-string line lies the Wings' greatest offensive. It is centred by veteran Marty Barry, who makes plays so well that Herbie Lewis on left wing and Aurie on right have their work made much easier.

Two steady trios back up the aces. Syd Howe, Johnny Sorrell and Pete Kelly will form the second line with Gord Pettinger, Mud Bruneteau and Sherf as the third stringers. The Ottawa speedster, Hec Kilrea will give up his regular forward duty for use as utility man.

Adams, starting his 11th season as Red Wing mentor, is sure his is the Stanley Cup team for 1937-38: "We were good enough to win the cup last year. With our cripples back, we're just that much stronger. I think we still have the best team—now we'll go out to prove it."

HARD GRID SCRAP IS EXPECTED HERE

Full teams are expected by both the Blue Bombers of Lindsay and the Peterborough Orfuns in the intermediate O.R.F.U. clash here tomorrow (Saturday) in Riverside Park at three o'clock. The Scugog squad promise to bring down their best team with the firm intention of handing the locals their first reverse of the season. Smarting from the setback suffered at the hands of Orfuns in Lindsay on Thanksgiving Day, the Bombers have been threatening for the past two weeks to knock off the Peterborough gang, who lead their group this year. The 1936 group champions, Lindsay, have a good team—though not as good as last year—and they have put up some great battles this autumn. They might just nose out the nod here tomorrow.

Coach Bill Turnbull expects to field his full squad, except for Magee, in this tilt and he looks for a victory. The players are all in good shape and the outfit will open up play more and do some experimenting if they get an early lead against Lindsay. It is bound to be a bitterly-fought battle since the rivalry between these rugby teams has been strong for the past two years. A big crowd of fans is expected to see the battle, and they should enjoy one of the best football fixtures seen here this year.

RADIO GOVERNORS' TERMS EXTENDED

OTTAWA, Oct. 29 — (CP). — Transport Minister Howe said last night terms of office of three governors of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation which would have ended November 2, have been extended for two years.

The three governors, Brig.-Gen. Victor Odlum of Vancouver; N. L. Nathanson of Toronto, and Alan B. Plaunt of Ottawa, were appointed last year for one-year terms. The government's action in extending their terms will leave them in office for a total of three years.

This change, Mr. Howe said, was the only one necessary at this time to maintain the board of governors at a strength of nine.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

AND SO tomorrow in the afternoon at three bells in Riverside Park, the Blue Bombers of Lindsay take issue with our Orfuns in a rugby tilt. 'Tis the 'piece de resistance' (or something) of the district O.R.F.U. group for the Peterboroughs. These teams long have been bitter football rivals, and the Lindsayites in recent years have held their own. They dug up a dandy senior collegiate gang three years ago that pranced through this section like a forest fire, and this same gang graduated into O.R.F.U. group champs last year. Since then, they have lost a couple of stars and haven't been so successful this season. But are still not a bunch of washouts. They beat Toronto Eastsides and gave the strong Cobourg crew a gruelling game only a week ago. They made Orfuns step—while they (Lindsay) were shorthanded—on the Scugog gridiron Thanksgiving Day. And they promise to be at full strength to knock the ears off ye Orfuns here this weekend.

* * * * * *

IT OUGHT to be a jim-dandy joust between good outfits which do not pull their punches. We look for a local win but the high-ridin' Orfuns are liable to take a fall anytime. They are not invincible, and they had to battle their heads off twice to take Cobourg. Lindsay's Bombers have nothing to lose here, while the locals have plenty of prestige at stake. So it may develop into one of those sports' upsets which sprinkle the snow in the coaches' bunny brown locks. Regardless of the outcome, fans will flock to this tussle to see these teams tangle—and they'll get their shilling's worth, all right. Ought to be a pip of a football fracas all the way.

* * * * * *

AS IS sometimes the case, much of the grid rivalry between these towns blossomed from seeds planted in the sports columns of these towns' papers. Hockey and baseball bitterness goes away back between local and Lindsay outfits, but the rugby rivalry really dates from some four years ago. We used to ride the Scugog squads unmercifully and naturally the scriveners there did likewise to Peterborough players. Developed into quite a feud and the players took it up. Local grid gladiators took more pleasure out of beating Lindsay teams—and by big scores—than they did in winning from Oshawa, Belleville or Cobourg. Same way with Lindsay over teams from this bailiwick. It was good fun and made for the real competitive spirit which puts life-blood in athletics and shekels in the treasury.

* * * * * *

PRETTY NEARLY put this pen-pusher hors de combat once, also. Four years ago, we resented muchly the ribald ribbing of Scugog scribes and players when Lindsay licked the locals to a fars-thee-well. We fought back hard, and finally when the Lindsayites fell in playdowns before Belleville, we penned a poem like this: On shores of Bay of Quinte the sun is shining bright; in Belleville bands are playing, in Belleville hearts are light; but where the muddy Scugog meanders on its way—a husky bunch of gridders haven't much to say! Neither grammatical nor brilliant, this ditty nevertheless aroused the wrath of the Scugog squad and one of the huskier players wanted to take us apart to see what made us tick. But with inspired diplomacy we adroitly changed the subject and escaped annihilation. Since then there has been no love lost in rugby between the players of these towns nor the scriveners. That is, during the football season.

* * * * * *

TORONTO EASTSIDES are playing tomorrow in Cobourg, it being a transferred fixture to wind up the schedule down that way. Has no bearing on the standing since the Ghosts are marking time till after today's tilt at Trenton airport between Belleville and the Fliers to see whether they meet the Panthers or Kingston Garrisons next. It'll be the Orfuns vs. Fliers in the "A" playdowns. One of the officials to be sent from Toronto here tomorrow will be Doug Stewart, as referee, and the Star columnist on rugby writes: "The O.R.F.U. officials' severest critic, Doug Stewart, will get his chance to do a little tooting in Peterborough this Saturday. It's an intermediate game between Lindsay and Peterborough, and the Balmy Beach manager had better be good!"

* * * * * *

GETTING AWAY from local and district sports for a minute—since plenty of local football fans follow keenly the doings in the Interprovincial Rugby Union—we see where Prexy Davies of that Union has exonerated Bunny Wadsworth of Ottawa for breaking Bonshinie's jaw last Saturday in Toronto. Officials at the game stated it was an accident and, naturally, that left the president nothing to do but exonerate the husky Ottawa cop. Toronto writers have been screaming all week that it was deliberate and that the Argo player was hit by (a) a shoulder, (b) an elbow or (c) a fist—the writers apparently all seeing things a bit differently. The Toronto a.m. paper columnist, with his amazing facility for balling up facts, says Davies is president of both the Union and the Ottawa Club—but he is not prexy of the Rough Riders' club.

* * * * * *

FOLKS AROUND this section of the country are liable to be led astray by the Toronto reporters. We don't know, either, but have been reading other papers, too, such as Ottawa, Montreal and smaller sheets. And most of them agree that these accidents will occur in such a bruising circuit and that they are seldom deliberate. They agree, too, that Argos are the "cry baby club of the Big Four"—and that Toronto writers get very small-townish in their yelps when players from that town are hurt. Argos yelled something awful about Ottawa imports, after Ottawa and beaten them, two seasons ago—but hushed everything up when it was found they were using a couple imports themselves. There are two sides to everything—and there was an Ottawa player seriously hurt in that game last Saturday, too.

* * * * * *

TWO CHURCH Basketball League games are billed for tomorrow night in the Y.M.C.A. gym. Both are bantam fixtures, Knox meeting All Saints at 6.30, with George St. playing St. John's at 7.30 o'clock. This will start four of the five bantam entries on their schedule. Juvenile and junior jousts were not arranged since they would conflict with P.C.I. rugby tussles as some of the gridiron guys also give the cage sport a whirl. Dope on the numbers of entries in the various sections of the basketball league ought to be known next week.

* * * * * *

OBSERVATION PLATFORM: Haven't got the pro rassle program for next Friday's card as yet . . . Lindsay juniors have a tough task facing 'em tomorrow in Bowmanville, and may drop their second straight rugby decision . . . . They claim they were robbed here a week ago, and can lick the locals easily . . . . Cobourg's O.R.F.U. squad is winning this year but getting less fan support than last season, when they were losing . . . . Ernie: Sure, we'll lay a wager on Orfuns tomorrow; we'd even put the good shirt in hock . . . . Look for a dandy junior "B" puck squad here this winter—no kidding . . . . They're trying indoor lawn bowling in Belleville now, on artificial grass mats . . . . Pick Hines, noted puck coach, should be included in the Peterborough picture somewhere this winter . . . . Yeah, those Blue Bombers of Lindsay snap out of a huddle quicker than you can say: "Antidisestablishmentarianism!"

Hockey Broadcasts Open November 6th Toronto-Montreal Games On The Air

"Hello Canada—and hockey fans in Newfoundland and the United States!"...." Once more, on Saturday, November 6th, Foster Hewitt's familiar greeting will sweep over a chain of stations from coast to coast. Fans in Canada—the United States—and even in more distant countries — will rally round their radios to hear the opening game between Toronto Maple Leafs and New York Americans, at Maple Leaf Gardens.

The broadcasts will expand this coming winter, practically "blanketing" every province in Canada with the broadcasts of games played either in Toronto or in Montreal.

Last winter, broadcasting of Montreal games was not permitted during the regular season schedule, leaving province of Quebec listeners without hockey until the play-offs. This winter, however, a franchise for all Saturday night games in Montreal has been secured.

With the province of Quebec thus provided for, the hockey network will now cover the entire Dominion with games played either in Toronto or in Montreal, and Saturday night will very definitely become hockey night in Canada.

The Montreal staff of English announcers is already familiar to listeners throughout Canada, due to its handling of the Montreal play-off games last winter. But, in addition to the English broadcasts of games at the Forum, there will be a companion broadcast, entirely in French, and featuring Roland Beaudry as the play announcer. This will go out over a Quebec provincial network of five stations—believed to be the largest French-language network ever used on a weekly sports feature.

Thus, the broadcasts during the coming winter will actually consist of three separate and distinct broadcasts every Saturday night. One of these will be the regular broadcast of the Maple Leaf home games from the Maple Leaf Gardens, in Toronto. A second will be the English broadcast of either the Maroons or Canadiens home games at The Forum in Montreal—which may occasionally be heard over the national network, particularly during play-offs. The third will be the all-French broadcast of the Montreal games, sent out over a Quebec provincial network.

NOVELIST PASSES

NEW YORK, Oct. 29—(CP)—Mrs. Florence Morse Kingsley, 78, novelist, who wrote 32 books, died yesterday.

The wife of the Rev. Dr. Charles R. Kingsley, a retired pastor, Mrs. Kingsley began her literary career in 1894, when she won $1,000 for the best manuscript of 336 submitted in a contest in Ohio. One of her books, entitled "Titus—A Comrade of the Cross," has since been published in every civilized language.

IRVIN BLUES WIN FIRST EXHIBITION IN ANNUAL SERIES

TORONTO, Oct. 29. — (CP).—Whoops! They're at it again. Lionel Hitchman, coach of Boston Bruins, has popped up with the NHL's second "baby line." The fans already have had numerous "kid lines," as produced by Toronto Maple Leafs and New York Rangers, a "big 8 line," and "green line," given them by Montreal Maroons, and Leafs' original "baby line." The Boston threesome is made up of Milt Schmidt, Bobby Bauer and Porky Dumart.

As a golfer Pep Kelly is—well he's a good hockey player. Kelly was high man yesterday at the annual golf tournament held by Leafs and members of their Syracuse farm won the tourney with a gross 76. Kelly's score?—126.

Don't mention that new N.H.L. penalty shot rule to Jack Adams. The Detroit Red Wings' coach claims it's almost impossible to miss a goal under the new rule, which shortens the distance the player must fire the puck and allows him to rush with the disc instead of batting at a stationary puck. Adams claims it makes for "cheap" victories and has registered his disapproval with league president, Frank Calder.

Bill Stewart, who spends the summer calling close ones in National Baseball League as an umpire, springs up with the newest wrinkle for hockey training. Though he didn't say just what they were, the new Hawk coach says he has used a lot of training tips from professional baseball on the Chicago team.

Plenty of drawing power, and scoring power, too, in those Toronto Maple Leafs and Syracuse Stars. The shuffled teams scored 18 goals in all last night in an exhibition game at Galt, Ont., watched by 2,500. The city's largest turnout in a decade saw Dick Irvin's Blues win 14-4 against Eddie Powers' Whites, as Charlie Conacher and Kelly scored three apiece for the winners.

Just in case there is any doubt about Winnipeg Monarchs, winners of the Memorial Cup last year, being a great team this should dissipate it; two members of that junior squad signed pro contracts with Leafs this year, with Defenceman Jack Fox joining up yesterday. Pete Langelle, a wizard stickhandler, beat Fox to it by a couple of days.

Well, it's 598 up and two to go for MDurray Murdock. The veteran needs just two more games in a New York uniform — which he'll get on the team's present western tour with New York Americans—to complete a neat string of 600 successive games with the Manhattan squad. No one else in big time hockey even comes close to that one.

FOR EMPIRE GAMES

LONDON — (CP). — England's bowling team at the British Empire Games in Australia in February will include T. C. Hills, singles and Sam Jones and R. Weeks, pairs. Other players have not yet been chosen.

Branch Rickey Claims American League Unity Beats National

Intramural Fight Hobbles Old Loop—Wouldn't Wreck Yanks, Rivals Must Do Better

Branch Rickey, never lacking for a bright reply, says the cohesion of the American League has enabled it to plaster the National. The director of the far-flung St. Louis Cardinal chain admits that the American league boasts baseball's top team in the New York Yankees, but challenges feelingly the current claim that the younger circuit, as a whole, is superior to the elder.

"The leagues average about the same strength," explains Rickey. "We've got as good pitching, fielding and power as the American.

"There's one thing we don't have, though. That's the unity of the American. In their desire to beat the National, American League clubs are one. We have concentrated on our intramural fight. This we must correct."

Rickey wouldn't break up the Yankees "for the good of baseball" even if he could.

Issue Challenge.

On the other hand, it is his view that the Ruppert Rifles have issued a challenge to the rest of their field and to the National League.

"Baseball must answer it by a general improvement on all fronts and not by weakening the Yankees," asserts the man whose resourcefulness and hard work brought the revolutionizing farm systems to the game. "There is no point in aiming at a lower standard." Rickey believes that the Yankees will win five more pennants in the next ten years.

He attributes the tremendous success of Col. Jacob Rupert's organization to the fact that it is not a profit-making concern.

"Unfortunately, most of us are by necessity profit-minded," continues Rickey. "Not so with the Yankee company. It puts every cent back into the business. Naturally, it can pay bigger prices for talent, and better wages after it develops stars. It doesn't have to dispose of reserves as the rest of us have to do at times to keep out of the 'red'."

Rickey does not appear to be alarmed at the Yankees organization's spendthriftiness. Indeed, he talks like a man who would very much like to be associated with some one who could carry out such a practice to somewhere near the extent of the fabulously wealthy brewer, Colonel Ruppert. His only comment along this line is that such liberality deserves championships.

Would Aid National.

The difference between the American and National Leagues is that the Yanks and other junior loop clubs now control more preferred playing material than the Cardinals, which are the only well-conducted outfit in the older wheel. The Cardinals recruit, but do not buy. Breaden, Rickey and Co. has to peddle players to pay dividends and frequently to remain solvent. American League clubs buy, and do not have to sell.

Rickey would have the other 15 major league clubs overtake the Yankees, but neglects to tell them how. Perhaps this is because mapping a plan of battle calculated to whip the Yankees would be especially difficult for the head of an organization which no longer seems able to win in a mediocre loop despite the fact that it controls some 300 athletes. As Rickey suggests an armistice in the National League's intramural scrap which would enable its members to get down to the serious assignment of leveling on the American Leaguers might help. That and a few good ball players.

Fights Last Night

(By The Associated Press)

Waterville, Md.—Haywood Storey, 160, Detroit, knocked out Jimmy Souney, 160, Attleboro, Mass. (1).

Plainfield, N.J.—Paul Corbyn, 148, Newark, N.J., outpointed "Six-Second" Powell, 148, Plainfield (8).

Mat Grappler Wins By Two Stitches After Head-Battering Battle

DURBAN, Oct. 29 (C.P.).—Flying mares, Indian death locks and flying scissors, favorite holds of North American wrestlers, are sissy stuff when South African groan-and-grunt boys start "pile-driving."

When Ben Sherman and Herb Parks met here the other night, three women and two men fainted.

Both boys started "pile-driving"—head battering to you—at the same time, and Parks won by two stitches. After the ramming match it took eight stitches to close the gash in Sherman's head, while Parks was almost as good as new after only six dips of the needle.

The bout ended at 10.15 p.m. — at 12.30 next morning Sherman was still being attended by a doctor.

BRIBERY RUMOR STIRS ENGLISH SOCCER CIRCLES

LONDON, Oct. 29 (CP Cable).—An anonymous letter, purporting to come from a betting syndicate and offering Fred Biddlestone, Aston Villa goalkeeper, $4,950 to "throw" matches is being investigated by English Football League authorities.

"It is our intention to bring about a few shock results, as it is our experience that shockers upset football coupons," the letter read. "For every match you lose we are prepared to pay $3,712.50 with $1,237.50 bonus. It is when the English Cup-ties come round that we intend to reach a rich harvest with a few sensational results."

Biddlestone is not letting the matter worry him. He turned the communication over to the soccer authorities and he and his teammates settled down to training for their tussle with Coventry City, one of the feature matches on Saturday's card.

Unbeaten in the campaign to date, Coventry leads the second division with a one-point margin over Sheffield United and two over Aston Villa. The Villans play at home and may be the first to unseat the City's fine record. Sheffield United is favored to win a home match against Stockport County.

Chelsea will have a hard job to retain leadership of the first division over the weekend. The Pensioners, with a single-point lead over Wolverhampton Wanderers and Brentford, visit Bolton Wanderers.

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—(AP).—Johnny Gilbert, the jockey, has bet $1,000 on Petey Sarron against Henry Armstrong to-night at odds of 5 to 2....Not only are both Syrians, but Sarron is the God-father of Johnny's boy....Sailing yesterday for three weeks in England and Europe, Eddie Brannick, secretary of the Giants, was asked if he intended visiting Italy...."Naw," retorted Mr. Brannick, emphatically if ungrammatically, "I've seen enough of them Dildoggios already"....Usually reliable sources swear that the night before he kayoed Al Ettore in Philly, Tony Galento made away with 24 hot dogs, six shots of booze and topped it off with a dozen beers....And yet some people wonder why they call him "wotta man!"

Danny London, Brooklyn featherweight, who fights Leo Rodak in Chicago Nov. 8, was born deaf and dumb....In a fight one night, some guy hit Danny a terrific smack behind the ear....Now he can hear and is learning to talk....It's the truth....(Fanny is the only fighter to knock out Harry Jeffra, the bantamweight champ)....Talk about versatile fleers, how about Bronko Nagurski?....Sunday afternoon Bronko will play with Chicago Bears against the N.Y. Giants in what virtually amounts to a world series football game....Then he'll get outside a few steaks and next Wednesday night will defend his "world's heavyweight wrestling title" against Chief Little Wolf at the Hippodrome....The following Sunday he'll be hitting the line again.

UNBEATEN BLUES MEET ABERDEEN

GLASGOW, Oct. 29 (CP Cable).—Unbeaten in thirteen games, but with six drawn matches to date in the 1937-38 Scottish Football League schedule, Glasgow Rangers go to Aberdeen for Saturday's feature match. The Dons have taken maximum points from the Glasgow club twice only in the last four years.

Rangers were on top of the heap until last Saturday, when Motherwell took advantage of their 2-2 deadlock with Hamilton Academicals to assume leadership. Motherwell defeated Falkirk 3-2. Runner-up in last year's race, Aberdeen now is in sixth position and the two points would place them within shooting distance of the leaders. Motherwell goes to Edinburgh to meet Hibernians, lowly-placed eleven, and indications point to a victory for the visitors.

Still hot over last year's 5-1 drubbing, Hearts are out for revenge this Saturday at Hamilton.

Tied with Hearts for third position, Celtic and Dundee have away games. The Celts are entertained by St. Mirren, while Dundee, early-season leader, goes to St. Johnstone.

Second Division pacemakers are favorites. Raith, with a 1-point lead over Albion Rovers, has a home game against Leith Athletic and Albion goes to Montrose.

Armstrong Favored To Dethrone Sarron

NEW YORK, Oct. 29 (AP).—Petey Sarron, Birmingham, Ala., Syrian, and Henry Armstrong, Los Angeles negro, will usher in Mike Jacobs as boxing boss of Madison Square Garden tonight (Friday) with a fifteen-round battle for the featherweight championship of the world.

The match represents Jacobs' first Garden venture since assuming control of boxing in the big arena the late Tex Rickard built on Eighth Avenue, and Mike's sixth championship promotion in four months.

Starting with the Braddock-Louis heavyweight fight in June at Chicago, Mike followed with the Louis-Farr engagement in the Yankee Stadium, then trotted out his carnival of champions last month, in which three world titleholders participated.

Jacobs predicted his debut in the Garden would attract 16,000 customers and a "gate" of $40,000.

Peden Brothers Win Toronto Race

For the first time in six-day bike history a brother combination pedalled to victory in Toronto's 10th annual race. The winners were Torchy, LEFT and Doug. Peden, of Victoria, B.C. A wide margin in sprint points, made possible through some brilliant pedal-pumping by novice Doug. on the final night, gave the Peden brothers a victory over the team of Gadou and Walthour. The two brothers are seen here as they rested in their bunk after the race.

Siam Speed Racer Has License Lifted When Charged With Reckless Driving

LONDON, Oct. 29.—(CP).—Disqualification of "B. Bira" from driving has caused much ado in British racing circles.

It's because "B. Bira" is Prince Birabongse Bhanutbandh, olive-skinned kinsman of the King of Siam, and when his name appears on programs there's sure to be a big gate.

After winning the British gold star race on the Crystal Palace track he was reported for dangerous driving on his way home. He was fined £10 (49.50) and had his driving license suspended for a year after police testified the Prince drove from 40 to 70 miles an hour, went on the wrong side of a traffic lane, and took a blind corner on the wrong side.

The Prince explained: "I was in a very powerful car that does '60' before you know where you are. But at that speed I am home, so I don't think it was a great wrong. But law is law."

The fact his driving license is suspended means by a recent decision of the Royal Automobile Club Competitions Committee that he is also disqualified from driving in car races in Britain.

Argo-Rider Battle At Ottawa Features Football Program

Grudge Battle Expected To Follow Charges And Counters Of Week

TORONTO, Oct. 29.—(CP)— To those who relish an old-fashioned grudge battle, the east has for recommendation tomorrow the return joust between Toronto Argonauts and Ottawa Rough Riders. This game definitely has football "it".

The possibilities of it being a knock-'em-down; drag-'em-out affair overshow meetings between Hamilton Tigers and Montreal Indians; University of Toronto and Western; McGill and Queen's and Hamilton Panthers and Sarnia. About the only sure thing in this set-up is that Sarnia will whip Panthers handily.

The Rider-Argo collision has been built into the No. 1 game of the week by an outburst of verbiage arising from the breaking of Harry Sonshine's jaw and Ellwood McFall's leg in Toronto last Saturday when Argos beat the Ottawans 10-4. Charges and counter charges flew from camp to camp.

So 10,000 or so fans—all Ottawa's Lansdowne Park holds—will come out to see for themselves what happens when the Giants of the Big Four leaders and the 1936 champions get together. A repetition of the first bruising encounter is expected.

Wadsworth to Play

Centre of the storm, massive Bunny Wadsworth will play despite an injured leg. He is eligible for President Andy Davies of the Big Four exonerated the huge middle of Argo charges he deliberately used his elbow to bring down Sonshine, star of the Toronto secondary defence.

Assured of a playoff spot by a fourth win, Argos generally were favored to whip Riders again on the strength of a running attack that no club has been able to stop Riders got a taste of Argo speed last Saturday when Art West, Johnny Edwards and Bob Isbister ran them dizzy.

Riders have been drilling against those sweeps. Their success depends on the success of a defence Coach Ross Trimble has built from the team's experience in the first game. And if the Rider plungers, slightly stronger than the Argo tanks, can get going with any consistency, this may be the spot where the men of Lew Hayman take their first beating.

No matter what the final result the game should test both teams to the full. No quarter was asked or given at Toronto; certainly none can be expected tomorrow.

17,000 Fans at Toronto.

A sell-out of 17,000 customers is expected to view Toronto and the unbeaten Western Mustangs resume where they left off in a 4-4 tie at London. This game should go far in determining the college union's champion.

Toronto, at full strength, were likely to start lukewarm favorites over Mustangs, who will play again without Claude Moore, their star passing half. Mustangs, with a tricky backfield scintillating on masked plays and a powerful, charging line, could just about sew up the title with victory. The football graveyard of 1937 awaits the loser of the Indian-Tiger battle at Montreal. Beaten soundly at Hamilton last week, Indians will have Johnny Ferraro in the field after a game's absence and Cornell Johnny may be just what was ordered for the Tribe after two pathetic displays.

Hamilton's big guns, booming once more after early-season trouble, will be carried by Hawley (Huck) Welch, back in kicking form, and Young Teddy Manorek, whose plunging and running scalped the Indians at Hamilton.

Queens or McGill?

It also will be quits for Queen's or McGill when they get through mauling each other at Kingston. Both have won one and dropped two and with McGill in there, anything can happen. The Redmen won one game from Toronto on a touchdown scored after official time ended and lost to Queen's last week on a last-minute field goal by Bernie Thornton.

While these uncertainties are developed to conclusions, Sarnia will bid for one of the two victories needed over Panthers to win their eighth successive Ontario Union championship. The only question in this case concerns how many points Imperial will pile up. The Union's third team, Toronto Balmy Beach was beaten by Sarnia last week in a game everyone knew would decide the finish.

No Bid To Include Miss Roxy Atkins

MONTREAL, Oct. 29.—(CP).—Irene Wall, secretary of the Canadian Women's Amateur Athletic Association, said last night she had not received any telegram from Mrs. Irene McInnis, president of the W.A.A.F.'s Ontario branch, asking that Roxy Atkins of Toronto be included in the selections for the women's track and field team for the British Empire games.

At Thorold, Ont., Mrs. McInnis said she had wired the Dominion secretary asking personnel of the team be reconsidered to include the Toronto hurdler.

Miss Wall indicated there was little possibility of action on such a request in any event. "I don't see how it would have any influence at this date," she said. "The vote has been taken, and all the records were available at the time of balloting."

TWINS THEN TRIPLETS

GRAFTON, N.S., Oct. 29—(CP).—John Petrie says his "Bossie Girl" has set up a bovine record deserving of recognition by someone. Two years ago, "Bossie Girl," a Shorthorn Guernsey, gave birth to twin calves. The other day she boosted her average by delivering "triplets"—two bulls and a heifer. And they're all doing well, thank you.

PLAYERS' WIVES BARRED IN 1938 FROM LEAFS' CAMP

TORONTO, Oct. 29. — "Mickey Cochrane got away with it last year," asserted Arthur (The Deacon) Leman, "lots of other clubs prohibit it, and now we're going to fall in line.

"From now on ball players' wives are 'out' for the spring training session," explained the business manager of the Toronto Baseball Club, "we've been very lenient in the past, but from now on spring training is going to be for the purpose of conditioning the players, and not to let the players take their wives on vacation."

The Deacon contends that the players who bring their wives and families along to the training camp don't put the proper emphasis on practice.

May Place Second Ban.

The genial Mr. Leman was also considering placing another ban on the Maple Leafs' hired help. Some of the players have been in the habit of taking their cars South with them, and whenever a long jump appears on the exhibition games schedule, with contests on successive days, the player with a car is forced to miss one of the games.

There is also a chance that an accident might occur, and to escape such an eventuality, banning all cars from the camp would be about the only solution. However, he hasn't yet made up his mind on that point.

Four games against major league clubs are already scheduled for the Leafs this spring, two each with Boston Red Sox and Detroit Tigers. In the past two years, the only major league competition faced by the Toronto team in pre-season games, was one contest against Cincinnati's second team, composed entirely of minor-leaguers.

A dozen games have been scheduled thus far by Leman—home-and-home affairs with six different clubs.

Meet Newark and Columbus.

Messrs. Howley and Leman didn't pick their spots when they went after those important pre-season tests. Not only are two major league outfits on their list, but they have two games each against the champions of the International League and American Association — Newark Bears and Columbus Redgirds, respectively. Bears train at Sebring and Columbus at Winter Haven.

Avon Park, where the Leafs will hold forth, is situated just between Sebring and Lake Wales, where the Montreal Royals will train. The Howleys have a pair of games scheduled against the Royals. The other two matches arranged are with the Louisville Colonels and the American Association. The Colonels train at Arcadia.

ANTI-GAS LECTURES

GIBRALTAR—(CP).—A six-weeks series of anti-gas training lectures is being given here to doctors, dentists, nursing sisters, sanitary inspectors and members of the St. John Ambulance Association.

DECIDE ON BOYCOTT

WELLINGTON, October 29 (CP-Havas).—The New Zealand Federation of Labor today decided to boycott Japanese products despite opposition from Prime Minister Michael Savage.

The Federation also addressed a letter to the International Federation of Trades Unions and the Socialist (Second) International recommending an international boycott against Japan.

McMASTER. Mrs. Floyd.—At the home, 1 Stewart street, October 29, following an illness of three months, Cora Pearl Matthews, wife of Floyd McMaster, in her 49th year. Funeral Saturday, October 30, at 1.30 p.m. from the D. Belleghem and Sons' Funeral Home, to Little Lake Cemetery.

IN MEMORIAM

JAMES. — In loving memory of a dear Son and Brother, Norman James, who passed away in Toronto one year ago to-day, October 29.

Just a thought of sweet remembrance,
Just a memory fond and true,
Just a token of affection
And a heartache still for you.
More and more each day we miss you,
Though our thoughts are not revealed,
Little do they know the sorrow
That is within our hearts concealed.
—Ever remembered by his Father, Sister and Brothers.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Adams, R.R. No. 2, Keene, wish to thank the attending doctor and nurses of Nicholls Hospital, blood donors, also the many kind friends and neighbors for floral tributes received, and all those who assisted in any way during their recent sad bereavement.

SHORT SALE PROFIT LIKELY TO BRING SPECULATION CURB

NEW YORK, Oct. 29 (A.P.). — Wall Street speculators faced the possibility of new restrictions to-day as a result of a New York Stock Exchange move to investigate "short selling."

The Twentieth Century Fund, independent foundation which the Stock Exchange has asked to conduct the inquiry, was already on record as opposed to some existing marketing practices untouched by the Federal Market Control Law.

It went so far as to recommend four years ago that so-called "bear raids"—short sales of unusual size in a single stock in one day—should be outlawed as creators of artificially price slumps.

Figures high in the Stock Exchange said they were aware of this, but promised serious consideration to any changes the fund may propose.

The findings of the new study, one prominent market figure said, would "carry tremendous weight."

"This is not intended as a job to be 'engineered from the inside,'" he added. "We picked the 20th Century Fund because we know it will do an expert, thorough, and fair study without trying to grind anyone's axe."

The Exchange announced yesterday it had "invited" the Twentieth Century Fund to make a "thorough study of the effect of short selling on security markets and to publish its findings."

Evans Clark, director of the Fund, founded by the late Edward Filene for study of contemporary social and economic problems, said the fund's trustees would have to decide whether to accept the invitation.

FLOODS ISOLATE VILLAGE IN B.C.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 29 (CP)—Rail communications returned to normal in British Columbia today except on the Pacific Great Eastern Railway east of Squamish, where the roadbed suffered extensive damage yesterday as mountain streams rose to flood proportions after a three-inch rain.

A P.G.E. bridge was swept away by the raging Memquam River four miles east of Squamish, 90 miles north of Vancouver at the head of Howe Sound. Officials said the bridge could not be repaired until next week.

The Chee Kye River a few miles further east covered tracks to a depth of four feet and forced another ditch out of line. Brackendale, village of 200 population, was isolated between the two breaks.

Passenger trains of Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways were delayed in the Fraser canyon by slides yesterday but proceeded after the roadbeds were cleared.

BABEL IN SHORTHAND

BOMBAY (CP)—Increased use of Indian languages in the new provincial legislatures has increased the difficulty of reporting speeches and a national conference of shorthand writers is being held to attempt to solve the problem.

DEAD RECKONING

BY

BRUCE HAMILTON

) THIS FIRST:

n Kennedy graduated into homicide from the school of armchair murderers. With a lucrative dental practice and an enviable social position in a small town near London, Tim, at middle age, feels happy and secure. Then Esther is run down by a truck, returning home a week later a physical wreck, with all her former beauty shattered. Tim loses all interest in his wife and falls madly in love with Alma Shepherd, a widow. Finally he decides that Esther must die. The next scene is the coroner's inquest.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 28.

"You had not called for help after finding you wife's body in the courtyard?" the coroner asked Tim.

"Not at first. I only wanted to get to Esther. When I found her, I called—for my man Adams. . . . But I think he must already have heard . . . the scream or the fall or me calling to her. He seemed to come at once. He had a torch, and we looked at her, and saw that there was nothing we could do. . . . We managed to carry her into the kitchen."

"And then?"

"I sat down in the kitchen. . . . I couldn't think or move. . . . Adams did what had to be done."

There was a long pause, which the coroner broke.

"I see. . . . I think that's all we need from you about the events of that night. . . . I do not wish to prolong what must be a very painful ordeal, but there are a few other questions I must ask you. . . . You spoke about your wife's propensity to nightmares. Did these occur frequently?

"Since her accident, frequently. . . . I believe she was subject to them in her childhood, but during all the years of our married life there had been nothing—or nothing at all serious until recently."

"Did she ever hurt herself while she was sleepwalking?"

"Once or twice. . . . It was really something more violent than sleepwalking. Early in May this year she bruised her hands against the bottom of the bedstead. And again, when we were at sea on our holiday this summer, she got out of the cabin and fell down a staircase. She barked her knuckles and twisted her ankle. Everyone was surprised she was not badly hurt."

"You attributed these disturbances to the effect produced on her mind by her accident?"

"Yes. But I also thought that digestive trouble had something to do with it. The disturbances always seemed to occur if she had eaten at all heavily an hour or two before going to bed."

"Did you not take steps to prevent her from doing this?"

"As far as I could. But it was not always easy. She was not often at her best during the day, and only developed a normal appetite toward evening. If I had made a regular practice of stopping her, she would hardly have eaten at all."

"You took advice about her condition?"

"I was in constant touch with Dr. Arkwright. I know he was worried about her. He had arranged for a consultation with a London nerve specialist. It was to have been on the following Tuesday."

"One thing more, Mr. Kennedy. You have told us that your wife was not in the best of health. Was she unduly depressed by her condition?"

"At times she was depressed."

"She was much changed physically since her accident."

"That is true."

"She was a very strong and active woman before it?"

"Yes."

"And attractive?"

"Very much so."

"No doubt she could not get about so much after the accident?"

"She could not play games or walk long distances."

"And she had suffered certain disfigurements?"

"Yes."

"And these facts, that she had lost her bodily vigor, and some of her attractiveness, may have preyed on her mind?"

"To a certain extent, perhaps."

"Did she ever say anything to you that might suggest she was contemplating suicide?"

"Never. . . . I should like to say a little more about that. . . . There was a time when the idea occurred to me. I had a talk with Dr. Arkwright, which reassured me, and then I went into the matter with Esther herself. She satisfied me that she never had any such intention. . . . There was no occasion for it, on the grounds you suggest. She knew that no disfigurement could change my feelings towards her. . . . I want to express my absolute conviction that she never thought of committing suicide, and, in fact, did not do so."

"I see. . . . To return to the deceased's accident last year. Did she receive any financial compensation for this?"

"No. But the suit against the company owning the lorry was to have come up or hearing during the present term."

"I take it this suit how lapses?"

"Yes. I believe I am entitled to sue for personal expenses I have incurred through the accident."

"But the amount you can expect to receive is not comparable to the amount that had been claimed for damages?"

"No."

"Did the deceased carry a life insurance policy?"

"No, sir."

"Had she a considerable personal estate?"

"Nothing beyond what she may have saved out of the allowance I made her."

"Thank you, Mr. Kennedy. I don't think I need trouble you any more."

Tim returned slowly to his seat at the back of the court.

"Merivale Adams!"

The coroner's officer echoed the name, and Adams stepped briskly up to the stand.

"You are a personal servant of Mr. Kennedy?"

"I help Mr. Kennedy with his professional work, sir. I also do odd jobs about the house."

"You were sleeping at The Wilderness on the night of Sept. 29?"

"Yes, sir. I always sleep there, sir."

"What is the position of your room in relation to the spare room?"

"It is at the other end of the house, in the servants' quarters, sir. My room is at the back, but the courtyard is cut off from view by the kitchen and rooms over it, which form a projection."

"Yes, yes. Now tell me what you remember of the night of Mrs. Kennedy's death?"

"I had spent the evening in West Shilston, sir. I returned to The Wilderness at about 11. There was no light downstairs, so I concluded Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy had gone to bed."

BEDTIME STORY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S PURPLE ORPHAN.

"Oh, for goodness sakes!" cried Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy.

Well might the muskrat lady housekeeper say this. For, as she crept into the room where she had left Uncle Wiggily and Baby Bunty making ink out of poke berries with a potato masher in the dish pan, Nurse Jane heard cries and screams coming from the pan.

Besides there was a deal of splish and splash business going on in the pan, bubbles floating to the top and purple drops scattering around the floor.

"What's the matter?" cried Nurse Jane.

"Help! Help!" cried Baby Bunty.

"Where are you?" asked the muskrat lady.

"In the poke berry ink!" gurgled Bunty. "I tumbled in."

"How in the world did you do that?" Nurse Jane wanted to know.

"I leaned over to see what color the ink was going to be and I leaned too far and I tumbled in," gurgled Bunty.

Changes Color.

"Oh, for merck sakes!" squealed Nurse Jane again. Then she got the sink strainer and lifted Bunty out.

Much of the purple ink drained off through the holes in the sink strainer back into the pan. But there was still plenty ink left on Baby Bunty.

"Oh, you poor little purple orphan," said Nurse Jane. "I must get a towel and dry you."

"Yes, please do," said Bunty. "I hope Uncle Wig won't be angry, Nurse Jane," she said.

"Oh, he won't be angry at you," said the muskrat lady housekeeper. "He is very fond of you."

"Maybe he will be glad because I fell in his ink," said Bunty, making a funny little face as some of the poke berry juice rolled down her nose.

"Gracious sakes, child rabbit, why should Uncle Wiggily be glad you fell in his ink?" asked Nurse Jane.

"Because now I can tell him exactly what color it is," said Bunty. "Before I couldn't. I wasn't sure whether it was red or blue or green or pink. But now I know. It's a lovely purple color, Nurse Jane."

"So it is," said Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "But you could have found that out much easier than by tumbling in."

"How?" asked Baby Bunty.

Doesn't Know Her.

"By dipping in a piece of paper. But it's too late to talk of that now. You tumbled in, I fished you out and now you are nearly dry. But, oh, dear me—"

Before Nurse Jane could tell what was the matter, back into the room hopped Uncle Wiggily with the bottles for his ink.

"Where's Bunty?" he asked.

"Here I am," said the orphan rabbit.

Uncle Wiggily took one look at her but he did not know her. No wonder, she was a purple as the purple cow in the verse.

"Where is Bunty?" asked Mr. Longears again. "I want Bunty."

"I am Bunty," laughed the orphan. "Only I tumbled in your ink and was colored purple."

"It will wear off after a while," said Nurse Jane.

"I suppose so!" laughed Uncle Wiggily as he bottled the poke berry ink. "But until it does I'll have a purple orphan. Ha! Ha!"

However it all happened for the best, I suppose.

And if bass drum doesn't try to hide in the big umpah-umpah horn when they're playing together, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's paper hat.

NO CONSERVATIVE LIKELY TO ENTER FRONTENAC FIELD

ENTERPRISE, Oct. 29—The Conservative party will not contest the Federal by-election in Frontenac-Addington Nov. 15, the Frontenac-Addington Conservative convention decided here on Wednesday at a stormy session.

Eight candidates were nominated by the convention after turning down a recommendation from the association executive not to put a candidate in the field. All candidates withdrew their nomination, leaving the by-election uncontested.

The vacancy was caused when Hon. Colin Campbell, Ontario Minister of Public Works, resigned to enter the Provincial election.

Angus McCallum of Sunbury, who was selected by the Liberal convention Monday, will be elected by acclamation unless an independent candidate enters the field.

John R. MacNicol, M.P., Toronto, and Chairman of the Ontario Organizing Committee, told the convention that it was not the wish of Right Hon. R. B. Bennett, Leader of the Conservative party, to contest the by-election. Hon. Earl Rowe, Leader of the Ontario Conservative party, was being given an acclamation in Dufferin-Simcoe, the convention was told.

J. F. Pringle of Arden, candidate in the general election of 1935; W. R. Aylesworth of Cataraqui, candidate in the by-election of 1934; W. M. Nickle of Kingston, Dr. E. M. Horton of Enterprise, E. J. Harris of Newborough, Dr. W. R. Slack of Harrowsmith and David Rankin of Kingston Township were nominated. Mr. Aylesworth allowed his name to stand, but finally withdrew before the conclusion of the convention.

The recommendation that the by-election go uncontested met with decided disapproval when presented by E. F. Purcell, president of the riding association.

Shouts of "We will run our own business" were greeted by the audience with cheers.

The possibility of a general election next year, added to the fact that no support from Mr. Bennett would be forthcoming, prompted the withdrawal of candidates, it was learned. E. J. Harris, a candidate, declared he would not care to contest a campaign for a two-year term of office. He declared there was no campaign fund available.

Mr. MacNicol, answering Hon. Norman Rogers, Federal Minister of Labor, who said trade had been stimulated by Liberal policies of freer trade, claimed the statement was not in accordance with the facts. Mr. MacNicol admitted that there was a stimulus in some industries, but said this was due to the preparation for war. The steel industry in Canada, Mr. MacNicol found, was stimulated because English steel mills were working twenty-four hours a day and could not export to Canada.

HUNT RADIUM IN SEWER

SASKATOON, Oct. 29 — (CP). — Five needles containing 66⅔ milligrams of radium sulphate, valued at $4,000, are being sought in city sewers, following the disappearance from the General Hospital. The radium sulphate is believed to have been lost in the hospital plumbing. The radium is part of a $25,000 supply owned by the Saskatchewan Department of Public Health for use in the cancer clinic.

Touring Canada

Visiting North America ostensibly on vaction, John Loder, noted British film star whose successes include roles in "King Solomon's Mines" and "Henry the VIII," will cross Canada from coast to coast in an endeavor to "get better acquainted with Canadians and their viewpoint." Mr. Loder visualizes success for British films made with Canadian settings and hopes to develop some ideas for his producers during his Dominion tour.

BIBLE NARRATIVE THEME FOR STUDY

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, October 29—"Bible Narrative" was the theme for study at the weekly meeting of the Young People's Union, held in the basement of St. Andrew's church on Tuesday at 8 p.m., with Miss Jean L. Burnham, devotional convenor, in charge.

Hymns and prayers were chosen in keeping with the topic which Miss E. Hetherington presented in an impressive and helpful way, selections from the Psalms illustrating the music of the Bible, other passages illustrating narrative being chosen from Ruth and the life of Elijah.

Business was in charge of the president, Oliver Brock, and included an invitation from the Bethany Y.P.U. to attend a Hallowe'en masquaerade to be held in the Town Hall on Wednesday, October 27, to which all the unions of the district were being invited.

The Christmas cards which the young people have for sale were given out in fresh supplies after returns had been received from those who have been active in their disposal.

A recreational and social period closed the meeting.

DEAD RECKONING

"You had your own latchkey?"

"Yes, sir. It was part of my duties to lock up the house, unless the family was out late."

"Go on, please."

"I locked up, and went straight to bed. I woke up some time later; a sound outside woke me. I went to the window, but I could see nothing. Then I heard Mr. Kennedy's voice, calling Esther! Esther!"

"Did you not hear a scream before the sound you mention?"

"No sir. . . . I put on my bathrobe, and picked up my electric torch, and went downstairs as quickly as I could. I was near the back door when Mr. Kennedy called me. I found him leaning over the body of Mrs. Kennedy. It was crumpled up and twisted. Mrs. Kennedy was quite unconscious. I was certain she was dead."

"Did you have any conversation with Mr. Kennedy?"

"I asked him what had happened, and he said: 'She must have fallen out of the window. I was asleep. She must have had one of her nightmares.' Mr. Kennedy helped me to carry the body into the kitchen. He was very agitated and not much help. I saw he was shivering; he was in his pyjamas. I got him an overcoat from the hall and put it round him. I said, 'We'd better get Dr. Arkwright, sir.' Mr. Kennedy said, 'You do it, Adams.' He seemed dazed.

"I went to the telephone and called Dr. Arkwright, who said he'd come round at once. Then I got some brandy from the sideboard in the dining room and took it to Mr. Kennedy. I got him to sit down, and made him drink. But he kept on shivering and kept repeating 'Esther! Esther!' and once he said, 'Why didn't I wake up? I always woke up before.' I didn't like to leave him. When the doctor came I went to wake the maids, who had slept through everything."

"And that is all you know?"

"I'll be glad to answer any more questions you wish, sir."

"I think that will do."

Adams clicked his heels and got down.

Bank Fund Seizure Is Quashed

MONTREAL, Oct. 29 — (CP). — Mr. Justice E. Fabre Surveyer, ruling in Superior Court yesterday that assignment of property in Ontario is no ground for attachment of Quebec funds before judgment, granted petition by James H. Mason to have seizure of his funds in a Lachine bank by J. H. Prieur quashed.

Mason, defendant in an action by Prieur for $210, had $6,086 on deposit in the Lachine bank, the Judge said, "and no matter to whom that money belongs and no matter where the bank is, that does not amount to secretion."

Mr. Justice Surveyer, granting the petition to quash, said Prieur had not attempted to prove Mason intended to remove fraudulently the account from the bank.

FIND GIRL SHOT IN LONELY CAMP HUNTER JAILED

Officials Skeptical Of Suicide Claim

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Oct. 30.—(CP).— Body of Helen Grier, pretty 28-year-old Pontiac, Mich., stenographer, was brought here today while police held Vernon Spencer, 40, Wixom, Mich., former centre fielder for the New York Giants, for questioning in the mystery shooting in a hunting cottage 38 miles north of here.

Spencer was held as a material witness while arrangements were made for a post-mortem.

Miss Grier and Spencer had occupied the cottage at Long Lake while on a hunting expedition that ended Thursday when the woman was found shot to death. Spencer said he discovered the tragedy. Near her body, clothed in light blue pyjamas with red bedroom slippers on the feet, was a 22 calibre rifle, Spencer said.

Coroner J. P. Keith said later the post-mortem would not be held until the arrival of Dr. E. R. Frankish, medico-legal expert of the Attorney-General's Department. Dr. A. A. Holcomb, Northville, Mich., owner of the cottage in which the girl's body was found, arrived to-day. J. A. MacInnis was retained as counsel for Spencer.

After preliminary examination of a bullet wound in the womans head, Coroner Dr. J. P. Keith expressed the belief it had not been self-inflicted. Spencer was taken into custody last night after the coroner telephoned Mr. O'Flynn at Oba, 200 miles north of the Sault. The Crown Attorney was scheduled to return to-morrow.

Gun Lies Near By

Spencer, 40 years old, told police he had found the body upon the floor, of the cottage, owned by Dr. A. A. Holcomb of Northville, Mich., when he returned from a trip to the end of Long Lake in search of game. A .22-calibre rifle lay near the body.

He said he immediately set out to inform police. Spencer was forced to make his way 30 miles through a sparsely-populated, wooded district to a lumber camp at Glendale, eight miles from the Sault to telephone. Two untouched cups of coffee were on a table when police reached the cottage yesterday. The body was clad in pajamas.

Miss Grier and Spencer arrived at Long Lake Oct. 17 to shoot big game. Their nearest neighbors were three miles distant. Spencer told police he and Miss Grier, dressed in pajamas, had spent some time Thursday afternoon shooting at targets near the cottage. Later, he said, he left on a lone scouting trip. The body was on the floor when he returned.

Miss Grier's home was in Battle Creek, Mich. She was employed as a stenographer in Pontiac. The body of the small, slightly built brunette was to be brought here today. Little was known of Spencer's history.

SUSPECT MURDER WOMAN'S DEATH

MONTREAL, Oct. 30.—(CP).—Announcement of an inquest was delayed to-day while city police sought material evidence to strengthen belief Mrs. Louis Viau was murdered.

The woman's body, the head badly crushed, was found on a dark street last night. Detectives who investigated quickly revised their opinion that she had been struck by an automobile when her shoes were found to be dry and only her head injured. Rain had fallen all evening.

The 45-year-old mother of five children, Mrs. Viau was known to police because of her visits to headquarters when her husband was under detention as a Crown witness in a sabotage case. Viau is being held as a material witness for the inquest.

Detectives believe the woman was thrown from an automobile.

In the Viau home officers were met at the door by the woman's husband. Inspector Armand Brosseur reported that under questioning Viau said he had taken his wife shopping in his automobile and that she had decided to get out along the way and walk home.

1,000 Drown in Syria 15,000 Destitute In Path of Flood

Whole Villages Wiped Out as Rivers Rampage; Toll Expected to Grow—French Troops Assist

DAMASCUS, Oct. 30.—(CP-Havas)—One thousand persons lost their lives and 15,000 others were left destitute by floods which swept over Central Syria today, blotting out many villages in their path.

The enormous casualty toll was believed certain to mount hourly, as reports from outlying regions northeast of this city indicated village after village had been wholly or partially destroyed by the floods following rains of catastrophic intensity.

All points within an area of 32 miles in the direction of Alep and Palmyre were inundated. Rivers swollen by the torrential rains overflowed their banks and raced over the countryside. In some communities not a house was left standing.

Material destruction alone already exceeded 10,000,000 francs (more than $300,000), an especially staggering sum in view of the general poverty of the region.

Troops Lend Hand

As French troops rushed first-aid to the stricken areas, it was learned that three villages were entirely flooded and that at least six others had been almost completely destroyed. In the village of Deiraative alone more than 500 persons were believed lost.

In the village of Nebek, in the east, serious damage was done. About 100 houses were destroyed. More than 70 bodies were recovered. The village of Kutaife on a branch of the Palmyre Road was one-third underwater with 10 known dead. Other villages to the east of the road were completely inundated. At Mouad Damiye there were 200 dead.

One truck carrying 20 persons was swallowed up by the flood.

In 30 villages of the Kalamun region soldiers recovered about 100 bodies. In the Dmeir area, where rains and flood took many victims earlier this week, 17 more persons lost their lives in the new disaster.

BRITAIN TO FIGHT TWISTED FOREIGN AIR PROPAGANDA

LONDON, Oct. 30 (CP Cable). — The British Government was enthusiastically supported by the British press today in deciding to combat foreign propaganda over the air.

Hitherto Great Britain has treated German, Italian and Russian broadcasts in various languages throughout Europe and Africa with silent contempt. But the practice was growing most dangerous and Postmaster-General G. C. Tryon's announcement yesterday in the House of Commons foretells a British Broadcasting Corporation broadcast service from Daventry in several languages.

Italy has been broadcasting from Bari, Germany from Zeesen and Russia from Moscow news bulletins and propagandist talks for the digestion of the natives in territories where Britain reigns or has vital interests, and these talks occasionally have been notoriously false and misleading.

The Palestine area has been a popular feeding ground. Bari broadcast not long ago British planes had used poison gas on tribes near Aden, for example, which report Foreign Secretary Eden promptly denied in the Commons. The denial possibly did not reach the thousands of native ears which heard the broadcast in their own tongue.

Nothing Like The Truth.

Hence British complacency has ended and a campaign begun to defeat foreign propaganda, not with British propaganda, but with what Major Tryon terms straight news and, as the News-Chronicle declares, there is no propaganda so effective as truth.

Major Tryon's announcement left the details for next week, but the Evening Standard's correspondent writes the decision was reached after a special Foreign Office committee had investigated the problem. The committee recommended Daventry be operated primarily as an all-world propaganda station, entertainment being mainly used to popularize the station.

The committee urged the broadcasts be confined to news, impartial and undistorted, calculated to inform the minds of people in British lands overseas. They will be made in English, Hebrew and Arabic to begin with, but later other languages will be added.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Oct. 30 (C.P.). — A 60-foot chain gives a cow a lot of leeway, and so J. N. Stone was hailed to court charged with permitting cows to run at large. Sentence was suspended, but bossy must stay off the street.

To Load Fifth Car Produce For West

With the balance of the money donated by citizens of Peterborough to the Western Relief Fund, the committee is planning to buy produce to help complete the loading here of a fifth freight car for despatch to drought stricken areas of the Canadian West.

The car, partly loaded, arrived here to-day from Norwood and Indian River, and will remain on the C.P.R. sidings for a few days. Alderman James Duttton, chairman and treasurer, suggests this will provide those who may not yet have done so to donate more produce to the fund. Donations in kind may be taken direct to the car.

Further donations of cash are acknowledged as follows: St. James' Church, $2; St. John's Church, $2 Morris and Lawrie, $5.

LONDON—(CP). — Claiming research work into safety problems had not gone deep enough, Lord McGowan at a "safety first" congress, suggested establishment of a university chair for accident prevention.

Ackerman Mine

Development of the old Bloomfield gold mine property two miles east of Marmora on No. 7 highway has been rapidly advanced by the Ackerman Gold Mines Limited, directed by Lt. Col. C. H. Ackerman. More than 25 men are employed. New buildings erected include office, machine shop, kitchen and dining quarters, power house and shaft. Thorough enquiries convinced Col. Ackerman that the property was never adequately developed, and by employing modern mining methods hopes are high that the property will become a profitable mine.

250 Specialists Find Tots Physically Above Normal — Marie Last In Everything

By A. E. Fulford
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

TORONTO, Oct. 30 — (CP). — Surprising facts about the Dionne quintuplets were disclosed when 250 child specialist and psychologists met to-day to review the three years and five months of the babies' lives and to chart their future.

More than fifty American specialists joined their Canadian confreres in Toronto to hear Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe and his brother, Dr. W. A. Dafoe, of the University of Toronto, draw the most complete picture of the Dionne children yet presented.

No intimate facts concerning unusual characteristics of the famous five were kept from the gathering of scientists. They learned all there is to be learned about the quints.

Marie Lags Behind

They heard that Marie, lightest of the five since birth, is not the equal of her sisters in mental development;

That the quintuplets are slow in language development, btu are making progress rapidly;

That physically they match average babies.

The scientists decided that Marie has a slight in-co-ordination of eye muscles, tending towards cross-eyes, but they believe this may be corrected.

In achievement tests, in development of acceleration and personality, little Marie ranked last. Her weak condition at birth was reflected in all tests made. Yvonne, pronounced socially mature, led her sisters in general progress.

The quintuplets are far behind normal children in language development, but scientists think this may be because they never have had to ask for things; that their every wish was anticipated.

To-day's session of scientists opened with a paper by Dr. N. H. Ford and Dr. J. W. MacArthur of the University of Toronto dealing with the biological study of the quints.

The Dafoe brothers then followed with a paper on the physical welfare of the babies. The afternoon session of the syoposium was taken up with a discussion on a paper dealing with the psychological development of the Dionne five by Miss D. A. Billichamp and Dr. W. E. Blatz of the University of Toronto.

Height Above Average.

Papers read at to-day's gathering developed that:

The quintuplets have overcome physical handicaps of their premature birth and are normal. Their average weight is slightly above that for normal children of their age. Their chest measurements are above normal.

They never are spanked. The sole

Prefers One Cent Fine To Minute In Jail

Saint John, N.B., Oct. 30 (CP)

DONALD McEachern was fined "one cent or one minute in jail" when Magistrate C. Earle Logan convicted him today of "taking" his employer's truck without permission.

The Magistrate said the accused was guilty technically of using the truck to make a personal trip, but maintained the information never should have been laid. Yes, McEachern paid the fine.

FIRE DESTROYED BLACKWELL HOME

Escaping the flames in their nightclothes, Mr. and Mrs. Eric Blackwell and three sons watched fire destroy completely their home one mile south of Fowlers Corners, in the early hours of this morning. No contents were saved and losses are expected to run over $5,000.

The cause of the fire is not known but it is believed to have started on the ground floor. The family had long since gone to bed when Mr. Blackwell, in his upstairs room, was awakened by the fire. He spread the alarm and the others escaped the already advanced conflagration with a narrow margin of safety. A few minutes later, escape through the ground floor would have been cut off.

The direction of the wind saved the other farm buildings from the flames, a high wind prevailing throughout. So far advanced were the flames when discovered that little effort was made to extinguish them by the neighbors who were summonded quickly by telephone. Water was drawn in buckets from wells and used to quench flying sparks. Only a car was saved from the blaze.

A call by a neighbor was made to the Peterborough Fire Department but no response was made.

30 DAYS IN JAIL

HAMILTON, Ont., Oct. 30 (CP).—A 30-day jail sentence and a fine of $75 and costs on two driving charges were imposed today on Frank G. Hart, Toronto, convicted of reckless and drunk driving. Hart's license will be suspended indefinitely.

Provincial Traffic Officer Earl Bond brought Hart to the station yesterday after he was alleged by other motorists to have zig-zagged along Highway 5, forcing other cars off the shoulder.

MOROCCO RIOTING IS LAID BY FRANCE ON FOREIGN POWER

CASABLANCA, French Morocco, Oct. 30 (AP) — French colonial troops and Moroccan courts joined forces today in an attempt to quell native nationalist uprisings for which officials blamed agents of a "foreign totalitarian power."

Firm military and judicial measures were taken to nip what officials said was a plot to overthrow the French protectorate and set up an independent Arab kingdom.

Heavy troop patrols were established on the Algerian frontier to prevent Arab nationalist agitators from fleeing Morocco. The frontier was practically closed to all except foreigners.

Soldiers — mostly Sengalese legionnaires—mounted strong guards around the strife centres, especially in Medina area and in Fez where the native quarter was described as "rampant with nationalism." French military planes helped patrol the trouble zone.

Troops and police combined made nearly 1,000 arrests yesterday and broke up demonstrations which in many cases developed into street fights.

60 Sent To Jail

In Casablanca native judges sentenced 60 persons to prison for participation in riots Wednesday at Port Lyauley in which four persons were killed and nine wounded. Jails at Rabat, Fez, Sale and Marrakech were jammed with demonstrators.

Authorities said investigation of the Port Lyauley disorders showed 400 natives were paid from 10 to 20

Persuaded to Quit As Jap Attack Endangers Sector

Nipponese Blast Warehouse From Three Sides To Wipe Heroes Out as Stand Stirs Nation

SHANGHAI, Oct. 30.—(AP)—British police reported tonight that China's "lost battalion" in devastated Chapei was laying down its arms and soon would come into the International Settlement for sanctuary.

The reported decision of the battalion to abandon its stand against the surrounding Japanese was said to be the result of the urgings of foreign consuls-general, who sought to end a situation considered dangerous to the international areas.

It was feared the Settlement would be gravely endangered if the battalion continued to defy its enemies.

The battalion, unit of the 88th division, had held out in a warehouse-fortress near the Settlement boundary since the general Chinese retreat from Chapei Wednesday.

Earlier tonight the Japanese, who surrounded the fortress on three side, had begun a steady, methodical artillery bombardment of the beleaguered stronghold.

With four 75-millimetre guns mounted 100 yards away, Japanese slowly fired shells in an attempt to batter a hole in the rear of the warehouse through which a hand-to-hand charge would be possible.

The bombardment began after Rear Admiral Tadao Honda, Japanese naval attache, issued the "lost battalion" a surrender-or-die ultimatum.

Hsieh Chin - Yuan, regimental commander within the beleaguered warehouse-fortress, sent back a farewell message to General Sun Yuan-Liang, commander of the Chinese 88th division.

"Death is an unimportant question." Hsieh told his superior. "Our sacrifice will not be in vain."

The commander said defences of the warehouse, the last Chinese resistance in Chapei, were ready and that his soldiers, less than 200, would fight to the last man.

The Japanese shells were being fired directly toward the International Settlement. But the closeness of the guns to their target made it improbable that stray shots would hit the nearby foreign areas.

Gas Officials Fearful.

Shanghai Gas Company were fearful of a possible catastrophe if any shells should strike gas storage tanks 300 yards from the Bttle Chinese "Alcazar."

From the top of the gas works, officials pointed out the situation to British army officers, explaining the tanks contain 150,000 cubic feet of gas. They said they had piped off as much as possible, but there was no place to release the remainder. The tanks already have been hit in several places by machine gun bullets.

Anglo-Japanese tension over the deaths of three Royal Ulster riflemen and the wounding of four others was eased somewhat today when Japanese officials called on Major-General A. P. D. Tel Er-Smollett, commander of the British troops at Shanghai. The Japanese expressed their regrets and blamed the casualties on misdirected Japanese shells.

In answer to the protests of Vice-Admiral Kiyoshi Hasegawa, Japanese Commander-in-Chief in Shanghai waters, against British refusal to allow Japanese launches up Soochow Creek, Admiral Sir Charles Little, British naval commander, said the Japanese have no right to navigate the stream through the British sector of the international settlement bordering it.

All Roads Bombed.

Japanese planes dropped scores of bombs along the Hungjao, Chung Shan, Lincoln, Jernigan, Fraser and Warren roads radiating from the International Settlement.

The "lost battalion" apparently

CHINESE AND JAPS HINT WILLINGNESS TO DISCUSS PEACE

PARIS, Oct. 30.—(AP).— Highly qualified spokesmen of Japan and China have revealed to the Associated Press that their countries are ready to discuss peace.

That was the hopeful element today in the Chinese-Japanese conflict, although the positions of the two countries on terms for ending the dispute were shown to be widely separated.

However, International circles thought peace talks can at least be started in the Brussels conference to open Nov. 3.

Investigation disclosed the following factors aiding prospects for peace:

1. Japan has been dragged farther into the war than she anticipated, especially in the Shanghai region.

2. The Japanese navy is reliably reported to have frowned on the present venture in China.

3. Japan's accumulations of war stores are being expended and will be still further reduced by the long, even if unsuccessful, defensive campaign China can wage.

4. Japan realized she cannot conquer and occupy all of China, even if she wants to.

5. Oil will play a big role in the Chinese-Japanese conflict. It is understood that China still has oil stocks and continues to procure petroleum from abroad. Japan realizes that possesion of fuel for airplanes, tanks and motorized equipment will enable China to continue her defence indefinitely.

6. A rigorous winter campaign might be disastrous both to China and Japan, but especially for Japan.

7. The slaughter at Shanghai, with the killing of foreign soldiers, increases the dangers of International complications which Japan seeks to avoid.

Eggs Inclined To Lower Price

Eggs were inclined toward slightly lower prices when a large volume appeared on the Farmers' Market this morning. While some farmers asked as high as 40 cents a dozen, many took as low as 33 cents for large eggs later in the morning.

A big supply of fowl was on hand, chickens selling from 18 cents to 26 cents. Ducks were 26 to 28 cents, geese 25 cents, and turkeys 25 cents. Butter was firm at 38 cents.

Potatoes were in large volume, but the price varied little from 75 cents. Apples brought 25 to 35 cents a peck.

British Country Folk Fighting Slum Clearance Plans

See Picturesqueness Of Villages Gone With Destruction Of Historical Cottages

By Edwin D. Johnson
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, Oct. 30 (CP). — Local authorities in Great Britain have encountered mounting complexities in their battle to rid the country of slums, chief of which has been the resistance on the part of dwellers in these areas.

Organized protests against proposed demolition of condemned homes have come from many districts, particularly rural points. The general burden of the complaint is that the scheme threatens to destroy houses of historical and artistic interest and that erection of modern buildings will detract from the picturesqueness and beauty of many villages and towns.

Residents of Newlyn and Mousehole in Cornwall, adopted a novel method of registering their opposition to proposed demolition of a group of fishermen's ottages.

The fishing boat "Rosebud," was outfitted at Newlyn and with a crew of seven sailed for London bearing a petition to Sir Kingsley Wood, Minister of Health, urging him to veto the demolition project.

Good Luck Waters.

In the bows of the Rosebud were stowed casks of water from the Jordan and the Madron wishing well in Cornwall. It was hoped that these

Government-Backed Beaver Colony Puts Farmer Out Of Business

Anderson's Corners, Que., Oct. 30.

RANDLE Boyd's beaver troubles are getting deeper and deeper —and so is the water that flooded a major portion of his farm and destroyed his summer crops.

It started two months ago when a band of energetic beavers decided to do some bridge-building in a 20-foot creek that runs through Boyd's farm. Water flooded the land, ruining crops.

But before Boyd could take action, the Quebec Government forbade him to interfere with the beavers—until next spring at least. Hog-tied by game laws, Boyd settled down to await spring. But the worst was yet to come.

The beavers now have started construction of another dam, but bigger and better than the last. Wit hthe Government behind them, the eBaver continue to work industriously. And all Farmer Boyd can do is hope for an early freeze-up.

Now Can Reduce Cod Liver Oil To Tasteless, Odorless Butter

Head Of Ontario Research Foundation Addresses Friday Night Club

No longer will little Johnny find it necessary to undergo that daily chore of wrinkling his nose in disgust and swallowing cod liver oil to provide his constitution with Vitamin D. The Ontario Research Foundation has found a way to reduce cod liver oil to a tasteless and odourless butter which can be used effectively in bread and even milk among many other food products, Horace Speakman, Foundation head, told members of the Friday Night Supper Club last night.

"Long has it been one of the problems of nutrition to get vitamin D into the diets of young children and we believe we have solved it now," Mr. Speakman declared to the young men. "The cod liver oil butter is of a nature that it can be held in suspension in liquids and mixed with solid foods without revealing its presence."

Introduced by Sir Joseph Flavelle, prominent Canadian financier and leading sponsor of the Foundation, Mr. Speakman outlined the future of the Foundation's work during its ten years existence. Clearly unacademic in its outlook, the Foundation deals with the practical problems of industry and agriculture, he said.

Lover Found In Heap Spanish War Dead Letter Tells Halifax Girl

Halifax, Oct. 30 (CP)

A LETTER from war-torn Spain today told 19-year-old Alice Murphy of Halifax her sweetheart, Edgar W. Williamson, formerly of Winnipeg, was killed while fighting for the Loyalists as a member of the International brigade.

The letter, written in Spanish and signed by Robert Ferrer, said he had come across Williamson's body among others "piled in a heap" at Belchete, on the Aragon front early in October. Among letters and effects in the clothing, he had found Miss Murphy's photograph, her address written on the back.

Ferrer, who said he was 20 and also a member of the International brigade, added he was coming to Canada when the war was over.

Williamson came to Halifax several years ago. He worked as a seaman out of this port until shortly after the start of the Spanish civil war.

LAST OF 90,000 DROUGHT CATTLE SOLD AT AUCTION

CARBERRY, Man., Oct. 30 (C.P.).—The drought area cattle marketing service operated by the Dominion Government held its final public auction sale here to-day and disposed of the last of 17,000 head of cattle handled through the 128,000-acre feeding ground south of this Central Manitoba town.

More than 1,100 head were sold yesterday at the regular Friday auction held in corrals before a grand stand crowded with Eastern Canada farmer-buyers and Western cattlemen. To-day the few hundred cattle remaining on the vast range were auctioned off and the service's cattle activity at the feeding grounds was completed for the year.

However, two thousand horses from Saskatchewan drought lands will be put on the range immediately to winter.

Ninety thousand drought area cattle have been sold through the marketing service both direct to the buyers and by auction at Carberry during the past two months.

"It is the most progressive livestock marketing scheme in the world, attempted as an emergency measure, said Onward Freer, market service administrator. "As an emergency measure the federal government has handled 90,000 head of cattle, 70 per cent of which will grade canners and feeders.

Value For Their Stock

"The scheme was developed along two lines—to get livestock out of the drought area where there was no feed and to give the people in the drought area every cent of value for their cattle."

Feeder cattle were bough by the service at current Winnipeg prices and freight charges were assumed by the government.

Canners were bough for 1¼ cent a pound, f.o.b. shipping point, and butchers were taken at current Winnipeg prices plus freight charges.

At the auctions here, 2,000 to 3,000 cattle have been sold each week since the sales began late in August Mr. Freer said "satisfactory prices" were obtained throughout the auctions. Yesterday's prices were slightly higher than Winnipeg quotations.

At yesterday's auction, riders herded the cattle into the corrals before the buyers' grandstand. They were weighed by the carload and then Auctioneer W. R. Shepardson swung into action and, emphasizing bids with the crack of a long whip, sold the cattle to the buyers. All sales were cash.

The riders drove the cattle immediately to the railway sidings, 300 yards from the auction corrals, and they were loaded in cattle cars for destinations in all parts of Canada. Within a few hours of time of sale, the trains left with their loads.

BRITISH COUNTRY FOLK FIGHTING

Indignation meetings have also been held by farmers and landlords in Wellington, Somerset, where nearly 300 cottages have been condemned.

"I'm afraid ejectment orders will be needed in may cases before the tenants leave their homes," one of the landlords said. "Some of these people have lived more than 20 years in the same cottages. Other homes have passed from one member of the family to another for 50 years. Healthy old people and sturdy children live in these condemned cottages."

Farmers, on the other hand, fear that one result of the clearance plans will be to drive many more families away from land work.

A large number of the cottages are also "tied" to local farms, an ancient right which compels the tenant to work on the farm and are rent-free or let for the equivalent of about 35 cents a week. The protesting householders complain that the alternative accommodation to be provided is not subject to such restrictions. They would be compelled to pay from five to seven shillings a week, which they say is beyond their financial means.

Meanwhile the slum-clearance program in London has advanced rapidly. Squalid, insanitary dwellings are giving way to blocks of flats of modernistic design and containing all the latest facilities. In the suburbs the old architectural monotony of square-fronted, grey-brick dwelling is disappearing.

Homes of striking design, providing for the inevitable English garden, and huge apartments, comparing favorably with the most up-to-date in Canada and the United States, are appearing like mushrooms.

London's residential skyline is undergoing a transformation.

Today, the London county council and the city and metropolitan borough councils, actually own and manage estates containing 108,409 dwelling. The figure includes nearly 60,000 L.C.C. cottages and a limited number of other cottages provided by separate authorities. For the year ending March 31, 1937, the L.C.C. provided 4,866 new flats, an all-time record for the city.

Herbert Morrison, Labor Member of Parliament and leader of the London City Council, declares slum clearance is going ahead more systematically and at a faster rate than ever before.

"We are the victims of thoughtlessness on the part of past generations," he declared. "We are not whining about our task, however. We glory in it and are honored to be permitted to render public service to our fellows.

"With the goodwill of the citizens of London we ar.. now making the greatest effort to rid the capital city of the British commonwealth of bad housing and ugly streets."

Last War-Time Victory Bonds To Be Met By New Loan

Revenues So Far Above Estimates--Balanced Budget Seen In All Accounts

OTTAWA, Oct. 30 (CP).—To meet the maturity December 1 next, of the last of the war-time Victory Bonds which paid 5½ per cent, and were tax free, Finance Minister Dunning will offer Wednesday next a new Canadian loan of $100,000,000, in three series of bonds.

Total maturity on December 1 is $122,799,800, but the difference between that amount and the total will be met out of the Treasury, already swollen far beyond the estimate for the current fiscal year made by the Minister when he brought down the last budget.

With five months of the fiscal year yet to be accounted for, the Dominion's revenues are already far beyond the estimate made by the Minister in his last budget. Indications are that a balanced budget on all accounts might be possible when the next budget is brought down.

Choice of Three Series.

Subscribers to the new loan will have a choice of the following series: 1½-year bonds at one per cent. priced at 99.125 to yield 1.59 per cent.; seven-year bonds at 2½ per cent. priced at 98.50 to yield 2.74 per cent.; and 14-year 3½ per cent. bonds priced at 99 to yield 3.34 per cent.

Books will remain open at the discretion of the Minister, who may close one or all of the maturities at will. Those holding the Victory Bonds maturing December 1 may exchange them with final coupon attached at par up to the amount required for payment for allotments of new bonds.

Customary power is retained by the Minister to decide what allotments will be made in the various series which will be in denominations of 1,000 for the lower interest bearing, and $100, $500 and $1,000 for the 14-year series.

The two shorter-termed series will be non-callable but the 14-year series will be callable on and after November 15, 1948.

TO DISCONTINUE FREE ELECTRICITY TO FARM HOMES

Farm homes that have been enjoying the use of free electricity to operate their radios, washing machines, and pumps for sanitary systems will have to pay for the current consumed after the first of November, according to a report of the local Utilities Commission on Friday.

The plan supported by the Ontario Hydro three years ago resulted in an increased number of subscribers when power lines were being constructed throughout the surrounding country.

The Peterborough Commission also adopted a plan of buying direct all domestic water heaters and paying for them each month rather than continue as at present having the Ontario body carry the account. An outstanding balance of approximately $23,000 will be taken care of within three years, it was stated.

Increased demands for power by local factories has caused an increase of nearly a third in the amount of power used during peak periods compared with the figures for last year.

Consumption has now reached the stage where a new transformer will have to be installed in the local substation as present facilities are used to their capacity.

ALBERTA FARMER FREED OF MURDER

CALGARY, Oct. 30 (CP).—Albert Farrar, 34-year-old bachelor farmer of the Olds district, 30 miles north of Calgary, went free today, acquitted by an Assize Court jury of the murder of his father.

When the six-man jury delivered its verdict last night after deliberating one hour and twenty minutes, the presiding judge, Mr. Justice W. R. Howson, told them: "I thoroughly agree with your verdict."

Frederick Lester Farr, 57, was shot to death in his farm home last July 28. His widow testified Farrar was shot during a scuffle for possession of a rifle following a quarrel with Albert, who had accused his father of stealing $40 from him. Albert was arrested July 30.

Fred Taylor of Toronto was sentenced at Picton yesterday to six years in the Kingston Penitentiary for breaking into the brewery warehouse at Picton.

TWO MISHAPS MAR PHEASANT HUNT

TORONTO, Oct. 30 — (CP). — The guns were out in force again to-day in 24 Ontario townships, two counties and on Pelee Island in Lake Erie as the brief open season on pheasants neared its end. The two day shoot which early reports showed was the most successful in years will close officially at 5 p.m.

A record number of hunters were participating in the shoot, more than 1,500 of them being attracted to Pelee Island, 40 miles southeast of Windsor, where an estimated 6,000 birds fell yesterday.

Good bags also were reported from other shooting districts with good shooting conditions prevailing.

One fatality was recorded before the season opened. Roy Caldwell, 35. Among the hundreds of sportsmen attracted to Pelee Island's famed hunting grounds, he was drowned Tuesday night when he fell from a fishing tug a party of hunters had hired.

Pelee also was the scene of the accidental wounding of Leonard Wellington, 27-year old Windsor fireman. Shot in the right leg and hand by a fellow hunter, Wellington is recovering in a Windsor hospital after being taken there by airplane. He was not seriously wounded.

WAS WILLING ANYWAY

CORK, Irish Free State—(CP).—After he had been appointed Lord Mayor to succeed the late Mayor French, James Hickey, Labor councillor, voted for a motion to reduce the mayoral salary. It was defeated.

London Metropolitan Police are studying whether to warn or prosecute dangerous or careless drivers.

LOANS BEING PAID VERY PROMPTLY

In a recent round of the cities and towns of eastern Ontario, F. A. Kuhn of Toronto, district representative of the advisory committee for the Home Improvement Plan in this province found only one loan behind two weeks, and that was caused by illness.

Mr. Kuhn discussed with members of the local committee with Roland Deane in the chair Friday night ideas for promoting work during the approaching off seasons in the building trades. He stated that Peterborough had handled its loans successfully, and paid a compliment to The Examiner for the support it had given.

A resolution by T. J. McMurray, seconded by F. J. Overend, expressed the local committee's appreciation of the valuable assistance given by the Ontario advisory committee, through its advertising and field work, especially, and recommended that publicity for next year illustrate concrete results of money borrowed at the banks under the Home Improvement Plan, with details of the work done, cost and so on.

Further effort will be made to impress upon the people that this is the cheapest money obtainable in the United States and Canada, or anywhere else, that if a man borrows $100, repayable in one year, all it costs him, that is in money he pays, is $3.26, if the payments are made monthly.

THRONE OF BRITAIN IS IMPERISHABLE

The Throne of Great Britain is a living symbol and testimony to the fidelity and faithfulness of Almighty God, and for that reason is imperishable and will endure long after Soviet Russia, Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy lie buried under the dust of anarchy were the opening words of Eric B. de Pendleton, a former Anglican minister of Wilberforce, and missionary in the Northwest, and now on British Israel headquarters staff to a capacity audience in the Paragon Hall Friday night.

About 3,000 years ago, Almighty God made an unconditional covenant with the House of David, that as long as the sun, moon, stars, daytime and night, seed-time and harvest should endure, a sovereign of an unbroken line of kings should reign on that throne over Israel.

Mr. de Pendleton explained the significance of the Coronation and every detail is the same as that used in the crowning of the kings of ancient Israel, from the presentation of the king by the chief minister of the land and the recognition by the people in the words, God save the king, the taking of the oath, the preaching of the sermon, the anointing with holy oil, presentation of the royal sceptre and rod, the actual crowning and acclamation.

The speaker traced major crises for the past century in which the throne was involved to the present aftermath. The Diamond Jubilee of 1897 was followed by the Great War, the emotional reaction of the people on the first Armistice Day in the words, "we want King George," by post war disturbances, the king's illness in 1928 in which he was saved by the prayers of his people preceded the great depression, the Silver Jubilee succeeded by Edward's abdication and the recent Coronation by the coming world conflict, after which the kingdoms of this world shall become the kingdom of God and His Christ, Who shall reign on the throne of David over the House of Jacob for ever.

COUZENS QUITTING AS DETROIT MAYOR

TORONTO, Oct. 30. — (CP) — Mayor Frank Couzens of Detroit said here yesterday he is not running for reelection in Detroit's civic election Tuesday because "I'm going back to my business so that I can have something to offer my three boys."

Here to attend the coming-out party of a debutant niece, Mayor Couzens said something else he intended to do was to get rid of 10 pounds of excess "tummy," the result, he added, of lack of exercise.

Of Premier Hepburn's expressed opposition to the Committee for Industrial Organization, the Detroit mayor said: "Well, we admire his courage, but he hasn't had to face the situation as we have it in Michigan."

NOW CAN REDUCE COD LIVER OIL

ating waste in industry and agriculture, the Foundation does some of its most outstanding work, Mr. Speakman continued. To illustrate, he told the story of the big egg distributor who came to the Foundation to ask what he could do with his bad eggs, many hundreds of dozens of them. The Foundation knew little of the tanning industry but suspected, from analysis of the chemical composition of bad eggs, that the industry could use them.

Eggs Become Scarce.

So successful was the detour of bad eggs into the tanning industry which required the egg yolks in its process, that there were soon not enough bad eggs in Canada, the speaker said. The Foundation thereupon imitated bad eggs so successfully with a synthetic bad egg product that the imitation was better than the original.

In passing, the speaker deplored the loss of trained young Canadian university men to the United States. Checking up on a group of 12 graduates in chemistry, he found 8 were in the United States, he said.

Sir Joseph Flavelle commended Mr. Speakman highly in introducing him. He told of Mr. Speakman's arrival in Canada during the Great War, of his duty as a bacteriologist in charge of war production of alcohol in Canada. The scientist subsequently served as Professor of Bacteriology at Toronto University before taking his foundation post. Sir Joseph spoke highly of boys' associations such as the Friday Night Supper Club as he made the introduction. A number of prominent business men were guests of the club at the supper.

SUNG AS HYMN

LONDON—(CP).—"John Brown's Body" was sung as a hymn in Westminster Abbey 20 years ago, Stanley Roper, principal of Trinity College of Music, said in an address at a church service here.

QUINTS SPEECH IS FOUND SLOW

form of punishment at the Callander Nursery is temporary isolation for the quint who has misbehaved.

They are remarkably similar outwardly. For example, their hair is brown, their complexions are alike; their ears have but negligible differences; even the shape of their finger patterns is similar, and the total ridge counts of their fingerprints differ little.

They are not yet able to dress themselves completely, but each has a cupboard and brings her clothing to the nurse who helps in dressing.

Their teeth were later than usual in appearing, but alignment of the teeth is good, with no signs of softness or decay.

Yvonne ranked highest in score after three achievement tests, with Cecile and Annette alternating next, then Emilie and last little Marie.

Development of all now is accelerating—more rapidly than is usual for the normal child.

MICHAEL HALPIN DIES SUDDENLY

SERVICES IN PETERBOROUGH CHURCHES TO-MORROW

Biblical Thoughts For The Shut-Ins

By Rev. E. R. James Toronto

THE ARISTOCRATS OF HEAVEN

Ye are all one man in Christ Jesus.—Gal. 3, 28. Seeing we are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses let us run with patience the race looking unto JESUS.—Heb. 12, 1.

November the first will be ALL SAINTS' DAY. Multitudes will be thinking of their beloved who have passed within the veil. They are in the nearer Presence of God—"with Christ."

Death is the Gate of Life; we bow our heads
At going out, we think, and enter straight
Another golden chamber of the King
Larger than this we leave, and lovelier.

What have the Holy Scriptures to teach us of them?

The greatest intellectual giant of the Apostolic Church, St. Paul, tells us that "we are all one man in Christ Jesus Our Lord."

Strangely enough Dr. P. Miller, historian of Bolshevism, uses the term "the collective man" to describe the mass movement of this new political philosophy. He pictures the mass demonstrations in Moscow as "the collective man" into which all sorts and conditions of men and women have been organized. They lose their individuality and identity but move forward as one man to conquer the world for Bolshevism.

Christ, on the other hand, comes to unite all men and women into one organism of which He is the Head. It throbs with the life of God Himself. In this corporate Body there is no swallowing up of individuality. Human personality continues. You will be yourself with your special gifts developed to their fullest. You will be aflame to bring men into that Body.

Another inspired writer in that theological Epistle to the Hebrews reminds us that "we are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses.

Now in passing let us remember that the Greek word translated "witness" is the same as our word "martyr." They are men and women who have played their part in the arena of bloody horror. They are the heroes of the Faith, "of whom the world is not worthy," and they are watching how we "carry on."

Our religion teaches us that our beloved dead have passed into "the life of the world to come." A life more abundant than this. They are more alive, more conscious. They are not forgetful of their brethren on earth. They are not unmindful of our trials and struggles as we go forward and upward. "I believe in the communion of saints." By this we mean that all members of Christ are in fellowship with one another.

"We are one Body in Christ." The spiritual life in each is from the Holy Spirit, "the Lord and Giver of Life." Is this a hard saying? Is there scriptural warrant?

In Our Lord's parable of "The rich man and Lazarus" we learn that the rich man even in torment thinks of his brethren and prays for them. In the Mount of Transfiguration we learn that Moses and Elijah speak with Our Lord concerning His decease which He is to accomplish in Jerusalem. The writer of the Epistle to the Hebrews reminds his readers of the great Honour Roll of the Jewish Church, the heroes of their Faith. They are watching how they run the race.

How helpful to remember when we worship in Church that "we are compassed about with so great a cloud of witness," our brethren worshiping with us from within the veil. This practical teaching gives us courage and inspiration to run the race which is set before us. Looking unto Jesus, the Author and Finisher of our faith. We are reminded that we have great things to live up to. That is Tennyson's thought in "In Memoriam":

Do we indeed desire the dead
Should still be with us, at our side?
Is there no baseness we would hide?
No inner vileness that we dread?

"ALMIGHTY GOD grant us grace so to follow Thy blessed saints in all virtuous and Godly living that we may come to those unspeakable joys which Thou hast prepared for them that unfeignedly love Thee; through Jesus Christ Our Lord."

REV. A. J. THOMAS

A National Message

By the Late Rev. W. Pascoe Goard, LL.D., F.R.G.S., F.R.E.S.

Furthermore, under the law of the Kingdom inducements shall be offered to men to establish families. Here again the Law of the Lord is diametrically opposed to the doctrine of Communism. The latter dissolves the family ties. The Law of the Lord lays the foundations of the family, and in so laying the foundations of the family perpetuates the foundations of the Divinely-appointed State. God builds first on the individual, then on the family, and then on the State. Communism ignores the individual and the family and seeks to do the impossible thing, namely, to found a State on a familyless community.

Under the Law of the Kingdom every man who marries a wife is granted freedom from service of the State for a year, even military service in time of need.

The housing problem is settled by every man having a free grant of land for his own permanent possession. He is also granted release of service upon his building his home.

Space forbids that we should consider these axioms more fully. However, this glimpse, brief as it has been, will enable us to visualise what a clearing up of littered liabilities the restoration of God's system will entail, and how relieved the people of the Kingdom will be when this is accomplished.

CATHEDRAL MUSINGS

We spoke last week of the vital necessity of frequent periods of meditation, of attunement with the consciousness of God. The word "necessity" was used and with intention for the higher spiritual growth and inner unfoldment is impossible without daily periods of withdrawal from self, or as the ancients termed it, of "going up into the mountain." We also said that the great mystics preferred to dwell apart from humanity unless they had a definite mission to mankind at large, meaning that while the individual growth is helped by a withdrawal from the world, yet the testing and use of that growth is best accomplished in the service of man, that is, in contact with the world. So that the mystic moves through life, in the world, but not of it. While it is true that the "company of just men made perfect," the "grand lodge above," whatever term we like to use for those who through past ages have fully attained and are truly Initiate in the highest sense of the word, may and do work for humanity by purely spiritual means, yet even those Great Ones have to work at times through human instruments. As for us, who at best are many, many generations short of that high perfection, we must ever remember that this world is both our training and our testing ground. Here is where our work lies. Here is where we either progress or stand still, and here only. For we enter upon the future life at exactly that stage of spiritual growth and consciousness with which this life ended. There is no sudden transformation of either personality or character, but there is a stripping away of that camouflage by which we seek to bolster up our self-esteem, and excuse ourselves. We appear as we really not and not as we think we are. There is nothing supernatural about it either, for as our vision grows we learn that "super" nature is as much under the laws of God as ordinary nature; that the natural world is but the projection on the lower vibrations of the true world of the so-called supernatural. Also that the true keynote of the higher world is truth, just as the keynote of this world was once love, until the self-spirit of man turned it into the hell-word of hate. Further, when the world in general returns to the note of love, then will the natural and the supernatural be one again, as it was in the beginning. No man can or ever will see God, for God is a spirit, but man can be so infused and transformed by that Spirit that in and through him is God made manifest. It is then that he finally dies to self and enters into the brotherhood of Christ, for he works not of himself but in the strength and spirit of the love of God, incarnate. Then and not till then have we the right to call ourselves Christians and of the fellowship of the Mystic Rose.

George Street Church Marks Its 102nd Anniversary

Rev. A. J. Thomas, a Former Pastor, Will Be The Special Preacher

George Street United church will celebrate its 102nd anniversary on Sunday, with Rev. A. J. Thomas, who served the church during the years 1917-1920, as special preacher. The anniversary is to be different in that it will be followed by an earnest effort to reach the unchurched and de-churched folk. This is to be done by a method of visiting the homes in a house-to-house visitation evangelism.

Mr. Thomas, who is now devoting his time to preaching missions, will conduct a ten-day mission. These services will begin each night with a bright Gospel song service with special and appropriate music by members of the choir and visiting talent.

In 1835 the first chapel at Peterborough was built. The ministers in those days travelling many miles ministering to people, comprising part of Cobourg district, Peterborough and townships of Smith, Cavan, Otonabee, Monaghan, North, Dummer, Emily and Ops.

In 1848 the circuit was divided and Millbrook was set off. In 1853 an addition was added to the church. In 1859 a commodious building was erected beside the church for a Sunday School. By the early seventies the congregation had outgrown the old building and by 1875 the present church edifice was completed, and was dedicated for service in the work of building the "Kingdom of God." In 1890 the imposing tower was added and the church as it is today completed.

During the pastorate of Rev. J. E. Todd, 1925-29, the fine Sunday School hall was built, which serves each Sunday in accommodating an attendance of over 500 scholars.

The church ministers to 700 families and has enjoyed an enviable record through the years. May this Second Century upon which she has entered far eclipse the last.

On Sunday the choir will render at the morning service the anthem "The Silent Seas" by Neidlinger, and Mrs. James Goldie will sing a solo number "O Divine Redeemer", by Gounod.

At the evening service the choir will render the anthem "Yea though I walk" by Sullivan; Mr. G. D. Carlisle will sing "Supplication" by Beethoven.

A quartette number "Nearer the Cross" by Dieckmann, will be sung by Mrs. L. Goldie, Miss L. McDougall and Messrs. Henry Batten and G. D. Carlisle.

The public are most cordially invited to attend these services.

Christian Character and Peace

"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Nov. 7 is Colossians 3:17, the Golden Text being Col. 3:15, "Let the peace of Christ rule in your hearts, to the which also ye were called in one body.")

ON THE EVE of another anniversary of that widly jubilant Armistice day of 19 years ago we are compelled to recognize the disillusionment these years have brought. It was not the ending of "a war to end war," nor of one "to make the world safe for democracy." Such changes come "not by might, nor by power, but by my spirit, saith the Lord of hosts."

The Price of Peace

We can not have "peace on earth, good will toward men" apart from or in rebellion against Christ, to whom, ages before and since his birth, have looked expectantly, as "the price of peace." To him Christian citizens of all nations look as they pray, "Thy kingdom come; thy will be done on earth, as it is in heaven." So St. Paul, from his prison in Rome wrote to his friends in Colosse: "If then ye were raised together with Christ, seek the things that are above, where Christ is, seated on the right hand of God. Set your mind on the things that are above, not on the things that are upon the earth." The Christian citizen exerts his influence to bring the policies of earthly governments into accord with "the things that are above."

National Covetousness

National covetousness leads to all manner of national sins to achieve that for which it covets. So-called civilized nations resort to barbarism in the ruthlessness of their attacks upon peaceable peoples to dispossess their helpless victims of territory or natural resources. Treaties solemnly drawn and signed with neighbor nations are held in contempt when they stand in the way of this national "covetousness, which is idolatory." "Lie not one to another" is not applicable between nations as between individuals, according to this international anarchy. The result of this new barbarism, was recently defined by President Roosevelt thus: "Innocent peoples and nations are being cruelly sacrificed to a greed for power and supremacy which is devoid of all sense of justice and humane consideration."

The remedy for all this is to be found in nothing short of "letting the peace of Christ rule the hearts" of mankind. Only in him can there be found a force adequate to stem the rising tide of nationalism.

Baptist Churches Launch Campaign

"Not some of us giving more
But more of us giving some."

This is the slogan for a new undertaking in four hundred and thirty-three Baptist churches of Ontario and Quebec. The convention has launched a three-month campaign to strengthen local causes and extend denominational activities. Mr. C. R. Duncan, Educational Secretary of McMaster University has been released from University duties for three months to direct the movement and enlist the cooperation of every member.

The purpose of the Campaign is to raise the gifts of the churches for denominational activities to $150,000 for the convention year. This amount with $85,000 from the Women's Circles and Bands, Young People's Societies, Sunday Schools and individual gifts will make a total of $235,000 for missionary purposes.

The response already made indicates that the Baptist people will rally to the challenge of the Mission Boards to do as much for the Kingdom of God as may be expected from the fifty thousand christians who make up the membership of the four hundred and thirty-three churches.

By a special gift on Sunday, October 31st, it is hoped that the churches will provide sufficient to make up the amount required for the first six months. In November and December there will be an every member approach in the churches in an endeavor to have the full amount subscribed on a weekly offering basis.

Professor Scott To Preach In City

Professor A. A. Scott, B.A., B.D., Paed., Principal of the Arts College of Indore Christian College of Central India, will speak in Trinity Church, Peterborough, next Sunday morning and in St. Andrew's at night. Indore College has over 300 students, and is affiliated with Agra University.

Indore is an important city. It figured in the famous Indian mutiny and occupies a central position today for a large district of country. Prof. Scott graduated from University and Knox Colleges, Toronto, and by his ability and devotion has brought credit upon these institutions. He is a diligent student and scholar and at the same time an earnest evangelist. The professor has an intimate knowledge of work amongst the higher castes in India, and at the same time an intense sympathy with the pariahs of the country.

Mohawk Is Slain By His Own Gun

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Oct. 30 (CP) —Harry Hill, 19, member of the Mohawk Indian Tribe and resident in Point Anne, was killed accidentally during the night when hunting in the marsh east of Point Anne, five miles east of Belleville. The youth started out alone on a duck hunt last night, and early today was found dead by his father, Joseph Hill, beside his duck skiff. One shell was exploded in the gun.

It was believed the gun was discharged while he was either getting in or out of the boat. His face was mutilated.

There will be no inquest, according to the coroner, Dr. J. J. Robertson.

Moral Issue in the Drink Problem — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell And Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Rom. 13:12-14; I Cor. 6:9-11; Gal. 5:16-24.

Drunkenness was a prevalent social evil of ancient Rome. Corinth and other cities of Paul's time as it is today among us. Paul warned Roman Christians against it and strife.

Writing to the Corinthian Christians he associated drunkenness with such vices as idolotry, adultery, theft, blasphemy, all of which would keep them from the kingdom of God.

Paul urged the Galatians to avoid "adultery, fornication, uncleanness, idolotry, hatred, wrath, strife, seditions, heresies, murders, drunkenness, revellings."

Paul urged religion as the cure for all these evils: "Put ye on the Lord Jesus Christ, and make not provision for the flesh to fulfill the lusts thereof." (GOLDEN TEXT—Galatians 5:16.)

Too Old To Work?

There was something in the paper a few days ago about a man being too old for work after 40 or 45 years of age. The claim was that he was not swift enough in his movements after passing that figure.

But we find some quite remarkable people who have long since passed that age. We come across them as they walk through the columns of the pages in newspapers. To illustrate:

William Squire is 74 years of age and he farms not far from the village of Glencoe. The other day Mr. Squire was working building a dam on his property and in the same field there was a bull running loose. As such animals will do, the bull charged at Mr. Squire and the man of 74 years quickly went up a tree, and he did it with such haste that the bull never had a chance to injure him. And that is not bad for a man of 74 years, considering that others claim he is too old to work after 40 or 45 years.

The tree into which Farmer Squire had ascended had a weak branch and it was upon this that the pursued man elected to perch. It broke and the farmer fell to the ground and broke his shoulder. After which he went for his car and drove seven miles to see a doctor. And Farmer Squire who carries on his work near Glencoe is 74 years of age.

The Ladies Hesitated

London District Women's Liberal Association held a conference in Woodstock. A resolution was introduced which expressed some measure of disappointment regarding the 1938 motor license markers, so evidently they do not look any bolder in the London and Woodstock area than they do in this section of the province. But that resolution lived for only a short time. It was withdrawn because a former resolution had expressed approval of and loyalty to the government, and therefore it would hardly be right to grow critical just after having been in a state of general approval.

We do not know whether the ladies learn their politics from the men or not, but in this case they seem to have laid hold of a very old idea. That is—being critical of anything the party does when in power is being disloyal. It would be an excellent thing if it were possible to weed out that old and very wrong notion. The individual who is Liberal or Conservative from preference or principle best serves his party when he is ready to intelligently point out defects and ask for their removal. Such an individual will neither nurse nor tolerate a condition which he or she feels to be in error merely because it has been committed by the party. The ladies should bring with them to the political world something better than we have had before. My party right or wrong may have been a fine old slogan in its day, but its day has passed.

We Take So Long

After being on strike for almost six weeks 600 workers have agreed to return to the Kaufman Rubber Co. in Kitchener on the understanding that the Industry and Labor Board of the Ontario Government will investigate the situation and report on wages being paid in similar establishments elsewhere. It looks on the face of it much like the method by which the textile strike was terminated in this city some weeks ago.

The regrettable feature is that the terms under which the workers return should not have been advanced and accepted long ago. There is actually no sound reason why they should have been off work for so long a time. Being out of work so long means the average worker has lost almost one-eighth of what he would make in a year. What the factory has lost we do not know, but we do know that when a plant shuts down the expenses do not do the same thing. The Kaufman company has probably lost a good many thousands of dollars because it was not operating. It is already stated that full force cannot be employed at once as business is not on the books to warrant it. There will have to be that building-up process and through it there will be periods of short-time employment. Eventually all strikes are settled, but the pity is that it should take us so long to get down to the serious business of settlement.

He Blames The Banks

Mayor Raynault of Montreal is thinking of starting a municipal savings bank in his big city. That is he wants a bank of his own because he has been having trouble with the bankers and banks in general. The desire of the mayor is to convert the standing debt of the city of Montreal. The interest rates are high according to the mayor and he wants them to be much lower.

If this situation were raked to the bottom we doubt if it would be found that the banks had much to do with its creation. Montreal is in debt and it is a place where a municipal sales tax has been imposed to bolster lagging revenue. In years past the spending has been entirely too great, and it was not the banks or the bankers who were responsible for that. The people who sat in chairs of authority in Montreal did it.

It often happens that when an individual or a corporation gets into financial or any other kind of difficulty there is a tendency to blame some person else. In this case the mayor blames the banks, but the banks even if they desired to do so, never have possessed authority to spend money or contract debt in the name of Montreal. If Montreal finds itself badly in debt then Montreal is probably to blame for it.

Why The Haste?

Captain Eyston, the Englishman who is seeking to crack wide open Sir Malcolm Campbell's world land speed record, has made his great car "Thunderbolt" travel in Utah at the rate of 309.6 miles per hour. The Campbell record stood at 301.1292 miles per hour, but the new figure is not yet officially accepted. One of the rules is that the marked mile has to be travelled two ways, and something happened before the second test was completed.

The cars used for such demonstrations are not automobiles in the usually accepted sense of the term. The Thunderbolt weighs seven tons and had 24 cylinders; it is all engine and mechanism and is not so fitted that a number of people can get on board and have a ride.

It may be there is some engineering principle being demonstrated or discovered in building cars which travel at such a rate, and if such is being done then much should be said about it. Otherwise a good many folk in the world, rather fed up with speed and its consequences, may not be at all impressed by what Capt. Eyston is trying to do out in Utah where he finds the glistening salt flats make an ideal race track. Actually we do not need any more speed, but we do need a greater margin of safety.

The Dionne Children

There are to be 250 child specialists, psychologists and students gathered together in Toronto, and they are going to consider among other matters the future of the Dionne quints. The children are now three years and five months old, and a good many of the visiting party will journey to the Dafoe Hospital near Callander to see them.

There are a good many people who believe it is time the five children were living with the rest of their own family, with their mother and father and older and younger sisters and brothers. Otherwise they urge the quints will become spoiled and self-centred and "show-offs." One writer is certain children of that age should know what it is to be ordered around by parents or older members of the family, and they should have experienced what it means to have their toys and playthings taken from them or broken. In other words, they should pass through all the stages of ordinary children in an ordinary family. They should know what it means to have to stand back and let some other person have first place, and they should be told to stay in when they want to go out. They should be knowing that they are members of a family and not a group by themselves.

This paper never did boast of being an authority on how to bring up children; the world is so full of folk who seem to know all about that question that the field is too crowded to permit of safe or successful entrance. But it does seem there is considerable weight and worth in the claim that the Dionne children ought to be learning family life, recognizing the authority of father and mother and the place of brothers and sisters in the general organization of family habits. Otherwise, to use a grand old phrase which is readily understood—the children are apt to be spoiled.

"We Stole Chickens"

Two brothers from Ashfield township in Huron county will spend the next two years in Kingston penitentiary. These brothers were already on suspended sentence when they were arrested and charged with stealing chickens. There were nine cases against them and one of them was the occasion when they cleaned out the chicken house of their own father. The Crown Attorney in pressing for sentence said chicken thieving was becoming so common that some farmers did not report losses, believing it was no use as nothing would be done about it.

Looking ahead a little we cannot but wonder what these brothers will do or say for themselves when they settle down to life in the penitentiary. If they held their peace and said nothing at all they might pass among their fellow prisoners as rather brave fellows who had been willing to make a bold adventure in crime. But if they start to talk we fear they will lose standing.

If in their spare hours they happen to meet up with some chap who had gone in and blown up a big safe and then had to struggle with watchmen and guards and police in order to attempt escape, they might hesitate to mention that they had stolen chickens. Nor would they care to mention chicken stealing to the fellow prisoner who had gone in a car in broad daylight and robbed a bank and afterward fought with many of the folk in the community and emerged badly beaten up.

The only thing necessary in stealing chickens is to do it when no person is looking. When such a condition is made certain there is no more bravery or daring required than stealing a watermelon. It comes well within the classification of sneaky things, and when the chickens have been removed from a farm there are no more eggs to sell and there are no more sales of dressed poultry. So it cuts right into the farm income for a good many months to come. Nor is it possible in this case to refrain from remarking that a father who has lived to see his sons sent to penitentiary for stealing chickens from his own pen has been walking a road that is rough and where the going is hard.

NOTE AND COMMENT

In base ball terms Hon. Earl Rowe is going back to the big league after a short time in the minors as a manager.

Montana wheat is being sold profitably in Alberta. After all it does seem that it is possible to carry coals to Newcastle and get away with it.

Alas, we must be slipping. A Toronto morning paper has got in ahead of us with that admonition about doing the Christmas shopping early.

Police in Montreal seized 3,000 gallons of illicit alcohol in a garage. The owner will probably claim he is entitled to keep anti-freeze on hand.

Game is said to be more plentiful in Ontario than for many years. That should help to prevent folk from getting shot in mistake for deer.

Montreal man has been awarded $399 because a piece of plaster hit him on the head. It probably would have been $400 but the lawyer had to get his fee.

Aged Sudbury man walked six miles after being shot in the leg. Most of the folk around here couldn't walk that far with two sound limbs.

London's Daily Mail seems to think "Mitch" is an undignified title for Ontario's prime minister. Mr. Hepburn, however, has made no complaints.

It has been ruled that milk is a food and not a beverage. As a matter of fact, if not of law, is the commodity not both of those things?

It is stated in connection with national cheese week that Canadians eat less cheese than any folk in the world and that seems a sad note on which to close the month.

Rugby officials have not been able to decide whether breaking a man's jaw constitutes rought play or is merely high tackling. In either case the effect on the victim is the same.

That woman who bought an ancient box of cigars at an auction sale has partially helped to settle her gift-buying problem and possibly to settle those to whom the cigars are eventually given.

Friends of the Soviet Union have been refused permission to use the Montreal arena for a rally. It is rather surprising to find the Soviet has enough friends to need a building of that size.

Dr. H. A. Fricker is to be given the freedom of Toronto. Apparently all you have to do to get that distinction is to conduct one of the best choirs in the world for twenty-one years.

A proposal to substitute bus lines in Windsor for the present street railway system has been made. The buses have one advantage over the tram; they are untrammeled as to where they shall run.

Codrington minister has received a bad cheque as a fee for performing a wedding ceremony recently. It does not take much of a prophet to predict that a marriage started on that basis is heading straight for the rocks.

WEE ANGUS

(By A. H. S.)

¶ When I am fixing up my chores, and fussin' round just out-of-doors, I want Wee Angus there; when I am nailing on a door, and can't quite reach from off the floor, why then I want a chair.

¶ Or if when weather takes a change, and I am fixing up the range, so we can start the fire; I'm apt to find it can't be done, unless Wee Angus then will run, and fetch me in some wire.

¶ Or when I'm working now and then, attending to my speckled hen, before the winters sails; I sometimes want a board or two, or else a piece of glass that's new, or else I need some nails.

¶ I holler for Wee Angus then, when I'm attending to my hen, expecting he will come; he never seems to be around, and never do I get him found, until the chores are done.

¶ He says he has been helping Pete, to clean his cellar good and neat, before the coal comes in; or he was splitting wood for Joe, and getting it piled so and so, and doing good turns for him.

¶ So when I get my chores all done, Wee Angus comes in on the run, a grin upon his face; his stories all sound pretty fair; at chores he seems to do his share—but at some other place.

PRESIDENT Albert Lebrun of France has one hobby—it is rowing. In a small white-painted boat he exercises every morning on the ornamental lake at his country residence at Rambouillet, 25 miles from Paris. While he is pulling at the oars Madame LeBrun generally goes out to gather fresh blooms for the long dining room opening on the lawns. When the president is in residence this room is used as a temporary cabinet meeting-place.

New and more drastic measures against Jews have recently been promulgated in Germany. Among the laws announced by Dr. Wilhelm Frick, Minister of the Interior are regulations providing that:

Jews who make themselves disliked may be driven out of a town without reason and Jews found guilty of racial crime (marrying Aryans,) profiteering or mere petty crime may be expelled from cities or villages without appeal.

✧ ✧ ✧

Another regulation says that Germans who let rooms may refuse to take in Jews, and boarding houses and hotels may also refuse to let rooms or serve meals to them. Jews will also be "discouraged" from visiting such resorts.

✧ ✧ ✧

Every tradesman has the right to refuse Semites and anti-Jewish placards may be put up anywhere in public and Jews will have no appeal against such placards. They may also be barred from baths, public libraries and from Aryan medical institutions in towns where there are also Jewish hospitals.

Canada Leads World.

IT MAY BE a surprise to most people to learn that Canada leads not merely the British Empire but the world, in the use of aircraft for the transportation of freight. In 1936 the amount of freight carried through the air in this country amounted to 25,387, 719 pounds as against the 2,372,647 pounds carried in 1931. The United States total carried last year was 6,956,777 pounds.

The world's finest zoo, according to T. C. Bridges, the American writer, is the 9,000 square mile Kruger National Park in South Africa. Trees and shrubbery are alive with birds; vast rivers contain innumerable crocodiles and otters. The elephant population in 1931 numbered 100 and the buffalo more than 800. There were fifteen varieties of buck or antelope with a grand total of 120,000.

Laws which recently came into operation in England affect various elements in the population. For example no horse-dealer may henceforth export to Europe heavy draught animals for which less than £25 has been paid. Campers who rent land must get licenses if they stay more than 42 days on the property. Again motorists are now required to have anti-dazzle equipment, speedometers accurate within 10 per cent., windshield wipers which can be opened to give a clear view and they must not carry dangerous mascots.

Jealousy Lorgnettes.

ONE OF THE earliest form of lorgnettes was the invention that was popularly known as the "jealousy lorgnette." Like all the early type it was constructed for one eye only and resembled one-half of a fair-sized modern opera glass. Besides a lens at each end, the jealousy lorgnette contained an oblique mirror through which, when looking into it from a hole cleverly hidden in a decorative scheme in the side of the lorgnette, one could see who was behind or to the side of one. The suspicious and scheming Mme. Pompadour rarely appeared at the frivolous court of Louis XV without her gold and red enamel jealousy lorgnette, painted by Boucher nor did du Barry come without hers, studded in diamonds—each a gift from the King.

✧ ✧ ✧

Subsequently the jealousy lorgnette was called the convenient lorgnette because it accompanied the ladies to theatre where it was not considered good manners to turn deliberately around and stare persons in the face to see who had come with whom.

✧ ✧ ✧

Marie Antoinette invented the fan lorgnette and then the trouble began. Orginally the lorgnette was placed in the pivot of the fan. Soon however it found itself ingeniously hidden in meshes of silk, laces, embroideries and spangles and placed in whatever, material and spot artful femininity could devise.

✧ ✧ ✧

There were lorgnettes of semi-precious stones, of ivory, wedgewood, porcelain and vernimartin. They were painted, enameled or carved by the masters of Nuremberg. Collapsible lorgnettes made of silver were the fashion for a while; then they gave away to gold lorgnettes, made in tiers which were not collapsible. "Surprise lorgnettes" in needle cases delighted the thrifty and in reticules containing smelling salts and beauty plasters they flattered the vain.

A Matter of Habits.

ACCORDING to Edward M. Brecher, writing in Opportunity, modern psychology has discovered an astonishing fact about habits. That is that not only do people have habits but their nerves and muscles, their glands, limbs and organs——even the cells of which their bodies are composed have their own habits.

Farmer Gets It Coming and Going

Claims West Has Paid Price For Tariff; Who Got Benefit From Sales of Wheat?

(Letter in St. Catharines Standard)

EDITOR, The Standard: Sir, — A Standard editoral on the wheat situation closes on the following note: "Had their policies (McFarland-Bennett) "been continued, the Dominion treasury would have been better off by millions and the growers themselves would have reaped a rich benefit, because wheat has come back. . . . It took courage, at the time, to save the West from complete collapse —when wheat was considerably below fifty cents a bushel. Those were dark days."

There are those who believe that today's improved valuations for wheat have been at the expense of 85,000 wheat farmers on the southern prairies, for whom there are still "dark days."

As to that, this reader is in no position to judge; but I imagine your urban readers will be as interested I was, in the following bit of evidence submitted ten days ago to the Turgeon Royal Grain Inquiry (in session at Winnipeg) by a noted Western Canadian observer, Mr. John T. Hull, of Manitoba Co-operative Conference:

"For more than thirty years the organized farmers of Western Canada have maintained that they were placed under a heavy handicap by having to produce within a protective system and to market in a world competitive system. Professor Norman Rogers, in a memorandum prepared for the Royal Commission Economic Inquiry of Nova Scotia, estimated the enhancement in prices in the three prairie provinces owing to the tariff, in 1931, as follows: Manitoba $29,185,740; Saskatchewan $29,226,285; Alberta $27,909,396; a total of $86,323,421, of which the major part must have fallen upon the farm population. The cost of the tariff to Western Canada in the last 30 years is certainly not less than $1,000,000,000."

Competing with the world's growers abroad, and the tariff-builders at home, apparently the West "catches it," coming and going, Mr. Editor?

To the Editor

INDIANS AND THE MORMONS

Editor Examiner:

Sir: Some say they did, and some say they didn't! Some say they are white, and some say they are black! Some say they are Asiatic, and some say they are of Jewish decent! In any case the argument as to the origin of these "Red Skins" is a long and bitter one still.

Among the people on the earth who enter into the argument with lots of "gusto," and with finality are the Mormon people. But, why should they be so concerned with the origin of a people who at best are only about half alive to the culture that exists around them?

History deals in paradoxes, and this seems to be one of them. One of the strongest churches in the world has for its foundation—at least it could be said that the Mormon church hangs or falls on the efficacy of the "Book of Mormon." And, this book claims to be the history of the fathers of the Indians, giving their origin, culture, habits, wars, and governments.

These Mormon people have for over 107 years proclaimed with eclate, yes, they have even sent missionaries to preach that the Indians are from Palestine; that they came to this American continent to escape the impending destruction of Jerusalem at the hand of King Nebuchadnezzar around the year 600 B. C.; that they are the people of Isreal. (not the ten Tribes.)

We won't say anything about the peculiar way this book came to light in our modern day, but from it we Mormons derive their name which we understand is a mis-nomer, for the official name of the church is "The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints."

It is easy to pass the Mormon people off with a shrug of the shoulder, because most of us don't believe they are right anyways. Still, they come, and the missionaries keep on preaching the Palestine—Indian theory. It may sound funny, but even the intelligent believe them.

Indeed, Dr. Holmes of the department of Archaeology of the University of Tulane, who took an expedition to Central America in 1925, thinks it isn't funny, for he used the Book of Mormon," and through its description of locations of cities found one of the most important remains of antiquity in America.

Perhaps they are right. At least the philosophy that they get from the record is certainly a dynamic one.

INCLUDE OFFICE BOYS.

(Lethbridge Herald)

MRS. EDITH GOSTICK, M.L.A., who appears to be Mr. Aberhart's right-hand man, spoke the other evening at a meeting of Social Crediters in Calgary, discussing the press gag, and in the course of her remarks she is reported to have stated:

"I thought it might have been possible to tighten up the libel act, perhaps to prosecute the printers of a paper as well as the writers. Publishing the names of newspaper workers from directors right down to the office boy every few weeks might help."

For a God-fearing woman, Mrs. Gostick appears to have developed a remarkable hate complex. She even turns her guns on the office boys if they have the bad fortune to work in a newspaper office. The "hate" is widening its scope.

Newspaper Circulation Rates Predicted To Increase

Newsprint Head Sees Hands Forced By General Jump In Production Costs

NEW YORK, Oct. 2. -(A.P.). — Prediction many newspapers may be forced to raise their circulation rates because of rising newsprint and other production costs, came to-day from W. G. Chandler, chairman of the Newsprint Committee of the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

Chandler already has asked publishers to protest to newsprint manufacturers over prospective price increases for 1938. Newspapers in more than 50 cities of the United States have been forced to raise their rates recently because of increased costs, he said.

Costs of newspaper publishing, according to statistics tabulated, have been advancing recently far out of proportion to increased receipts from advertising and circulation. Payrolls, it was said, have jumped ahead of even the 1929 level, both through wage increases and from additional employees taken on, while receipts generally are still well below the 1929 total.

Every commodity going into manufacturing a newspaper, with one or two minor exceptions, has advanced in price over the previous year, according to A.N.P.A. statistics. Publishers are paying more for metal, fuel, services, and newsprint.

Payrolls Up 9 Per Cent.

In one instance, in one group of newspapers, payrolls in nine months this year increased 9 per cent., according to statistics reported over the already sharp increases of 1936. Taxes, especially for social security, are cutting into receipts, the reports indicate.

The largest item of cost in producing a newspaper, next to payrolls, is newsprint paper, Chandler explained. Newspapers have not only been paying an increased price on this product this year, except a few having long-term contracts at lower than current rates, but in 1938 they will generally face an even greater advance, up to 17 per cent. in most cases, he said.

Even at the $49 average price for 1938, announced by the Great Northern Paper Company, which may govern the price of other United States mills, American publishers next year will be obliged to pay $25,000,000 more for paper than in 1937, Chandler said.

In an effort to make outgoing dollars match incoming revenue, many publishers are said to be faced with the problem of cutting down the total amount of newspaper given the reader, or advancing the retail sales price.

Real Service To-day

"Most publishers believe that their readers prefer the newspaper of to-day, which gives the greatest amount of informational, educational and entertainment value in the history of newspaper publishing," Chandler said.

At one time most big city newspapers sold for one cent a copy. That was when most big city newspapers contained six, eight and ten pages. At two, and, in many cases three cents, he said, the sum paid by the reader does not reimburse the publication for white paper in 20, 30 or 40-page newspapers, not considering the news-gathering, manufacturing and distribution costs.

For this reason newspapers in many cities recently have had to increase circulation rates, in some cases up to five cents a copy, and in more cases increase subscription rates.

The reports generally have indicated circulation has not been greatly affected by the increases.

PASTOR AND BRIDE GIVEN RECEPTION

(Examiner Correspondence.)

JANETVILLE, Oct. 30.—A large number of members and adherents of the United church gathered in the church on Tuesday evening for the reception tendered to their pastor and his wife, Rev. M. A. and Mrs. Bury on the occasion of their recent marriage.

A short program was enjoyed for which Mr. P. Hamilton, Principle of the Public School was the genial chairman, and was as follows:

Guitar selection—Howard Bradburn; Reading—Miss Helen Deyell; Short address—Mr. Roy Marshal; Reading—Miss Muriel English.

Mr. John McGee superintendant of the Sunday School was heard in a short address after which Misses Bessie Howe and Marporie Armstrong favoured with a piano duet.

Rev. W. H. V. Walker, Pastor of the Presbyterian church brought greetings and felicitations from the members of his congregation and in a happy little speech remarked on the co-operation existing between the two churches in the past and bespeaking the same spirit of good-will for the future. Each speaker extended a hearty welcome to the young couple especially to the bride who has just arrived and expressed wishes that their first new home would be a haven of happiness and their stay here crowned with success.

Rev. and Mrs. Bury were then given seats of honor while Miss Isabel McInnis read an appropriate address and Mrs. E. A. Bradburn, President of the Women's Association made the presentation of a well filled purse.

Mr. and Mrs. Bury each very feelingly replied in a few well chosen words.

All then adjourned to the tea rooms where small tables were attractively arranged and refreshments were served by the committee in charge.

Bridal Couple Honored

A happy event took place on Wednesday evening when about eighty friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Porter in honor of their niece the former Miss Olive Fisher and her husband Mr. Fred Walker.

During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Walker were presented with a lovely mantel clock and alladin lamp and an appropriate address was read on behalf of the Merry-Makers Club.

Dancing was enjoyed and a dainty lunch was served at midnight.

Personal

Mrs. Edward Richardson and daughter Miss Miriam Richardson of Peterborough were guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Bradburn and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Stinson on Saturday.

Miss Cora Thompson, Miss Ruth Henders and Mr. Marshall Malcolm all of Toronto were week end guests of Mrs. Robert Henders.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Burn were business visitors to Toronto on Wednesday.

Mrs. M. Armstrong and Miss Bessie Howe and the latter's brother Mr. George Howe spent the week end with friends in Toronto.

Mrs. George Pogue and son Bobby returned to their home in Montreal after a vacation with her father Mr. John R. Bradburn and other friends.

Fred Roy's Pictures Shown At Hastings

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Oct. 30—On Tuesday evening the Hastings' Town Hall was filled with children and adults who came to see the pictures presented by Mr. Fred L. Roy of Peterborough, who with his son, were present at the coronation ceremonies. The pictures were presented by the St. Andrew's Young People's Society and on behalf of the Society Dr. W. E. Wilson introduced Mr. Roy, who gave some very interesting explanations before he presented the films.

Institute Meeting

The November meeting of the Women's Institute, will be held in the council chambers on Tuesday, November 2nd. The main feature of the afternoon's program, will be a demonstration on "Textile Fabrics and how to distinguish them," by the president, Mrs. C. Baker, who as local leader attended the short course held in Warkworth two days of the past week. Mrs. J. A. Brown and Mrs. J. A. McDonald attended the Belleville Area Convention on Wednesday and Thursday, October 27 and 28, and will give reports at the meeting of the activities at the convention.

MANSE TAXES PAID BY L. A. SOCIETY

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Oct. 30.—Mrs. J. R. Thompson entertained the Ladies' Aid of Grace Presbyterian church for its October meeting on Thursday at 3 p.m., with the hostess, who is also president, in the chair. Mrs. Z. Seaton read the lesson and offered the opening prayer.

Miss Jean Syer, treasurer, reported a balance on hand of $145 and it was decided that the taxes on the Manse, amounting to about $70 will be paid by the society. Mrs. Seaton's group was appointed to look after the flowers for the church for the remainder of the year, and the visiting committee for the same period is Mrs. A. S. Hall for the east of the village and Mrs. H. C. Lord for the west section.

November 16 was chosen for the annual fowl supper date, with an advance sale of tickets at S. E. Eakin's store, and table convenors including Mrs. S. E. Eakins, Mrs. Alex Miller, Mrs. J. W. Wright, Mrs. M. Kinsman, Mrs. H. A. Kerr, and Miss Mina Gibson; both chicken and goose will be included on the menu. Messrs. H. A. Kerr and Jas. Kennedy will sell tickets the night of the supper.

Mrs. (Rev.) H. R. Williams closed the meeting with prayer and afterward Miss Gibson's group served a supper, with jellied chicken as its main dish, and the usual accompaniments of salads, etc., pumpkin pie and whipped cream being the final item, from which over seven dollars was realized.

Building Collapses Kills Two

A woman victim (arrow) is shown being carried from the ruins of the Morris Fruit and Produce Company building, after the three-storey Minneapolis, Minn., structure collapsed. Twenty-five persons were reported to have been inside the building at the time. Two known dead have been recovered. One of the 10 known injured, this woman, caught in the cave-in, is in serious condition.

NORWOOD WMS HAS ITS THANKOFFERING

(Examiner Correspondence.)

NORWOOD, Oct. 30.—The Women's Missionary Society and the Young Women's Auxiliary of the Norwood St. Andrews Presbyterian church held their annual thankoffering services on Thursday afternoon in the Sunday School room, with the president of the W.M.S., Mrs. Rork, in charge. The societies had as their guests many of the members of the Women's Missionary societies of Havelock and Hastings.

The meeting opened by singing hymn 82, followed by prayer held by Mrs. Rork. The Scripture was taken by Mrs. Perren. Mrs. Clarke of Havelock sang a pleasing solo and Mrs. Dodd of Hastings gave a splendid reading, after which Rev. Mr. Perrie gave an inspiring and interesting address on "Observations of the Missionary Work", followed by a duet by Mrs. J. Dobberman and Miss E. Godin of Norwood.

Following the program, afternoon tea was served by the ladies of the Norwood congregation and a social hour was enjoyed by all present.

LEG IS BADLY CUT BY WHIRLING SAW

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Oct. 30—Milton M. Challice met with a serious accident about the noon hour on Thursday when operating a wood sawing-machine in the yard of Bigelow's bakery. While the circular saw was still in motion, he went to kick away a pile of sawdust that had accumulated in its immediate vicinity, with the result that the whirling blade caught his left leg cutting one bone, between knee and ankle, completely through, and partly cutting through another one.

The injured was was rushed to Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough, in F. C. Scott's ambulance, Dr. J. W. Wright being the physician in charge. A blood transfusion being necessary, a number of Mr. Challice's friends went to the hospital that evening, Harold Wainman giving the quantity required. Others who offered this help included B. L. Richards, James Godfrey, Arthur Richards, Marvin Chapman, Ken Little, and one of Mr. Challice's own sons.

While the injured man's condition was considered very serious Thursday evening, Dr. Wright found a decided improvement when he made his professional visit yesterday.

MILK RULED A FOOD

TORONTO, Oct. 30 (CP).—Milk is a food, not a beverage, Magistrate James Cowan ruled today in dismissing charges against several Toronto dairies of filling bottles other than their own with a beverage, to wit, milk.

The Magistrate said the Appeal Court had held milk was not a beverage within the meaning of Section 490B of the criminal code. A penal section of the code must be interpreted strictly and the word "beverage" clearly indicated a drink that was not food as was milk.

LANDMARK COLLAPSES

BELFAST—(CP).—The 152-year-old brick tower of what is known as the Glass House of Ben Edwards at Short Strand, has collapsed. Families in the neighborhood had a narrow escape.

Old Festival Of Hallowe'en Recalls Birth Of Spirit In Earlier Days

Hallowe'en, by the calendar, falling this year on a Sunday, directs attention more than usual to the religious and historic significance of the occasion. Meanwhile the youth of Canada sally forth a night ahead of date for the usual hilarious fling.

By the church calendar, Hallowe'en tomorrow evening will be regarded as the vigil of All Saints' Day. But the festival long antedates the Christian era. It was linked with Druidic celebrations in ancient Britain and the Roman tribute to the Goddess of Fruit.

In the earlier periods of Britain it was the belief that super-natural influence prevailed on Hallowe'en. Bonfires were lit all over the country as part of the celebration. In some parts of Ireland the day is still called the "Vigil of Samain" (the lord of death).

Tonight gaily-bedecked ballrooms and brilliantly-lighted private homes will house thousands of parties while younger brothers and sisters harass shopkeepers and stay-at-homes to "shell out."

However, scientists have played a large part in toning down harum-scarum festivities in recent years with introduction of the motion picture, radio and other "tamer" entertainments.

And Hallowe'en can be definitely linked with the farm. The apple and pumpkin are popularly associated with it.

Even the humble cabbage, apart from its culinary purposes, has a peculiar significance. The modern miss may not think anything of it, but aren't there some maidens who steal out to the cabbage patch under cover of darkness to pick a stem to divine the characteristics of their future husbands? If the stem be tall, short or crooked, so shall their future husbands be.

HORSE FAILS TO WIN—SOLD DOWN RIVER

SYDNEY, N.S.W.—A. E. Cooper, prominent breeder and owner of race horses, to-day was $2,495 poorer because he sold St. Constant. St. Constant, a consistent performer, cost Mr. Cooper just $2,500 as a yearling but failed to win a race.

"I was fed up," Cooper said, and sold the horse to an unnamed buyer for $5.00.

Silvestri-Cullen.

A quiet wedding was solemnized in St. Peter's Cathedral at six o'clock this (Saturday) morning, when Mildred Cullen, daughter of Mrs. Cullen and the late Thomas Cullen, became the bride of Guido Silvestri, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Silvestri of Milton, Ontario. The Rev. Father Masterson performed the ceremony.

The bride wore an attractive bolero frock of navy sheer with white trimming, a navy turban with shoulder-length veil, and matching accessories. She caried a bouquet of red roses.

Miss Mildred Creighton, who attended as bridesmaid, wore a dress of brown taffeta, a small brown hat with veil, brown accessories, and carried yellow roses.

Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served to immediate members of the family at the bride's home. The young couple left later for a short honeymoon, and will reside at 306 Lewis Street.

✧ ✧ ✧

Lewis-Dawson.

A wedding of much interest taking place at one o'clock this (Saturday) afternoon was that of Helen Kathleen, daughter of Mrs. Dawson of Maitland Avenue and the late C. H. Dawson, to Arthur Gordon Knipe Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Lewis of Toronto. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Canon W. P. Robertson.

Chrysanthemums and ferns decorated the church. The wedding music was played by Frederick G. Mann, L.Mus., and during the signing of the register, two of the choir boys, Leslie Groombridge, and Ernest Lee, sang, "O Promise Me."

Given in marriage by her eldest brother, Victor Dawson of Windsor, Ontario, the bride wore a charming gown of velvet in "golden harvest" shade, fashioned on princess lines, with bolero jacket, having long sleeves and shirred tuxedo front. She wore a matching turban with fan-shaped trimming, gold slippers, and carried a sheaf of bronze 'mums.

Miss Roberta Jackson attended as bridesmaid. Her gown was of moss green velvet made on princess lines with gold lame bodice and long-sleeved velvet bolero shirred at the shoulders. Her matching turban was trimmed with the lame, and she carried a bouquet of yellow 'mums.

The best man was W. W. Bartlett. Following the ceremony a reception for about twenty immediate friends and relatives was held at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club. Mrs. Dawson, mother of the bride, was gowned in wine chiffon, with black hat and accessories, and wore a corsage of Token roses. The groom's mother, Mrs. Lewis, wore black velvet, with silver fox cape, a black hat with gold tipped veil, and a corsage of tea roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon K. Lewis left later for Buffalo and other points in the States, the latter wearing for travelling a frock of wine crepe, black velour hat, black and white accessories and a black wool coat with silver fox collar. They will reside at 706 Dovercourt Road, Toronto, when they return from their honeymoon.

✧ ✧ ✧

Parsons-Deline.

A pretty wedding was quietly solemnized in the parsonage of St. James' church at 8.15 on Friday evening, when Viola, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Deline, became the bride of Frederick Parson, son of Mrs. M. White, of Hamilton, and the late Thomas Parson. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. F. W. Craik.

The bride wore a becoming frock of Burgundy ticatina, a brown off-the face hat, brown accessories, and a corsage of roses.

Miss Dorothy Deline, as bridesmaid, wore a dress of brown crepe, with brown velvet off-the-face hat, matching accessories, and a corsage of roses. Paul Hillier attended the groom.

Following the ceremony a reception for immediate relatives and friends was held at the bride's home, where pink and white streamers, and white bells, were the pretty decorations, and the charmingly arranged bride's table was centred with the four-tiered wedding cake. Mrs. J. Deline was wearing black and white crepe, with black accessories, and the groom's mother, Mrs. White, was gowned in Burgundy crepe, with matching accessories. The bride's grandmother, Mrs. Hartman from Kingston, was also present, wearing a flowered silk gown in a light rust shade, and black accessories.

The young couple left later to spend their honeymoon in Hamilton, the bride wearing a brown frock, brown wool coat, with fox collar, and brown accessories. They will reside at 368 Downie street, when they return to the city.

Delightful Tea Queen Alexandra H. and S.

The kindergarten room of Queen Alexandra School presented a gay picture on Friday afternoon, when the Home and School Association held a most successful Autumn tea.

Gay Hallowe'en decorations were orange and black streamers fluttering from the lights, and round the walls, pumpkin faces and black cats marched in a procession. On the large tea table with its pretty lace cloth, yellow baby 'mums glowed in a silver basket, and were duplicated in a mirror reflector. Lighted yellow tapers in silver holders were arranged diagonally in pairs. Bouquets of orange bittersweet in silver vases centred the little tables with their pretty individual cloths. A candy table, with orange and black streamers, held boxes and little novelty baskets of all kinds of good looking sweets, and a home-made cooking table with more striking decorations, displayed all sorts of good things.

The guests were recieved by the president, Mrs. L. M. Richardson, Mrs. V. R. Henry and Mrs. C. McBride. Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. E. Telford and Miss Gillespie, and hostess were Mrs. D. R. Morrow and Mrs. A. W. Ray. The small tables were in charge of Mrs. Reynolds, with assistants in Mrs. Clark, Mrs. A. Brown, Mrs. Uhlitt, Mrs. Agglin, Mrs Coones, Mrs. Edwards, Mrs. W. Blackwell, Mrs. Tremaine and Mrs. D. Parnall. The refreshments were in charge of Mrs. Stan Kingdon, and two ladies Mrs. Purdy and Mrs. W. G. Morrow, replenished the large tables. The home made cooking table was looked after by Mrs. C. C. Doughty, Mrs. N. Paterson and Mrs. D. P. Dickson, and the candy table by Mrs. A. C. Curtis, Mrs Franks, Mrs. Nelson and Mrs Hales. Mrs. Barrett supervised the decorating. Treasurer for the afternoon was Mrs. Wellwood.

An enjoyable musical program arranged by Mrs. H. G. Walker, consisted of a solo by Olga Westbye, accompanied at the piano by her grandmother, Mrs. Ormond; the Highland Fling, danced by Catherine Turner, with piano accompaniment by Mrs. E. Foster; and a piano selection by Thelma Zavitz.

Policemen's Ball Score's Big Hit.

Once again the annual Policemen's Ball scored a hit amongst the early fall social activities. Gay music, gay gowns, and gay crowds danced to the popular ryihms of Don Romanelli's orchestra in the Legion Hall Friday night, which was turned into a fairyland of patriotic red and white or blue and white, ornamented the walls, alternating with twisted colored streamers, with contrast in glistening gold, green and red celophane. Red, white and blue streamers fluttered from the lights, and more festoons of hearts were looped to the ceiling beams. The orchestra played before a great blue panel, marked with a gold crown for Coronation year, and silver letters designating the "5th Annual Police Ball". From the ceiling the jolly moon looked down on the gay throng of dancers, where Creator of Peter Pan and other Barrie roles Maude Adams retired from the stage in 1918, but is in the news again as Professor of drama at Stephens College, Columbia, Mo.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

LOVE'S LABOR LOST

KILLING an entry in the dummy is usually for the purpose of killing the dummy's long suit and thereby preventing its being set up. If the declarer then gets busy in the effort to build up that suit, the defender should not lose sight of his original purpose. It is up to him to play his own cards in such a way that the suit will not become established. Unless he does this, the entire point to his knocking out of the entry is nullified.

One-No Trump by South, 2-Clubs by his partner, then 2-No Trumps, 3-Clubs and finally 3-No Trumps set the stage for West to lead the spade 4. East gathered at a glance that the outcome depended upon the killing of that club suit. He therefore took the first trick and then knocked out the dummy's diamond A. The declarer, in an extremity and desperate, saw that nothing was to be done unless he could lure a mistake from the foe. He called for the club Q and, glory be, East covered with the K. The worst dub the world ever saw could now make the contract without the bat of an eyelash.

Had East stuck to his knitting, he would have refused to cover that club Q. By holding off, he could have made absolutely certain to prevent the setting up of the suit and would have rendered game for the declarer impossible.

Girl And Escort Dress Alike For Game

Two coats in natural colored wool and camel's hair in paddock style with handsome scarfs and felt hats.

By Central Press

Brother and sister, mother and daughter, sisters, husband and wife fashions. Garments made of the same materials. That is quite new in the last few years.

A classic pair is pictured, two coats much alike for the girl and her escort, in natural wool and camel's hair. The girl's is the paddock type of coat, quite popular with young girls, in natural color and worn with handsome scarf and classic felt hat.

The young man goes in for bulkiness in his own smart way in this coat with the belt and large patch pockets. He, too, wears a handsome scarf and felt hat.

Coats are so luxurious this year, the fur models of the loveliest furs, and the cloth ones all trimmed up, that a woman should be sure to have a more practical sports type of wrap in her wardrobe to save her expensive one.

Cloth Much Trimmed

Cloth coats are trimmed this season with Alaska sealskin, beaver, Persian lamb, kolinsky and squirrel, in all the smart establishments. There are huge collars on these coats, fur down the front, cuffs and more fur around the hem. Add to all this a large fur muff, and you get the idea that feminine luxury is definitely "in."

For the young coats sometimes have hoods, besides being elaborately trimmed with fur, and that is all to the good, for many girls do not want to wear hats to annoy them. And this type of coat can be worn everywhere, is especially nice for the football game and is perfect for the dance.

And be sure to have a short fur coat this season if you possibly can—just for a change and to show how very up to date you are in your clothes.

Colored linings are a flash-back to the gay nineties, when the lining of one's coat was apt to be very gay. There are many colored coats, too, with contrasting fur trimming.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLLE

For Sunday, October 31

Sunday's horoscope holds testimony of a fairly active and progressive day, with good news, writings and documents holding important consideration.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a rather lively year, with matters attaining a satisfaction, especially in all pertaining to writings, publicity or promotional enterprises.

A child born on this day may be active, versatile and clever, particularly in connection with literary work, publishing or advertising. In such connection it should gain the support of superiors and those in influential positions.

✧ ✧ ✧

For Monday, November 1

Planets of major magnitude rule this day with a very important and surprising effect. The sudden and unexpected holds away, with bold strokes having an important influence on a stabilization and possibly a reorientation of the fortunes and interests.

Those whose birthday it is stand at the threshold of an eventful year, with much stirring through bold strokes of initiative and enterprise. The forces and faculties will be found under high tension, attracting the attention of those ready to indorse and co-operate in a grand manner, but in all be wary as to speculation and untried or questionable ventures.

A child born on this day may have great energy and ambition that may take it to high places of achievement and progress, mainly through sudden and bold coups. It may lean to great adventures and gain a conspicuous place because of its genial, gracious and noble nature. Its personal life should be romantic and adventurous.

Heads Young People.

Officers elected at the annual rally of Peterborough Presbyterial Young People's Societies of the Presbyterian Church at Port Hope last night were: Hon. President, James Dutton; President, Marion Armstrong, Peterborough; 1st Vice-President, James Harnden, Brighton; Secretary, Violet Patrick, Campbellford; Treasurer, Ed. Williams, Millbrook; Worship convenor, M. Menzie, Port Hope; Service convenor, Helen Pellow, Cobourg; Fellowship convenor, Jos. Randall, Cobourg.

Eleven societies of the district were represented from as far east as Brighton. Cobourg won the Mason trophy for the best attendance record, and Campbellford the Dutton banner for the largest number of representatives at the conference. Rev. A. J. Preston of Keene led the devotions, and Rev. H. M. Coulter of Brampton was the guest speaker.

✧ ✧ ✧

The Most Rev. Derwyn T. Owen, D.D., Primate of the Church of England in Canada, and Archbishop of Toronto, will be the guest of the Rev. Canon J. D. and Mrs. Paterson at All Saints' Rectory on Monday.

Returns from both direct and indirect taxes in the Netherlands this year were far beyond expectations.

The EXAMINER'S HOME SERVICE

Find tonics for your tired rooms! It's astonishing how much interest inexpensive touches add—a new mantel arrangement, fresh touches for shabby furniture, color accents.

Why not plan a modern mantel? Our upper sketch shows the charm of a vase of garden flowers and three amusing pottery birds informally arranged before a big mirror.

To change the same mantel completely, combine family favorites with a bowl of trailing ivy in the formal, or balanced, fashion, which is always good—lower sketch.

Is homely furniture your despair? Make a smart slip-cover for a fussy chair. Use a hand-woven cover and interesting lamp to distract attention from the lines of a clumsy table.

For a drab brown and tan living-room, add color accents—tiny gold sofa cushions, bits of pottery in flame and shiny black, a flower print.

Our 32-page booklet gives practical suggestions for making homes attractive and livable at little cost. One-room apartments, too.

Send 15 cents in coins for your copy of PERSONALITY IN HOME DECORATION to the Examiner's Home Service 60 Front Street West Toronto. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS and name of BOOKLET.

BACK TO PIGTAILS

LONDON—(CP). — Hairdressing here reflects the change from the sophisticated to the picturesque. Sixth-form school girls—debutantes a few years hence—are going back to pigtails, while the popularity of back curls promises the bobbed head may soon become as rare as the Eton crop.

QUEEN WROTE SCENARIO

WARSAW, Poland—(CP)—Dowager Queen Marie of Rumania will come here in mid-December to attend the first performance of "Taina," a ballet for which she wrote the scenario.

Style Whimsies

The new tweeds are uniformly rich in coloring and classic in weave. The favorite colors are wine reds, dark greens, purply blues and heathery purples.

* * *

A dress with a short fur coat is very smart. A simple wool dress will do for trips to town, teas, church on Sundays. Then have a sports suit with sweaters in different colors, and maybe two hats, if you can manage them. Wear your fur coat over the suit sometimes, or over sweater and skirt without the coat. Get a new "don't dress" or five o'clock dress something with covered neck or a jacket for the theater.

Art of Making Tea

To get the utmost in flavour and quality from tea is an art, but it is an art in which anyone can produce a masterpiece by following these simple directions:

Run the 'cold' tap a few seconds before filling your kettle (never use stale water or water from the 'hot' tap). See that the water is boiling furiously and not just steaming. Scald out a crockery tea-pot, measure in to it a teaspoonful of good quality tea for each person and one for the pot, add the boiling water and steep for five minutes before serving.

Nothing else soothes our tired bodies or gives us the same comfort and pleasure that we get from a good cup of tea. Surely it is worth our while to make it carefully.

ANGLICAN LAYMEN ELECT OFFICERS AND HOLD BANQUET

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BONARLAW, Oct. 30—The annual meeting and banquet of the Laymen's Association of Hastings and Prince Edward Deaneries of The Church of England, was held at Wellington, Ont., Thursday last, commencing at 7 p.m.

Nearly two hundred sat down to tables literally groaning under the weight of tempting viands provided by Guilds of St. Andrew's church, Wellington and Christ church, Hillier.

The president of the Association, Dr. C. S. Slack, acted as toastmaster. The toast to "The King" was followed by the National Anthem and one verse of "Onward Christian Soldiers."

Rev. John M. Brownlee and D. S. Ainsworth of Wellington, extended the heartiest of greetings to the visitors in addresses of welcome.

The toast "The Church and the Clergy" proposed by His Honour Judge E. H. McLean of Picton, was responded to by The Lord Bishop of Ontario, Right Rev. John Lyons, who paid tribute to the splendid work and loyalty of the clergy and laity of the diocese.

"The Laymen's Association" was proposed by Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell of Marmora and responded to by Col. E. C. Hodgins and Dr. Percy Lowe, M.A., Ph.D., both of Kingston. The Colonel stressed the importance of church attendance and more interest in the work of the church by the men. Dr. Lowe is the recently appointed chairman of the Diocesan Laymen's Council.

The financial statement was presented by the secretary-treasurer, Mr. Reg. Armstrong, of Trenton.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows:

President, C. H. Buskard, Deloro; Hon. president, Dr. C. S. Slack, Picton; vice-president, D. S. Ainsworth, Wellington; secretary, Reg. Armstrong, Trenton.

The president and vice-president were appointed as representatives to the Diocesan Laymen's Council.

Mr. Eben James, on behalf of the Men's Association of St. George's church, Trenton, extended a hearty invitation to hold the next annual meeting in Trenton. This was gratefully accepted.

A splendid musical program was given by members of the Laymen's Association of Christ church, Belleville, with Mr. George Maybee acting as pianist. Master Bill Boynton contributed two beautiful solos and an encore. The Messrs. W. Willshire and A. W. Simpson sang a duet, "Watchman, What of the night," which was also greatly appreciated.

Many speakers referred to the sumptuous repast and a toast to the "Ladies" was heartily responded to.

PLAINVILLE

Ronald McKinley was the winner of the speaking contest for Hamilton township held at Harwood recently. Ronald, from S.S. 17, took as his subect, "The North West Mounted Police," and was the only boy speaker. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clark McKinley, formerly from near Peterborough and is a regular attendant at the Plainville United Sunday school.

Mr. Will Henderson, Buenos Aires, S.A., has joined his wife, who has spent the summer here, visiting relatives. They are returning next week.

Several ladies of the W.M.S. were guests of Coldsprings and Bethel Grove auxiliaries recently.

Quite a number of gentlemen attended the ploughing match at Bailleboro Tuesday afternoon, some of the young men ploughing.

About thirty are attending the singing class at the United church on Friday evenings, under the instruction of Mr. Potter, Peterborough.

At young people's Tuesday evening, Miss Lena Gordon was in charge of the program. Miss Ruth Lander took the worship study and Miss Beulah Brisbin the topic. Miss Ruth Fowle played a piano solo.

It was decided to have a banquet in two weeks' time. An interesting contest of naming Biblical pictures was played during the recreation period.

HASTINGS OFFICE MODERNIZED WITH NEW SWITCHBOARD

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Oct. 30.—For the past three weeks, a staff of Bell Telephone mechanics have been at work in the rear of Coughlan's drug store, preparing the installation of a new type magneto switchboard with up-to-date keys, jacks and self restoring drops. The board is finished in fumed oak. The underground entrance cables are terminated on new iron frames, aluminum painted, which give a very smart appearance to the office, recently plastered and painted for the occasion.

There is also to be installed, a new counter, cabinet folding bed and new lighting system and fixtures. These new fixtures will be added immediately after the removal of the old switchboard, which has given service for the past thirty years or more.

Installation has been under the supervision of equipment foreman, J. King and staff. The underground cable was placed under the supervision of construction foreman, D. Ross and staff with the splicing done by splicing foreman, E. South and staff.

Officials Attend

Among those present, when the new equipment was put into service without interruption, on Wednesday afternoon, were: C. B. Shaver, district com'cl. Supt; F. Boswell, district traffic Supt.; D. Cameron, district plant Supt., all of Peterborough; W. Wood and A. Pinn, of Campbellford.

The local manager, T. A. Coughlan, along with his operating staff of Misses Lillian, Mary and Barbara Colkins, and Miss Marian Phillips, will be able to give the good service they are capable of, even much bet ter than before, Mr. Coughlan feels.

It will require about ten days, yet, to remove all the old equipment, place the counter and have the new lights installed, but after this is completed, Hastings will have reason to be proud of their telephone office and equipment, under the capable managership of Mr. Coughlan, who has been in charge for the past 26 years.

With the placing of the new underground cables, it is the intention of the Bell Telephone Company to enter into a program of construction, removing the poles off Front street, thereby adding to the beauty of Hastings.

Million Syphilis Cases In U.S.

DETROIT, Oct. 30—(CP).—The number of syphilis cases reported since the United States Government opened a drive against the disease last year has increased greatly, Dr. R. A. Vonderlehr, director of the Venereal Disease Division of the United States Public Health Service, said in an address last night.

Number of actual cases has not increased, health officials believe, but publicity given the campaign had led many to seek treatment who other wise would go unreported. The same situation turned up in Denmark and Sweden in their anti-venereal disease campaigns 21 years ago.

The number of infected persons in the United States is estimated at 1,000,000, Dr. Vonderlehr said. Since 1916 the number of cases in Sweden has dropped from 10,000 to 500.

INDEMNITY ASKED FOR BOMB VICTIM

OTTAWA, Oct. 30—(CP). — Parents og Lionel Hasgell, 21-year-old Toronto boy killed whie serving in Shanghai on the United Stetes steamer President Hoover, bombed by Chinese airmen, have asked the Department of External Affairs to seek indemnity from the Chinese Government, it was learned here today.

The Toronto family was advised the matter would be taken up through diplomatic channels and this is being done. Inquiries are being made as to what compensation is being sought by the United States Government and if it will cover the death of the Canadian boy.

Chinese authorities apologized to the United States Government for the bombing which was described as accidental. It occurred early in the present Sino-Japanese conflict and brought injuries to several sailors.

3 HURT IN SMASH

TORONTO, Oct. 30 (CP)—Three men and a woman were seriously injured early today when a motor car struck a Hydro pole. They are: Margaret Crosier, York Township; Harold Guest, Toronto; Robert Smith, Toronto; John Parker, York Township. The woman is in a grave condition.

Information given police was that Guest and Smith were given a lift by Parker and had not previously been known to him. The car hit the pole with such force the imprint of the license number could be clearly seen on the wood.

MANVERS W.A. MEETS

BETHANY, October 30.—On Thursday afternoon the Women's Association of the United Church, Manvers Station, met at the home of Mrs. William Argue with a good attendance of members.

The meeting opened by repeating the Lord's prayer in unison. The roll call was answered by a verse of Scripture starting with the letter C.

A very favorable report was read concerning the recent Thank offering service which was held in Manvers church. The main part of the business was making plans for a Hallowe'en party to be held in the basement of the church on Wednesday evening, October 27th. A part of the evening will be spent in playing bingo. A prize will be given for each game.

SOUTH CAVAN TEST IN ORATORY WON BY AUDREY WOOD

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Oct. 30. — Nine scholars entered the Public Speaking Contest for the schools of South Cavan, held in the Town Hall, Millbrook, on Thursday at 8 p.m., with a large number of parents and friends present, and the vice-president, Mr. A. Coulter, in the chair.

The contestants all presented their material with good voice, very little prompting and that little evidently the result of nervousness, with a thorough grasp of their several themes, and showing throughout careful preparation in the limited time available following a late arrival of rules and topics governing the competition.

Audrey Wood, S. S. No. 15, Cork, Miss Doris Bougen, teacher, was awarded first place, her theme having been "The Princess Elizabeth," and her prize a Parker fountain pen.

Mary Larmer, S. S. No. 14, Fairview, Miss Margaret Brown, teacher, came second, having chosen as her subject, "The Advantages of Travel"; third standing went to Isabel Aiken, Fallis Line school, Miss Ruth Ball, teacher, the topic having been "Some Thieves that rob the Farmer"; both of these contestants received a well-bound five-year diary, fitted with lock and key so that all entries might be strictly private.

Mary Handley, Millbrook school, B. B. Dawson, teacher, won fourth place, having used the subject "The Advantages of Travel," and receiving four framed pictures illustrating in color famous characters from Dickens' works; the next two winners, Lola Gardiner, of Carmel school, Miss Muriel Ball, teacher, and Marjorie Hubbeard of Zion school, Miss Gladys Williamson, teacher, were given as prizes handsomely-bound and illustrated copies of "David Copperfield"; Lola spoke on "Some interesting spots in Durham County", and Marjorie, on "Pioneer Life in our Country."

Kathryn Elson, of Whitfield's, Miss Delia Mae Sisco, teacher, spoke on "Modern Conveniences in the Home," and Fred Ridge, of Millbrook school, on "The Pilgrim Fathers who lived in England long, long ago", and each of these received as prize "Famous Canadian Stories Retold"; Anna Demczuk, of the Marsh school, Miss Bessie Dawson, teacher, chose "Pioneer Life in our country," and was given a money prize.

The judges, Miss Flora E. Morgan, B.A., Miss Doris H. Bannister, B.A., and Mr. Chas. J. Ireton, B.A., admittedly had a difficult task in making their decisions. The prizes were presented by Mrs. R. S. Staples of Cavan, a director in the organization, and on behalf of the Durham County Trustees' and Ratepayers' Association she expressed gratitude to those who had made the prizes possible, the Women's Institutes of Millbrook, Cavan, and Mt. Pleasant, the W. A. of Ebenezer, and Reeve P. Stinson, being the donors.

A pleasing variety in the program was furnished by pupils of Principal Dawson's room who sang a number of choruses, and brief addresses were made by Venerable Archdeacon Simpson, Rev. A. L. Sisco, and Reeve Percy Stinson. Bill Edworthy presided at the piano for the opening "O Canada", and the National Anthem at the conclusion.

AN EASIER WAY for Young Men to Protect their Families

Here is the "Security at 60" Plan for Young Men

This plan of life insurance has been devised for the younger man who wants to provide adequate protection for his family during the years when children are growing up, and also create a fund that will guarantee a monthly income for himself after age 60.

For example, if you are age 30 the annual premium to provide $2,000 of protection with the option of taking a pension of $10 monthly for yourself at age 60 is only $53.16. For each additional $1,000 of protection and $5 monthly pension the annual premium is only $26.53. There are no premium payments after age 60.

The pension is payable throughout your lifetime. It is guaranteed for 10 years and in case of your death during that period the balance will be paid to your beneficiary.

At age 60 should you want to surrender your policy for its cash value you will receive $770.00 plus dividends for each $1,000.

Or the company will pay $120.00 in cash for each $1,000 and continue the policy for its full face value to be paid to your beneficiary at your death. Dividends also continue during this period.

Dividends earned may be used to reduce premium payments, or allowed to accumulate. In the latter case the cash payments or the monthly income will be increased over the guaranteed figures.

It will be to your advantage to fill in and mail the coupon for complete information about this policy at your age.

A cup of Health
WITH SWEET REPOSE TO FOLLOW

HOW health-giving and refreshing is a night of perfect sleep! What is so welcome after a tiring day? What is so energizing, so restoring as sleep?

If you have trouble getting off to sleep as so many people of this strenuous day and generation have, drink a delicious hot cup of Ovaltine just before you go to bed.

Let the wholesome soothing nourishment of Ovaltine calm your restless nerves, ease digestive unrest and bring on that sense of physical relaxation and repose of mind which leads one gently off to deep, natural sleep.

When you awake you find it is morning—and no matter what the weather it is a glorious morning. All mornings are glorious after a good night's sleep such as Ovaltine induces.

Remember, Ovaltine is a tonic food beverage, not a drug. Ovaltine contains no drugs whatever, no artificial stimulants or sedatives—or anything of the kind. It is a concentration of nourishment extracted by special process from certain "protective" foods.

Ovaltine, stirred into a cup of hot milk is wholesome and delicious. Try it tonight and realize as countless thousands of others, why Ovaltine is acknowledged to be "the world's best night-cap". At all Druggists, Grocers and Department Stores.

Around World On Freighter Most Interesting Adventure To Miss Clara Morris

Sailed From New York On June 19 Trip Required Four Months—Saw Many Lands

Just arrived in Peterborough from a four months' freighter cruise around the world, tanned and smiling, Miss Clara Morris, niece of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Morris of Homewood avenue, laughed with gay good humor when asked by an Examiner reporter for "her story." And what a story it turned out to be, the fulfillment of many a young dreamer's longings to see the far off places of the world.

"We started from New York on Saturday, June 19, with a cargo of everything from needles to automobiles. We had sweets nd cigarettes for apparently the whole population of the Phillipines, and scrap iron for Japan." Miss Morris sailed on the freighter, Greystoke Castle, manned by English officers and engineers and a Chinese crew, 61 in all. There was also a gay little handful of interesting and congenial fellow-passengers.

After sailing through the Panama Canal, the first port of all was Cristobal, where food supplies from England were taken on, also machinery and other supplies for the ship. The next stop was San Pedro (near Los Angeles) where the ship's supply of oil was obtained. Eight more passengers bound for the Orient came aboard here.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

By an Examiner Reporter.

MONTHLY CLEARINGS.

Bank clearings in Peterborough for the month of October amounted to $2,813,045, being an increase over the same month a year ago, when they totalled $2,740,109.

HERRINGS ON SALE.

Native herrings, caught near Bobcaygeon made their appearance on the local market today and were selling at 75c a basket. The fish commanded a ready sale.

TORONTO VISITORS.

With bargain rates prevailing on the railways for the weekend it is expected that there will be a large number of Toronto visitors in town over Sunday. Both lines have advertised special fares.

AN UNUSUAL VISITOR.

The usual list of poultry for sale on the local market this morning had an addition in the form of a large horned owl caught in Smith township and possessing a wing spread of four and a half feet. The owner of the big bird was asking a dollar for him.

A VEGETABLE FREAK.

Something new in the vegetable world is to be seen in the show window of Lewis' barber and hairdressing establishment. It is a mangold that has grown almost exactly in the shape of a crouching animal of the groundhog type. The likeness is striking. The freak was grown on the farm in Markham township of Edward Vanzant, a brother-in-law of James Lewis.

PHILHARMONIC CONCERT.

The Peterborough Philharmonic Society's orchestra under the direction of Harry Prevey has arranged a concert for the Collegiate Auditorium on Friday, November 5. A choice program has been prepared for the occasion and a feature will be numbers on the Northern Hammond electric organ, a novelty for Peterborough audiences.

A LUCKY YOUTH.

Tom Spencer, 444 Driscoll Terrace, who was announced as winner of the five dollar award for the capture of "Miss Peterborough," made the front page on another occasion in recent months. He is the youth who was reported during the past summer to have fallen from the top of the lift locks without receiving any hurt.

ENTERTAINED BY CROW.

The pet crow, which has been seen in several sections of the city of late, spent the greater part of Thursday and Friday at Central School, where he provided quite a show on the various window sills for the pupils. He could be distinctly heard to say at every window, "Open the door."

BAPTISTS TO RAISE $15,000.

A large and representative body of Baptist men met at Port Hope on Friday evening to plan for co-operating in connection with a campaign to raise $150,000 for missions. Nearly all districts of the Peterboroug association were represented. Rev. E. K. Smith presided and the speakers were: Rev. C. R. Duncan, Frank Inrig, Rev. J. H. Slimon and Joseph Sully.

VOLUNTEER POLICE.

The police station and the various outside "beats" were manned by a staff of volunteers last night as regular members of the force held their fifth annual ball in the Legion Hall. This morning policemen and police court officials were all back on duty. They were doubtless pleased to find a clean sheet. With exception of two adjourned cases Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., had a blank docket. The specials who policed the city last night were: Harry McLachlan, Bruce Menzies, Ed Boyer and Matthew Allen.

EXTENSION LECTURES.

An interesting program of extension lectures arranged by the University of Toronto and sponsored by the local Y's Men's Club has been arranged. There will be five lectures in all, the first one scheduled for Thursday, November 18 when Professor K. S. Bernhardt will speak on "The Psychology of Everyday Life". The subject and speaker for December 9 have not yet been arranged but the other lectures in the series are Professor N. A. M. MacKenzie on "Canada's Position in International Affairs" on January 13, Professor R. A. Preston on "Discord in Palestine" on February 9 and Professor R. K. Arnold on "The Franco-German Problem" on February 24.

LORD TWEEDSMUIR WAS NOT INVITED TO OPEN CARNIVAL

Members of the Winter Sports Committee are anxious to correct a misapprehension with regard to the big ice carnival they are planning for next February.

It is not and never has been the intention of the committee to have the proposed ice carnival run over into a Sunday. The official program will commence on a Friday and continue all the day following.

Sunday will not be taken up with any part of the official program, the committee having so planned the various events that the carnival will not interfere with week-end church services.

The chairman of the Winter Sports Carnival felt an explanation was necessary in view of a recent letter in "the voice of the people' column from the Rev. Canon J. Douglas Paterson.

Having wrongfully concluded from the report of a recent meeting of the committee, that the Governor-General had been invited to come to Peterborough to open the carnival, when the fact is that the matter of an invitation has not passed the suggestion stage, Canon Paterson in his letter declared, "he (the Governor-General) will not lend his name nor presence to a carnival or anything else which openly advertises its intention to use the Lord's Day for its sports program."

Members of the committee told a reported they were not finding any fault with Canon Paterson's argument in supoprt of Sabbath observance, but they did wish to clear up any misunderstanding that might exist on the point, and to stress the fact that the official program would not include Sunday at all.

The Lions Boys' Band And Their Teacher

LEFT to RIGHT, standing: Robert Menzies, base drummer; Kenneth McIntyre, trombone; R. Foster, trombone; William Stuart; Henry Clapham, baritone; Jack Morris, base horn; Jack Taylor, trombone; Billie Brown, drum. Middle row, seated: Eric Martin, Robert Crowe and Reg Burns comprising the clarinet section; Bobbie Rooke, saxophone; Ray Kearns, horn. Front row, cornets, LEFT to RIGHT, Jim Webb, Lawrence Outram, Don Ford, Don Dorsett and Bobbie Milburn. Sponsored by the Lions Club the band was organized in July, have added several recent members, and many citizens will hope they are only the nucleus of a band of 50 or more. For an Examiner reporter and Max Swanston they played four or five "pieces" several nights ago, and it is understood they will be heard in a concert before long. They are still only learning, of course, but they are making rapid strides under Mr. Stuart's tuition. Hugh Brightman was not a member when this picture was taken. He joined only a week ago.

Lions' School Boys' Band Has Made Rapid Progress Since Organization In July

Examiner Reporter Sits In At An Impromptu Program In South Central School

A group of school boys who prior to last July had never blown a note on a wind instriment, excepting a mouth organ perhaps, played a brief impromptu program for an Examiner reporter in a vacant and disused class room in the old South Central School at Rubidge and Sherbrooke Street several nights ago.

They began with the hymn "Abide With Me," followed with "God Save The King," "Mary Had A Little Lamb," a simple waltz and several other numbers of the same elementary grade, and it all seemed like a little miracle in boy training by their director, William Stuart, cornetist and formed band sergeant of the Middlesex Regiment in England.

The boys' band is an undertaking of the Peterborough Lions Club. Max Swanston is chairman of the committee in charge of this project, and it may be that his friends have not forgotten his qualification from a winter's study of the clarinet and his appearance in the 57th regimental band. He was the other member of the audience of two Thursday evening when the boys displayed their progress and also their promise for the future.

That program was an astonishing revelation of what small boys can do, and every man in Peterborough who recalls his own boyhood and his desire to play in a band is bound to applaud the initiative of the Lions Club and hope that the eighteen young musicians in the making may soon be fifty or sixty.

Listening In On Practice

Wearing a white sweater and a cap Mr. Stuart proceeded in his usual manner of teaching the boys, with the distracting presence of several adults.

"Now just the cornets this time," the director said. "The chord of b-flat ascending. All right—one, two, three, four. That was fine boys. Now then, descending, tawa-twa-twa," following the four notes of the chord.

"Let's try that again," Mr. Stuart continued, and the six cornets sounded as one; and that is no exaggeration, for the reporter listened for awhile down stairs before going into the room, and had no idea six instruments were sounded in unison."

Meanwhile Henry Clapham, who is doing splendidly with the baritone horn he encircles with his arm in upstanding and business like manner, was coughing.

"Are you taking anything for that cold, Henry?" Mr. Stuart asked him.

"Yes sir. I have some cough medicine at home."

"Well don't neglect it. Now then Lawrence what's the matter with

BUSINESS MEN HAVE 85 MEMBERS HOPING FOR 150

With a paid up membership of eighty-five already and hopes of immediately increasing the number to one hundred and fifty, the Peterborough Business Men's Association is holding a meeting in the Chamber of Commerce Monday night to resume the details of organization that were suspended by the holiday season.

Promotion of Peterborough business is the broad purpose of this Association which seeks the active interest, support and actual membership not only of those who are engaged in business, but also men of the professions and others of allied occupations who are equally keenly aware of the scope of an organization of this kind.

For that reason it is expected that the membership will climb into the hundreds, and those who are engaged in the preliminary work of organization and stimulating interest by presenting a picture of the possibilities are confident that with only a nominal membership fee the Peterborough Business Men's Association will soon acquire the strength it should receive from citizens.

Reports of Progress

Several doctors and dentists are already members, the managers of two bread companies and many others who are not in retail business have paid their fee. Reports of recent progress will be presented Monday night, and some of the committees will likely be named in preparation for local efforts that are now being considered.

The hope of the men who are convinced that Peterborough would profit greatly from such an association, just as many other cities have gained from concerted enterprise, believe that it would be an effective medium of assisting in promoting Peterborough and the district as a tourist centre. This is only an example of one of the outlets for the work of the association. There is nothing selfish about the objectives. The idea of one for all and all for one applies not only to the members, and the city as a whole, but also to the district of which Peterborough is the centre.

Business Centre

Another influencing idea is the realization that Peterborough is one of the outstanding business centres of Ontario with smart and attractive stores, progressive management, a strong industrial and agricultural background, everything to warrant and encourage the new Association to aim for even better things. It can become a medium of helpful suggestions that can be put into effect, creating better relations among business men and others, and especially making Peterborough more attractive as a business centre for the increasing area which improved roads are constantly expanding.

The officers of the association expect a large attendance at Monday night's meeting, and will have several proposals for immediate action to put forward.

Archbishop Owen In City On Monday

The Most Reverend Derwyn T. Owen, D.D., Archbishop of Toronto, will spend Monday at All Saints' Church. It will be the ninth anniversary of the consecration of the church, and as usual Confirmation will be held in the evening.

The clergy of the Rural-decanal Chapter are meeting in the afternoon and will remain for the service at night. Dinner will be served in the Parish Hall in the evening. There will be 28 candidates for Confirmation to be presented by the rector.

This will be the first visit of the Archbishop since his visit to England for the Coronation, and for the Oxford and Edinburgh Conferences.

TO CONTINUE WORK ON SEVERAL ROADS

After the announcement was made that all work on Provincial Highways and secondary roads, including work on mining projects under the Department of Highways, was to close at the end of this month, as a result of representations made to the Department b Mr. Elliott the Department has agreed to continue certain of the work in this county.

Though official notice was received to stop the work on Number 7 highway the contractor in charge has been authorized to complete the shoulders on both sides of this highway this fall.

Express permission was given to continue the work on the road leading into the O'Brien mine north of Havelock for a period of a week or ten days at least.

Also the work on the road leading from Lloyd Young's corner north of Apsley, easterly, will be completed this year in order that there might be one road in good shape for highway travel through the winter from Coe Hill to Apsley.

LIONS' BAND MADE PROGRESS SINCE JULY

you tonight? You are full of laughing."

And Lawrence who had been nudging a boy beside him in the trombone row drew the long instrument toward him, smiling trustfully, —just boy.

Then it came the turn of the three boys with the clarinets, and like their companions they handled the instruments with all the casualness of professionals. The novelty of them has worn off. Several of the boys arrived five minutes late, and were greeted with "You must try to be on time boys," but it was not the greeting that was notable but the business like way in which they unfolded their music stands, took their instruments out of the cases, adjusted them quickly and were all set.

The trombone section had its turn, and how the three youngsters could slow hotels by sliding the long brass columns back and forth was something almost to marvel at, for these instruments seemed to be as tall as the lads themselves.

Finally the music books were opened at "Abide With Me."

"Remember boys this is a hymn," Mr. Stuart told them. "Imagine that you are singing it, the first part rather softly with more volume in the second part. Clarinets don't try to force your instruments. The softer you play the better you will be heard with the other instruments. Don't be afraid that you are not going to be heard. I'll tell you if I want it louder."

How to Roll Drum

Billie Brown, the small boy at the kettle drum, wasn't getting the last tap to suit Mr. Stuart, and the second part of the hymn was played several times just for that detail, with an acutal illustration of rolling with the sticks by the leader. And Billy did very well.

"What time is that hymn written in?" Mr. Stuart asked Jimmy Webb who is only nine.

"Four-four, sir."

"And what does that mean?"

"It means there are four beats to one bar."

"And why are there four?"

Because there are four quarter notes to a bar."

Other questions dealt with whole, half, quarter and other notes. Probably that is typical of practice nights.

In those three months since July Mr. Stuart has taught the boys of each section, including Jack Morris, the oldest boy, who is fourteen, and is weighted down with the big double-b bass horn.

As you listen to the boys playing, realizing that is with everything they have to learn, toddling before they can run, you wish there were a dozen or more in each section; perhaps not a dozen trombones; but more cornets, clarinets, and the larger instruments that give color and texture to band music.

Spent $650 Already

The Lions Club has already spent $650 on new instruments, bearing the trade name of "Regent." Some of the boys were able to provide their own instruments, and there must be many other boys whose parents would encourage their sons to join the band. Perhaps there are men who would like to buy a cornet or horn for boys they know who have a talent for music that should be developed.

Newcomers are welcomed. Young Hugh Brightman registered only a week ago with a cornet his father bought him and Mr. Stuart tuned it to the band's pitch. He was sitting in with the others Thursday night, but it won't be long until his instrument will be heard with the rest.

Only two of the boys took music lessons previous to their introduction to Mr. Stuart under the sponsorship of the Lions Club. Jack Taylor had nearly three years at the piano, and Don Ford took a few lessons.

It is easy to become sentimental about boys, they are capable of so much in all phases of proficiency, and they need helpful guidance and encouragment in those formative years. These boys are in the early teen-age, from nine to fourteen, probably averaging eleven. In the beginning they reported for lessons every evening. That was during the summer, when they didn't know what it was all about. Now, they have school lessons, more or less, and are practicing several nights a week.

To hear the boys tuning up, or rambling along a scale while Mr. Stuart is otherwise engaged is grand cacophony, with a boyish zest and zip to it; and it is different only in degree from the tuning up of the instrumentalists of a big orchestra or band before a Toscanini or Goldman arrives on the podium. Who knows what future is ahead of these Peterborough boys, and the others who are going to join them, for the simple reason that the people of Peterborough do not yet realize the importance and attractiveness of this enterprise of the Lions Club.

Lindsay has shown this city what can be done. The Lions Club is making the discovery for the community as if the Lindsay achievement had failed to make an impression on their neighbor.

COULDN'T SLEEP COULDN'T WORK

What a relief to settle down to a real night's rest, and awake fully refreshed, ready for the day's duties. I was tortured by fretful nights—tossing, tossing— never comfortable. Half awake days —over-tired, driving body and mind to work when they needed rest. "Try Dodd's Kidney Pills," said a friend — "it may be your kidneys". I'm glad I followed his advice as now I'm sleeping like a top thanks to

The mission visited and inspected all branches of the Royal Air Force station, including buildings and aircraft.

BEST GUARANTEE FOR WORLD PEACE IS ARMED ENGLAND

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 30. — "England armed is the best guarantee of world peace, and although she disarmed several years ago she is now fast reaching the stage where she can back up what she says," Lieutenant-Colonel, the Rev. Canon Baynes-Reed, D.S.O., of St. John's Church, Toronto, told the gathering at a men's banquet held in the Parish Hall on Wednesday evening.

"England does not want peace at any price but she does want peace. We know the sacrifices made by the children of a former generation," said this eminent war padre, Chaplain of the 75th Batallion who received his D.S.O. after the capture of Ameins.

Addressing a gathering composed largely of ex-servicemen the Lieutenant-Colonel must have revived many memories as he described the battle-grounds of France, the grave yards of Canada's war heroes, and the Vimy memorial.

Describes Coronation

Describing his view of the coronation from a seat in Westminster Abbey he told of the magnificent spectacle attending the coronation. The devotion of the English people to their king as exemplified at that time was nothing short of marvellous. Thousands stood along the route of the procession and outside the Abbey throughout the night merely to catch a glimpse of the monarch. The music of a mighty organ and orchestra reverbrating through the high vaulted ceilings of the abbey, the processions of peers and peeresses, formal processions consisting of relatives of the king, kings and potentates in gorgeous vestments, robes of crimson velvet, coronets, glittering jewels, Queen Mary and her sister, Queen Maud of Norway, Prime Minister Baldwin and finally the King, the one person around whom this whole setting was formed.

"Two things impressed me most," exclaimed the speaker, "after the solemn annointing of the king he steps forth as a simple young man clad only in shoes, stockings, trousers and shirt sleeves to kneel before the altar to ask God's blessing. Standing before this gorgeous assemblage one could not but be impressed by this youthful person standing stripped of his colorful raiment to kneel at the Altar of God. If God is to be a help to us in a great crisis he must be a reality to us day by day," stated Canon Baynes-Reed, digressing for a moment.

Lose Vast Heritage

"The Bible was given the King as the most priceless thing in the world and likewise if we lose our use of the Bible we lose a very vast heritage."

Following the Coronation the speaker gave his listeners a word picture of his tour from Dover to Calais and then to Nice and Monte Carlo, Paris and the Louvre to Arras, where he visited the graves of the soldiers.

"France is restive. The people are not yet settled down. They are prosperous but not happy."

Concluding the Rector of St. John's church, Toronto, made a brief allusion to the former King: "We can hardly understand the grief of the English people for what happened a year ago."

N. Alex. McColl thanked the speaker on behalf of the members of Christ Church, and Clarence Massey, president of the Canipbellford Branch of the Legion, expressed his appreciation on their behalf. Following the supper, which was prepared by members of the Parish Guild, a musical program was presented in which the artists takin part were: Bruce Elmhirst, violin solo; Wilson Jones, vocal solo with violin and piano accompaniment; Mrs. D. Evans, recitation; R. C. Ramsden, vocal, accompanied by Miss Gertrude Maynard; Gladys and Phyllis Elmhirst, piano duet. Mr. A. H. Todd played the piano accompaniment for Bruce Elmhirst and Wilson Jones and Rev. Harold B. Neal, one of the guests at the head table, extended a few words of greeting from St. John's United Church, Rev. T. H. Floyd, rector of Christ Church thanked the speaker as well as the others who took part and contributed to the success of the evening.
